The Naval Consolidated Brig Miramar (NCBM), San Diego, California is designated as Navy Corrections exclusive site for the Sex Offender Treatment Program (SOTP) and the Skills, Training, Options, and Plans (STOP) domestic violence treatment program. The General Offender's Violence Treatment Program (GO) provided at NCBM, Naval Consolidated Brig Charleston (NCBC), and Naval Consolidated Brig Chesapeake (NCBCH). The STOP and GO Programs are components of the Violent Offender Treatment Program (VOTP). NCBM provides comprehensive mental health and rehabilitation services to court-martialed offenders sentenced to confinement for five years or less. (Male prisoners sentenced to confinement over five years are assigned to the U.S. Disciplinary Barracks, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas) Services include psychological and bio-psychosocial assessments, a full range of substance abuse/addiction treatment, violent offender treatment, and group therapies focused on changing criminal thinking attitudes and behavior. The clinical staff evaluates and treats a full range of psychiatric disorders and arranges hospitalization through the military regional medical center for those infrequent occasions/circumstances beyond the capabilities of the brig. Many other specialty treatment services are available to prisoners with dual diagnoses (such as substance abuse/dependence, anger management/ violent offense treatment, emotional regulation, etc.)

All Naval Consolidated Brigs are Level II correctional facilities. Naval Consolidated Brig Charleston and Chesapeake also provide substance abuse education and treatment, sex offender education, anger and stress management, and mental health crisis intervention. The staff at consolidated brig sites includes licensed clinical psychologists and social workers, certified drug/ alcohol abuse counselors, mental health specialists, case managers and correctional counselors. A military medical officer and a psychiatrist are assigned part-time.

Directed by a licensed clinical psychologist (Ph.D.), the Miramar Sex Offender Treatment Program staff is clinically credentialed through the Naval Medical Center San Diego and meets the standards for clinical members of the Association for the Treatment of Sexual Abusers. The treatment staff includes licensed clinical psychologists, licensed clinical social workers and mental health specialists with training and experience in sex offender treatment. A psychiatrist consults with the program and provides assessment and treatment as needed.

All DOD female offenders are confined and treated at Naval Consolidated Brig Miramar, which is also designated as a Level III women's facility.

History

- 1993 - 2000: Sex offenders were assigned to two Naval Consolidated Brig locations, where they could participate in the Sexual Offender Treatment Program (SOTP) at either location: Naval Consolidated Brig Miramar (the model manager for the program) and Naval Consolidated Brig Charleston. They were assigned to the brig geographically closest to the base where convicted.
- Summer 2000: The SOTP was revised, with a sub-specialty at the NCBM and NCBC locations. Prisoners were assigned to the brig that had the program aligned with their confining offense(s). This took place in conjunction with the realignment of the DOD Women's Correctional Facility to NCBM.
  - Sex offenders convicted of sexual offenses against minors: NCBM for the Sex Offender Treatment Program.
  - Sex offenders convicted of sexual offenses against adults (and other non-sexual violent offenders): NCBC for the Violent Offender Treatment Program (VOTP, the overarching title). (The sex offenders then went into the sub-program, Sexually Violent Offender Treatment Program (SVOTP) and the non-sexual violent offenders went into the general Violent Offender Treatment Program at NCBC.)
- 18 March 2011: NPC (PERS 00D1) published new prisoner transfer/ brig assignment criteria, based on the consolidation of these (sex/violent offender) specialty treatment programs at NCBM.

- 19 April 2011: General violence offenders transferred from NCBC to NCBM. The violent offender program was significantly revised with the move to NCBM, which included all-brig staff training on the issues and the program. That was completed and the prisoners moved from NCBC to NCBM for the general violence treatment (only - not the sexual offenders with adult victims) in April 2011.
- 29 August 2011: Sex offenders with adult victims (formerly eligible for the NCBC Sexually Violent Offender Treatment Program) transferred to NCBM. They now participate in the Sexual Offender Treatment Program (SOTP). The VOTP is (now) only for non-sexually violent offenders.
- Once the BRAC-directed construction of the new 200-bed NCBM brig expansion was completed and the DOD Women's Correctional Facility was moved to the new location (providing increased safety and security measures in anticipation of the transfer of adult victim sex offenders from NCBC), the adult victim sex offenders transferred. Those sexual offenders participate in the longstanding NCBM SOTP, which is standard practice in the field to include both types of offenders in the same program (with different components to address each individual's specific offense behaviors). The Sex Offender Education Program (not treatment, but an educational program to motivate and prepare offenders with sentences too short for brig SOTP to seek treatment in the community) is available at NCBM, NCBC and NCBCH.
- 2013: NCBM remains designated as Navy Corrections' exclusive site for the Skills, Training, Options, and Plans (STOP) domestic violence treatment program. The General Offender's (GO) Violence Treatment Program is provided at NCBM. Both NCBC and NCBCH will begin the GO program in 2013.

Sex Offender Education Course

All brig prisoners convicted of a sexual offense, including possession of child pornography, are mandated to attend a Sex Offender Education Course that is ten weeks long. The goals of the classes are to provide education on the dynamics of sexual deviance and sexual perpetration, provide information regarding offense-specific treatment available during confinement, and motivate the prisoner to participate in such treatment. The prisoner is not required to make personal disclosures during the class. At the conclusion of the class or any time after, a prisoner may request entry into the Sex Offender Treatment Program. It is strongly recommended that any prisoner convicted of a sexual offense attend offense-specific treatment in confinement and upon release.

The Sex Offender Treatment Program is a 24-month comprehensive, specialized cognitive-behavioral treatment program that includes physiological assessment, intensive structured group therapy, educational seminars, training in cognitive-behavioral management techniques, and relapse prevention. The psycho-education modules include cognitive restructuring, victim impact training, cognitive and behavioral arousal reduction techniques, relationship skills, sexuality and relapse prevention. Psychiatric consultation/assessment is available. Clinical materials are available for bibliotherapy to learn more about their problem areas, with a section of sex offense literature.

Entry Criteria

Naval Consolidated Brig Miramar is designated as the site for offense-specific treatment for sexual offenders who have sufficient time to complete treatment. Upon entry into the Sex Offender Treatment Program (SOTP), the individual must have at least 24 months remaining in confinement (after good conduct time and earned time have been factored in), admit some responsibility for the confining offenses and be willing to discuss his/ her sexually deviant behavior in detail. If these initial criteria are met, the individual participates in a screening and evaluation process that includes psychological testing and a clinical interview. During screening, the individual is apprised of the program components and informed of the expectations and behavioral guidelines of the program. Prior to acceptance in the program, the individual must provide voluntary and informed consent to participate and agree to follow program guidelines specified in a Program Agreement.

| Sentence Length* | Requirements to complete SOTP   |
| 45 months or more       | Sufficient time for SOTP   |
| 30-45 months            | Current and projected abatement (earned time and/or good conduct time) must be held in abeyance until successful completion of SOTP. Accomplished by pre-trial agreement or prisoner volunteers upon arrival |
| 29 months or less       | Ineligible   |

*Generally, sentence length takes into consideration the combined pre-trial confinement time, transfer time, good time abatement credit, earned time abatement credit, general orientation, up to three months wait for sex offender program entry, completion of the Sexual Offender Education Program, assessments, and the treatment program. However, excessive pre-trial time and/or transfer time could make one ineligible. For example, a prisoner with a 36-month sentence who spent seven months in pre-trial confinement would generally not have enough time to complete the program and would be ineligible.

Prisoners who do not have enough confinement time remaining to complete the entire 24 month SOTP are provided guidance to arrange a community-based treatment plan before release. These prisoners voluntarily may address other problem areas while in brig confinement, through substance abuse, anger management, and other related programs. Addressing these problems help them to be ready, immediately upon release, to enter sexual offender treatment in the community.

SOTP Progress and Program Completion

The prisoner's progress in the program is assessed through quarterly case conferences with the treatment team and the prisoner. During the case conference, progress and participation in all program activities are reviewed and individualized goals identified. Upon satisfactory completion of the treatment program, the prisoner participates in a “maintenance” group to review and modify relapse prevention strategies and solidify aftercare plans. Participation may continue until either paroled or released due to sentence completion.

Prisoners are eligible for parole at one third of the sentence and may be released under strict parole supervision restrictions in the community if there is sufficient time remaining on the sentence after completion of the SOTP. Sex offender community follow-up treatment and other specific restrictions are conditions of parole or Mandatory Supervised Release (MSR). A substantial period of supervised release in the community is crucial to successful long-term success in preventing recidivism.

The offender typically participates in post-release planning and contact between his/ her therapist and the family/ community resources. Satisfactory completion of the treatment program does not constitute a “cure” of the sexual deviance. Following completion of the structured treatment program, the individual should participate in a structured aftercare program continuously to ensure appropriate behavioral management and reduce the risk of recidivism. This is typically a condition of parole or mandatory supervised release.

Additional information:

- Sex Offender Education Course
Frequency & Length: once weekly, 1.5 hours
Duration: 10 weeks
Eligibility: Mandatory for all convicted sex offenders (except those convicted of military-specific crimes involving adults, such as homosexual acts, fraternization or adultery).
Curriculum: NCBM SOTP Education manual
Description: Educational seminars on the dynamics of sexual perpetration and preparation for treatment. Requires no disclosures by participants. Members are informed of programs and may be screened for participation in future programs.
- Education courses are held at least quarterly throughout the year.
- Sex Offender Treatment Program (SOTP)
Sex Offender Treatment Groups (Phase 1)
Frequency & Length: 3x weekly, 1.5 hours per group
Duration: 24 months
Eligibility: Participants must have enough confinement time to complete entire program, consent to program guidelines, admit some responsibility for their offenses, and be willing to discuss their offenses & sexual behavior.
Curriculum: NCBM SOTP manual
Description: A treatment program consisting of psychophysiological assessment and psychological/sexual interest evaluation. Treatment includes cognitive restructuring, victim awareness, sexuality, cognitive and behavioral arousal reduction techniques, relationship skills and relapse prevention training. Psychiatric consultation is available. (Duration may exceed 24 months based on participant's progress - while rare, a suspension from the program for cause can delay completion.)

- SOTP Seminars (Phase I)
Frequency & Length: Once weekly, 1 hour
Duration: 16 months
Eligibility: Prisoners participating in the SOTP
Curriculum: NCBM SOTP Seminar workbook

3.7 List updates or efforts to update policies requiring the processing for administrative separation of any member convicted of a sexual assault. Include documentation in the appendix.

U.S. Navy

Enlisted Members

For processing for administrative separation of enlisted members, MILPERSMAN 1910-233 (Mandatory Separation Processing; enclosure (2) in Appendix A), 1910-142 (Separation by Reason of Misconduct - Commission of a Serious Offense; enclosure (3) in Appendix A), and 1910-144 (Separation by Reason of Misconduct - Civilian Conviction; enclosure (4) in Appendix A) require that an enlisted member who commits sexual misconduct which could be charged as a violation of the UCMJ Articles 120, 120a, 120b, or 120c, 125, (and other sexual misconduct) be processed for administrative separation. This mandatory administrative separation processing policy includes enlisted members convicted of a sexual assault.

Officers

For processing for administrative separation officers, SECNAVINST 1920.6C (Administrative Separation of Officers; enclosure (5) in Appendix A) is being updated to require an officer who commits sexual misconduct which could be charged as a violation of UCMJ Articles 120, 120a, 120b, or 120c, 125 (and other sexual misconduct) be processed for administrative separation. The proposed revision would require SECNAV to approve any exception to mandatory administrative processing of an officer for sexual misconduct. While the revised SECNAVINST with this policy change has not been finalized, this policy change has been incorporated into Navy procedures for handling officer misconduct cases and is currently being employed in effect. Therefore, any officer convicted of a sexual assault would be mandatorily processed for administrative separation, unless an exception was granted by the Secretary of the Navy.

Serious offenses already include sexual misconduct such as rape, sexual assault, stalking, forcible sodomy, child sexual abuse, possession or distribution of child pornography, incestuous relationships, or any other sexual misconduct that could be charged as a violation of or an attempt to violate 10 U.S.C. §920, §920a, §920b, §920c.

3.8 Describe your plans for FY14 that pertain to the achievement of high competence in holding offenders appropriately accountable.

U.S. Navy

There are numerous efforts that will impact and enhance competence in holding offenders appropriately accountable, to include the following:

- The first step in holding offenders appropriately accountable is ensuring that sexual assaults are reported. The Navy's awareness campaign about the issue, as well as the increased support services for victims are key components of our plan to encourage and improve reporting.
- Mandatory investigation of all allegations of sexual violence, by MCIOs, leads to appropriate adjudication, including contact and penetration offenses.
- Continued training for Commanders and senior leadership.
- Detailing of more experienced Field Grade Officers as directors of litigation (Senior Trial Counsel) into our three largest prosecution offices.
- Enhanced training for judges which includes SAPR training. Additional training for all judges, trial and appellate, was approved for FY14, and commenced in December. The training is hosted by the National Judicial College via webcast. The subject matter for the webcasts will focus around legal issues relevant to sexual assault cases:
  - Military and Federal Rules of Evidence 412/413/414 – (i.e., policy, cases, methods, foundational requirements.)
  - Common legal issues encountered by judges in trials involving sexual assault type offenses.
  - Expert assistants and witnesses for both the prosecution and defense. The use of experts in sexual assault cases to explain the effects of trauma on alleged victims, either by the Prosecution to support their case or by the Defense in order to challenge the government's case.
- Continued JAG support in the implementation of Adult Sexual Assault Program (ASAP) teams, in all Fleet concentration areas. The early collaboration entails a multidisciplinary review of active cases at the STC and Supervisory Special Agent level and allows NCIS, the RLSO and the SARC to troubleshoot sexual assault investigations, prosecutions, and victim care issues as they arise. Furthermore, this multidisciplinary model promotes early cooperation among stakeholders to improve quality of outcomes.
- Specialized military and civilian sexual assault training courses, for example; Prosecuting Alcohol Facilitated Sexual Assault (PAFSA) and Defending Sexual Assault Cases (DSAC.)
- FY14 annual training efforts include the coordination and development of Targeted Mobile Training Teams, site visits with flexible training sections on special victims crimes and process inspection; live online interactive web-based training sponsored by TCAP and conducted by subject matter experts; archived online training, web-based recordings of previous trainings that can be accessed as needed as part of local training plans; Regionally developed training plans, STC coordinated weekly or bi-weekly training, coordinated with TCAP, and shared online. Additionally, NJS will sponsor the PAFSA course, DSAC course, Trial Counsel and Defense Counsel Orientation, and Basic Trial Advocacy Externships for judge advocates in Sexual Assault Units of District Attorney Offices.

- Full implementation of Victims’ Legal Counsel (VLC) Program.
- Video Vignettes Project, which is a series of online training segments which use both instruction and scripted drama as a vehicle to instruct judge advocates about skills and techniques fundamental to sexual assault litigation.
- Continued publication of all results of courts-martial.
- Publication of Prosecuting Alcohol Facilitated Sexual Assault Prosecution Manual.

4. LOE 4—Advocacy/Victim Assistance--The objective of advocacy/victim assistance is to “deliver consistent and effective victim support, response, and reporting options.”

4.1 Summarize your Service or Component’s efforts to achieve the Advocacy/Victim Assistance End state: “DoD provides high quality services and support to instill confidence and trust, strengthen resilience, and inspire victims to report.”

U.S. Navy

Navy achieves the Advocacy/Victim assistance end state of high quality services and support to instill confidence and trust, strengthen resilience, and inspire victims to report through a strong, well trained legal system, victim support from SARCs to SANEs, and the cross pollination of best practices throughout the Fleet. Specifically:

Legal System

- Implementation of the VLC Program.
- Special Victims Capability Course - Specialized multi-disciplinary course for Legal Personnel, Victim Advocates, and First Tour Judge Advocates. It focused on improving and enhancing victim care and support, prosecution support; providing a more comprehensive and standardized response to allegations of child abuse, serious domestic violence, and sexual assault offenses; gaining a better understanding of the dynamics of special victim crimes, working with victims; increasing collaboration of effort within the military justice system.
- Sexual Assault Case Management Group (SACMG), which is a multi-disciplinary group that meets monthly and is co-led by the installation commanders and SARCs to ensure that victims receive all available services and support in relation to their unrestricted reports of sexual assault.
- Vigorous awareness, education, and training programs incorporating, among other things, reporting options, support services, legal assistance/victims legal counsel, and expedited transfer options.
- Employment of HQE at OJAG HQs, TCAP, and Defense Counsel Assistance Program (DCAP) to develop and implement training and provide expert advice and experienced reach back to counsel in the field.

Victim Support

- In FY13, CNIC HQ executed the NDAA FY12 requirement of having at least one military or civilian employee full-time Sexual Assault Response Coordinator (SARC) and at least one military or civilian employee SAPR VA assigned to each brigade or equivalent unit level of the armed forces. To meet this requirement, 66 full-time equivalent DoD civilian SARC and 66 full-time equivalent civilian SAPR VAs were hired to deliver consistent and effective victim support and response. Of the SARC FTEs, nine Regional SARC (RSARC) positions were established to streamline communication and ensure better coordination and consistency of services between CNIC, regional leadership, and the SARCs in the field. The RSARCs assist achieving the Advocacy/Victim Assistance goal by coordinating and overseeing regional implementation and execution of the SAPR Program. Commands further achieve these efforts by ensuring they have an appropriate number of Unit SAPR Victim Advocates in accordance with (IAW) with guidance and policy.
- Victim Advocate Training is the cornerstone of an effective SAPR Program. Program training curriculum emphasizes the importance of treating victims with dignity and respect and thereby reinforcing DOD objectives. Prospective SAPR VAs are taught the importance of demonstrating compassion and care for victim welfare and the importance this interaction in instilling victim confidence in the SAPR Program. A portion of SAPR VA Training is designed to familiarize them with local civilian and military resources that are available for victim care and treatment. Overseas, the SAPR VAs visit rape crisis centers in their area and are provided with a tour of the facility to better understand their services and capabilities, as this may be a valuable referral and resource for victims. SAPR VA's also visit the local U.S. Naval Hospital or similar medical facility and receive a briefing by a Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner (SANE) regarding the intricacies of the process to provide support to a victim while undergoing a SAFE. These educational methods assist SAPR VA's in further understanding the resources available to them and their unique capabilities. Periodic trainings and communications with SAPR VA's also serve as continuing education engagements to provide program changes that further expand the range of services offered to victims.
- Chaplain Corps
  - While SECNAV Instruction 1730.9 promulgated policy on confidential communications to chaplains in Feb. 2008, there continues to be a lack of understanding of this policy and this significant and unique capability the Chaplain Corps (CHC) offers to the population it serves. A current poll on NPC's website further points to the need to educate service members and families about this benefit. Given the continuing stigma service members associate with seeking help, chaplains continue to offer Sailors, Marines, Coast Guardsmen, and their families a safe place to talk, without fear or judgment through unbreakable confidentiality.

- The chaplains deployed a campaign to help educate leadership, service members and families on the existence of this core capability, benefits to service members, and the details of SECNAVINST 1730.9 that codify it. The ultimate goal is to increase use of embedded chaplain support as part of an ongoing strategic messaging effort to help define the Chaplain Corps brand; communicate the tremendous value chaplains bring to increase health of the force, personal resilience, and mission-readiness.
- Chaplains provide a safe place to talk 24/7, without fear or judgment, with unbreakable confidentiality. Chaplains will not report what service members share in confidence to the command nor can a commander compel them to break confidentiality.
- Chaplains care for and support all service members and families, regardless of individual faith beliefs, if any.
- Chaplains will not leave an individual alone when the individual or others are at risk.
- Chaplains will always assist in guiding an individual to the appropriate resources.
- Measures of Effectiveness
  - Navy Personnel Command (NPC) poll will serve as baseline to test pre-campaign awareness and overall effectiveness post-campaign.
  - Monitor views of Message to the Fleet and local resource page hits and product downloads.
  - Monitor social media engagement: shares, likes, comments through various channels/pages.
  - Monitor Navy 311 call volume for chaplain requests pre- and post-campaign.
  - Leverage NCMST to source awareness of confidentiality during counseling visits.
  - Admiral Tidd, Admiral Kibben and CAPT Weeden emailed senior service leadership informing of campaign launch and efforts to educate on SECNAVINST 1730.9 prior to official launch.
- SELs engage with SMMC and MCPON regarding campaign to advocate for support in their channels.
- Provide talking points to ensure strategic messaging across CHC. Encourage theme of confidentiality in chapel signage, sermons, Chaplains' Corner, command newsletters and other base publications, during counseling visits, briefs.
- Incorporate materials, including RC scenarios, into current Naval Chaplaincy School and Center "A" course and basic course curriculum for future chaplains and Religious Program Specialist (RPs).
- Work with CCPD to integrate materials into GMTs to standardize curriculum across the enterprise.
- BUMEDINST 6310.11A of May 2013 established the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery policy, responsibility, and guidance in addressing medical - forensic requirements in support of sexual assault victims.
  - The comprehensive victim-centered management of sexual assault victims requires addressing physical and psychological trauma, appropriate coordination of care, and collection of medical-forensic evidence. SAFE kits are now available at 24/7 military medical treatment facilities. However, the unique and often isolated environments in which Fleet units operate require additional consideration when providing this care.

- In response to CNO and Navy Surgeon General (SG) direction, US Fleet Forces Command (USFFC) and Command Pacific Fleet (CPF) joint message DTG 241414Z JUL 13 outlined SAFE training requirements for Fleet medical providers. Fleet medical departments were directed to establish and maintain the ability to provide SAFE 24/7 in an underway/deployed setting no later than 1OCT13. The training requirement for each Fleet provider consisted of 14.5 hours of computer-based training using disks provided by BUMED through the Navy Medical Professional Development Center (NMPDC). The initial training software was not able to be used by Fleet units due to network security and certification requirements which delayed the commencement of training within the Fleet. NMPDC coordinated the modification of the training software to be Fleet network compliant and initial shipments were initiated on 1AUG13. Additionally, Fleet medical departments began the verification and requisition of SAFE kits required to comply with the policy.
- From August through September, Fleet ISIC's and TYCOM's executed an aggressive and efficient management campaign that involved the requisition, shipping and tracking of all required supplies and training material to 146 afloat units in world-wide locations. These extraordinary efforts were responsible for the execution of the training and equipping of 191 CPF medical providers in less than eight weeks and resulted in 100% compliance with the CNO and Navy SG goal date of 1OCT13.
- Fleet and Family Support Center
  - USFF ensures that there are the appropriate number of credentialed SAPR VAs on each unit and that they are working collaboratively with the SARCs and Chaplains to ensure the high quality of care for our victims
  - Each of the Fleet training events address reporting from both the accountability perspective and the most important item to provide support for the victim through SMEs and open discussion with leadership in program managers
  - All Commanding Officers, Executive Officers, and Senior Enlisted leaders receive Sexual Assault Prevention and Response training before they assume their position of leadership.
  - Training efforts also focus on making sure that leaders at all levels clearly understand the reporting requirements, the trust placed on them in the event of a sexual assault, and the responsibility they have to identify and mitigate barriers within their command that may prevent a Sailor from reporting.
  - Fleet Commander and Fleet Master Chief visits to each of our areas and individual commands, Fleet workshops, and other Fleet sponsored events routinely and consistently address reporting. The key message to Sailors is that "if this type of behavior happens to you, we want you to report it."

