Public Health Reports Webinar
Progress in Women’s Health: 1985–2015
April 7, 2015, 1:00–2:00 p.m. ET

This year marks the 30th anniversary of the landmark 1985 U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Report of the Public Health Service Task Force on Women's Health Issues. A deliberate focus on women’s health, which continues today, has led to substantial advances in the field. This webinar features federal government leaders in women’s health discussing both achievements from the past and challenges for the future. The presenters will describe progress in women’s reproductive health, understanding of sex differences in medicine, and the inclusion of women in clinical research. The ultimate goal is a nation where women can prevent morbidity and mortality from disease and where quality care and health equity are a reality for all women.

Presenters for this webinar include:

Nancy C. Lee, M.D.
Deputy Assistant Secretary for Health – Women's Health Director, Office on Women's Health
U.S. Department of Health and Human Services
Janine Austin Clayton, M.D.
Director, Office of Research on Women’s Health
Associate Director for Research on Women’s Health
National Institutes of Health
U.S. Department of Health and Human Services

Marsha B. Henderson, M.C.R.P
Assistant Commissioner for Women's Health
Food and Drug Administration
U.S. Department of Health and Human Services
