

Racial and Economic Equity
of Survivors Project (REEP)
From Margins to Center Listening Sessions
September 2017

The REEP Project Partners (Asian Pacific Institute on Gender-Based Violence, Casa de Esperanza, Center for Survivor Agency & Justice, Kirwan Institute for the Study of Race and Ethnicity, Southwest Center for Law and Policy, Texas Council on Family Violence, Women of Color Network, Inc., Bill Kennedy, and Camille Holmes) are excited to announce:

From Margins to Center: Listening Sessions for Racial & Economic Equity

These calls are an opportunity to create dialogue across the field to inform survivor-driven systems advocacy and practice recommendations that enhance racial and economic equity for domestic and sexual violence survivors. The Listening Sessions will result in a detailed report to be shared back to the field to further our collective work toward economic safety and racial equity for survivors of color.

The project partners will do this by hosting series of calls with survivors, advocates, attorneys and domestic violence coalitions to highlight:

- The impact of racial and economic inequity on the lives of survivors
- How we approach the work within our organizational or institutional context; Organizational policies, practices, and supports that address racial and economic barriers
- Innovative strategies; what's left to do; recommendations for systems changes