- Best Practices

- Commander, Third Fleet (COMTHIRDFLT) continued to advocate small group sessions with involved command leadership to further develop trust among the command and foster increased reporting. This approach thus far has shown the greatest progress based upon the response from our Sailors. This best practice has been shared via the Naval Recruiting Southwest Cross Functional Team and has been successfully implemented at air, surface and shore commands. The barrier they are now seeing is that victims are not fully participating throughout the investigation and prosecutorial process, which is further impacting the ability to close out the legal process completely. In FY14, CPF commands will be examining ways in which we can improve upon victim participation throughout the process.
- Fleet Combat Camera employs personable, dependable and knowledgeable personnel of varying racial and cultural backgrounds who have volunteered to become victim advocates to decrease the interpersonal barriers that often follow an assault so that the victim can receive the assistance they need in a safe and comfortable climate.
- Due to some unique locations, Navy personnel have the option to receive an Air Force SAPR VA or other Joint SAPR VA and vice versa if the victim so chooses.
- In some of the more remote locations, the installation SARCs have a memorandum of understanding with local hospitals and the YWCA to provide resources. The duty SAPR VA watch bills are pre-coordinated with SAFE sites for that month, improving communication and minimizing collection times for victims.
- Some CPF commands report that their SAPR VA program (coupled with the rest of SAPR) resulted in over 70% of Sailors making unrestricted reports desiring to remain at their present command after reporting a sexual assault (not requesting expedited transfer); this is due to the confidence and empowerment of the victim to overcome the situation with assistance of the trained SAPR VA.
- Commands, especially those with an integrated workforce or a higher frequency of personnel incidents, have increased the number of trained Victim Advocates to provide more reporting and assistance avenues. For example, onboard our tenders, USS FRANK CABLE (AS-40) and USS EMORY S. LAND (AS-39), the number of SAPR VA's onboard have increased from five to 23 in FY13.
- In the Joint arena, Commander, U.S. Naval Forces Korea (CNFK) and Command Naval Forces Region Korea (CNRK) has Inter-Service Support Agreements with the U.S. Army that allows Navy personnel to utilize any Army hospital or medical clinic on the Korean peninsula.

- SANE and Social Work/Mental Health Counseling services are available from Army Hospitals in Korea upon request. Army SARC and SAPR VAs who take a sexual assault report involving a Sailor will provide a warm hand-off to the Navy SAPR VA and SARC in order to ensure that any service-specific reporting and investigation requirements are conducted. A number of local public affairs, media and awareness strategies including Posters in the barracks, POW notes and CNRK webpage and Public Service Announcements on TV and Radio provide POC information and reporting options. Sailors assigned to Special United States Liaison Advisor Korea (SUSLAK) or United States Forces Korea (USFK) are authorized to use Army services offered on US Army Garrison Yongsan. In the event a report of sexual assault involving a Sailor is taken by another service SAPR VA or SARC, that services SAPR VA/SARC provides a “warm hand-off” to a Navy SAPR VA or SARC.
- Command SAPR POCs/SAPR VAs distribute business cards throughout the activities and continue to do so to new check-ins during indoctrination training.
- Reserve Forces
  - Transition to DoD Sexual Assault Advocate Certification Program (D-SAACP) credentialed Unit SAPR VAs has established a quality baseline for the Navy Reserve SAPR VA pool, eliminating advocates who were not willing to dedicate the time and effort to establish or maintain their qualification. Navy Reserve Force currently utilizes Active Component and Full-time Support Unit SAPR VAs, whose accessibility improves victim confidence in their ability to make a report when desired. Selected Reserve SAPR VAs, although credentialed, are utilized only as augmentation when they are able to come on active duty orders for a specified amount of time. Navy Reserve Force currently has two waiver requests submitted for additional efforts to improve quality of advocacy service and support:
  - Allowing stand-alone Navy Operational Support Centers (NOSC) to utilize nearest military installation Duty SAPR VA will reduce missed and dropped calls that occur in geographically remote areas that tend to have inadequate cell phone system coverage.
  - The Reserve Law Program has been heavily involved in the Victim’s Legal Counsel (VLC) program through FY13 and took actions to provide the following support in FY14:
    - Ten RC JAG officers on Active Duty for Special Work (ADSW) and two Reserve recalls serving as VLC.
    - Seven RC enlisted Sailors (YN) on ADSW and serving as VLC support
    - Three RC JAG Officers on ADSW and serving to backfill AC JAG officers who are serving as VLC.
    - Pursuing an additional four recall opportunities for JAG officers: two Examples of best practices include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Naval Air Station Whidbey Island SARC provides a one-on-one, comprehensive “out brief” regarding the effects of trauma, available services, as well as options and/or reasons to contact the SAPR VA and Veterans Service Organization (VSO). Veterans Administration services are co-located with SAPR personnel, enabling immediate referral and SAPR personnel awareness of all SAPR VA services. In addition, the SAPR office continues contact for further assistance post separation.</li> </ul> |

- Naval Base Kitsap SARC immediately refers victims to the Transition Goals, Plans, Success (T-GPS) program, initiates resume appointments, provides victims with a copy of their DD-2910, and provides information required to acquire additional copies, if needed. In addition, the SARC educates victims about the availability of the Military Sexual Trauma (MST) support through local Department VA (DVA) and provides contact information. If the victim anticipates transition to the Reserve, the SARC provides referral to US Navy Reserve Psychological Health Outreach Program.
- Command Naval Region Mid-Atlantic (CNRMA) SARCs work in collaboration with local Veterans Centers/organizations. Veteran organizations are invited participants/facilitators during various SAPR program refresher training events. Veteran Representatives provide extensive information on services available to victims of sexual assault from Veterans Administration facilities.

4.5 Describe your efforts to improve the portability and availability of victim services in deployed environments, ensuring continuity of victim care. ### U.S. Navy

The structure of Navy SAPR is consistent both afloat and ashore. SAPR VAs deploy with commands and are trained and supported by the installation SARC (reach back for support). Sailors serving as an Individual Augmentee (IA) or assigned to a non-Navy installation, are provided support by the affiliated/lead Military Service SARC and SAPR VA within that installation/environment (e.g. Iraq, Marine Base, etc.).

- SARCs provide ongoing education to SAPR personnel and pre-deployment training to commands as a part of ensuring timely response to sexual assaults in deployed environments. SARCs track and manage refresher training for designated command SAPR personnel to avoid lapse in their certifications. Even while deployed, installation SARCs are responsible for maintaining contact with SAPR personnel away from their homeport locations to keep them abreast of program updates and command requirements.
- Navy's IAs are provided with wallet sized cards are provided with contact numbers reachable in the combat area of operations.
- NCIS personnel deploy and provide timely response to reported cases of sexual assault in deployed locations. Currently, NCIS maintains personnel in Afghanistan, the Horn of Africa, and Iraq. In deployed locations where NCIS is not currently imbedded, a response capability exists.

As directed, Fleet medical departments established and maintained the ability to provide SAFEs on a 24/7 basis in an underway/deployed setting prior to the end of FY13.

There were no reported gaps in supply inventory for the kits, trained personnel, or transportation resources for deployed naval units in FY13. However, transportation of victims and/or suspects from units at sea (e.g., underway) and those who are able to conduct SAFEs may affect preservation of evidence and victim's willingness to participate in investigations or prosecution.

From August through September, Fleet ISICs and TYCOMs executed an aggressive and efficient management campaign that involved the requisition, shipping, and tracking of all required and training material to 146 afloat units in world-wide locations. These extraordinary efforts were responsible for the execution of the training and equipping of 191 CPF medical providers in less than eight weeks and resulted in 100% compliance with the CNO and the Navy's Surgeon General 1 October 2013 due date.

SAPR VA training is the cornerstone of an effective SAPR Program. Overseas, the SAPR VAs visit rape crisis centers in their area to better understand their services and capabilities. Due to some unique locations, Navy personnel have the option to receive services and support from SARCs and/or SAPR VAs from other Services. In some of the more remote locations, the base has established Memorandums of Agreement/Understanding with local hospitals for the provision of immediate access to SAFEs, improving communications, clarifying expectations, and standardizing evidence collection procedures.

In the Joint Korean arena, Commander, U.S. Naval Forces Korea (CNFK) and Command Naval Forces Region Korea (CNRK) have Inter-Service Support Agreements with the U.S. Army that allows Navy personnel to utilize Army hospitals or medical clinics on the Korean peninsula.

SANE and Social Work/Mental Health Counseling services are available from USA Hospitals in Korea upon request. USA SARC and SAPR VAs who take a sexual assault report involving a Navy Sailor will provide a warm hand-off to the Navy SAPR VA and SARC in order to ensure that any service-specific reporting and investigation requirements are conducted.

COCOMs support the implementation of the SAPR Program in an operational environment. Navy Medicine fully supports training SAFE providers and healthcare personnel that deploy in support of the COCOMs.

USFF Command Chaplain provides Chaplain and RP training through the CHC Navy Knowledge Online website and can be used by Religious Ministry Teams on deployment or in remote locations.

- CHC GMT Plus. The materials used for Chaplain Corps GMT are for awareness and use in providing religious ministry in the area of SAPR. Having been trained in the SAPR Plus program, Chaplains are certified to provide the standard Navy General Military Training (GMT). They may also provide the command the value-based SAPR Plus GMT, at a CO's request and coordinated with the command's program manager and training officer. The chaplain based GMT-

Plus programs are intended to augment, not replace, what is currently being provided by command program managers in SAPR. The program includes a version of the SAPR Plus brief, a student training guide, and a PowerPoint program for use by the chaplain. Additionally, the subject matter of this training program may bring up concerns and issues that chaplains, as trained professionals, are uniquely qualified to address. Also included is a Tri-fold brochure to be used by chaplains as a template for their specific area of ministry.

4.6 Describe revised policies and/or procedures developed that allow Reserve Component Service members who are victims of sexual assault while on active duty to remain on active duty status to obtain the treatment and support afforded active duty members. Include documentation in the appendix.

U.S. Navy

Section 571 of the NDAA FY13 amended 10 U.S.C. Chapter 1209, section 12323 to authorize retention of Reserve sailors on active duty or return Reserve service members to active duty after assaults for line of duty ("LoD") determination upon the member's request. Service Secretaries may order retention until completion of LoD determinations. Members are to be informed of this option as soon as practicable after they report a sexual assault.

- It is important to note that RC members are not eligible to remain on active duty status for the duration of treatment, only as long as necessary to determine approval or disapproval of benefits and service connection. This policy was implemented with release of the March 2013 DODINST 6495.02 and August 2013 SECNAVINST 1752.4B (Appendix CNRF-1) (enclosure (1) of Appendix A), and is available to victims who have filed either a restricted or unrestricted report of sexual assault.
- Relevant training has been incorporated into the RC CO training pipeline and the option for recall or retention is reiterated during First Flag Interviews and one-to-one communications between Reserve Force SAPR Program personnel and the CO.
- Funding for these orders is being approved at the Echelon III level, keeping feasibility of response time well within the 30-day limit as indicated by SECNAVINST 1752.4B; enclosure (1) in Appendix A.
- During FY13, one service member utilized this option and returned to active duty for approximately 30 days. No requests were denied.
- Our SARCs maintain strong relationships with Navy Operational Support Centers (NOSCs) and Reserve units within their area of responsibility (AOR) through meetings and training to discuss SAPR policy revisions and procedures.

4.7 Describe your efforts to enhance sexual assault training for health care providers. Include requirements that ensure training conforms to "A National Protocol for Sexual Assault Medical Forensic Examinations, Adults/Adolescents"; how to handle a Restricted Report; and how to conduct the SAFE exam.

U.S. Navy

BUMEDINST 6310.11A (2 May 2013) established a comprehensive program to provide victims of sexual assault access to Sexual Assault Forensic Exams (SAFE) at both 24/7 military treatment facilities (MTFs) and non-24/7 MTFs by the end of FY13. The efforts and scope of this program extended to our Navy Medicine partners at U.S. Fleet Forces and U.S. Pacific Fleet to provide the same level of training and care in maritime and expeditionary environments for victims of sexual assault.

- As of October 24, 2013, 97 Navy MTFs are now capable of conducting SAFEs. MTFs around the globe have trained a total of 324 Navy MTF SAFE providers. In US Fleet Forces, 287 providers have been trained to provide SAFE care on 123 surface, air, expeditionary and submarine platforms. In US Pacific Fleet, 191 providers have been trained to provide SAFE care on 142 surface, air, and submarine platforms. Additionally, 57 providers attached to the Military Sealift Command have undergone SAFE training.
- Training for these 859 personnel included 14.5 hours of standardized DVD teaching. This interactive DVD training was mapped against the Department of Justice National Protocol for Sexual Assault Medical Forensic Examination and helps ensure that all providers receive an industry standard quality training product. Program managers at the Regional and MTF level are actively engaged in laying the groundwork for sustaining proficient, confident, caring, SAFE providers to meet the needs of victims of sexual assault 24/7.
- Navy Medicine is ready in our response to provide forensic exams around the globe and will coordinate a team response to caring for and preventing sexual assault in the military.

4.8 Describe sexual assault related health care initiatives undertaken by your Service in FY13. Include mental health treatment programs and follow-up procedures that are gender-responsive, culturally competent, and recovery-oriented.

U.S. Navy

Creation, implementation and testing of victim care protocols (VCP) at 96 of 97 SAFE capable MTFs have been achieved through Regional program efforts. VCPs ensure standardized and coordinated SAPR/SAFE responses to victims of sexual assault.

- All Navy SAFE kits are submitted by Navy SAFE providers to U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Laboratory (USACIL) which undergo a quality assurance review. Feedback results will be shared with the provider submitting the forensic evidence and trends will be shared with all stakeholders.
- BUMED representatives are currently participating on Psychological Health Counsel for OASD/HA and supporting GAO Male Sexual Assault committees.
- MTFs work to have both male and female SAFE providers available to perform exams, as well as having both sexes available as assistants for the exams if needed.

- SARCs work to have both male and female SAPR VAs available.
- Gender based sensitivity lectures are included in SAFE orientation classes at MTFs throughout Navy Medical West (NMW). Efforts are underway to standardize this practice for all MTFs.

Navy Regions and CNRF shared the following initiatives in support of these efforts:

- Command Naval Region Mid-Atlantic (CNRMA) Region's Naval Medical Center Portsmouth (NMCP) Sexual Assault Forensic Examiner (SAFE) program has trained and qualified a number of forensic examiners sited in military medical facilities. This allows for exams to begin immediately, which shortens the sexual assault victim wait time for the arrival of the SAFE provider.
- Command Naval Region Midwest (CNRMW) Great Lakes SAPR staff has collaborated with the Recruit Evaluation Unit (REU) to better understand the process for recruits seeking mental health services while at Recruit Training Command (RTC.) Navy Region Midwest (NRMW) SAPR staff also works closely with Fleet and Family Support Center counselors who work with students and staff within the region, particularly those who work in the Counseling in a Recruit Environment (CARE) office to better understand accessing services and the process for recruits seeking counseling services.
- CNRMW SAPR staff works closely with Fleet and Family Support Center (FFSC) counselors who provide services to students and staff within the region, particularly those who work in the Counseling in a Recruit Environment (CARE) office to better understand accessing services and the process for recruits seeking counseling services. Great Lakes SAPR staff also work with the mental health and medical providers at the James A. Lovell Federal Health Care Center to provide members receiving SAPR services expanded resources.
- Navy Reserve Force (NRF) worked with BUMED to identify all SAFE-capable military medical facilities. This nation-wide list is utilized by geographically remote Navy Reserve commands to recommend nearest SAFE-capable clinic to victims who desire to use a military facility or to preserve the capability to maintain a restricted report.
- Navy Reserve Psychological Health Outreach Program (PHOP) Teams are assigned at each of the five Echelon IV Reserve regional commands and facilitate Reserve Sailor access to appropriate psychological health care services.
- In addition to extensive outreach efforts, PHOP staff members are on-call and available by phone, email, and text for consultation and referral services.
- A summary of PHOP services and initiatives for FY13 is included as (enclosure (3) of Appendix A).

4.9 List the number of victims, if any, whose care was hindered due to lack of SAFE kits or timely access to appropriate laboratory testing resources and describe the measures you took to remedy the situation.

U.S. Navy

As directed, BUMED achieved 100% SAFE capability by 30 September 2013. In FY13 there were no instances where victims reported to SARCs that SAFE kits or other supplies were not available at the time of the victim's exam.

4.10 List initiatives and programs implemented to reduce the stigma and overcome barriers associated with reporting sexual assault.

U.S. Navy

Our objective is to deliver consistent and effective victim support, response, and reporting options with the goal of providing high quality services and support. In doing so we will instill confidence and trust, strengthen resilience, and inspire victims to report. Reporting, advocacy coordination, medical services, legal support and counseling for the victim, as well as appropriate advocacy and legal support of the alleged offender, are the cornerstones of this effort. Navy initiatives and programs implemented to reduce the stigma and overcome barriers associated with reporting sexual assault are:

- Credentialed SARCs/SAPR VAs. SARCs serve as the single point of contact to coordinate sexual assault response when a sexual assault is reported. SAPR VAs facilitate care and provide referrals and non-clinical support and advocacy to victims.
- Victims' Legal Counsel (VLC). The VLC program will dedicate 30 Judge Advocates (29 VLC and one COS) with military justice experience to provide eligible victims of sexual assault with legal support. The primary mission of the VLC Program will be to provide legal counsel and, as appropriate, advocacy for victims. Navy VLC will help protect victim's rights through the investigative and adjudicative stages of the military justice system. VLC will also assist SARCs and SAPR VAs in the successful execution of their duties. VLC duties include explaining the investigative and military justice processes; advocating the victim's rights and interests, and when appropriate, appearing in court on the victim's behalf.
- Expedited transfer for the victim to remove the victim from the environment where the assault happened or where the victim feels uncomfortable.
- 24/7 SAFE capability at MTFs
- Increased investigative capacity at NCIS

Other specific Navy best practices are:

- BUMED. During the FY13 SAPR Stand Down, BUMED commands shared sexual assault statistics with staff members including awarded punishment for subjects. BUMED published local and DOD resources that support reporting. Using the DEOCS Survey data, BUMED has created a baseline for SAPR intervention climate and SAPR leadership support. Through use of focus groups and additional surveying, command CMEO managers will work with SAPR teams to develop initiatives that reduce the stigma associated with sexual assault reporting.

- Pacific Fleet commands continued training on the availability of support services for victims of sexual assault. Other initiatives and programs include CSADD, DEOMI, SAAM events, Public Service Announcements, and shared personal survival stories during training. Additionally, CO Toolkit briefs have had a positive impact on command climate and on reducing/overcoming barriers. As a result of these toolkits COs have been able to demonstrate a more thorough understanding of their roles and responsibilities regarding the SAPR Program.
  - Persistent command education and awareness training at all levels helped reduce the stigma associated with reporting. Methods used included:
    - Information Tables
    - Display Boards
    - 5K run/walk
    - Facilitation of victim panel during SAPR prevention education programs
    - Reiteration by command leadership regarding support of SAPR Program to include SARCs' involvement during All Hands events;
    - Facilitation of training related to victim sensitivity, myths and facts of sexual assault, and victim blaming biases;
    - Implementation of BI training to provide Sailors with tools to intervene – common understandings about assault and Sailor's responsibilities to each other is a step towards reducing stigma;
    - Reinforcement of the workforce's understanding of the SAPR Program, processes, rights, and expectations, emphasizing the restricted reporting option to protect privacy.
    - Heightened sexual assault awareness will also continue to build confidence and reduce the stigma in reporting sexual assault. Key areas for increased education include increased training and education for Command Duty Officers and Officers of the Deck to ensure understanding of confidentiality policy and victims' rights under the SAPR program and increased marketing and education for all personnel on DoD Safe Helpline.
    - In some PACFLT commands, the combination of facilitated discussion and small group sessions with involved leadership appears to have proven successful in the short term, but further data analysis will describe the efficacy of these approaches. The on-going initiatives which seek to reduce reporting via OPREP-3 and more fully utilize the DSAID database should help to remove barrier associated with reporting and access to information.
    - Barriers to reporting were found to be a common thread throughout all FY13 training sessions. One of the most widely discussed barriers was in relation to reporting of incidents by underage Sailors when alcohol was involved. Sailors stated that if they could ensure they would be exempted from charges for underage drinking, victims might be more willing to make an unrestricted report.
    - Increasing the use of "edutainment" initiatives will build upon the successes shown during “No Zebras” training sessions. Based upon the feedback received from Sailors, these sessions should get closer to reducing the stigma associated with reporting. All levels of leadership are consistently urged to include sexual assault discussions in their meetings, mess, leadership and mess forums. SAPR representatives are thoroughly engaged in spearheading these efforts. Our commands report constantly training to dispel myths of SA, utilizing facts and statistics. Data compiled from the “Stamp Out Sexual Assault” pay-grade focus groups indicated that open-forum discussion is the most effective tool to reducing the stigma and overcoming barriers associated with SA for our Sailors. It provides an avenue for peers to communicate with one another and provides the SAPR team the opportunity to address any of their concerns. We will continue to conduct more training utilizing this format.

- Commander Naval Forces Korea sponsors a monthly "Meet the SAPR VA" event. SAPR VAs set up a table at a public location on base and answer questions, provide discussions and hand out SAPR literature to US and Korean military and civilian personnel. This event is designed to promote engagement with the SAPR program and a greater comfort level with the individuals and services responsible for prevention, care, and response.
- FFC
  - Command leadership training (CO, XO, CMC) has focused on the need for leadership to create a climate where Victims are comfortable coming forward with Unrestricted or Restricted reports of Sexual Assault.
  - As discussed above, the Mid-Atlantic Region ASAP teams and prosecutors have collaborated earlier in the process and streamlined processes which have cut the amount of time a case will take to be processed through investigation and adjudication.
  - Victim Advocates and Sexual Assault Response Counselors have received significant training on the intricacies of the legal system so they can better educate Victims, return control to victims and to help set expectations for victims.
  - FFC has ensured each command has the appropriate number of credentialed victim advocates to help create a climate where a potential victim will feel comfortable to come forward to report a sexual assault
  - Each of the Fleet training events provide discussion on reducing stigma through the use of SMEs that allow leadership and program managers to learn new tools to enhance their knowledge in this specific area.
  - Training efforts focus on making sure that leaders at all levels clearly understand how stigma affects the reporting of sexual assault, the trust placed on them in the event of a sexual assault, and the responsibility they have to identify and mitigate barriers within their command that may prevent a Sailor from reporting.

4.11 Describe what measures have been taken by your Service to ensure that Service members are informed in a timely manner of the member's option to request a Military Protective Order (MPO) from the command of assignment. Include documentation that requires law enforcement agents to document MPOs in their investigative case files, to include documentation for Reserve Component personnel in title 10 status.

U.S. Navy

CNIC HQ has provided training and guidance for SARCs to provide information on the option of MPO to service members upon initial contact and the completion of an initial safety assessment (as documented on the SAPR Program Intake Data Form (DD Form 2965). Additionally, SARCs provide training to SAPR VAs on the requirement to discuss the option of requesting a military protective order (MPO). Navy built redundancy into our process ensuring the service member is reminded at different times about their option to request a MPO. Specifically:

- The newly hired credentialed SARCs and SAPR VAs are instructed to inform victims about their ability to request an MPO if they file an unrestricted report. All SAPR VA's are required to follow the victim safety worksheet. Part 2 of the victim safety worksheet states: "I am aware of my right to request an MPO and/or a civilian Protection Order (CPO), if desired".
- VLCs inform victims that they may request an MPO.
- Other judge advocates (trial counsel, SJAs, legal assistance attorneys) also routinely inform victims that they can request an MPO.
- The Victim Witness Assistance Program (VWAP) also provides MPO information to victims.
- Separate and apart from a victim's option to request an MPO, commanders are taught safety is paramount, even before requested by the victim. For example, at the Senior Officer Course taught at the Naval Justice School, attendees are instructed on MPOs as part of their SAPR-related training.
- Additionally, judge advocates also provided SAPR-GMT and SAPR-C training to the Fleet, which included a segment on MPOs and expedited transfer procedures. In August 2013, a SECNAV instruction provided additional guidance regarding the issuance of MPOs and expedited transfer procedures.
- DoD and SECNAV instructions issued in 2013 directed law enforcement agents to document MPOs in their investigative case files, to include documentation for Reserve Component personnel in Title 10 status.
- MPOs are part of command indoctrination. Service members who file an unrestricted report of sexual assault shall be informed by the SARC, SAPR VA, or their CO at the time of making the report, or as soon as practicable, of the option to request a MPO in accordance with the DoD Commander's Checklist for unrestricted reports of Sexual Assault.
- During recent SAPR Stand-Down, SAPR-F, and SAPR-L training sessions, commands specifically emphasized the use of MPOs in cases related to sexual assault. Additionally, all victims are briefed by the SARC/SAPR VA regarding their option to request an MPO.

