

NATIONAL COALITION AGAINST DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

December 20, 2004

To All,

I wanted to let you all know that we have a new, exciting partnership with Warner Music Nashville recording artists Big and Rich. They have a new song out called Holy Water about domestic violence. Both men, John Rich and Big Kenny, have sisters who have been abused. They have also done a video for the song as well.

You can see more information at www.loveeverybody.org. There is a link to NCADV information, as well as a link to see the video. It is quite powerful and very well done. They are in the process of getting cell phone ringer tones available to download, and NCADV will receive a portion of the proceeds from that option.

I am excited about this new tool for awareness on this issue. Please visit their site and listen to this great song.
