CALL FOR ARTICLES

The Voice – The Journal of the Battered Women’s Movement

The National Coalition Against Domestic Violence (NCADV) wants to hear your Voice! The next issues of the Voice will focus on “Domestic Violence in the Workplace.” The Voice also features survivor-focused narratives or poetry, case studies and short works of fiction. The Voice serves to challenge stereotypes of violence, the systems and prejudices that contribute to violence, and presents distinctive, innovative, and tangible ways to end them.

Please consider submitting your thought-provoking, innovative and challenging article. Articles can be position papers, political or philosophical analyses, essays, discussion papers or critical analyses. Articles highlighting model programs are also welcome. Please submit articles by August 20, 2004. Possible articles include, but are certainly not limited to:

- “Unemployment Law and Domestic Violence”
- “Corporate Responsibility and Domestic Violence in the Workplace”
- “Discrimination Against Battered Women in the Workplace”
- “Employee Benefits and Domestic Violence in the Workplace”
- “Innovative Policies and Procedures to Assist Battered Women in the Workplace”
- “Workplace Security for Battered Women”
- “Employer Liability and Domestic Violence”
- “The Bottom Line: Workplace Productivity, Employer Expenses and Domestic Violence”
- “Training Employers to Respond to Violence in the Workplace”

All articles should include a philosophical analysis and strategies for social change. Please limit articles to 10, typed, double-spaced 8½” x 11” pages. Authors must include their name, address, phone number and brief bio. NCADV reserves the right to edit all articles for grammar, length and content. Articles will not be returned to the authors. Printing of information does not necessarily mean that NCADV aligns itself or supports the opinions purported in articles that are submitted and takes no responsibility for the comments of the writers. Submit your article, processed using Microsoft Word to Brooke Ely, Training Director at: bely@ncadv.org or mail a disk or CD-ROM to: The Voice / NCADV / PO Box 18749 / Denver, CO 80218. Faxed articles will not be accepted. Please submit articles by August 20, 2004. Questions? Please call 303-839-1852 x109.

If your article is selected to appear in The Voice, you will receive a complimentary yearlong individual membership to NCADV and 5 complimentary copies of The Voice. We especially encourage contributions from women whose voices have traditionally been silenced.