- Chaplains counsel sexual assault victims concerning MPOs

SECNAVINST 1752.4B promulgates policy on this issue for Active and Reserve components and is attached (enclosure (1), Appendix A)

4.12 Describe and provide documentation of your Service or Component's expedited victim transfer request policy, including measures taken to ensure victims are informed in a timely manner of their right to request an expedited transfer. Documentation should be included as an appendix.

U.S. Navy

Navy guidance for an expedited transfer is in Military Personnel Manual (MPM) Article 1300-1200 (enclosure (6), Appendix A) states:

Circumstances may exist that warrant the transfer of a service member who makes an unrestricted report of sexual assault but may not otherwise meet established criteria for effecting the immediate transfer of service members. Those service members may now request an expedited transfer. Any threat to life or safety of a service member, his/her dependents, or military spouse should continue to be processed as a safety transfer.

For the purpose of the expedited transfer policy, a transfer or reassignment includes, but is not limited to, temporary or permanent movement to a unit within the same command, to a unit on the same installation, or to a unit in a different geographic location. A request for a permanent change of station (PCS) transfer out of the area of the permanent duty station is to be granted on an exceptional basis.

For reserve component members, the command should allow for separate training on different weekends or times from the alleged offender or with a different unit in the home drilling location to ensure undue burden is not placed on the service member and his or her family by the transfer.

Procedures. Members who have filed an unrestricted report of sexual assault must be advised of their option to request transfer from the command to which they are assigned.

- A request for an expedited transfer must come from the service member.
- The request must be in writing and include the reason(s) for the request.
- Upon receipt of the request, and within 72 hours, the CO must approve or recommend disapproval of an expedited transfer.
- In making the decision on whether to recommend transfer, the co must determine if the unrestricted report is credible. (i.e., reasonable grounds to believe that an offense constituting sexual assault did occur based on all available evidence and the advice of the supporting judge advocate or other legal advisor or counsel concerned.)

- A presumption shall be established in favor of transferring a service member (who initiated the transfer request) following a credible report of sexual assault. The CO shall consider the following factors when making the transfer decision:
  - The credible report of sexual assault;
  - The service member's written request for transfer or reassignment;
  - Operational necessity, including situational unique requirements in deployed areas;
  - The nature and circumstances of the offense;
  - The location of the alleged offender;
  - Potential transfer or reassignment of the alleged offender instead of the service member;
  - The alleged offender's status (military or civilian);
  - After consultation with the investigating military criminal investigative organization and the supporting judge advocate or other legal advisor or counsel concerned, the status of the investigation and the potential impact of the service member's transfer or reassignment on the investigation and future disposition of the allegation;
  - Training status of the service member requesting the transfer or reassignment; and
  - Other pertinent circumstances or facts

The CO's approval of an expedited transfer request, along with their recommendation as to where the member should be transferred, shall be Immediately forwarded to the Navy Personnel Command (NPC) post selection board matters (Pers-833) for processing and retained on file for a period of three years. NPC career management (Pers-4) will adjudicate transfer of the service member.

The CO must immediately forward any recommendation for disapproval of an expedited transfer request, and the reason(s) for the recommendation, in writing, to the first Flag Officer in the chain of command, or Senior Executive Service (SES) equivalent (if applicable). If at any time the requesting service member elects not to proceed with an expedited transfer request, he or she shall formally withdraw the request in writing to the CO.

These procedures are effective immediately and will remain in effect unless superseded by revisions to OPNAVINST 1752.1B and the MILPERSMAN. Amplifying information can be found in MILPERSMAN article 1300-1200.

SARCs or SAPR VAs are required to brief victims regarding their rights as part of the election to make unrestricted and unrestricted reports of sexual assault. Victims acknowledge receipt of the information by signing the DD Form 2910.

4.12.1 Pertaining to temporary and/or permanent local expedited transfers (a different location within their assigned command or installation), provide:

U.S. Navy

- The number requested: 20
- The number approved as the victim requested: 11
- The number approved different than the victim requested: 4
- The number denied and a summary of why: 2
  - One lacked reasonable grounds that an offense constituting sexual assault had occurred.
  - One was denied because the victim and suspect were not assigned to the same geographical location.
  - Three requests were withdrawn by the respective victims.
- The number moved within 30 days of approval: 15
- The number moved after 30 days of approval: 0

4.12.2 Pertaining to permanent requested expedited transfers (from their assigned command or installation), provide:

U.S. Navy

- The number requested: 128
- The number approved as the victim requested: 120
- The number approved different than the victim requested: 8
- The number denied and a summary of why: 0
- The number moved within 30 days of approval: 61
- The number moved after 30 days of approval: 67

4.13 Describe your plans for FY14 that pertain to delivering consistent and effective victim support, response, and reporting options.

U.S. Navy

A number of programs are in place and will further develop during FY14 to ensure consistent and effective victim support, response, and reporting options are delivered to the Fleet. These include providing immediate care to the victim, training to ensure responders are prepared to provide the best possible care, and sharing best practices among the Fleet to ensure we are leveraging everything to provide the best support possible. Specifics include:

- The Navy's Victims' Legal Counsel (VLC) Program, which consists of a cadre of specially-trained, independent judge advocates (operating within Naval Legal Service Command under the supervision of an O-6 Chief of Staff) who are detailed to provide legal support to eligible victims of sexual assault. VLC are in place providing assistance to eligible sexual assault victims worldwide. The VLC reached initial operating capability in November 2013 and full operational capability in January 2014. Most of the Navy's initial cadre of VLC attended the Air Force Special Victims' Counsel (SVC) course in Montgomery, AL. Curriculum included presentations on:

- Fundamental Concepts of Being a Victim's Attorney
  - Appellate Updates on applicable areas of law
  - VWAP/SARC/NCIS/OSI Trial Counsel (TC) Interaction
  - The Neurobiology of Trauma/Cognitive Interviewing
  - Post-Trial Processing for VLC
  - Professional Responsibility concerns
  - Mental Health Issues/Referrals/Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD)/Resiliency and Suicide Awareness/Cognitive Biases
  - Behavioral Aspects of Victims and Understanding Sex Offenders
- The remaining VLC in the initial cadre attended a training and certification course in January 2014 at the Naval Justice School.
  - The Deployed Resiliency Counselor (DRC) Program will place credentialed and certified civilian counselors on board the Navy's deployed carrier (CVN) and large deck amphibious assault ships (LHA/LHD). These 33 professional counselors will provide deployed support to victims and an additional reporting option outside the chain of command for those who wish to utilize it.
  - Sexual Assault Case Management Group (SACMG) provides the SARC and command a formal opportunity to discuss the needs of and care for victims in sexual assault cases. These monthly meetings will continue through 2014 and are anticipated to further develop effective victim support and command response to sexual assault allegations.
  - First Flag reporting, which was mandated for all sexual assault offenses by the CNO in 2012, will be refined in 2014 to better improve reporting consistency and victim support. By standardizing first Flag Officer reporting requirements the Navy will ensure the first Flag Officer in the chain of command is consistently aware of the victim's situation and the effect on the command.
  - VWAP annual training and additional VWAP training for judge advocates and Legalmen (LNs) will continue to develop and ensure all judge advocates and LNs are aware of and capable of providing victims of sexual assault with assistance and support. Trial counsel and trial department LNs will continue to provide an avenue of communication between victims and convening authorities to keep each informed of case progress, specific desires and concerns. Trial counsel will work with VLC to ensure the rights of the victim are protected through the trial process.
  - Medical treatment and access for victims has developed into a robust, integrated, interdisciplinary program to ensure availability of a SAFE 24 hours per day, seven days per week in the major MTFs, as well as published Victim Care Protocols for each MTF to provide standard, coordinated care for adult victims of sexual assault. In addition, smaller clinics and single provider clinics will provide SAFEs during normal working hours, and will develop a protocol for after hour examination and treatment at an MTF or a civilian facility. Due to the diversity of the missions we support and the variability of platform size, providers selected for training include nurses, advanced practice nurses, physician assistants, independent duty corpsmen, and physicians – all of whom are required to complete a nationally recognized on line and hands on course leading to specific certification in SAFEs to ensure that competent, compassionate care is available as soon after the incident as possible. BUMED also has, through a dedicated SAPR coordinator, improved communication with the Fleet to ensure that all SAPR Victim Advocates and SARCs are up-to-date on certification and any new policies, procedures, education and training, and best practices on at least a monthly basis. In addition, BUMED is now tracking how many SAFE exams are performed each month.

- Victim Care Protocols will continue to be reviewed and tested at all MTFs to ensure coordinated responses with NCIS, SARC, SAPR VA, SAFE, and medical/behavioral health follow-up care.
- SAFE provider’s lectures will continue in FY14 to include best practice lectures from USACIL, Navy VLC and other important SAPR/SAFE resources.
- Review program initiatives that support victim care and share as best practices through monthly stakeholder, monthly newsletter, and Sharepoint resource sites.
- CNIC HQ will focus standardization by reviewing content and approving of SAPR refresher trainings provided by SARCs to SAPR VAs. The field will also benefit from the integration of the Victim’s Legal Counsel staff, which will prove beneficial to enhancing the support and options available to victims. As we continue to move into FY14, CNIC will continue to evaluate staffing ratios across the enterprise to ensure adequate allocation of SARCs and professional SAPR Victim Advocates.
- CNIC HQ will work with Regional SARCs, SARCs, and SAPR VAs to complete the required training and credentialing requirements to ensure continuity of services and a superior level of excellence.
- CNIC HQ will work with designated regions in the implementation of the newly developed positions of Deployed Resiliency Counselors for carriers and large amphibious decks. These positions are dedicated civilian Clinical Counselors with SARC training, certification, and credentials who will be able to support victims of sexual assault during deployments and facilitate communication with the homeport SARC.

5. LOE 5—Assessment—The objective of assessment is to “effectively standardize, measure, analyze, assess, and report program progress.”

5.1 Summarize your Service or Component’s efforts to achieve the Assessment End state: “DoD incorporates responsive, meaningful, and accurate systems of measurement and evaluation into every aspect of the SAPR program.”

U.S. Navy

The Navy SAPR program initiated a contract with Navy Personnel Research Studies and Technology (NPRST) to conduct bi-annual training effectiveness studies, called Quick Polls. The purpose of this training effectiveness study is to measure successful transfer of learning with the self-reported measures from respondents indicating efficacy and willingness to change behavior. The study targets existing, formal, in-place training for accession programs, and field evaluation of the newly created BI training modules. Service members, stratified by officer/enlisted status and gender, were randomly selected to ensure adequate representation of officer/enlisted men and women. The Navy will analytically assess the relationship between identified issues and Sailor self-reported to include:

- Impact of General Military Training on awareness,
- Training included information on SAPR and available resources,
- Who conducted the sexual assault training,
- Barriers to reporting sexual assault, and
- Likelihood of reporting (SAPR quick poll).

During FY13, Regions engaged in proactive methods to incorporate responsive, meaningful, and accurate systems of measurement and evaluation into every aspect of the SAPR program. Monthly SACMGs are utilized by all regions to evaluate the effectiveness of the SAPR program. SACMGs provide an avenue to assess the quality of care and support being provided to sexual assault victims and also provides a method to review the effectiveness, or lack thereof, of various resources being provided within each case. Additionally, FFSCs have quarterly and annual surveys that are provided to FFSC clients to complete anonymously to provide feedback on SAPR services they've received. Regional practices also include the following:

- CNRNW SAPR team evaluates the Initial Victim Advocate 40-hour course (paper evaluation at end of class) and a secondary follow-up evaluation (in-person or via telephone) of the education program after the first case response by a SAPR VA.
- CNRMA Norfolk has developed a survey to be issued to SAPR VAs 90 days after they have completed the 40 hour SAPR VA Basic training to identify what aspects of the training were most effective. The survey also incorporated a programmatic evaluation question of the SACMG meeting. As each command presents the status of their case, the discussion concludes with the opportunity to address any issue or concern the command may have regarding the SAPR program and its various entities, all of which are represented during the meeting.
- An informal evaluation (in-person or via telephone) of the responding SAPR Victim Advocate provided by the victim.
- Evaluation of Command Indoctrination, GMT, and other command directed SAPR training programs (paper evaluations at conclusion of training)
- SARC participation in the Executive Steering Committees (ESC) to provide subject matter expertise based on their findings on LOE 5

As BUMED's SAPR program evolves, Navy Medicine will continue to focus on accountability, communication, training, compliance, and metrics. BUMED developed a sexual assault database that tracks all SITREP data including; equal opportunity, suicide, driving under the influence, motorcycle accidents, and sexual assault in support of higher echelon reports. In alignment with this database is the development of Navy Medicine's Dashboard that standardizes metrics throughout the enterprise and provides the Surgeon General and the regional commanders a roll-up view of all cases.

USFF developed and maintains a SAPR database based on OPREP/SITREP data that follows the report from initial report to legal adjudication. This allows USFF to analyze demographics, trends, case reporting, legal process timelines, as well as case outcomes. This database is used for internal assessments of the nature of the conditions surrounding sexual assault incidents that are reported using an Unrestricted Report. This data will allow the commander to discern unique conditions in the Fleet and to understand progress made in reducing the prevalence of destructive behaviors.

COMPACFLT and our commands have established databases for SAPR reports and continue to refine the relevant statistics. Other efforts to achieve the assessment end state are focused on general observations and prime risk factors that are captured in our statistics. As we capture data, it's compared to efforts from FY10 through the FY13. This assists in better honing focus in certain demographics and gauge efforts in the SAPR program for the future.

NETC: An assessment of the command's SAPR program was aided by a DEOMI Command Climate Surveys conducted with several questions specifically tailored towards determining the degree of awareness of the program and its individual leaders. Results from the surveys illustrated areas where the command needed to better communicate and advertise the program and processes for reporting. Where needed, follow-up focus groups confirmed specific response measures taken in the wake of the survey, along with regularly-scheduled training for All Hands (e.g., SAPR-Stand Down) adequately addressing any identified deficiencies.

Command's SAPR Point of Contact binders are constantly updated with training, General Military Training, qualifications and muster reports for training attendance. Assessments are sent to both Navy and Marine Corps Chain of Command. The following best practices were utilized to achieve the end state of incorporating responsive, meaningful, and accurate systems of measurement and evaluation:

- Sexual assault and prevention surveys were promoted in commands to provide feedback in regards to the program currently in place.
- SAPR program was also targeted for assessment annually using the Manager's Internal Control Program.
- Command SAPR team received base statistics at monthly base meetings with the SARC and tracks current trends.
- POCs and data analysis stayed current with information from base SARC providing an accurate input and feedback to measure effectiveness for training and support.
- Commands focused on training and prevention. Monthly SAPR training numbers were pushed to SARCs for tracking purposes.
- Service members were encouraged to participate in the 2013 DoN Sexual Assault survey to provide accurate metrics.

- The base SARC provided training to the SAPR POCs, any questions or concerns about the program are addressed. A SAPR “Commanders Toolkit” is provided to all the SAPR POCs for guidelines.

Proper reporting of sexual assault, per victim desires, was critical to a meaningful and accurate measurement of the success of this program. Commands provide reports via naval message, the SARC organization, and electronic data call in accordance with guidance. Additionally, commands coordinate proper reporting via the Navy JAG and NCIS organizations.

5.2 Describe oversight activities during FY13 that assess the SAPR program effectiveness. Include frequency, methods used, findings and recommendations, corrective action taken (e.g., program management review and Inspector General inspections), and other activities. Include documentation of published reports in appendix.

U.S. Navy

CNIC HQ continuously reviews the SAPR Program through the Regional SARCs, to include monthly monitoring of DSAID data entry, monthly monitoring of 24/7 on-call installation response, and monthly verification of all 24/7 Navy first responder numbers for DoD Safe Helpline. Corrective actions in DSAID are addressed through tasking and SARCs are provided 1-2 weeks to address any errors in the system depending on programming issues. Any findings with the 24/7 response system that requires corrective action are addressed immediately and results are typically provided within four hours.

Regions report participation in the ESCs service to also support oversight activities and assess the SAPR program effectiveness. Participation by Installation Commanders, SARCs, and other stakeholders allows an opportunity to review installation reports, sub-committee reports on LOE efforts, and special interest programs. Additional Regional practices include:

- Commander Navy Region Japan’s (CNRJ) SAPR program is reviewed on a continuous basis by the Region, to include the monitoring of SITREPS, DSAID, and ensuring call-on SAPR VAs can be contacted via telephone 24/7 as required.
- CNRMA program management staff attended a cross section of SACMG meetings, observed trends, and identified issues. One outcome was the development of SACMG standard operating procedure (SOP) to standardize the SACMG process and ensure it is aligned with requirements.
- On a weekly basis, CNRMA Regional Operations Center tests phone response by SARCs and SAPR VAs to ensure they comply with required timelines. The RSARC followed up with installations on all negative reports, identified trends, and ensured corrective actions were taken.
- CNRNW FFSC created and distributed a Command Readiness Checklist inclusive of all FFSP programs. The checklist offers commands the opportunity to complete a self-evaluation to determine readiness in regards to SAPR. The Installation SARCs complete informal reviews with command leadership at command request.

In FY13, Naval Education and Training Command (NETC) conducted a review of SAPR processes, resulting in discrepancies being identified and addressed. Corrective actions were made by SAPR PMs. Training is consistently monitored throughout the domain to ensure training effectiveness. Additionally, surveys are administered after “Sex Signals” and “After Burner” trainings to measure training effectiveness.

BUMED developed a sexual assault database that tracks all unrestricted reported sexual assault cases. Data is entered into the system daily and validated by BUMED for accuracy and compliance. In addition to sexual assault data, BUMED is tracking all SITREP data that requires a SITREP to include: DUIs, suicide, EO complaints, arrests, and FAP to analyze trends by command, region, and location.

- Through daily case management, BUMED communicates with commands regarding sexual assault cases and identifies if there is a correlation of the reported incident with other 21st Century Sailor Office programs.
- FFRs are conducted within 30 days of the reported sexual assault incident which assist the commander in identifying trends, environmental factors, and sharing best practices with senior leadership.
- Monthly SAPR/SAFE training and Town Hall meetings are conducted with all BUMED commands by region. BUMED SAPRO and SAFE Program Managers (PMs) attend these meetings and answer all pertinent policy questions regarding implementation.
- The BUMED SAPRO/SAFE PMs have coordinated with the BUMED IG team to revise the SAPR IG checklist, respond to requests for information (RFIs) when requested, and review administrative requirements through SITREP reporting.

The SAPR program went through several oversight activities to include SAPR Stand down, Regional IG inspection, and the credentialing process. The Stand down consisted of visual workplace inspections, SARC and SAPR VA recertification, revalidation, and civilian SAPR training. Commands (particularly Regions) executed oversight of the SAPR Program through the development of program guidance standards, trainings, and resources for survivor care and support. Implementation and quality assurance were under the purview of CNIC regional and installation Commanders. Compliance with guidance and policy are reviewed regularly through a robust FFSC accreditation process.

- The Commander’s Checklist for SAPR includes all of the essential elements for meeting command program requirements and for ensuring effective command prevention and response to sexual assault incidents. Following the guidelines of this checklist ensures commanders address all areas and provide a timely and sensitive response to each incident of sexual assault.
- At CNFK/CNRK, the SARC assessed SAPR program effectiveness in this year’s Manager's Internal Control (MIC) Plan. This plan captured the organization's approach to implementing an effective internal control program. For the SAPR program; mission, strategic plans, organizational structure, control activities, information and communications management, and monitoring activities were detailed. Accomplishments and corrective actions were also documented. The CNRK SAPR program was found to be in compliance with requirements set forth in OPNAVINST 1752.1B (enclosure (7), Appendix A).

USFF established a SAPR Executive Steering Committee Task Force led by the Commander and composed of fellow Echelon II Commanders and subordinate Echelon III Commanders in the LANTFLT AOR. This body meets quarterly to review the work of five established trans-regional working groups focused on each Line of Effort as laid out by the DoD's SAPR Strategic Plan. The trans-regional working groups meet at least monthly, with each Line of Effort meeting bi-weekly.

- USFF conducted an annual Fleet-wide review of Command Climate Survey compliance.
- USFF IG includes the SAPR Program Manager on all ECH III and Direct Reporter inspections.

Navy Reserve Forces

- NAVRESFOR Echelon III, IV, and V SAPR command programs are assessed on a triennial basis as a function of the Command Assessment Program, executed by the CNRF IG.
- Commanders, COs and OICs take appropriate actions to address areas of concern highlighted during the assessment process. Assessed commands provide a progress report to their ISIC on the status of each identified area of concern.
- FY13 areas of concern at Echelon IV commands are provided as an example of findings and corrective actions in CNRF 4 (enclosure (8), Appendix A).

U.S. Navy

There were no DTF-SAMS recommendations in FY13. However, in FY13 GAO did make recommendations to the DoD to take steps to improve compliance with first responders in completing annual refresher training on sexual assault prevention and response. CNIC HQ and BUMED have met these recommendations by updating the training requirements and strictly implementing the DoD Sexual Assault Advocate Certification Program (D-SAACP) credentialing process for the SARCs and SAPR VAs and increasing the availability of SAFE capability at 24/7 MTFs and aboard ships.

In 2011, the GAO recommended the following; DoD develop a standard procedure for sexual assault investigations, DoD develop an evaluation process for MCIO investigations, and the MCIOs leverage the newly constructed joint MCIO facility in Quantico, VA to increase communication and sharing of resources between the MCIOs.

Subsequently, DoD IG released DoDI 5505.18 which established baseline standards for sexual assault investigations. NCIS is compliant with all elements of the 5505.18. Additionally, the DoD IG initiated a case review project of MCIO sexual assault investigations. NCIS cooperated with the DoD IG project and has responded to the findings. Finally, NCIS has entered a joint training relationship with USACID wherein NCIS and USACID personnel receive advanced sexual assault investigation training together. The joint training efficiently utilizes training sites and instructors. The joint facility has also contributed to an MCIO working group focused on basic and periodic training efficiencies in addition to the joint advanced training. Further, the joint facility has fostered communication and cooperation between the MCIOs on high profile projects such as the ongoing Response Systems Panel. NCIS has benefitted from collocating and the resulting improved relationships with USACID and AFOSI.

5.4 Describe your efforts to ensure integrity of data collected in the Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database.

U.S. Navy

SECNAVINST 1752.4B directs the use of DSAID as the primary system of recording reported incidents of sexual assaults for the Navy. Effective FY14, SARCs must enter information related to reported sexual assaults into DSAID within 48 hours of the initial report. In deployed locations that have internet connectivity issues, the timeframe is extended to 96 hours. Only SARCs who have, at a minimum, a favorable National Agency Check (NAC) are permitted access to enter sexual assault reports into DSAID. SARCs must also maintain in DSAID an account of the services referred to and requested by the victim for all reported sexual assault incidents, from medical treatment through counseling, and from the time of the initial report of a sexual assault through the final case disposition or until the victim no longer desires services.

Commanders are required to provide reports of disposition of sexual assault cases to NCIS, who is responsible for providing the results of investigation for upload into DSAID.

5.5 Describe any measures your Service or Component has established to assess and manage your SAPR program. If you have begun assessing your program based on these measures, describe your findings thus far and actions taken.

U.S. Navy

Navy's fundamental means to measure the success of its SAPR Program is through an annual survey of Navy service members. Surveys are conducted by the DOD on even years and by the DON's SAPRO in odd calendar years. Surveys utilize a series of standard questions to measure the incidence of sexual assault over the previous 12 months. These survey results are compared to actual reports of sexual assault (restricted and unrestricted) to assess service member confidence in the system and willingness to report. Other metrics also include the timeline from report to investigation completion to adjudication to ensure system responsiveness, Commander accountability through command climate surveys, and the First Flag Officer 30-day Report process. The First Flag Report process requires any CO with a victim or alleged offender conduct a face-to-face discussion with the first Flag Officer in his/her chain of command to review potential root causes and key enablers to sexual assault. Navy also measures system responsiveness through feedback from SARCs, SAPR VAs, Victim's Legal Counsels and victims themselves. Together, these metrics are reviewed quarterly by Navy senior leadership to ensure adjustment to the SAPR program.

