When I was abused, “my spirit was dying. I needed help.”

“Wherever clergy are trained, abuse should be at the top of the list.”

--Survivors of Elder Abuse

Lynn, Massachusetts

December 15, 2009

Where Faith and Safety Meet:

Faith Communities Respond to Elder Abuse

Hotlines
For immediate help, call 911 or your local police number

National Domestic Violence Hotline
800-799-SAFE (800-799-7233)
800-787-3224 (TTY)
www.thehotline.org

National Sexual Assault Hotline
800-656-HOPE (800-656-4673)
www.rainn.org

Referrals
For more information

National Center on Elder Abuse

National Clearinghouse on Abuse in Later Life
608-255-0539, www.ncall.us

Safe Havens Interfaith Partnership Against Domestic Violence
617-654-1820
www.interfaithpartners.org

Please see www.interfaithpartners.org and www.ncall.us for additional resources.

This project is supported by Grant No. 2008-TA-AX-K052 awarded by the Office on Violence Against Women, U.S. Department of Justice. The opinions, findings, conclusions, and recommendations expressed in this publication are those of the authors and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Department of Justice, Office on Violence Against Women.

What is elder abuse?

Elder abuse occurs when an older adult is willfully neglected or abused. The abuse may be physical, sexual, emotional, verbal, spiritual, or financial.

Elder abuse affects women and men of all faiths, ethnic backgrounds, and social status. Social isolation, some illnesses, and disabilities that result from aging may make an older adult more vulnerable to abuse.

Elder abuse occurs most frequently in private homes, but can also occur in nursing homes or long-term and assisted living facilities.

(Adapted with permission from “Break the Silence: What every faith community needs to know about elder abuse,” Illinois Department of Aging, August 2006.)

Who are the abusers?

Abusers include family members, intimate partners, caretakers (paid or volunteer), friends, neighbors, bankers, lawyers, a person in a position of authority, or a person with whom there is an expectation of trust. The majority of abusers are intimate partners and family members.

What are possible “red flags” to look for?

Victims of elder abuse may exhibit some of these signs. However, absence of these signs does not mean that abuse is not taking place.

- Has unexplained or frequent physical injuries
- Speaks of being afraid or “walking on eggshells”
- Makes veiled disclosures, such as “my son has a temper,” or “my husband makes me do things I don’t want to do”
- Is isolated or unable to meet with you alone
- Is living in unsafe, unsanitary, or hazardous conditions
- Has sudden or unexplained changes in lifestyle, choices, or behavior including unexpectedly missing religious services
- Makes unusual financial transactions

(Adapted with permission from “Break the Silence: What every faith community needs to know about elder abuse,” Illinois Department of Aging, August 2006.)

I’m part of a faith community. How can I help?

Because so many victims turn to faith community leaders and members for help, you can make a difference in the life of an elder abuse victim or survivor. Here are some guidelines for response.

- Listen with compassion.
- Affirm that the abuse is not the victim’s fault.
- Prioritize the victim’s safety.
- Provide spiritual care and resources.
- Honor the victim’s decisions, even if he changes his mind.
- Couple’s or family counseling can be dangerous and is not recommended. If the victim insists, please contact your local domestic violence service provider for more information.
- Maintain confidentiality.
- Be familiar with your state’s laws about faith leaders and abuse reporting requirements.
- Help the victim connect to a domestic violence, sexual assault, or elder abuse advocate or service agency that can provide safety planning and support.
- Follow up with continuing support.