DOMESTIC VIOLENCE and CHRONIC DISEASE

Survivors of domestic violence are 20% more likely to experience chronic health conditions and reported having 2x as many as women who hadn’t experienced abuse.

More than 80% of survivors reported lower back pain, chronic headaches, and arthritis.

And a higher than average incidence of depression, diabetes, asthma, digestive disease, impaired brain, immune and endocrine function.

75% said they have never been asked about domestic violence during a physical exam.

For more information, visit SWHR.org