The biennial DoD Workplace Gender Relations for Active Duty (WGRA) survey provides insight and feedback on, among other things, unwanted sexual contact and unwanted gender-related behavior. The analysis of the survey results informs Navy training, policy and practices. The SAPR portion of the DEOCS includes several SAPR questions, two of which measure the effectiveness of BI training.

The first question is situation based and asks respondents to indicate which action they would take if in a given situation. The second question presents respondents with a scenario and asks at which point they would most likely intervene if they were witnessing an escalating situation. The responses to these questions indicate the climate of the command regarding propensity to intervene. Command-wide visual inspections are being conducted by leaders on an ongoing basis across the Navy to ensure offensive and sexually suggestive media are not present in the workplace. The effectiveness of this policy will be measured by incidents reported where any prohibited material is found since implementation of this policy (ALNAV 038/13 of 7JUN13).

In April 2013, COMNAVRESFOR Navy Reserve Force established a permanent billet for a dedicated SAPR program manager in the grade of O-4, who reports directly to the Commander. Having this officer in place has greatly improved our ability to provide oversight and closer management of the SAPR program in the Reserve Component.

Additionally, metrics and details pertaining to reported sexual assaults (demographics, type of incident, case specifics) are continually collected, tracked and analyzed across the Fleet to inform policy and procedures for preventing and responding to sexual assault within Navy.

5.6 Provide a summary of your research and data collection activities conducted in FY13. Include documentation in the appendix.

U.S. Navy

The Navy's 2013 SAPR Quick Poll (enclosure (9,) Appendix A) was conducted from 22 April to 31 May 2013 to measure the effectiveness of the SAPR training, awareness of how to report a SA, and the different reporting options, perceptions of leadership's role in tolerating and impeding reporting, and barriers to reporting. Key findings (enclosure (10,) Appendix A) included:

- SAPR L/F training was very well accepted (over 80%) and increased awareness of the problem and appropriate preventative measures (i.e., BI) in 80% of Enlisted and 75% of Officers.
- 94% of Enlisted and over 90% of Officers know who the SAPR POC and Victim Advocate are at their command.
- Over 85% said that SA training is taken seriously at their command.
- 90% know what to do if they or a friend were sexually assaulted.
- 80% indicated that if assaulted, they would likely report the SA to Navy authorities.
- Over 90% of Enlisted and 95% of Officers report knowing what actions are considered sexual assault (SA).
- Over 91% correctly identified the difference between restricted and unrestricted reporting.

Starting July 1, 2012, the Navy initiated the DOD-led phased transition to the data collection tool (DSAID) for all SAPR case data. Key SAPR Program stakeholders simultaneously managed the data collection and system capability to ensure data entry protocols for SARCs and data transport procedures for NCIS were synchronized and effective to facilitate trend analysis. To fulfill a Congressional mandate for a single case-tracking system, the Case Management System (CMS), used by the Marine Corps since 2010, was adopted to track military justice cases in both the Navy and the Marine Corps. Starting July 1, 2013, the Navy underwent a phased transition, with new military justice cases being tracked using CMS while cases that are already entered into the Navy's existing Court-Martial Tracking and Information System continued tracking within that system for a period of time. On 1 October 2013, the Navy completely transitioned to the single DoN Case Management System to manage the military cases at the trial and appellate levels and maintain complete accountability for all cases.

5.6.1 Describe your efforts to develop and harmonize sexual assault focused survey efforts to align with DoD and other Services.

U.S. Navy

In collaboration with DOD SAPRO and other Services, Navy worked to harmonize and align sexual assault focused survey efforts with DoD strategies through use of standardized surveys such as DEOCS on an ongoing basis throughout the year.

SAPR Quick Polls are conducted by the Navy Personnel Research, Studies, and Technology (NPRST) to query Sailors on current DoD and Navy SAPR related issues identified through close work and collaboration. Navy leadership encourages maximum participation. The 2013 SAPR Quick Poll was conducted from April to May 2013.

5.7 Describe your plans for FY14 that pertain to effectively standardizing, measuring, analyzing, assessing, and reporting program progress.

U.S. Navy

The Chief of Staff - Region Legal Service Offices and the Director, Trial Counsel Assistance Program (TCAP) receive weekly updates on all special victims' cases through a standardized report of high-visibility cases. Weekly meetings are held to discuss upcoming case events and identify issues. TCAP staff regularly use the weekly reports to identify trends across prosecution regions and to spot complex issues that provide opportunity for outreach and support to trial counsel worldwide. Additionally, trial counsel provide monthly case descriptions on completed courts-martial involving adult sexual assault allegations including lessons learned and case summaries of all completed Special and General Courts-martial.

The Naval Justice School continues to offer numerous courses and standardized training to judge advocates and senior officers from the Fleet that cover sexual assault related topics. By offering standardized training, the Navy ensures students are properly and adequately trained.

CNIC HQ will continue to gather information and data from the Regions to identify gaps and areas of improvement. Additionally, CNIC HQ SAPRO plans to survey the SARCs to identify and assess areas of program improvement. Lastly, CNIC HQ is collaborating with N17 and other stakeholders on standardizing SAPR metrics to properly assess trends and program effectiveness.

Commands continually monitor command climate through surveys and Command Assessment Team engagement. This provides some measure of program progress. Staff and students will continue to be trained on current procedures and policies involving the reporting and disposition of sexual assault cases and the overall SAPR program with DoD or service updates. Based on assessment information, revisions will be made to command instructions in FY14 to effectively standardize and update the SAPR program across Navy.

In FY14, all chaplains will report SAPR metrics in the Navy Chaplaincy Ministry Support Tool (NCMST) following the same criteria and reporting procedures. Queries will be developed in NCMST to measure the performance and effectiveness of pastoral response to sexual assault.

BUMED has developed an internal sexual assault tracker to analyze sexual assault data in support of both prevention and response programs. They are currently sharing their database, templates, and best practices with other Navy Echelon II commands to collaborate and better understand data requirements. In alignment with DoD requirements, BUMED is working towards a Navy management tool that tracks unrestricted reported sexual assaults. They will continue to collaborate with installation and regional commanders regardless of service to identify trends and best practices in support of the sexual assault program and establish a budget for SAPRO/SAFE to conduct site visits to support SAPR/SAFE program implementation and ensure command coordinators are fully aware of the resources available to them and are in compliance with regulations.

Naval commands will continue meetings, briefs and discussion to ensure appropriate execution of program requirements and initiatives. Additionally, commands will evolve in training trends from indoctrination to permanent change of station for correlations between awareness and reporting statistics. Navy will continue to build on FY13 efforts in FY14 to reinforce established program objectives and initiatives (e.g., First Flag Officer Reports); make improvements based on lessons learned and best practices; and focus on specific avenues in improving prevention and response.

CNRF provides consolidated reports on a quarterly and annual basis to the CNO and works closely with USFF, CPF, and CNIC to synchronize reporting and subsequent assessment of program progress with the Active Component. CNRF participates as a member of the SAPR Task Force Trans-Regional Subcommittee for Assessments, seeking to effectively standardize, measure, analyze and assess program progress.

6. Overarching Tenet: Communication and Policy

6.1 Summarize your Service or Component's efforts to synchronize and standardize the SAPR program across the Joint Force (from Joint/Service basing to forward stationed deployed units worldwide).

U.S. Navy

Navy utilizes DoD and DoN instructions, directives and initiatives as the foundation for Navy-specific SAPR policies, ensuring synchronization across the Joint Force.

- Commander Naval Forces Korea (CNFK) is a member of the US Forces Korea (USFK) Sexual Assault Task Force, an organization that seeks to:
  - Identify and analyze sexual assault trends, review successful prevention practices, assess best victim support models and eliminate sexual assaults within USFK.
  - Develop prevention strategies and increase awareness and education in response capabilities, reporting procedures, and victim support.

During FY13, Regions engaged in ongoing collaborations with other Service SAPR Programs to address Joint Service SAPR Program issues and concerns. Additionally, CNIC HQ, as well as the Regions, collaborated and coordinated SAPR Program issues with USFF and CPF to ensure continuity of the SAPR Program across Navy. The release of the new DoDI 6495.02 helped close a gap and established that the service Installation SARC is the lead SARC and established protocols as to victim response and case management. This has further helped to facilitate communication especially as it relates to participation in the case management review and ensuring there is appropriate representation for the victim. As CNIC HQ, Regional SARCs, and Installation SARCs continue to work within this new policy, efforts will be further synchronized and standardized to ensure that cases in Joint environments are appropriately supported and reviewed.

6.2 Describe your efforts to post and widely disseminate sexual assault information (e.g., hotline phone numbers and internet websites) to Service members, eligible dependents, and civilian personnel of the DoD.

U.S. Navy

Navy diligently and consistently posts and disseminates sexual assault information in a variety of ways so that the information is accessible and available to as many people as possible. Common best practices are as follows:

- Ongoing, audience focused training
- Posters/information in high traffic areas on bases and in command spaces
- SAPR notes and information published in POWs
- Use of social media (Twitter, Command Facebook accounts, websites)
- Monthly publication of Courts-Martial results
- Articles in base newspapers
- PSAs

Examples of specific best practices

- VLC program utilizes numerous avenues:
  - Outreach to SARCs, SAPR VAs, SJAs, TCs, NCIS, and local commands
  - VLC participate in local sexual assault awareness briefings to publicize their services
- CNIC HQ webpage provides:
  - Sexual assault prevention and response information to victims, bystanders, friends/family, and command
  - Victims with an understanding of the program's crisis response services, including an explanation of the different reporting options
  - Bystanders with tools to prevent sexual assault and information on available services to victims
  - Commanders with information on their responsibilities to create a climate of prevention
  - Information on the DoD Safe Helpline
- Navy installations
  - SARCs provide sexual assault prevention tips, statistics, and sexual assault facts on Installation Facebook and Twitter sites
  - Incorporate information on reporting options into all SAPR-related briefs
  - SARC engagement with Ombudsman and FRG teams to pass support

- message to beneficiaries
  - SARCs provide briefs at pre-deployment nights with commands to reach spouses and other adult beneficiaries
- CNRMA PNS
  - Digital Signs at both gate entrances with DoD Safe Helpline information, 24/7 SAPR VA response numbers
  - SAPR training is advertised in the monthly MWR publication
- CNRF continues in to ensure a strong and unified message is being sent by:
  - Personal videos by Chief of the Navy and Reserve Force Master Chief, emphasizing policy and expectations
  - CNRFC blog post on “Taking a Stand Against Sexual Assault”
  - The Navy Reservist magazine full back cover highlighting SAPR program in July 2013 edition
  - CNRF IG inspects availability and visibility of SAPR information at every Echelon IV and V visit
- Regions
  - Regional Focus Groups
  - “SAPR boards” are posted in multiple locations with photos and personal contact information for members of the team as well as reporting option guidelines and optional reporting contact information
  - At some commands, a BLOG website has been established for all personnel to voice concerns, opinions, and personal experiences regarding sexual assault. The Blog allows personnel to remain anonymous with they choose.
- NETC
  - Squadron read boards are routinely screened and updated with information containing Unit Victim Advocates and hotlines are available in student common areas
  - Cards for the 24-hour Safe Helpline are issued during the command indoctrination
  - The most current information is kept on the command SAPR information board
  - SAPR is discussed at weekly safety briefs
  - Command spaces have customized posters with hotline phone numbers and internet websites and photos of all Command SAPR VAs
  - For all SAPR training, team members distribute information by visual aid (i.e., posters, flyers, information boards) and multi-media resources (i.e., Smart Phone Applications, YouTube Videos: BI- “Who Are You?”)
  - Information is continually reinforced through use of personal one on one interaction between staff and students during school indoctrination period
  - “HELP” wallet cards with the appropriate websites for SAPR information, 24/7 SAPR Base contact numbers for SARC and SAPR VAs along with other useful telephone numbers such as the quarterdeck number

- Pacific Fleet
  - Joint Region Marianas (JRM): all sexual assault hotline and contact numbers are distributed around the bases in the restroom facilities. The info is also seen on the JRM television channel, FFSC online websites, pocket-sized cards with point of contact information for distribution, marketing advertisements, emails, and word of mouth.
  - SARCs speak at monthly Command Duty Officer (CDO) meetings to inform CDOs of procedures and resources in case they receive a call concerning sexual assault
  - SAPR Drumbeat Meetings were held to increase proactive Senior Leadership involvement
  - Increased training on Liberty policies and how they relate to sexual assault prevention

- BUMED
  - Sexual assault procedures are posted on BUMED'S Sharepoint website, each command's website's, computer desktops, common areas, and information areas
  - DoD SAFE Helpline key chains have been sent to commands and handed out at indoctrination training

- USS RONALD REAGAN (CVN 76)
  - Created posters that include pictures of all 19 of their SAPR VAs, Chaplains, the ship's SARC and the ship's psychologist. Under each picture are the person's telephone number and the location of their work space.
  - Duty section watch bill has the duty SAPR representative at the top
  - List of all the SAPR VA's is posted in the duty section folder of Outlook.

- All Navy Reserve commands are required to post a DoD Safe Helpline button on their command home web page. This button is an active link to the DoD Safe Helpline web site. Nearest Duty SAPR VA and SARC telephone numbers are listed below the button for local access to information and assistance. Presence and functionality of the button as well as accuracy of the listed phone numbers are audited monthly by the cognizant Echelon IV command and quarterly by the Echelon III command.

6.3 Describe your development and implementation of specialized medical and mental health care policy for sexual assault victims. Include a copy of your implementation plan in the appendix.

U.S. Navy

Medical care is covered under the outlined victim care protocols developed per BUMEDINST 6310.11A. Patients are referred for mental health services as outlined; however, Health Affairs is reviewing to develop a more specialized treatment plan.

Regions have reported the following practices in support of medical and mental health policies in place within their AORs:

- CNRMA Regional SARC Program Manager is collaborating with Regional CAP Program Manager to research and develop a clinical therapeutic group for victims of sexual assault. The group will provide clinical group therapy to victims who continue to suffer trauma symptoms after their cases have been through the legal process, dispositions determined, and cases closed. Victims who chose restricted or unrestricted reporting options can be screened for acceptance to this group. CNRMA is also coordinating referrals to a non-clinical support group for sexual assault victims, being provided by Naval Medical Center Portsmouth.
- CNRMW SARCs and SAPR VAs will offer office hours at a Recruit Training Command Medical Facility so that victims who disclose sexual assault to medical providers will be able to speak to an advocate and can be directed to counseling services as necessary.
- MTF's have algorithm process in place for hospital staff to follow in the event a sexual assault victim requires treatment.
- Referrals are made to provide victims of sexual assault and Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) specialized mental health treatment at Veteran Centers, especially in remote areas.
- SARCs work with MTFs SAFE Coordinators to provide SAPR training.
- Development of sexual assault support groups for men and women.

6.4 Describe your efforts to review, revise, update, and issue policy pertaining to:

- The record of dispositions of unrestricted reports.
- General education for correction of military records when victims experience retaliation.

U.S. Navy

Per Navy's SAPR policy (SECNAVINST 1752.4B; enclosure (1,) Appendix A), retaliation or reprisal against any person, or their family and friends for bringing forward a complaint, cooperating in the investigation of a complaint, or participating in the discipline process for an alleged violation of this policy will not be tolerated. Reprisals are prohibited regardless of who originates the reprisal action. SAPR VAs and SARCs are required to advise victims of their rights and options for reporting retaliatory actions, to include facilitating access to additional resources such as VLC.

Additionally, sexual assault victims who elect to use the services of a VLC are notified in writing that there may be additional legal rights implicated in their case which the attorney will discuss with them during the course of their attorney-client relationship. Clients who experience retaliatory personnel action for making a report of sexual assault or harassment will be advised by their VLC of their right to seek redress via a personal meeting with their Commanding Officer, submission of a written statement rebutting an Enlisted Evaluation or a Fitness Report, an article 1150, U.S. Navy Regulations (1990) Complaint of Wrongs against a superior who is not the service member's commanding officer, an Article 138, UCMJ Complaint of Wrongs if the wrong was committed by the service member's commanding officer, and a hotline complaint to the Inspector General.

When the alleged perpetrator is the commander or in the victim's chain of command, victims may elect to inform someone outside of the chain of command to report the offense, including to NCIS, another command, other commanding officers or an Inspector General, or other law enforcement officials. Victims can also seek assistance from the DoD Safe Helpline and consult with legal assistance counsel. They are referred to the VWAP Coordinator to ensure they are provided information concerning the prosecution in accordance with VWAP procedures.

Applications for correction of military records when a Service member experiences any retaliatory personnel action for making a report of sexual assault are submitted in accordance with SECNAVINST 5420.193, Board for Correction of Naval Records (BCNR) (enclosure (11), Appendix A), the Military Personnel Manual (MPM), or the Reserve Personnel Manual (RPM). Current policy under MILPERSMAN 1910-010 (enclosure (12), Appendix A) about the correction of military records requires that information regarding the purpose and authority of the BCNR and the Naval Discharge Review Board (NDRB) to be provided in the form of a written fact sheet or similar document to each member being administratively processed, unless the sailor is immediately reenlisting. This section applies regardless if the member has experienced retaliation. Applications to BCNR for correction of naval records must be submitted on DD Form 149, Application for Correction of Military Record.

6.5 Describe your efforts to establish policy for General or Flag Officer review of and concurrence in adverse administrative actions and separation of victims making an Unrestricted Report of sexual assault in FY13.

U.S. Navy

Current policy contained in OPNAVINST 1752.1B and MILPERSMAN 1910-704 requires that Naval Personnel Command (NPC), a 2-star Admiral, review and approve any administrative separation of an enlisted active duty member who is the alleged victim of sexual assault. Similarly, SECNAVINST 1920.6C requires that all officer separations be reviewed by CNPC before being forwarded to ASN (M&RA) for approval. This would include any alleged sexual assault victims.

Navy is revising the Navy SAPR instruction (OPNAVINST 1752.1 series) to include policy and procedures for Flag Officer review of the circumstances of, and grounds for, the proposed involuntary separation of active duty sexual assault victims within one year of an Unrestricted Report being made. To facilitate dissemination, new policy will also be released via naval message.

6.6 Describe your plans for FY14 that pertain to synchronizing and standardizing the SAPR program across the Joint Force (from Joint/Service basing to forward stationed and deployed units worldwide).

U.S. Navy

Navy will continue to adhere to DoD and DoN policies and initiatives as foundations for Navy-specific SAPR policies.

CNIC HQ will provide enhanced SARC and SAPR VA training in collaboration with other service SAPR programs to synchronize and standardize efforts.

NETC will continue to build on existing collaboration with stakeholders in the area of sexual assault to increase a climate of confidence with reporting sexual assaults across the services. SARCs from all branches of service have identified continued marketing of SAPR programs and facilitate ongoing education to raise service members' awareness about various reporting options for those training together in a joint environment. For example, Naval Air Station Pensacola, Florida, has all services represented. Whether soldier, sailor or marine, all services must work together to provide the basis and correct climate for the joint training command environment. In some instances, the Marine Corps continues to encourage formal collaboration through Memoranda of Understanding with the Navy to ensure victims receive proper delivery of service and support for victims.

COMPACFLT's commands operating in a Joint environment will continue growth with other Services within their respective Region for working relationships, sharing best practices, and effective communication on SAPR initiatives, training, and processes. In Korea, CNFK/CNRK will continue to collaborate with USFK via the USFK Sexual Assault Task Force.

- This Task Force will review and make recommendations to policies, procedures, and command guidance for the USFK SAPR Program.
- Focus will be on prevention, mitigating strategies, policies, and regulatory guidance.
- Task Force guidance will provide recommendations for the minimum requirements all leaders must follow, implement, and monitor within their areas of responsibility.

7.1 Enhancing Commander Accountability—Describe your efforts thus far to develop methods to assess the performance of military commanders in establishing command climates of dignity and respect and incorporating SAPR prevention and victim care principles in their commands, and hold them accountable.

U.S. Navy

The Navy continues to evaluate the tools commanders are provided to ensure they can execute their charge of command and establish environments where sexual assault and other inappropriate behaviors are not tolerated. In particular, Navy is focused on improving the development of leadership and character in our leaders on their way to command. Today, all of our leaders complete high quality, tailored training on sexual assault prevention and response. This training is designed to help leaders identify factors and the kind of environment that contributes to sexual harassment or sexual assault, and understand response requirements when a sexual assault occurs.

While tailored to sexual assault prevention and response, this training is not enough to fully prepare commanders to create an appropriate command climate. The Navy recently instituted a concerted leader development program to guide young officers and enlisted personnel to be effective commanders and senior enlisted leaders. Over the next year, we will advance this program as a cornerstone of our training for future commanders and SEA/SELs and leaders. Due to the inherent responsibility of our commanders, our screening processes to select them are rigorous. They include:

- a formal, command qualification program reviewed and approved by each community Flag Officer leader (normally, a Vice Admiral)
- professional qualification standards for each selected commander
- an oral qualification board for each candidate in front of former commanders
- a command screen board, led by Flag Officers
- full training, and acknowledgement of, the “Charge of Command”

Despite the rigors of the selection and training process, Navy inevitably has failures and must hold commanders accountable for their command climate, their efforts to maintain a safe work environment of dignity and respect, and the good order and discipline of their commands. Today, Navy do this by requiring commanders to assess their organizational climate at regular intervals, while requiring those with multiple commands under their leadership to monitor the climates of subordinate commands. Navy also evaluate our commanders (and all officers) in their regular fitness reports (performance evaluations used for determination of advancement) in three areas: Command Climate/Equal Opportunity, leadership, and in written summary, where documentation of poor command climates would be listed.

Commanders are held responsible and accountable when they do not meet acceptable standards. There are 1,254 command positions in the Navy. In calendar year 2012, Navy relieved 11 commanders for personal misconduct and eight commanders were relieved for failure to provide effective leadership; four of these eight were relieved for poor command climate. Statistics for 2013 are still being compiled.

As part of the Navy’s accountability process, commanders are required to brief their respective ISIC and the first Flag Officer in the chain of command on each sexual assault incident occurring in their command. As part of that brief, commanders evaluate the command climate of the suspect’s command, as well as the factors surrounding the sexual assault, such as location and environment surrounding the incident, demographics, and the role of alcohol. Means to prevent further incidents are discussed.

Our Navy four-star Flag Officers reinforce accountability for command climate by reviewing these “first flag” reports each quarter, including trends, demographics, common features and environments and best practices to prevent sexual assaults. Navy apply the insights from the reports to adjust emphasis within our SAPR Program. Empowering our commanders while holding them accountable for identifying and implementing change is critical to changing the climate in the Navy and ensuring we successfully and appropriately prevent and respond to sexual assault across the force. A series of instructions and other guidance govern specific accountability measures regarding Sexual Assault prevention and response. Summaries are provided below.

Per Navy’s current instruction (OPNAVINST 1752.1 series), Commanders and COs will implement and support the SAPR program through prevention education using the standardized DoD definitions promulgated for training and education purposes; provide the safest possible physical and emotional Navy environment; and institute and publicize a means of informing the chain of command of situations which may place individuals at risk of sexual assault and provide feedback concerning the final disposition of suggestions and complaints. Additionally, they will ensure the following:

- Swift, sensitive and fair response to sexual assault allegations, and when appropriate, prosecution of sexual assault cases;
- All allegations of sexual assault within their ranks are referred, as soon as possible, to NCIS;
- Disposition of sexual assault incidents in the most serious cases is reserved for commanders (O-6 and above) with a minimum of special courts-martial convening authority, ensuring a consistent response to alleged sexual assault; and all unrestricted reports of alleged sexual assault that involve victims and alleged offenders who are family members, active duty members, or RC personnel on active duty are reported regardless of the military affiliation of the victim or alleged offender. Reports of allegations of active duty members of another Service assigned to a Navy command, regardless of location are also required.

The following policy documents have been written to assess the performance of military commanders in establishing command climates of dignity and respect and incorporating SAPR prevention and victim care principles in their commands, and holding them accountable:

- MILPERSMAN 1910-142 - SEPARATION BY REASON OF MISCONDUCT - COMMISSION OF A SERIOUS OFFENSE
Direct processing is mandatory for sexual misconduct - rape, sexual assault, stalking, forcible sodomy, child sexual abuse, possession or distribution of child pornography, incestuous relationships, or any sexual misconduct.

