
Presenter: Mimi Kim, Ph.D.
Founder of Creative Interventions
Assistant Professor of Social Work, California State University, Long Beach

Date: May 23, 2017

Time: 3:00 p.m. – 4:30 p.m. Eastern Time

This webinar (pending OVW’s approval) is hosted by the National Clearinghouse for the Defense of Battered Women and is part of a series of webinars from their project on Ending Mass Incarceration, Centralizing Racial Justice, and Developing Alternatives: The Role of Anti-Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Program.

WEBINAR DESCRIPTION

Long-time activist and scholar Mimi Kim will provide a historical examination of the anti-domestic violence movement and its eventual reliance on carceral or pro-criminalization practices and policies. She will explore the development of the victim witness programs and the Community Coordinated Response. By focusing on this historical tale, Mimi will discuss how actions that can seem strategic and even radical can turn into something quite different than originally envisioned. Mimi will also talk about how the lessons of history can also give us guidance as to how we can move forward in our work to end violence.
INFORMATION ABOUT THE PRESENTER

Mimi Kim is a long-time anti-violence advocate, working for 10 years at Asian Women’s Shelter (San Francisco) and as the founder of two domestic violence organizations for the Korean American community. She established Creative Interventions in 2004 as a resource center creating and promoting community-based interventions to domestic violence and sexual assault. Mimi Kim is a founding member of Incite! Women and Gender Non-Conforming People of Color Against Violence and the Asian Pacific Institute on Gender-Based Violence. She has conducted research on the history of the anti-violence movement in her search to better understand movement roots and future trajectories. She is currently Assistant Professor of Social Work at California State University, Long Beach and is also leading a California-based initiative to bring alternative community-based intervention and transformative justice approaches to the anti-violence and broader social justice movements.
