

To whom it may concern:

On Nights Like This is a graphic novel anthology which will collect and publish illustrated stories by survivors of sexual assault, domestic violence and related traumas. Some samples of the work are included on the following pages.

The content of these stories will be as diverse as those who contribute, speaking to the humor, grief, strength and anger of survivors, depicted through stories and artwork. On Nights Like This is organized by and for survivors. We aim to provide a venue in which to share stories of survival and recovery, combat isolation, connect with new audiences, and cultivate community.

We would like to add you to our list of supporters. This list will be referenced in funding applications and on our website. With this support, On Nights Like This will be much closer to sharing these important stories.

she made a snowman

and told him all my secrets.

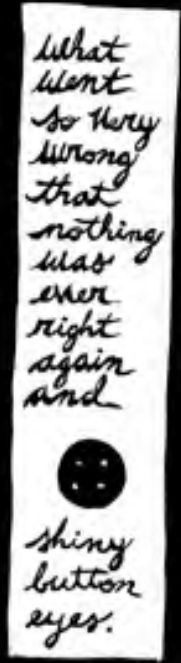

carrot
nose
and

charcoal
smile
and

What
went so very
wrong
that nothing
was ever
right
again
and

It felt good to let it out after all this time.

*I couldn't let him live, of course.
He might have talked.*