- NAVADMIN 272/12 - OPNAVINST 3100.6J URGENT CHANGE 3. Directs that COs directly report their assessment in person to the first Flag Officer in the chain of command within 30 days of receiving a report of sexual assault. The first Flag Officer will be responsible for tracking all sexual assault offenses under their cognizance.
- ALNAV 038/13 - DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY COMPREHENSIVE VISUAL INSPECTION OF ALL DON WORKPLACES
Required that all DON Commanders, Commanding Officers, Officers in Charge, and civilian directors direct comprehensive and regular inspections of all workplaces and common access spaces under their control for materials to affect the removal of material that a reasonable person would consider degrading or offensive and document any material discovered during the course of workplace inspections. They also remain responsible and accountable for ensuring compliance with this ALNAV, and must provide clear guidance and intent to those members delegated authority to conduct inspections.
- NAVADMIN 158/13 - GUIDANCE FOR SEXUAL ASSAULT PREVENTION AND RESPONSE STAND-DOWN
Directed Commander Engagement All Hands training and reporting by 1 July 2013 for the active duty component and NLT 22 July 2013 for the Reserve component and deployed personnel.
- NAVADMIN 181/13 - IMPLEMENTATION OF NAVY SEXUAL ASSAULT PREVENTION AND RESPONSE PROGRAM INITIATIVES
All Commanding Officers were directed to take the following actions:
  - Review their compliance with the Navy Equal Opportunity Policy (OPNAVINST 5354.1F, CH-1) and ensure command climate surveys are conducted within 90 days of the CO assuming command, and annually thereafter.
  - If not already completed, conduct a face-to-face debrief of their most recent command climate assessment with their ISIC using the Defense Equal Opportunity Management Institute Organizational Climate Survey, to include a plan of action and milestones for corrective actions. ISICs will certify completion via their administrative chain of command.
  - Use the Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Commander's Guide in shaping their command program.
  - Along with the XO and Command Master Chief, complete the SARC Commander's Toolkit brief with the regional or installation SARC and report completion to their ISIC.
  - Review command policies to ensure adherence to requirements regarding the submission of OPREPs/Unit SITREPs and Sexual Assault Incident Data Collection Reports (NAVPERS Form 1752/1).

- NAVADMIN 216/13 - NAVY PERFORMANCE EVALUATION CHANGES
Provided guidance on evaluating performance in two areas: Command or Organizational Climate/Equal Opportunity and Military Bearing/Character. These changes should be viewed as complementary and synchronized with the command climate survey outcomes provided to commanding officers and immediate superiors in command. To achieve high marks in these areas, Sailors must demonstrate how they have cultivated or maintained command climates where improper discrimination of any kind, sexual harassment, sexual assault, hazing, and other inappropriate conduct is not tolerated; where All Hands are treated with dignity and respect; and where professionalism is the norm.

The process for evaluating the performance of Flag Officers differs from that used for officers in the grades of O-6 and below. However, all Flag officers are required to demonstrate they have created or maintained command climates where discrimination of any kind, including sexual harassment, sexual assault, hazing, and other inappropriate conduct is not tolerated. Further, Flag officers must demonstrate they have created or maintained a command climate where all hands are treated with dignity and respect; and where professionalism is the norm. Their annual command climate survey results are fully discussed with the next senior Flag officer in their chain of command to ensure full disclosure.

- Navy O-7 Flag officers receive written fitness reports and the guidance for completing those reports was recently modified to specifically address cultivation of command climate.
- Flag officers in the pay grades of O-8 to O-10 do not receive written fitness reports. Instead, the CNO evaluates their performance through observation and consultation with his other four star Flag officers. Additionally, quarterly SAPR meetings provide an opportunity to evaluate trends across the Fleet and identify where Flag officer leadership is having positive or negative impacts.
- The CNO nominates O-8 Flag officers to positions at the O-9 and O-10 level based on their performance along several variables including their ability to execute guidance with regard to command climate.

7.2 Improving Response and Victim Treatment—Describe your efforts thus far to implement and monitor methods to improve victim treatment by their peers, co-workers, and chains of command.

U.S. Navy

Any threat to life or safety of a service member shall be immediately reported to the command and DoD law enforcement authorities. The unit-level CO is directly responsible to ensure all Navy service members are treated with dignity and respect and can work in a safe, professional environment. A request to expeditiously transfer a victim of sexual assault will be handled in accordance with established Navy regulations (e.g., safety transfer, expedited transfer).

Service members who file an unrestricted report of sexual assault may initiate a request for transfer from their assigned command or installation, or to a different location within their assigned command or installation and submit the request to their COs. The CO must approve or disapprove the service member's request within 72 hours of its receipt based on a determination that the report of sexual assault is credible. If the Service member's transfer request is disapproved by the CO, the request is reviewed by the first Flag Officer in the chain of command of the member, or an SES equivalent (if applicable) who must make a final decision to approve or disapprove the request for transfer within 72 hours. If approved, every reasonable effort to minimize disruption to the normal career progression of a service member who reports that he or she is a victim of a sexual assault will be made. Potential transfer of the alleged offender instead of the service member is also considered.

Victims also have the opportunity to go outside the chain of command to report the offense when the alleged perpetrator is the commander or in the victim's chain of command, including to NCIS, another command, other COs or an Inspector General, or other law enforcement officials.

Victims can also report and seek assistance from the DoD Safe Helpline and consult with legal assistance counsel. They are referred to the VWAP personnel to ensure they are provided information concerning the prosecution in accordance with VWAP procedures.

The Navy uses a variety of measures to ensure victims are safe from reprisal.

- SAPR VAs are trained to recognize reprisal and retaliation actions against the victim; on procedures for responding to reprisal actions and their immediate reporting to the SARC and the VWAP; and on safety planning to include how to prevent retaliation or reprisal actions against the victim.
- COs receive detailed training on SAPR and their personal accountability for the security, safety, and wellbeing of the personnel in their unit. Their command climate is measured within the first 90 days of their command and annual thereafter through a command climate survey. Survey results are then reviewed in detail by their ISIC to identify areas of improvement. This then allows both the CO and his/her superior to be fully aware of any command climate issues that could allow reprisal directly or indirectly and take appropriate action. Further, COs with sexual assault victims meet regularly with their base SACMG. This venue and individual consultation with victim care representatives such as the SARCs, SAPR VAs, and regional Victim's Legal Counsel provide feedback to the CO on key victim support issues.

Per SECNAVINST 1752.4B (8AUG13) and DODI 5505.81 (JAN13), commanders must take every report of sexual assault seriously, immediately refer unrestricted reports to the NCIS for investigation, support investigative and criminal justice procedures that enable persons to be held appropriately accountable, and actively protect sexual assault victims from retaliation or re-victimization.

Some reported sexual assaults involve circumstances where the victim may have engaged in some form of misconduct (e.g., underage drinking or other related alcohol offenses, adultery, fraternization, or other violations of certain regulations or orders). Commanders have discretion to defer action on alleged collateral misconduct by the sexual assault victims until final disposition of the sexual assault case, taking into account the trauma to the victim and responding appropriately so as to encourage reporting of sexual assault and continued victim cooperation, while also bearing in mind any potential speedy trial and statute of limitations concerns.

Administrative separation actions involving service members who filed unrestricted reports of sexual assault are reviewed by a Flag Officer to ensure they receive full and fair consideration for their Military Service and determinations are consistent and appropriate, per SECNAVINST 1752.4B.

A victim who believes he/she is being retaliated against will be advised of services available via their VLC at the earliest stages of their professional relationship. Complaints of Wrong (1150/138) are specifically addressed in the Scope of Representation Letter signed by both the VLC and the client under the section dealing with Scope of Legal Services provided. Additionally, victims may call an IG hotline or seek the assistance of defense counsel in order to determine their options or pursue a complaint.

Service members who experience any retaliatory personnel action for making a report of sexual assault may also submit an application for correction of military records in accordance with SECNAVINST 5420.193 and the MILPERSMAN.

7.3 Ensuring Safety—Describe your efforts to improve the effectiveness of SAPR programs in recruiting organizations, Military Entrance Processing Stations, and the Reserve Officer Training Corps. These assessments will include: 1) the selection, SAPR training, and oversight of recruiters; 2) the dissemination of SAPR program information to potential and actual recruits; and 3) the prevention and education programs in ROTC environments and curricula.

U.S. Navy

Navy recruiters are carefully selected, trained, and overseen using a very formal and comprehensive screening program. A typical Navy Recruiter is a mid-level enlisted Non-Commissioned Officer (NCO), between 25-30 years of age, with five to ten years of military service. While some level of recruiter misconduct does occur, most cases involve common forms of alcohol-related incidents or personal financial matters, and allegations of sexual misconduct are rare. Recruiter oversight mechanisms are numerous. They repeatedly and consistently undergo scheduled and unscheduled inspections for procedural compliance and professionalism. Navy utilizes unannounced personal visits by Commanding Officers and others, including Flag Officers. Team-based inspection visits are also common. In addition, recruiters are not reluctant to police themselves and they report misbehavior of fellow recruiters.

Recruiters receive extensive SAPR training. NRC's Basic Student Professional Behavior Training has recently been revamped to include two extra hours of SAPR-focused training, based on the SAPR SD facilitation guide with a NRC-specific curriculum co-module. Additionally, there are 8 to 13 hours of specific behavior trainings consisting of reinforcement briefs, group discussions, NRC Leadership visits/discussions, and interactive workshops for case studies, role play, and testing of potential recruiters to ensure understanding and compliance with standards of conduct. Topics such as deglamorization of alcohol, fraternization, sexual harassment (SH), and sexual assault (SA) are covered intensely. In fact, SH/SA issues dominate with approximately eight hours of direct training.

Navy Recruiting Command is committed to fully manning the Navy Recruiting Orientation Unit (NORU) with "fit" not "fill" personnel. Upon check-in, student screening includes:

- Service record review within ten days of reporting
- Security clearance adjudication check/initiation if they do not have a National Agency Check with Local Agency Check and Credit Check (NAC-LC)
- Body Composition Assessment
- Health assessment (mental and physical)
- Instructor interview to identify changes in status since applying for recruiting duty to screen for additional involvement with civilian authorities while in leave/transit, or any amplifying condition missed or otherwise undisclosed making the Sailor unsuitable for Special Duty

Navy recruit applicants are - surveyed and asked about their recruiter's performance and behavior. All Future Sailors receive SAPR training. In most cases, this formal SAPR training is their first structured exposure to concepts of sexual assault and sexual harassment; most have not received any such training previously on any level. During a recent DoN SAPRO assessment, reviewers noted the consistent knowledge that recruit Future Sailors had gained from the SAPR training received while in the DEP. Virtually all were familiar and conversant with the terms "sexual assault," "BI," and "victim advocate" and understood their definitions. In addition, all Future Sailors are provided information on standards of recruiter conduct and mechanisms for reporting misconduct.

Hotline notices are prominently posted and listed on provided wallet cards. In some places, wallet cards detail recruiter and Future Sailor rights, along with prohibited recruiter behaviors, and list hotline numbers for the recruiting command's Inspector General (IG) office. In addition, recruits in training have numerous opportunities to disclose recruiter misconduct they have observed or experienced, and recruits in training are often asked specifically about these matters during recruit training.

Specific Accession Training

- Enlisted/Entry Level: SAPR-Fleet is delivered at Navy RTC ("Initial Military Training") to all new recruits.

- Enlisted/Post-Recruit: Navy Military Training (NMT) with a SAPR module and BI is taught at all Navy "A" School locations.

Naval Service Training Command (NSTC) made the following report regarding its efforts in dealing with safety and its efforts to improve the effectiveness of SAPR with regards to our NROTC units:

- SAPR-F/L training is conducted in the following manner: During Freshman Orientation, all incoming freshmen must receive SAPR-F as part of the training program. Any freshmen not attending Freshman Orientation must complete a make-up session within 14 days of joining their unit. Within two weeks of the semester starting, each unit must complete the SAPR Stand-down.
- Within 60 days of the semester starting, the sophomores, juniors, and 1st/2nd year STA-21/MECEP students must complete SAPR-F. Within 90 days of the beginning of the semester, the seniors and final year STA-21/MECEP students must complete SAPR-L.

All other SAPR training and awareness requirements are met to include: observance of SAAM (each unit partners with their university to create unique training and experiences to create further awareness of sexual assault and ways of prevention), mandatory SAPR Stand-Downs (CO/XO/Senior Enlisted present all required SAPR materials), and completion of SAPR GMT. Lessons Learned and Best Practices are compiled from each university and shared among the units.

7.4 Ensuring Appropriate Command Climate—Describe your efforts to ensure DoD facilities promote an environment of dignity and respect and are free from materials that create a degrading or offensive work environment. Include findings and actions taken from regular visual inspections.

U.S. Navy

In FY13 and in accordance with the requirements of ALNAV 038/13, all Navy commands and activities conducted a comprehensive visual inspection of all workplaces and common areas to ensure they were free from materials that create a degrading, hostile, or offensive work environment. These inspections enhanced awareness of questionable offensive material (i.e., health magazines, cartoons, and jokes that emphasized the importance of promoting an environment of dignity and respect). While command leadership is responsible for mandating that their organizations be periodically swept for offensive or degrading material, it is the responsibility of all Navy personnel responsible for monitoring work spaces for material and behavior that are not in line with the Navy's Core Values as professionals, commands strive to support established policies that create and sustain safe environments free of sexual assault.

All Navy personnel are required to look out for degrading or offensive material in the work environment, regularly conduct walk-through of all command spaces and notify individuals with questionable material visible to remove such material. Additionally, during meetings, leadership actively promotes an environment of dignity and respect in what is done and said in the workplace. Specifically, commands continue to engage in the following best practices:

- Commands enforce and support base policies concerning barracks inspections and visitation on/off duty hours, ensuring proper climate in living quarters.
- Commands make an important notice during weekly pre-liberty briefs, scheduled holiday and safety stand-downs in SAPR education and monitoring, imparting skills associated with BI and appropriate risk reduction that does not blame victims, responsible alcohol consumption and suicide prevention/intervention.
- Work environment expectations are discussed in conjunction with All Hands SAPR training.
- Commands maintain an open door policy if issues arise and convey this information regularly.
- New staff/students are informed during Command Indoctrination, through various presentations, what type of command climate is expected and degrading or disparaging remarks or materials will not be tolerated.
- Command's Standard Organization and Regulations Manuals (SORMs) are updated to ensure zone inspections adhere to the guidelines outlined in ALNAV 038/13, Comprehensive Visual Inspection of all DON Work Places (enclosure (13), Appendix A).
- Commands continue to work with CMEO to train on sexual harassment awareness and preventions, in addition to situational awareness and prevention methods.
- Anonymous command climate surveys also continue to be employed to ensure that a dignified and professional environment exists across the Navy domain.

Fiscal Year (FY) 2013 Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) Program Review Data Call: United States Marine Corps

Executive Summary

In Fiscal Year 2013 (FY13), the Marine Corps continued the implementation of its Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) Campaign Plan, a three-phase strategy with the stated purpose to reduce – with a goal to eliminate – incidents of sexual assault from within the ranks. Calling for large-scale, institutional reform, the SAPR Campaign Plan was designed to revive the Corps' sense of tradition and ethics and, by doing so, uproot the underlying conditions that allow sexual assaults to occur. Since its launch in June 2012, the Marine Corps has seen several significant, positive developments suggestive of an increased level of trust that reports of sexual assault will be taken seriously, and victims will be treated with dignity, respect, and professionalism.

Phase I of the Campaign Plan spanned five months, from June to November 2012, during which time 40 tasks were assigned and completed, to include the top-down implementation of prevention training on an unprecedented scale and frequency. Phase II reinforced these efforts from the bottom up, continuing the refinement of SAPR training Corps-wide, while strengthening capabilities pertaining to victim care, offender accountability, and program assessment. These efforts are described in detail herein and include such institutional-level changes as the complete reorganization of the Marine Corps legal community, the establishment of Sexual Assault Response Teams (SARTs) at every installation, the development and implementation of new command climate and victim advocacy surveys, and several other initiatives that comprise the Marine Corps' holistic, multidisciplinary approach to this problem.

One of the most successful outcomes of the SAPR Campaign Plan thus far has been the continued rise in reporting. Between FY11 and FY12, reports of sexual assault increased by 31 percent. Through FY13, they have increased by an additional 86 percent. For a crime that is universally – in both the armed services and the civilian sector – underreported, a rise in reporting is not necessarily indicative of more sexual assaults being committed. This rise in reports was anticipated by Marine Corps leaders whose many SAPR efforts were dedicated entirely to reinforcing a climate of trust built around the central role of the Commander.

A closer look at the FY13 reports also reveals two significant overlapping statistics: 27 percent of all FY13 reports were made for incidents that occurred prior to the beginning of the fiscal year and 22 percent were made for incidents that occurred before the victim joined the Corps. From a purely statistical perspective, such latent reports contribute to the spike in reporting without adding to the prevalence for the fiscal year. More importantly, these reports suggest that Marine Corps efforts are working to reach silent victims who were once uncertain about seeking support.

In August 2013, the Commandant of the Marine Corps called for a review of the state of the Campaign Plan and its impact, which concluded with the decision to extend Phase II indefinitely. An addendum was issued to expand Phase II with supplemental tasks designed to build on the Corps' positive developments since the Campaign Plan's launch, and further integrate its efforts into the larger Defense Department strategy. The third and final phase of the Campaign Plan, to begin on order, will focus on the sustainment of SAPR efforts and progress.

Ultimately, the goal of the Marine Corps is to have every Marine take personal ownership of the core values that have defined this institution since its inception – honor, courage, and commitment – and to demonstrate them consistently throughout their lives. While efforts to reach this end have had a positive impact thus far, Marine Corps leadership recognizes that a lot of work has yet to be done and remains personally committed to restoring these defining values that have made the Marine Corps the finest expeditionary force in history. In FY14, the Campaign Plan will continue to guide the implementation of large-scale initiatives that affect Marines on an individual level, steadily transforming the Corps into a leading institution in both preventing and responding to sexual assault.

The following list compiles all SAPR-related policy documents and other authorizing regulations disseminated to the fleet since the start of FY13:

Marine Corps Orders (MCOs):

- MCO1752.5B: Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) Program, published 1 March 2013
- MCO1900.16: Separation and Retirement Manual (MARCORSEPMAN), published 26 November 2013

Marine Administrative Messages (MARADMINS):

- 610/12: Credentialing Certification of Sexual Assault Response Coordinators, Victim Advocates, and Uniformed Victim Advocates, published 22 October 2012
- 624/12: Sexual Assault Prevention and Response 8-Day Brief, published 31 October 2012
- 130/13: National Observance of Sexual Assault Awareness Month, published 18 March 2013
- 234/13: Revised Training Requirements for Sexual Assault Prevention And Response (SAPR) Training, published 2 May 2013
- 291/13: Visual Inspection of All USMC Workspaces, published 14 June 2013
- 392/13: Annual Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) Training for 2013, published 7 August 2013
- 413/13: Execution Guidance for the Implementation of Sexual Assault Response Teams, published 22 August 2013
- 464/13: Command Climate Assessments, published 17 September 2013
- 548/13: 2013 Department of the Navy Sexual Assault Survey, published 22 October 2013
- 583/13: Establishment of the Marine Corps Victims' Legal Counsel Organization (VLCO), published 31 October 2013
- 586/13: Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Training Requirements for Judge Advocates and Supporting Personnel, published 1 November 2013
- 640/13: Revision of MCO P1900.16F Separation and Retirement Manual (MARCORSEPMAN)

Other SAPR-related Policy Documents:

- Standard Operating Procedures for Sexual Assault Advocate Certification/ Credentialing Program with Instructions, published 18 October 2012
- BUMED Instruction 6310.11A: Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Medical-Forensic Program, published 2 May 2013
- CMC White Letter No. 3-13 on Command Climate, published 10 May 2013

- Directive Letter pertaining to the SAPR Stand-down, in compliance with SecDef Memo dated 17 May 2013, published 23 May 2013.
- Standard Operating Procedures for Sexual Assault Response Teams (SARTs), published 19 August 2013

1. Line of Effort (LOE) 1—Prevention—The objective of prevention is to “deliver consistent and effective prevention methods and programs.”

1.1 Summarize your Service or Component’s efforts to achieve the Prevention Endstate: “cultural imperatives of mutual respect and trust, professional values, and team commitment are reinforced to create an environment where sexual assault is not tolerated, condoned, or ignored.”

The Marine Corps intensified its prevention efforts in FY13, continuing the implementation of the SAPR Campaign Plan, which was built around the evidence-based best practices of leadership engagement and bystander intervention. The Marine Corps’ approach to prevention charges all leaders with setting and enforcing an environment that is non-permissive to all crimes, but remains consistent with the Commandant’s assertion that the duty of preventing sexual assault belongs, ultimately, to Marines of every rank.

Initiating a top-down strategy, Phase I of the Campaign Plan was launched in June 2012 to ensure that leaders across the Corps understand both the extent of the problem, as well as the harmful ripple effects that even one incident of sexual assault can have on unit readiness, cohesion, and morale. In FY13, the Campaign Plan transitioned into Phase II, focusing on the implementation and strengthening of prevention training at every stage of a Marine’s career. With revised annual training requirements and customized prevention programs, the Marine Corps reinforced the SAPR training continuum in its entirety, updating and developing courses to match the grade and level of responsibility of the individual Marine.

Accordingly, SAPR training at the Delayed Entry Program, initial military training environments, and Military Occupational Specialty (MOS) schools takes a values-based, “whole of character” approach aimed at instilling the Marine Corps’ high tradition of integrity and professionalism, and teaches ethical behavior as a necessary component of the warrior ethos. At Professional Military Education (PME) and Officer PME environments, SAPR training begins to focus on leadership’s central role in prevention and includes training material specifically designed to reduce stigma and dispel myths about sexual assault. SAPR training at the Commanders Course compiles each of these core competencies while underscoring the importance of establishing a positive command climate in which Marines are willing to intervene when needed and victims feel confident in coming forward.

While these and other Campaign Plan efforts have resulted in many positive developments, leadership recognizes that a lot of work must still be done to effect a lasting change on Marine Corps culture. The Marine Corps will continue to explore new ways to meet the remaining challenges of reducing the prevalence of sexual assault, further increasing the quality of all aspects of its response system, and ensuring that all

Marines understand that sexual assault has no place in this institution.

1.2 Identify the ways you are changing organizational prevention-based practices.

Since its launch in June 2012, the SAPR Campaign Plan has driven a tremendous amount of training across the Corps, restructured Marine Corps oversight organizations, and directed senior leadership involvement throughout the command process – all focused on leadership’s steadfast commitment to prevent sexual assault and provide support to victims who come forward.

Ultimately, the elimination of sexual assault is predicated on the successful implementation of these large-scale efforts collectively aimed at changing the culture of the Marine Corps. Since the beginning of the Campaign Plan, the Marine Corps has implemented an unprecedented amount of training, which, in addition to instilling core values and promoting ethical behavior, delineates SAPR-related definitions, provides example descriptions of sexual offenses, and clearly communicates all reporting options and SAPR resources.

In FY13, the above training efforts were supplemented by the following prevention-based initiatives:

- Leadership Summit: Directed by the Commandant, the Leadership Summit was held in July 2013 for all Commanding Generals, Commanding Officers, and their Senior Enlisted Advisors. Utilizing case studies and small-group discussions, the summit underscored how the ripple effects of command climate impact the lives of individual Marines, the effectiveness of the unit, and the overall strength of the Corps.
- “Lost Honor” Video: Developed by the Judge Advocate Division, the “Lost Honor” video is a deterrence initiative that includes interviews with four Marines convicted of sexual assault, each recounting the various circumstances and decisions leading up to the incident.
- Publication of Courts-Martial Results: Beginning in July 2013, public notices for all special and general courts-martial results have been published quarterly on www.Marines.mil in an effort to increase transparency and general deterrence.
- Recruiting Ethics Program and Training: One-day refresher course designed to provide new and existing recruiters with awareness, tools, and skills to enhance their SAPR decision making and overall performance on recruiting duty. To further enhance prevention in this area, the Marine Corps also instituted a “two-person integrity” policy, which requires that at least two recruiters be present during any interaction with recruit applicants.

1.3 Describe your efforts to comply with DoD SAPR core competencies for all SAPR training to ensure consistency. Include Professional Military Education, Pre-Command, and Senior Enlisted training.

Marine Corps Professional Military Education (PME) focuses on the central role of leadership in sexual assault prevention and response. Officer PME at the Expeditionary Warfare School and the Command and Staff College utilizes case studies to emphasize the importance of response protocol, command climate, and leadership engagement. All PME – to include Sergeants Course, Staff Academy, Advanced Academy, and First Sergeants Course – is aligned with DoD Instruction 6495.02 and covers the following requirements:

- Explanation and analysis of the SAPR program;
- Explanation and analysis of the necessity of immediate responses after a sexual assault has occurred to counteract and mitigate the long-term effects of violence. Long-term responses after sexual assault has occurred will address the lasting consequences of violence;
- Explanation of rape myths, facts, and trends pertaining to the military population;
- Explanation of the commander's and senior enlisted Service member's role in the SAPR program;
- Review of all items found in the commander's protocols for Unrestricted Reports of sexual assault; and
- Explanation of what constitutes reprisal and procedures for reporting allegations of reprisal.

In addition, the Marine Corps SAPR Commanders Course was updated to meet all core competencies and set learning objectives as defined by the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) and in accordance with the Secretary of Defense Memorandum signed September 25, 2012. The updated course also includes further training direction from the Commandant. Mandatory for all prospective Commanders and Senior Enlisted Advisors, the course emphasizes the importance of command climate and the central role of leadership in both prevention and response. The four-phase course employs a read-ahead, a group lecture/discussion, and practical application (i.e., small-team problem-solving scenarios). The last phase is a brief by the Installation SARC within 30 days of assuming command or getting posted. In addition to teaching the basic concepts and issues related to sexual assault in the military, the training is designed to ensure that all Marine Corps leaders understand:

- Risks and circumstances associated with sexual assault incidence and the proactive measures to prevent sexual assault and associated destructive behaviors within their command;
- Essential elements of a quality victim care response program and the roles and responsibilities of victim service providers;
- Complexity of sexual assault crimes and the appropriate investigation and disposition options available; and
- The roles of Commanders and Senior Enlisted Leaders in fostering a command environment free of sexual assault.

1.4 Describe your progress in implementing the findings and recommendations from the SAPR Initial Military Training reviews. Include your efforts to enhance accession training by including SAPR policies and implementation of SAPR training within 14 days of entrance to active duty.

From October 2012 to January 2013, the Department of the Navy Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Office (DON SAPRO) and Headquarters Marine Corps (HQMC) SAPR concluded site visits of Marine Corps initial military training environments, to include Recruit Depots, Schools of Infantry, and the Basic School. Rather than attempting detail-oriented inspections, the visits entailed broad-based inquiries that focused on two major areas: the professionalism and oversight of instructors, and the overall command climate with respect to gender issues and sexual assault in particular. The final report by DON SAPRO indicated many positive findings pertaining to awareness training and victim care access, identifying the SAPR Campaign Plan and personal engagement by the Commandant as best practices. In addition, the report described the effectiveness of chaplain involvement, multiple reporting mechanisms, bystander intervention training, command leadership, and the enforcement of explicit standards of conduct – all of which the Marine Corps continues to improve upon and emphasize.

In FY13, the Marine Corps has incorporated updated SAPR training into the Delayed Entry Program, Recruit Training, and Military Occupational Specialty (MOS) schools. Prior to attending either Recruit Training or Officer Candidates School (OCS), all selectees complete a two-hour values-based training course. The training focuses on the “whole of character” and ethical behavior as a Marine, instilling a refined and sustained understanding of the core values of honor, courage, and commitment. The training teaches that the success of the Marine Corps is founded on the character of all Marines, on their ability to make sound ethical decisions in any situation, and includes scenarios that address sexual assault, sexual harassment, racial discrimination, alcohol abuse, and hazing. Upon completion of the training, recruits and candidates are required to sign a Statement of Understanding, affirming their transformation and acceptance of the Marine Corps ethos.

SAPR training at both Recruit Training and OCS takes place within the first 14 days, providing recruits and candidates with a general overview of the program, reporting options, available resources, and the principles of bystander intervention. Later in the training, Senior Drill Instructors conduct “foot locker” discussions with all recruits, a method used by Senior Drill Instructors to have candid conversations with recruits.

SAPR training at MOS schools is provided by Uniformed Victim Advocates (UVAs) and reinforces the values and instruction they received during Recruit Training. Newly commissioned Second Lieutenants receive SAPR training at The Basic School within the first two weeks of arrival. A SAPR overview is taught by a UVA and is followed by a discussion with the Commanding Officer. Additionally, the Lieutenants break into small groups and go through scenarios with their Platoon Commanders. These scenarios focus on handling a report of sexual assault from a leader’s perspective.

1.5 Identify specific SAPR monitoring, measures, and education that impart individual skills associated with bystander intervention and appropriate risk reduction that does not blame victims.

The principles of bystander intervention have been infused into all Marine Corps SAPR training programs. The “Take A Stand” training course is focused entirely on bystander intervention and is mandatory for all newly promoted Corporals and Sergeants. This requirement was intended to reinforce the tenets of leadership for all noncommissioned officers (NCOs), who lead close to 83 percent of the Marine Corps force. The three-hour training program includes mini-lectures, guided group discussions, activities, and video recordings of the Commandant, the Sergeant Major of the Marine Corps, senior leaders, subject matter experts, NCOs, victims, and junior Marines.

Based on the success of the “Take A Stand” training program for NCOs, a 90-minute, interactive, bystander intervention program is being developed specifically for junior Marines (E-1 to E-3), the Corps’ highest-risk demographic. In addition, risk mitigation measures are being infused into all SAPR training going forward, with a focus on non-stranger sexual assaults by addressing unhealthy interpersonal relationships and personal/professional boundaries. The focus on shared community responsibility, vice individual responsibility, is intended to preclude victim blaming.

Both the Defense Equal Opportunity Management Institute (DEOMI) Organizational Climate Survey and the Workplace and Gender Relations Survey of Active Duty Members (WGRA) measure the likelihood of bystander intervention. The latest DEOMI Survey rollup for 3rd Quarter FY13 indicated that Marine Corps leadership continues to support a healthy SAPR climate and the majority of Marines are likely to intervene in situations perceived as likely to escalate into a sexual assault. Additionally, the 2012 WGRA found that 93 percent of female Marines and 88 percent of male Marines indicated that they would actively intervene in a situation leading to sexual assault – an increase over the 2010 WGRA, which indicated 91 percent for females and 77 percent for males.

1.6 Describe your efforts to establish policies that create and sustain safe environments free of sexual assault. Include policies and practices that address alcohol consumption and barracks/dormitories visitation.

Prevention efforts put forth by the Campaign Plan have taken a holistic approach, designed to reawaken the Corps’ sense of tradition and ethics that would not only eliminate serious crimes like sexual assault, but other damaging behaviors, such as sexual harassment, hazing, and the misuse of alcohol. To this end, the Commandant has also directed new restrictions pertaining to the sale of alcohol aboard Marine Corps installations. The Commandant’s memo dated 26 August 2013 details these changes, which are intended to support SAPR initiatives, as well as to promote health. They include the following:

- Distilled spirits – or liquor – will be removed from all sites designated as Marine Marts adjacent to barracks.
- Alcoholic beverages will be sold only from 0800 until 2200 in all Marine Corps exchanges.
- Floor space dedicated to the sale and display of alcohol will be limited to no more than 10 percent of total retail space in stores not considered a package store.
- Alcohol and displays will be relocated to the sides or rears of exchanges, farther from main entrances and sections used by underage patrons; in-store marketing will be limited to those sections.

In addition, at the General Officers Symposium held on 23 September 2013, the Commandant also called for several new initiatives pertaining to the barracks, to include the following:

- Sergeants and Corporals will return to the barracks, as basic allowance for housing is no longer allowed for single NCOs. This policy change was made in 2011, with the Commandant saying it was necessary to save money and put the Corps' new, impressive bachelor enlisted quarters to full use.
- Senior officers, staff NCOs, and NCOs will be in and out of the barracks regularly, especially between 2000 and 0400.
- Company-grade officers will be assigned as officers on duty, and staff NCOs will be assigned as staff officers on duty. All Marines on duty will be required to wear service uniforms, either "Bravos" or "Charlies," depending on which uniform is in season.
- Two NCOs will be on duty per barracks, and a firewatch will be conducted on each floor of each building.
- Television and video games will not be allowed in the watchstander's place of duty. They must be out and about, and not behind a desk.

The Marine Corps has also complied with all directives from the Office of the Secretary of Defense, to include implementing comprehensive and regular visual inspections of Marine Corps workplaces, ensuring that all facilities promote an environment of dignity, respect, and professionalism, and are free from materials that create degrading offensive work environment. Inspections will take place regularly, not less than annually.

1.7 Describe progress, assessment, efforts, and/or approved plans for requiring commanders to conduct an organizational climate assessment within 120 days of assuming command and annually thereafter. Include policy for providing results to the next level in the chain of command.

All Commanders are required to ensure all members administratively attached to their commands have the opportunity to participate in the assessment process. For this purpose, the Marine Corps utilizes two separate, mandatory command climate surveys, both of which must be briefed to the next level in the chain of command after completion (policy is included as Appendix A).

For commands with more than 50 personnel, the DEOMI organizational climate survey (DEOCS) will be conducted within 90 days of assumption of command, and annually thereafter. Subordinate commands of 50 or less personnel will be surveyed with a larger unit in the command to ensure anonymity. All survey results will be briefed to the next higher level Commander in the chain of command within 30 days of receipt of the survey results. To ensure this requirement is being met, new features have been added to the command climate survey request form and notification emails. Per MARADMIN 464/13, survey administrators will now enter the next level Commander's information of their DEOCS request to ensure he/she is aware that the survey has been requested and that a brief will be required.

In addition, a new command climate survey directed by the Commandant was implemented in June 2013 to supplement the existing DEOMI survey. The Commandant's command climate survey is mandatory within 30 days of assuming command, and annually thereafter. Per MARADMIN 316/13, survey results are briefed to the next higher level Commander in the chain of command.

Command climate surveys identify areas in a unit that can be improved, allowing Commanders to prevent misconduct that may lead to serious crimes, such as sexual assault. These surveys are designed to measure the overall health and well-being of a command, helping to identify and mitigate the high-risk behaviors that tear at the fabric of the Corps.

1.8 Describe collaboration efforts concerning prevention with external experts, federal partners (e.g. NATO), advocacy organizations, and educational institutions, to include prevention subject matter experts. Describe results and/or implementations of lessons learned from collaboration efforts.

The Marine Corps continues to seek opportunities to work with external entities to enhance both its prevention efforts, as well as its victim care capabilities. Close collaboration with the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) SAPRO is ongoing and facilitated by their prevention roundtable. This venue allows the Marine Corps additional opportunities to utilize best practice prevention practices from other entities.

At the installation level, Sexual Assault Response Coordinators (SARCs) continue to build collaborative relationships with local rape crisis centers and civilian medical facilities, including Amberly's Place (Yuma, Arizona), Eisenhower Medical Center and Redlands Medical Center (Southern California), and Boston Medical Center. In addition, all Navy chaplains will receive further training specific to sexual assault by Kristen Leslie, a professor of pastoral theology at Eden Theological Seminary. Leslie is also the author of the book When Violence Is No Stranger, which focuses on acquaintance rape.

Other external collaborators were present at the Annual SAPR Training Event, which took place in Quantico, Va. from August 27 to 29. The event was attended by all SARCs and SAPR VAs and included lectures from representatives of the following entities:

- Office of Legislative Affairs (OLA): Discussed hot-button issues of the 113th Congress on macro and micro levels, and provided an overview of the role of OLA.
- Veterans Health Administration: Presentation focused on Military Sexual Trauma (MST) and the response the Veterans Health Administration provides to those with MST-related diagnoses.
- Bon Secours St. Mary's Hospital (Richmond, Va.): Provided an overview of the role of the Forensic Nurse, contrasted against the Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner (SANE), and a procedural outline of the forensic evaluation.
- Blue Tower Training: Provide a "motivational journey" specifically designed for victim service professionals, discussing common stressors and effective coping mechanisms.

- Bob Pike Group: Conducted specialized train-the-trainer workshop with the aim to help build the Marine Corps as a learning organization and to strengthen message retention.
- Senior Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Office for Yakima County, Washington: Discussed specific issues pertaining to trials for sexual offenses, including impediments to disclosure on the part of the victim, the influence of public opinion on jurors, the victim’s immediate response, how offenders operate, and making a connection with the jury.

Marine Corps prevention efforts in FY13 were also greatly enhanced by the following organizations:

- Catharsis Productions: The Marine Corps has maintained a close relationship with Catharsis Productions, a theater company and advocacy organization whose mission is to reduce interpersonal violence by producing artistically innovative and research-supported programming that challenges oppressive attitudes, transforms behavior, and inspires communities to create a world without violence. Their flagship program “Sex Signals” supports the Marine Corps SAPR mission through innovative, non-traditional training techniques. Incorporating improvisation, audience interaction, humor, and education, “Sex Signals” provides a fresh and provocative look at dating, sex, and the core issue of consent. In FY13, “Sex Signals” was performed 74 times across 16 Marine Corps installations and two reserve sites, receiving consistently positive reviews.
- Sexual Aggression Peer Advocates (SAPA): Established at Central Michigan University in 1996, SAPA has become one of the foremost peer advocate programs in the country, providing training and educational programs on sexual assault and violence prevention. Their renowned program “No Zebras. No Excuses.” is a survivor-centered, perpetrator-focused stage production that uses vignettes to present audience members with scenarios related to bystander intervention. In FY13, a truncated version of this program – called “Zebras Lite” – was performed on seven Marine Corps installations. These performances were funded by DON SAPRO.

1.9 Describe your efforts to establish and implement policies that prevent individuals convicted of a Federal or State offense of rape, sexual abuse, sexual assault, incest, or other sexual offenses, from being provided a waiver for commissioning or enlistment in the Armed Forces.

Marine Corps Order (MCO) 1100.1 for Recruiting Command states that any applicant who was prosecuted, and convicted, or received an adverse adjudication for a Major Misconduct Offense (felony) or Misconduct Offense (misdemeanor) as an adult or juvenile of any sexual-related crime, or sexual assault is disqualified for enlistment or commissioning. Any applicant with a conviction for an offense which results in the mandatory registration as a sexual offender on the National Sex Offender Registry is ineligible for enlistment. No waivers will be considered.

Waivers for substantiated sexual assault are not granted and there are no “moral” waivers for prior sexual misconduct.

1.10 Describe your plans for FY14 that pertain to delivering consistent and effective prevention methods and programs, including how these efforts will help your Service plan, resource, and make progress in your SAPR program.

The Campaign Plan's primary purpose – to reduce, with a goal to eliminate, incidents of sexual assault – remains at the forefront of all Marine Corps SAPR efforts. Specific FY14 initiatives being implemented to support this ongoing fight include the development of eight new video-based Ethical Discussion Groups (EDGs), all designed from direct feedback from the Operating Forces. The new EDGs will be used with training specifically developed for Corporals and Sergeants Courses, SAPR training for staff noncommissioned officers (SNCOs) and officers, and training for junior Marines.

Also in FY14, a new 90-minute, interactive, bystander intervention program is being developed for junior Marines (E-1 to E-3), the Corps' highest-risk demographic. The new program will be based on the Marine Corps' successful "Take A Stand" bystander intervention program designed for NCOs, which comprised of mini-lectures, guided group discussions, activities, and video recordings of the Commandant, the Sergeant Major of the Marine Corps, senior leaders, subject matter experts, and victims.

The Marine Corps will also infuse risk mitigation measures into all SAPR training going forward. This initiative will focus on non-stranger sexual assaults by addressing unhealthy interpersonal relationships and personal/professional boundaries. The focus on shared community responsibility, vice individual responsibility, is intended to preclude victim blaming.

In addition to these SAPR-specific efforts, in October 2013, the Commandant of the Marine Corps launched his "Reawakening" Campaign, which is designed to refocus Marine Corps efforts on the foundations of discipline, faithfulness, self-excellence, and concerned leadership, as the institution transitions from more than a decade of continuous combat. Reinforcing the tenets of the SAPR Campaign Plan, the Reawakening Campaign emphasizes strong leadership at every level, demanding accountability and responsibility from all leaders – from junior Marines, to NCOs and SNCOs, to officers and Generals – and calling on them to lead the charge against an "insurgency of wrongdoing." In addition to sexual assault, this insurgency includes the failure to maintain personal fitness and appearance, substance abuse, hazing, self-destructive behavior, disregarding Marine Corps orders and standards, and other crimes and misconduct that disrupt the institution's return to immediate readiness and destroy its credibility.

2. LOE 2—Investigation—The objective of investigation is to "achieve high competence in the investigation of sexual assault."

2.1 Summarize your Service or Component's efforts to achieve the Investigation Endstate: "investigative resources yield timely and accurate results."

Starting in August 2012, Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS) began implementation of the Adult Sexual Assault Program (ASAP). ASAP links specially trained investigators into teams focused on adult sexual assault investigations, creating a surge team response that expedites the investigative process. ASAP teams have specialized training in legal jurisdiction, investigative procedures, evidence collection, sexual assault victim sensitivities, and the handling of reports and official statements.

NCIS agents are integrated with judge advocates, victim advocates, medical and other skilled professionals assisting special victims. NCIS agents are required to engage with trial counsel (TC) to discuss specific investigation development and trial preparation. Additionally, NCIS agents interact with SARCs, VAs, the Navy Bureau of Medicine and Surgery (BUMED), and other stakeholders as needed and during established case management meetings.

ASAP is currently established at: Norfolk, Camp Lejeune, Camp Pendleton, San Diego, the Northwest Region (Bangor/Bremerton), and Okinawa. It is in the planning stages for Hawaii, the National Capital Region, and the Jacksonville/Mayport Region. In smaller and remote NCIS locations where ASAP teams are not present, the training of agents to the ASAP standard is ongoing.

In addition, the Marine Corps Criminal Investigation Division (CID) contributes assets to NCIS through the Marine Special Agent Program and to the Judge Advocate Division (JAD) through Complex Trial Team (CTT) investigators assigned to the Regional Trial Counsel (RTC) offices. Both assignments can and do impact sexual assault investigations/prosecutions.

2.2 Describe your Service or Component's implementation plan for the establishment of a Special Victim Capability (SVC), comprised of specially trained investigators, judge advocates, administrative paralegal support, and victim-witness assistance personnel.

The Marine Corps Special Victim Capability (SVC) is fully implemented and operating through regional Legal Services Support Sections (LSSS) with the goal of having the right counsel detailed to the right case at the right time. The Marine Corps legal community is organized into four LSSSs – National Capital Region, East, West, and Pacific – each responsible for a particular region. The LSSS region in which a joint base is located is responsible for providing legal support to any Marine Corps convening authority at that base. Existing arrangements with the Navy at certain installations allow for Navy personnel to prosecute Marine cases.

Each LSSS is supervised by a Colonel Judge Advocate and contains a Regional Trial Counsel (RTC) office with a Complex Trial Team (CTT) capability. Each RTC office is supervised by an experienced Lieutenant Colonel, is supported by a highly qualified expert (HQE) who is an experienced civilian prosecutor, and contains two CTT military prosecutors, two experienced military criminal investigators, a legal administrative officer, and paralegal support. The HQEs who are resident in the RTC office have significant experience in complex criminal litigation as a successful trial-level prosecutor on sexual assault cases. The HQE's primary job is to train trial counsel (TC) to prosecute sexual assault cases. TC must consult with their regional HQE within 10 days of being detailed to any sexual assault case.

Only TC who have been certified as a Special Victim Qualified Trial Counsel (SVTC) may be detailed to sexual assault cases. Additionally, the RTC can assign further litigation, research, or investigative support to form a CTT. Prior to being detailed to a sexual assault case, the detailing authority looks at all available SVTC and details the most qualified SVTC based on grade, experience, education, training, ability, existing case load, professional responsibilities, and the individual characteristics of the case. To be certified as an SVTC, a TC must:

- Be a General Court-Martial Qualified TC;
- Receive a written recommendation from the RTC that the judge advocate possesses the requisite expertise to try a special victim’s case;
- Demonstrate to the LSSS Officer-in-Charge’s (O-6 judge advocate) satisfaction that he or she possesses the requisite expertise, experience, education, innate ability, and disposition to competently try special victim cases;
- Prosecute a contested special or general court-martial in a special victim case as an assistant trial counsel; and
- Attend an intermediate level trial advocacy training course for the prosecution of special victim cases.

Additionally, the Marine Corps has 35 litigation billets that require an advanced master of laws degree in criminal law.

2.3 Describe your efforts to enhance training and/or plans for enhanced training for investigators of sexual violence. Include your measures of effectiveness or means by which you are measuring enhancements.

NCIS agents conducting investigations involving special victims (adult sexual assault, domestic violence, and child abuse victims) receive advanced training specific to special victim investigations. Current advanced training platforms are joint-Military Criminal Investigation Organization (MCIO) efforts sharing course material and subject matter expert instructors. NCIS agents and judge advocates attend advanced courses together.

In addition, beginning in FY15, USMC CID will be reincorporated back into the United States Army Military Police School (USAMPS) Special Victims Unit Investigators Course (SVUIC).

2.4 Describe your Service’s efforts to participate in Defense Enterprise Working Group of Military Criminal Investigation Organizations and Defense Criminal Investigative Services to assess and validate joint investigative technology, best practices, and resource efficiencies benchmarked against external law enforcement agencies.

Department of Defense Inspector General (DoD IG) evaluated Military Criminal Investigative Organization (MCIOs) sexual assault investigations completed in 2010 to determine if these investigations were completed as required by “guiding policies and procedures.” Published results are contained within DoD IG Report No. 2013-091, dated July 9, 2013.

For the sample obtained across all MCIOs, 89 percent met or exceeded standards, while 11 percent were returned for corrective action. Completed, closed, and adjudicated investigations were reviewed, though “appropriateness” of adjudication was not reviewed. Of the 157 NCIS cases that were reviewed, 26 were considered to have significant deficiencies and 14 were reopened for additional investigative action. Significant deficiencies included: key evidence not collected; no crime scene or inadequate scene examination; and inadequate victim, subject, or witness interviews or reinterviews. Twelve cases with deficiencies were not reopened, as it was determined that too much time had passed or additional work would not influence the outcome of the investigation.

A more thorough analysis of investigative deficiencies among all MCIO sexual assault investigations, resulted in recommendations to further enhance SAPR-related victim issues such as to better document case status to victims, document and encourage notification to Staff Judge Advocate at the initiation of sexual assault investigations, better documenting victim notification of their rights, and documenting notification to the SARC. Recommendations as noted by DoD IG were accepted by respective agency directors.

The Director, NCIS also noted that the sampling was conducted prior to the implementation of agency initiatives such as the assignment of dedicated and better trained investigators responsible for investigating sexual assault investigations, implementation of the Adult Sexual Assault Program, which allows for a focused and dedicated response as well as improving the timeliness of completion and enhance supervisory case review and formal inspections.

In addition, although Marine Corps CID is not recognized as an MCIO, it maintains close relations with the NCIS Family and Sexual Violence Unit (F&SVU) and has been invited to participate in NCIS-level meetings when needed.

2.5 Describe your Military Criminal Investigative Organization’s (MCIO) progress on establishment of a Working Group to review initial baseline, periodic refresher, and advanced sexual assault investigation training in order to establish common criteria, measures of effectiveness, and leverage training resources and expertise. If already in progress or completed, briefly describe recommendations, results, and ongoing efforts.

In September 2011, the DoD IG initiated a project to determine if the MCIOs sexual assault investigation training conforms to DoD policy and standards as well as commonly accepted best practices. The DoD IG determined that all MCIO training was satisfactory. Since the conclusion of the DoD IG project, representatives from NCIS, CID, and AFOSI formed a working group to compare and develop training. The effectiveness of the working group has been enhanced due to the co-location of the three agencies within the Russell-Knox Building, Quantico, Va. In addition, NCIS and CID have a training relationship in which investigators from both agencies attend the same advanced training course. The training partnership between NCIS and CID is indicative of established common criteria, measures of effectiveness, and leveraging of resources and expertise between agencies.

In addition, CID sexual assault training is obtained through the United States Army Military Police School (USAMPS). CID reps are included during periodic reviews of course curricula.

2.6 Describe and provide documentation of your Service or Component’s implementation of policy for retention of sexual assault documentation (e.g. DD Forms 2910 and 2911). Documentation should be included as an appendix.

The Marine Corps complies with DoD Instruction 6495.02, which specifies that SARCs will enter the unrestricted report DD Form 2910, “Victim Reporting Preference Statement,” in the Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database (DSAID) as an electronic record, where it will be retained for 50 years from the date the victim signed it. In addition, the SARC will retain a hard copy of the restricted report DD Form 2910 for five years, consistent with DoD guidance for the storage of personally identifiable information. The five-year timeframe will start from the date the victim signs the form.

In compliance with DoD Instruction 5505.18, all MCIOs must include the DD Form 2911, “DoD Sexual Assault Forensic Examination Report,” or reports from civilian sexual assault forensic exams conducted at civilian healthcare facilities (when DoD retains jurisdiction) as part of an archived file. If creating digital records, the DD Form 2911 will be uploaded as part of the archived file. All MCIO adult sexual assault investigative reports will be retained for a period of 50 years. If the investigation was referred to another agency, the MCIO must obtain disposition and final investigative reports and retain them for 50 years.

In addition, at the request of a service member who files a restricted report on an incident of sexual assault, the DD Forms 2910 and 2911 filed in connection with the restricted report will be retained for 50 years.

All relevant policy is included as Appendix B.

2.7 Describe your efforts to review and implement policies and procedures that ensure all Unrestricted Reports of sexual assault (and attempts) against adults will be immediately reported to the MCIO, regardless of the severity of the allegation.

DoD Instruction (DoDI) 5500.18 requires the MCIO to initiate investigations of all offenses of adult sexual assault of which they become aware. Additionally, DoDI 5500.18 states that “all Unrestricted Reports of sexual assault (and attempts) against adults will be immediately reported to the MCIO, regardless of the severity of the allegation.” In addition, Marine Corps Order (MCO) 1752.5B on SAPR emphasizes that referral to the MCIO is mandatory. Therefore, Commanders and others do not have any discretion regarding reporting unrestricted reports of sexual assault to NCIS.

2.8 Describe efforts, policies, and/or programmatic changes undertaken to improve Service member confidence and/or victim participation in the investigative and military justice process, as well as how you are addressing the number of victims declining to participate. Include rate of conversion from Restricted to Unrestricted reporting.

NCIS takes a surge team approach to sexual assault investigations, assigning to all sexual assault cases a dedicated team that can expeditiously conduct interviews, gather evidence, and work closely with victims. NCIS agents are also now trained in Forensic Experiential Trauma Interview (FETI) techniques to increase the amount of evidence that can be collected when individuals experience stressful and traumatic events. This specialized training is victim centric and positively influences the active participation in the legal proceedings to follow. Ultimately, more timely and specialized care increases overall victim satisfaction and offender accountability.

In addition, NCIS has continued its use of the NCIS Text & Web Tip Line, an anonymous tip collection system that gives service members a discreet and secure reporting option to express concerns without inhibitions of political correctness, retaliation from peers, or pressure from within the chain of command.

In FY13, 37 of 344 restricted reports were converted to unrestricted reports (11 percent). Only seven such conversions were made in FY12 (6 percent).

2.9 Describe your plans for FY14 that pertain to the achievement of high competence in the investigation of sexual assault.

The Marine Corps recognizes that timely and thorough investigations are vital to responding to reports of sexual assault. Swift, visible action reassures victims that their voices were heard and justice will be delivered. To achieve this end state, NCIS will continue to implement its ASAP program in FY14, which is in the planning stages for Hawaii, the National Capital Region, and the Jacksonville/Mayport Region. To supplement this effort, the Secretary of the Navy approved the hiring of 54 new ASAP special agents, crime scene personnel, and other support personnel.

3. LOE 3—Accountability—The objective of accountability is to “achieve high competence in holding offenders appropriately accountable.”

3.1 Summarize your Service or Component’s efforts to achieve the Accountability Endstate: “perpetrators are held appropriately accountable.”

Over the last year, the Marine Corps has made significant strides in holding sexual assault offenders accountable. Between FY12 to FY13, sexual offense prosecutions have almost doubled and sexual offense convictions have increased by over 70 percent (“sexual offense” includes penetrative offenses, contact offenses, and other sexual offenses of a non-consensual nature, such as indecent exposure). The Marine Corps also saw similar increases in its numbers of punitive discharges.

The Marine Corps completely reorganized the legal community, affecting more than 49 different commands and more than 800 legal billets, thus increasing expertise and capacity for prosecuting complex cases. This new regional model ensures enhanced special victim capabilities and allows the Marine Corps to place the right prosecutor on the right case, regardless of location.

The Marine Corps is making tremendous progress in holding offenders accountable, but is equally concerned that each Marine accused receives a constitutionally fair trial that will withstand the scrutiny of appeal. To that end, the Marine Corps Defense Services Organization (DSO) has instituted a rigorous training and inspection program, coupled with the hiring of a highly qualified expert (HQE) to assist in sexual assault cases and other complex litigation.

These institutional changes have resulted in the Marine Corps administering justice more efficiently and fairly than ever and holding more offenders accountable, while ensuring the rights of the accused are protected.

3.2 Describe your efforts to enhance training and/or plans for enhanced SAPR training for attorneys and military judges. Include your efforts to monitor training requirements to ensure the optimal number receive enhanced SAPR training and your measures of effectiveness.

The Marine Corps has taken proactive measures to ensure that the most highly trained judge advocates and supporting personnel work on these mission-essential cases of sexual assault. It is imperative that the Marine Corps continues to improve its response to the criminal acts that constitute sexual assault. Consequently, each judge advocate is required to receive, and report the completion of, annual SAPR training.

Therefore, the Marine Corps judge advocate community sponsors the following events to ensure that its attorneys are properly trained in SAPR:

- Weeklong Trial Counsel Assistance Program (TCAP) Courses: These courses focus primarily on the prosecution of complex sexual assault cases, trial advocacy in sexual assault cases, victim support, and prosecutorial ethics. Instruction is provided by a mix of experienced judge advocates (both active duty and reserve), HQEs, and expert witnesses who frequently testify in sexual assault cases (e.g., computer forensic experts, forensic DNA analysts, sexual assault nurse examiners, etc.).
- Three-day New Prosecutor and Paralegal Sexual Assault MTTs: These courses combine what have traditionally been two two-day courses into one three-day course. These courses serve as a supplement to the weeklong TCAP courses, with a heavier focus on case preparation and legal, evidentiary, and scientific issues relating to sexual assault cases. These courses are designed to incorporate new prosecutors (with less than nine months' experience) and those enlisted legal support specialists who work in military justice offices. Some are conducted jointly with Navy TCAP and NCIS. Instruction is primarily provided by guest lecturers with expertise in issues common to sexual assault cases.
- Prosecuting Alcohol Facilitated Sexual Assaults (PAFSA): Marine Corps TCAP and Navy TCAP co-sponsor the annual Prosecuting Alcohol Facilitated Sexual Assaults (PAFSA) course at the Naval Justice School in Newport, Rhode Island. The PAFSA course, in its current format, began in FY10. The course is specifically tailored to educate and train judge advocates on prosecuting sexual assaults facilitated by alcohol.
- Other Training in FY14: In addition to the above TCAP training, the Marine Corps also plans to send trial counsel to a two-week Special Victims Unit Investigators course at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. Trial counsel have the opportunity to attend 10 such training events throughout the year.

To track the training for each judge advocate in the Marine Corps, Headquarters Marine Corps Judge Advocate Division (JAD) developed training codes that must be inputted into the Marine Corps Total Force System (MCTFS), which tracks annual training requirements for every member of the Corps. Once judge advocates receive their annual SAPR training, their local commands input a certain code into MCTFS (JAD developed different codes to track requirements for judge advocates in trial services, defense services, victims legal counsel services, legal assistance services, and in leadership positions) that indicates completion of that requirement. JAD is thus able to track completion of these requirements for every judge advocate through MCTFS.

Additionally, the Navy–Marine Corps Trial Judiciary conducts specialized training for military judges. This SAPR training is conducted annually and the Trial Judiciary reports completion of every judge’s training to the Navy Office of the Judge Advocate General.

3.3 Describe your Service’s efforts to conduct an assessment of DoD Pilot Program for Special Victims Counsel. If an assessment has been completed, explain findings and recommendations.

In compliance with the SecDef memo dated August 14, 2013, the Marine Corps stood up its Victims’ Legal Counsel Organization (VLCO) on November 1, 2013, which will be fully operational, as directed, on January 1, 2014. After one month of initial operating capability, the VLCO is recording statistical data, but no assessment as to the progress of the program has been officially initiated at this time. In addition, the Marine Corps has recently completed the development of an anonymous victim advocacy survey, which is being provided to all victims who utilize SAPR services and includes questions pertaining to the VLCO.

3.4 Describe your efforts to expand the availability, sequencing, and scope of commander’s legal courses. Include your measures of effectiveness.

The 10-day Commanders Program was established by the Commandant of the Marine Corps in 1992, providing enhanced situational awareness of current Marine Corps policies and programs, and provides a forum for discussing mission, readiness, and Marine welfare issues. Required for all Colonels and Lieutenant Colonels slated for command, this program includes blocks of instruction on SAPR and on their legal duties pertaining to sexual assault and all other crimes.

The Marine Corps also provides Commanders the opportunity to attend various Senior Officer Legal Courses, which provide familiarization with the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ), administrative fact-finding bodies, administrative separation procedures, the courts-martial process, operational law, and various other policies relating to command administration of legal matters. Priority for these courses is given to officers who are serving or are slated to serve in command. The Marine Corps sends Commanders to over 40 available courses that are offered throughout the year in various locations throughout the country.

3.5 Describe your efforts to assess the effectiveness of the policy to elevate initial disposition authority to a Special Court Martial Convening Authority in the grade of O-6 or higher. Provide documentation in the appendix. If assessment complete, briefly describe results and recommendations.

For all allegations of sexual misconduct under Article 120 of the UCMJ (to include penetration and contact offenses), the initial disposition can only be made by an O-6 (Colonel) or higher Special Court-Martial Convening Authority, who is known as the Sexual Assault Initial Disposition Authority (SA-IDA). The SA-IDA is often a Commander with over 20 years of experience and multiple command tours. What this means, in practice, is that the Marine Corps now has a smaller group of more experienced Commanders making the disposition decisions in these complex cases.

The Marine Corps does not specifically track the effectiveness of SA-IDA policy. However, this and other policies have indirectly generated some measurable, positive results. Rates of reporting have risen drastically and rates of sexual assault courts-martial have similarly risen. These trends suggest that the SA-IDA policy is having the effect that the Secretary of Defense and the Commandant desired.

3.6 Describe any treatment or rehabilitation programs implemented by your Service or Component for those members who have been convicted of a sexual assault. Include any pertinent referrals such as drug and alcohol counseling, or other types of counseling or intervention.

There are no specific direct care programs that Navy Medicine maintains or has implemented specifically for members convicted of sexual assault. While convicted offenders are offered programs when incarcerated (if applicable) and several civilian programs are available as well, very few Navy providers have expertise in treatment for sex offenders.

3.7 List updates or efforts to update policies requiring the processing for administrative separation of any member convicted of a sexual assault. Include documentation in the appendix.

The Marine Corps published an update to its Marine Corps Separation and Retirement Manual (MARCORSEPMAN) on November 26, 2013. The MARCORSEPMAN institutionalizes the policy that the Marine Corps has followed since 2009 (MARADMIN 317/09), which requires separation processing of any members convicted of a sex offense and also expands mandatory processing for any substantiated incident of a sex offense. The new MARCORSEPMAN provisions further require an SA-IDA or higher authority to determine whether an incident meets the criteria of a substantiated sex offense, and requires that a judge advocate serve as the recorder in such cases. These provisions ensure effective use of administrative board procedures to hold sex offenders accountable. MARADMIN 640/13 was released on December 6, 2013 to further detail and implement changes in the updated MARCORSEPMAN. Relevant excerpts of the MARCORSEPMAN are included as Appendix C.

3.8 Describe your plans for FY14 that pertain to the achievement of high competence in holding offenders appropriately accountable.

The Marine Corps will continue to build on the positive momentum that it experienced in FY13 pertaining to the achievement of high competence in holding offenders appropriately accountable. The legal community will further refine its policy and procedures through the publication of a new Marine Corps Manual for Legal Administration (LEGADMINMAN), which will include a standard operating procedure for its regional Legal Services Support Sections. To further strengthen this effort, the Marine Corps Trial Counsel Assistance Program (TCAP) will continue to refine and expand its training to effectively teach trial counsel the art and science of litigating complex cases, including sexual assault courts-martial.

In addition, the Marine Corps VLCO will also reach full operational capability in FY14 (January 1, 2014). Victim legal counsel will provide confidential legal assistance to eligible victims of crime in place of legal assistance attorneys. They will fully advise victims of their rights in the military justice process and, when detailed, will represent them at military justice proceedings, in accordance with statute, regulation, and case law. If a victim may have been involved in collateral misconduct, the victim legal counsel will refer the victim, when appropriate, to the Marine Corps Defense Services Organization. If a victim requires traditional legal assistance services, the victim legal counsel will refer the victim, when appropriate, to the legal assistance office. This representation should encourage more victims to participate in the military justice process, which will ultimately help the Marine Corps hold offenders accountable.

4. LOE 4—Advocacy/Victim Assistance--The objective of advocacy/victim assistance is to “deliver consistent and effective victim support, response, and reporting options.”

4.1 Summarize your Service or Component’s efforts to achieve the Advocacy/Victim Assistance Endstate: “DoD provides high quality services and support to instill confidence and trust, strengthen resilience, and inspire victims to report.”

In FY13, the Marine Corps completed the implementation of several initiatives designed to enhance its victim care and advocacy capabilities. All SAPR personnel underwent 40 hours of victim advocacy training as required for credentialing by the National Organization of Victim Assistance (NOVA) and all SARCs and SAPR VAs received refresher training at the Annual SAPR Training Event in Quantico, Va. This three-day event included lectures by subject matter experts on victim assistance, sexual assault forensic examinations, legislative affairs, the reorganized Marine Corps legal community, train-the-trainer techniques, the Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database (DSAID), and prosecution strategies.

The Annual SAPR Training Event also included SARC training for the establishment of Sexual Assault Response Teams (SARTs) – the flagship initiative of Phase II of the SAPR Campaign Plan – implemented at every Marine Corps installation. SARTs assist victims in navigating a multifaceted process without revictimization and ensure a coordinated response. At a minimum, a SART consists of NCIS, military police, SARC/VA, judge advocate/trial counsel, mental health services representatives, and sexual assault forensic examiners. Designed to ensure supportive services from initial contact with the victim to the conclusion of services and care, SARTs are to meet at least quarterly to monitor coordination and communicate concerns pertaining to specific unrestricted cases.

Ongoing support is provided to victims in the form of monthly case status updates, which, in addition to the quality assurance of services and systemic coordination, are facilitated by case management groups (CMGs). CMGs meet monthly to review all unrestricted reports of sexual assault. Co-chaired by the installation Commander and SARC, CMGs include the VA/UVA, staff judge advocate, NCIS, law enforcement, health care personnel, mental health/counseling representatives, the victim's Commander, and the chaplain. CMGs discuss in a confidential setting the status of all cases in which the victim continues to receive advocacy services through the Marine Corps and the legal process has yet to reach its final disposition. CMG training is given to all installation SARCs as an additional requirement for their billet.

Marine Corps advocacy/victim assistance services are also ensured through the continued use of the SAPR 8-Day Brief, a valuable tool that enhances the Commanding Officer's ability to provide immediate attention and care to victims. The brief must be submitted within the first eight days of an unrestricted report to the first General Officer in the victim's chain of command. An effective oversight tool, it essentially functions as a comprehensive checklist that includes responsibilities of both the Commander and the sexual assault response coordinator (SARC). These responsibilities include the following:

- Assigning the victim a VA or UVA;
- Referring the victim to medical services;
- Ensuring that a sexual assault forensic examination (SAFE) was offered and, if not, detailing the reasons why;
- Ensuring that the victim is aware of all available counseling and chaplain services;
- Informing the victim of the right to request an expedited transfer; and
- Informing the victim of the right to speak confidentially with a legal assistance attorney about the military justice process and the rights and benefits afforded the victim.

The SAPR 8-Day Brief is recognized as a best practice in victim care and commander-focused victim support, and similar oversight mechanisms are being adopted for use across the entire Department of Defense (DoD).

The Marine Corps also adheres to the DoD's Standards for Victim Assistance Services in the Military Community, which are consistent with the National Victim Assistance Standards Consortium, but incorporate the unique needs of the military community. These standards cover the following areas: competency standards for victim assistance personnel, ethical standards for victim assistance personnel, and foundational standards for programs.

4.2 List the total number of full-time SARC/SAPR VAs serving at brigade or equivalent level. If not at 100%, describe your efforts to achieve 100% fill.

The Marine Corps' SAPR workforce currently includes 21 full-time civilian VAs, 1,510 Uniformed Victim Advocates (UVAs), 40 collateral-duty SARCs, and 40 full-time SARCs. Due to the size and operational nature of the Marine Corps, VAs have been placed at the installation in general support of the operational forces. The number of VAs hired and their placement were determined by the size of the eligible population supported and the number of victims. Full-time SARC were placed at the installation level, in general support of the operational forces, and at the Marine Expeditionary Force (MEF), Marine Division (Div), Marine Aircraft Wing (MAW), Marine Logistics Group (MLG), and select Military Occupational Special (MOS) schools. Placement of civilian full-time SARC at these levels allowed the Marine Corps to further operationalize the SAPR program, while providing the best support to victims of sexual assault. Per Marine Corps Order, SARC are required at the General Court-Martial Convening Authority level and at every Marine Expeditionary Unit. O-6 level Commanders can appoint a collateral-duty SARC, but are not required to.

A minimum of two UVAs are appointed to geographically remote units, schools, operational battalions, squadrons, and equivalent-sized commands (e.g., CLR, CLB, etc.), whether in garrison or deployed. Marine Corps Recruiting Command (MCRC) ensures each recruiting region, Marine Corps District, and recruiting station appoints a minimum of one UVA. Marine Forces Reserve (MARFORRES) ensures each Inspector-Instructor or Site Support Staff on every MARFORRES site appoints a minimum of one UVA. Marine Corps Embassy Security Group (MCESG) ensures each region appoints a minimum of one UVA.

4.3 List the total number SARC and SAPR VAs certified in FY13. If not at 100%, describe your efforts to achieve 100% certified.

As of November 27, 2013, 98 SARC and 1,780 VAs/UVAs have been certified since the start of FY13. These numbers exceed the SAPR workforce (i.e., greater than 100 percent) because they include personnel who have been certified, but not appointed, to perform SAPR duties. Such personnel are not counted as part of the active SAPR workforce.

4.4 Describe your efforts to develop victim continuity of care protocol in collaboration with the Department of Veterans Affairs and external Veterans Service Organizations.

Collaboration is ongoing with Disabled American Veterans (DAV), a veterans service organization whose mission includes: ensuring that veterans and their families can access the full range of benefits available to them, fighting for veterans' interests on Capitol Hill, and educating the public about the great sacrifices and needs of veterans transitioning back to civilian life. This collaboration is currently informing the development of a MARADMIN that details the various care options available to separated or retired Marines who have been sexually assaulted. Designed around the common barriers that veterans face upon separation or retirement, the MARADMIN will offer information on how to contact the Department of Veterans Affairs, how to obtain medical records, how to access the DoD Safe Helpline, and other entry points to continuous care and services. In addition, the MARADMIN will provide instructions on requirements for out-briefs given to all service members transitioning from active duty.

In addition, the Military Sexual Trauma Coordinator for the Veterans Affairs (VA) Maryland Health Care System participated in the Annual SAPR Training Event conducted in August 2013 for all SARC and SAPR VAs. While providing an overview of the Veterans Health Administration, the speaker focused her discussion on Military Sexual Trauma (MST), to include what constitutes MST, the Veteran Health Administration's response to MST-related diagnoses, eligibility for MST-related health care, and how veterans can access this care.

4.5 Describe your efforts to improve the portability and availability of victim services in deployed environments, ensuring continuity of victim care. Include a description of the steps taken during that year to ensure that trained personnel, appropriate supplies, and transportation resources are accessible to deployed units in order to provide an appropriate and timely response in any case of reported sexual assault in a deployed unit, location, or environment.

The 40-hour Marine Corps victim advocacy training program, which is mandatory for all SARCs, VAs, and UVAs, contains lessons specific to performing duties in deployed environments. Command SARCs and UVAs operate in deployed environments, ensuring full SAPR response capability. In addition, the following personnel also operate in deployed environments in support of the SAPR program:

- Judge Advocates: In support of combat and contingency operations, Marine Corps judge advocates serve in a variety of billets including Staff Judge Advocates to major Marine Corps commands, trial and defense counsel, and military judges. General and special courts-martial have also been held in theater, demonstrating that the UCMJ is sufficiently flexible to provide for justice in an expeditionary environment.
- Health Services (HS) personnel: Involved in operation planning and participates in deployed SAPR capability in coordination with Operational Commander, judge advocate, and SARCs. Current operational setting involves HS policy at the Role 1 and Role 2 levels having procedures to provide initial sexual assault identification/receiving and coordinating movement to Role 3 facilities where SAFE and the rest of the sexual assault response can best be addressed.
- Chaplains: All deployed units are assigned a trained and qualified professional naval chaplain who is able to provide pastoral care to victims, as well as alleged offenders.
- NCIS personnel: NCIS personnel deploy and provide timely response to reported cases of sexual assault in deployed locations. In deployed locations where NCIS is not currently imbedded, a response capability exists.

In addition, HQMC SAPR strengthened its pre-deployment training for all Marines who will be deployed for short or extended periods. Pre-deployment SAPR training is conducted by UVAs and provides a brief history of the specific foreign countries or areas anticipated for deployment, and the area's customs, mores, religious practices, and status of forces agreement. It also emphasizes how the crime of sexual assault impacts the unit; impairs readiness, effectiveness, and mission accomplishment; and puts the safety and security of the unit at risk.

4.6 Describe revised policies and/or procedures developed that allow Reserve Component Service members who are victims of sexual assault while on active duty to remain on active duty status to obtain the treatment and support afforded active duty members. Include documentation in the appendix.

Marine Corps Forces Reserve (MARFORRES) evaluates each sexual assault report to determine the needs of the victim. If a Reserve Component member reports being assaulted on active duty status for over 30 days, he or she is afforded the option to remain on active duty orders until services are no longer required under the Title 10 status, or the victim chooses to waive the Title 10 status. If a Reserve Component member waives his or her Title 10 status or has been on orders for less than 30 days, a Line of Duty Determination is established that will allow for the victim to receive medical and mental health care while not on an active duty status.

While medical entitlements for Reserve Component members remain dependent on a Line of Duty (LOD) determination as to whether or not the sexual assault incident occurred in an active duty or inactive duty training status, this determination does not affect their eligibility to file a report or to receive SAPR support services. All SAPR program services are available to Reserve Component members who are sexually assaulted when performing active service and during inactive duty training. If they report a sexual assault that occurred prior to or while not performing active service or inactive training, they are still eligible to receive SAPR support services from a SARC and a SAPR VA and to file a restricted or unrestricted report.

If requested by the Reserve Component member, the command should allow for separate training on different weekends or times from the alleged offender or with a different unit in the home drilling location to ensure undue burden is not placed on the victim and his or her family by the transfer. Transfer of the alleged offender instead of the victim will also be considered. Relevant policy documentation is included as Appendix D.

In addition, the FY13 initiative to upstaff SAPR personnel across the Marine Corps included five new positions – three Command SARCs and two SAPR VAs – dedicated exclusively to Marine Corps Forces Reserve. All five positions have been filled.

4.7 Describe your efforts to enhance sexual assault training for health care providers. Include requirements that ensure training conforms to "A National Protocol for Sexual Assault Medical Forensic Examinations, Adults/Adolescents"; how to handle a Restricted Report; and how to conduct the SAFE exam.

As of October 24, 2013, 97 Navy Military Treatment Facilities (MTFs) are now capable of conducting SAFE exams. MTFs around the globe have trained a total of 324 Navy MTF SAFE providers. In U.S. Fleet Forces, 287 providers have been trained to provide SAFE care on 123 surface, air, expeditionary, and submarine platforms. In U.S. Pacific Fleet, 191 providers have been trained to provide SAFE care on 142 surface, air, and submarine platforms. Additionally, 57 providers attached to the Military Sealift Command have undergone SAFE training. Training for these 859 personnel included 14.5 hours of standardized DVD teaching. This interactive DVD training was mapped against the Department of Justice National Protocol for Sexual Assault Medical Forensic Examination and helps ensure that all providers receive an industry standard quality training product.

In addition, while not health care providers, all chaplains and religious program specialists serving Marine Corps commands complete formal, specialized training that emphasizes the impact of sexual assault on victims, as well as their SAPR-related responsibilities. In addition, to increase avenues of support for victims of sexual assault, the Chaplain Corps' Confidentiality Campaign implemented its program "Training for Care Givers Serving with Marines."

4.8 Describe sexual assault related health care initiatives undertaken by your Service in FY13. Include mental health treatment programs and follow-up procedures that are gender-responsive, culturally competent, and recovery-oriented.

The following initiatives were undertaken by the Marine Corps and Navy Medicine in FY13 to enhance health care capabilities:

- BUMED Instruction 6310.11A was signed on May 2, 2013, establishing a comprehensive program to provide victims of sexual assault access to SAFEs at both 24/7 and non-24/7 MTFs by the end of FY13. The efforts and scope of this program extended to Navy Medicine at U.S. Fleet Forces and U.S. Pacific Fleet to provide the same level of training and care in maritime and expeditionary environments for victims of sexual assault.
- BUMED is partnering with the U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Laboratory (USACIL) to provide quality assurance feedback on Navy SAFE kits processed by their facility. They are the sole source facility for completing forensic exams in the military. Unlike the civilian sector, USACIL does not limit forensic samples submitted and USACIL is time-bound by the UCMJ to complete forensic evidence within the 120 day maximum for "speedy trial." Their staff does a monumental job in completing evidence examinations within an average of 71–77 days. For comparison, civilian facilities can take 150–160 days to process evidence.
- Per SECNAVINST 1752.4b, all MTFs, along with deployable Navy and Marine Corps units with organic medical department, must have victim care protocols in place for the management of sexual assault victims. Victim care protocols must support SAFEs being done within 60 minutes of request by a provider or a designated law enforcement official. The protocols must ensure that all involved in treating sexual assault patients understand the need for gender sensitivity and patient-centered care.
- As detailed in MARADMIN 568/13, the Marine Corps utilizes a community health approach to address the behavioral health issues facing Marines, Sailors, and their families. A community health approach provides increased access to counseling by integrating counseling into the community, which, in turn, helps normalize help seeking. The establishment of the Community Counseling Program (CCP) will increase the focus on screening, prevention, and intervention of stressors and problems to improve the readiness of Marines, Sailors, and their families. Specifically, the CCP will provide evidence-based intervention activities, including non-medical counseling and clinical case management.

- The CCP provides for non-medical counseling services provided to victims of sexual assault through installation Marine and Family Programs (MFP) for all Marines, attached Sailors, and their families. Services include community-based counseling and clinical case management services. The Marine Corps requires training for providers in delivery treatment modalities in evidenced-based practices, cognitive behavior therapy, cognitive processing therapy, and trauma-induced care.
- A Memorandum of Understanding (MOU), signed December 2013 between BUMED, the MFP Division, and Health Services (HS) establishes a comprehensive system of psychological health services for active duty Marines and their families. Respect for patient autonomy as an underlying principle is paramount in our system of care, taking into account the role of the Marine, the attached Sailor, or family member in deciding whether to seek or participate in care.
- The Marine Corps Behavioral Health Program continues to integrate line-based community behavioral health efforts and leverage a risk-and-protective framework to identify and equip field staff and Marines alike to recognize problems early and intervene at the lowest possible level. Interventions are built on a strengths-based model as opposed to a deficits model and recognize the key role of today's leaders in the health and well-being of Marines. Behavioral Health utilizes the Institute of Medicine Prevention Continuum as a platform for ensuring appropriate continuum of care efforts is available to all Marines and families.
- The DSTRESS Line is available to Marines, attached Sailors, and family members, providing them counseling from “one of their own” who can relate to, and help them cope with, everyday stress or the heaviest burdens in their lives. Since inception in August 2010, the DSTRESS Line has provided non-medical counseling services to over 11,000 Marines, attached Sailors, and their family members.
- The Marine Corps expanded the Military Family Life Consultant (MFLC) Program, establishing a non-medical surge care capacity at the installation and unit level. The MFLCs are OSD contract care consultants who provide confidential care in a unit or installation setting.

4.9 List the number of victims, if any, whose care was hindered due to lack of SAFE kits or timely access to appropriate laboratory testing resources and describe the measures you took to remedy the situation.

In FY13, no cases have been reported in which a victim's care was hindered due to the lack of SAFE kits or timely access to appropriate laboratory testing resources.

4.10 List initiatives and programs implemented to reduce the stigma and overcome barriers associated with reporting sexual assault.

Since the launch of the SAPR Campaign Plan in June 2012, all SAPR training across the Corps has been designed to reduce stigma of sexual assault victims. These Corps-wide programs utilize a variety of teaching methods and materials, to include Ethical Discussion Groups (EDGs), mini-lectures, guided group discussions and activities, and video messages recorded by the Commandant and the Sergeant Major of the Marine Corps, other senior leaders, subject matter experts, and victims. In addition to challenging pre-existing beliefs and misinformation, each of the programs clearly communicates all reporting options, promotes leadership engagement, and emphasizes bystander intervention.

In addition, the Marine Corps SAPR Commanders Course, which is mandatory for all prospective Commanders and Senior Enlisted Advisors, emphasizes the importance of command climate and the central role of leadership in both prevention and response. Teaching the basic concepts and issues related to sexual assault in the military, the course is designed to ensure that all Marine Corps leaders understand:

- Risks and circumstances associated with sexual assault incidence and the proactive measures to prevent sexual assault and associated destructive behaviors within their command;
- Essential elements of a quality victim care response program and the roles and responsibilities of victim service providers;
- Complexity of sexual assault crimes and the appropriate investigation and disposition options available; and
- The roles of Commanders and Senior Enlisted Leaders in fostering a command environment free of sexual assault.

Several initiatives have been implemented to also strengthen Marine Corps victim care and offender accountability capabilities, with the hope that more victims will be encouraged to come forward and less sexual assaults are committed. These include several large-scale, institutional changes designed to enhance medical and counseling services, expedite the investigation process, strengthen prosecution capabilities, and improve victim advocacy and legal advisory services.

4.11 Describe what measures have been taken by your Service to ensure that Service members are informed in a timely manner of the member's option to request a Military Protective Order (MPO) from the command of assignment. Include documentation that requires law enforcement agents to document MPOs in their investigative case files, to include documentation for Reserve Component personnel in title 10 status.

MCO 1752.5B mandates Commanders to issue a Military Protective Order (MPO), if applicable, and to provide the victim with a copy of the signed MPO. The MPO will remain in effect until the Commander terminates the order or issues a replacement order. This requirement is included in the SAPR 8-Day Brief, helping to ensure its implementation.

4.12 Describe and provide documentation of your Service or Component's expedited victim transfer request policy, including measures taken to ensure victims are informed in a timely manner of their right to request an expedited transfer. Documentation should be included as an appendix.

The Marine Corps expedited transfer policy was released on 28 February 2012 in the form of a Letter of Instruction (included as Appendix E). Victim advocates inform victims, at the time they elect to file an unrestricted report of sexual assault or as soon as practicable, of their option to request a temporary or permanent transfer from their assigned command or base, or to a different location within their assigned command or base. Marines requesting a transfer must submit a signed and dated written request to their Commanding Officer, who must approve or disapprove the request within 72 hours. If the request is disapproved, the victim is given the opportunity to request a review by the first General Flag Officer in the chain of command, who is also given 72 hours to approve or disapprove the request.

4.12.1 Pertaining to temporary and/or permanent local expedited transfers (a different location within their assigned command or installation), provide:

- The number requested
- The number approved as the victim requested
- The number approved different than the victim requested
- The number denied and a summary of why
- The number moved within 30 days of approval
- The number moved after 30 days of approval

Of the 56 expedited transfer requests made in FY13, 14 were for a Permanent Change of Address (PCA) (i.e., a different location within their assigned command or installation). None of the 14 requests were denied and all orders were cut within three days of the request.

4.12.2 Pertaining to permanent requested expedited transfers (from their assigned command or installation), provide:

- The number requested
- The number approved as the victim requested
- The number approved different than the victim requested
- The number denied and a summary of why
- The number moved within 30 days of approval
- The number moved after 30 days of approval

Of the 56 expedited transfer requests made in FY13, 42 were for a Permanent Change of Station (PCS) (i.e., a transfer from their assigned command or installation). Of the 42 requests, one was denied. Of the 41 transfers, all orders were cut within three days of the request.

Summary of denial: The victim requested the expedited transfer over one year and seven months after the violation (abusive sexual contact). The offender was part of the victim's unit during this entire period of time, indicating that the victim was not at risk for further assaults. Although the request was denied, the victim was issued Temporary Assigned Duty (TAD) to a different combat logistics regiment away from the offender.

4.13 Describe your plans for FY14 that pertain to delivering consistent and effective victim support, response, and reporting options.

In FY14, the Marine Corps will continue to develop, integrate, and refine new and existing programs and initiatives to strengthen its victim care capabilities. As a further rise in sexual assault reports is anticipated in FY14, the Marine Corps must ensure that its responders are appropriately trained and prepared to take action. To this end, the following specific initiatives are scheduled for FY14:

- Upstaffing of SAPR personnel: In FY13, 27 full-time SARCs and 22 full-time SAPR VAs were added. The Marine Corps plans to fill 21 additional full-time SAPR billets in FY14.
- Victim Advocacy Survey: The Marine Corps has developed an anonymous victim advocacy survey to maintain both the quality of care and the level of victim engagement from the date of the report to the conclusion of services. The survey includes questions pertaining to services provided by the SARC and VA, law enforcement, medical, legal, the chaplain, and the chain of command. Compiling the first-hand concerns of sexual assault victims, the survey will help the Marine Corps establish a baseline from which the institution’s support and advocacy capabilities can be further enhanced.
- Sexual Assault Advisory Group (SAAG): The SAAG meets quarterly at the headquarters level to address systemic issues raised via Installation SARTs and SAAG members for the purpose of informing policy. Core members include: SARCs, NCIS, staff judge advocate, family advocacy program, chaplain, the BUMED/Health Services, HQMC SAPR, and Plans, Policies & Operations (law enforcement).

5. LOE 5—Assessment—The objective of assessment is to “effectively standardize, measure, analyze, assess, and report program progress.”

5.1 Summarize your Service or Component’s efforts to achieve the Assessment Endstate: “DoD incorporates responsive, meaningful, and accurate systems of measurement and evaluation into every aspect of the SAPR program.”

The Marine Corps continues to utilize and develop various mechanisms for data collection, analysis, and assessment that assists Commanders, SARCs, service providers, investigators, and judge advocates in evaluating and improving program and service efficacy. In FY13, several initiatives were completed or advanced to achieve meaningful and accurate evaluations of every aspect of the SAPR program. These include: continued use and refinement of the SAPR 8-Day Brief; continued use of the DEOMI Organizational Climate Survey; development and implementation of the CMC Command Climate Survey; development of a victim advocacy survey; as well as regular inspections, teleconferences, and helpline audits at the installation level. These and other efforts provide the Marine Corps with the clarity needed to pinpoint the problem and to effectively focus future efforts.

5.2 Describe oversight activities during FY13 that assess the SAPR program effectiveness. Include frequency, methods used, findings and recommendations, corrective action taken (e.g., program management review and Inspector General inspections), and other activities. Include documentation of published reports in appendix.

In compliance with MCO 1752.B, the SAPR Program is subject to “regular and no-notice inspections” by the Inspector General of the Marine Corps (IGMC). These are conducted by the IG team with the use of an extensive Functional Area checklist developed by Headquarters Marine Corps (HQMC) SAPR. The IG team is also accompanied by a HQMC SAPR program and policy specialist. HQMC SAPR also continues to conduct monthly audits of all 24/7 Sexual Assault Helplines, measuring response proficiency of SARCs and VAs responsible for answering inquiries and providing information pertinent to victim options and resources.

In addition, from October 2012 to January 2013, the Department of the Navy Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Office (DON SAPRO) and HQMC SAPR concluded site visits of Marine Corps initial military training environments, to include Recruit Depots, Schools of Infantry, and the Basic School. The visits entailed broad-based inquiries that focused on two major areas: the professionalism and oversight of instructors, and the overall command climate with respect to gender issues and sexual assault in particular. The final report by DON SAPRO (excerpts of which are included as Appendix F) indicated many positive findings pertaining to awareness training and victim care access, identifying the SAPR Campaign Plan and personal engagement by the Commandant as best practices. In addition, the report described the effectiveness of chaplain involvement, multiple reporting mechanisms, bystander intervention training, command leadership, and the enforcement of explicit standards of conduct – all of which the Marine Corps continues to improve upon and emphasize.

5.3 Describe any and all implementations of Government Accountability Office (GAO) and Defense Task Force–Sexual Assault in the Military Services (DTF–SAMS) recommendations. Include any assessments of implementation.

The Marine Corps has complied with the recommendation put forth by the Government Accountability Office in its latest report, released January 2013. Specifically, the Marine Corps has taken steps to improve first responders’ compliance with the department’s requirements for annual refresher training. To maintain their credentials through the DoD Sexual Assault Advocate Certification Program (D-SAACP), all SAPR personnel must complete 16 hours of continuing education annually. HQMC SAPR facilitates the completion of this requirement through its Annual SAPR Training Event, which is mandatory for all SARCs and SAPR VAs.

In addition, the Marine Corps is in compliance with the following recommendations from the Defense Task Force–Sexual Assault in the Military Services (DTF–SAMS):

- Ensure that IG personnel are not performing SARC duties: This recommendation is included in the revised MCO 1752.5B, released March 2013: “Commanders shall not select the SARC from personnel performing the following duties: SJA/deputies, IG/deputies, chaplain, Equal Opportunity Officer, and Marine Corps Community Services (MCCS) personnel (e.g., FAP Manager (FAPM) and MCCS Director).” In addition, based on a field survey conducted in conjunction with this requirement, the Marine Corps does not have any IG personnel performing SARC duties.

- Judge Advocates do not serve as both VWLs and trial counsel for the same case: This recommendation is outlined in MCO 5800.14 on “Marine Corps Victim and Witness Assistance Program (VWAP),” which explicitly prohibits installation Commanders from appointing trial counsel as Victim Witness Liaison Officers (VWLOs).

All Marine Corps SARCs receive DSAID training and use DSAID as a case management system, entering information within 48 hours of a report of sexual assault (96 hours in deployed locations presenting internet connectivity issues). DSAID collects available information about the nature of assaults, the victim, services offered to the victim, the offender, and disposition of reports associated with the assault. NCIS uploads final case disposition weekly into DSAID.

Initial challenges regarding the Department-wide migration to DSAID largely involved procedural and operational difficulties which, in the Marine Corps, were mitigated by extensive, mandatory training for every SARC. The training consisted of four modules that cover all functions of DSAID, including establishing initial SARC and VA profiles, creating and converting cases, transferring and closing cases, and business and administrative functions. Refresher DSAID training is ongoing. In addition, DSAID Case Control Board (CCB) meetings are conducted by DoD SAPRO every month. Attended by representatives from each service, the CCB meetings are held to suggest and discuss possible changes to DSAID based on difficulties and challenges reported from the field.

5.5 Describe any measures your Service or Component has established to assess and manage your SAPR program. If you have begun assessing your program based on these measures, describe your findings thus far and actions taken.

In addition to regular IG inspections and monthly helpline audits, HQMC SAPR continues to conduct monthly teleconferences with Installation SARCs. These teleconferences provide a Corps-wide forum to discuss matters related to policy, existing cases, new training initiatives, and other programmatic issues.

At the installation level, case management groups (CMGs) meet monthly to review all unrestricted reports of sexual assault. Co-chaired by the installation Commander and SARC, CMGs include the VA/UVA, staff judge advocate, NCIS, law enforcement, health care personnel, mental health/counseling representatives, the victim’s Commander, and the chaplain. CMGs discuss in a confidential setting the status of all cases in which the victim continues to receive advocacy services through the Marine Corps and the legal process has yet to reach its final disposition.

In addition, the Judge Advocate Division (JAD) uses the Case Management System (CMS) to track the progress of all courts-martial in the Marine Corps. CMS was not designed as a sexual assault litigation tracking system, but tracks SAPR cases that are adjudicated at court-martial. CMS was originally designed to accurately track all courtsmarital from the trial stage through appellate review to ensure timely appellate processing of cases, but the Marine Corps is in the process of making modifications to CMS to provide more detailed data about the processing of sexual assault cases.

With the current CMS capability, the Marine Corps is able to harvest data that gives JAD some ability to assess and measure the effectiveness of legal initiatives. For example, since the Marine Corps legal reorganization achieved full operational capability on October 1, 2012, the number of prosecutions of SAPR cases has risen dramatically and conviction rates have remained fairly consistent. In addition, convicted sex offenders are receiving more punitive discharges and that there are more sentences of five years or more confinement than prior to the reorganization. Therefore, the Marine Corps is able to assess the effectiveness of the legal reorganization because the data demonstrates that more offenders are being held accountable.

5.6 Provide a summary of your research and data collection activities conducted in FY13. Include documentation in the appendix.

The SAPR 8-Day Brief, a tool designed to enhance victim care, has also been used as a valuable tool in data collection and assessment, compiling statistics that help identify trends regarding sexual assault in the Marine Corps. These trends include important information pertaining to sexual assault cases, including alcohol involvement, victim age and grade, latency of reports, issuance of MPOs, location of incidents, and offender information. Every quarter, these statistics are compiled by HQMC SAPR and briefed to the Assistant Commandant of the Marine Corps. The latest such brief, which compiles for all SAPR 8-Day Briefs completed between 1 July and 30 September 2012, is included as Appendix G.

In addition to DoD quarterly and annual reports, research and data collection activities in FY13 included:

- “Tone of the Force” and Gouge Sheet monthly summaries, which include a year-to-date tally of restricted reports and unrestricted reports, as well as a quarterly update of adjudicated cases.
- Weekly NCIS data reconciliations, performed to match up NCIS investigations with unrestricted reports in the Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database (DSAID).
- Expedited transfer tracking, which tracks the quantity of requests, approvals, and denials. This tracking also contains limited victim information and location.

5.6.1 Describe your efforts to develop and harmonize sexual assault focused survey efforts to align with DoD and other Services.

The Marine Corps conducts two command climate surveys, the DEOMI Organizational Climate Survey and the CMC Command Climate Survey, which was directed by the Commandant in June 2013. Both surveys are in compliance with the Secretary of Defense memorandum dated May 17, 2013, which mandates the results of the surveys be provided to the next level up in the chain of command, to enhance accountability and improve insight into subordinate command climates.

Also, starting in FY14, the DEOMI Organizational Climate Survey, which is used across the Department of Defense, will be expanded to include additional questions pertaining to SAPR, specifically regarding bystander intervention and perceived safety in military workplaces and residences. These additional survey items will allow for a more refined assessment of SAPR training effectiveness.

5.7 Describe your plans for FY14 that pertain to effectively standardizing, measuring, analyzing, assessing, and reporting program progress.

In addition to the two command climate surveys, the Marine Corps will continue its use of the SAPR 8-Day Brief, which has been recognized as a best practice, with similar oversight mechanisms being adopted and standardized for use across the entire Department of Defense (DoD). Continued analyses of these briefs will help to identify gaps and trends in the SAPR program and direct the focus of Marine Corps prevention efforts. To further assess and refine its victim care capabilities, the Marine Corps will distribute its anonymous victim advocacy survey, which will help to maintain both the quality of care and the level of victim engagement from the date of the report to the conclusion of services. The Marine Corps is also actively engaged with the Department of the Navy (DON) on victim support performance standards, as per SECNAVINST 1752.4B, and with the DoD on metrics that measure performance and effectiveness on the five lines of effort.

In FY14 and beyond, the Marine Corps will remain dedicated to this effort of incorporating responsive, meaningful, and accurate systems of measurement and evaluation into every aspect of its SAPR program in order to determine the impact it is having on reducing and eliminating sexual assault, responding to victims in need, and holding offenders accountable.

6. Overarching Tenet: Communication and Policy

6.1 Summarize your Service or Component's efforts to synchronize and standardize the SAPR program across the Joint Force (from Joint/Service basing to forward stationed deployed units worldwide).

Since the launch of the SAPR Campaign Plan in June 2012, the Marine Corps has been aligned with the Strategic Direction to the Joint Force on SAPR, released May 2012, as well as the revised DoD SAPR Strategic Plan, released May 2013. The purpose and structure of the Marine Corps SAPR Campaign Plan mirror the SAPR Strategic Plan's objective to "reduce – with a goal to eliminate – sexual assault" through the operationalization of the five lines of effort (LOE) included in this annual report: Prevention, Advocacy/Victim Assistance, Investigation, Accountability, and Assessment. To this end, the Marine Corps in FY13 has completed or is in the process of completing all OSD tasks as presented in the SAPR Strategic Plan for each LOE, as well as OSD's expanded overarching tenets of Communications, Policy, Leadership, Culture and Climate/Environment, Integration, and Resourcing. Specific FY13 Joint Force alignment initiatives include:

- Marine Corps Order (MCO) 1752.5B was updated to reflect all DoD Instructions and Directives. The new MCO was signed and released in March 2013.
- In January 2013, OSD conducted evaluations of Marine Corps advocacy training for newly hired installation SARCs. OSD provided very positive feedback, stating that both the training contains numerous best practices to be provided to the other Services.

- In compliance with the Secretary of Defense (SecDef) memorandum dated May 17, the Marine Corps conducted a SAPR Stand-down for all Marines and civilians; a review of credentials and qualifications of current-serving recruiters, Sexual Assault Response Coordinators (SARCs), and Victim Advocates (VAs) to ensure they meet applicable selection criteria and standards of conduct; and refresher training for all recruiters, SARCs and VAs on professional ethics, their critical responsibilities and standards, and the impact on mission readiness for violations of standards.
- In compliance with the SecDef memos dated May 6 and August 14, the Marine Corps completed and advanced the various outlined requirements pertaining to: Enhancing Commander Accountability, Improving Response and Victim Treatment, Assessing Military Justice Systems, Ensuring Safety, Ensuring Appropriate Command Climate, Ensuring Victims' Rights, Improving Victims' Counsel, Enhancing and Standardizing Protections, Elevating Oversight, Enhancing Pretrial Investigations, and Ensuring Investigative Quality.

6.2 Describe your efforts to post and widely disseminate sexual assault information (e.g., hotline phone numbers and internet websites) to Service members, eligible dependents, and civilian personnel of the DoD.

MCO 1752.5B mandates information about victim support services, points of contact, and resources be made available in the unit's or command's common area and areas of high pedestrian traffic. This includes posters that display the photograph of the SARC or UVA, the installation's 24/7 helpline, the DoD Safe Helpline, and reporting options. A copy of the command's policy statement on sexual assault awareness and prevention must also be posted throughout the command's common areas. In addition, all official command and installation websites include the 24/7 helpline phone number on their homepage and link to reporting information and resources.

6.3 Describe your development and implementation of specialized medical and mental health care policy for sexual assault victims. Include a copy of your implementation plan in the appendix.

The Navy Bureau of Medicine and Surgery (BUMED), M9 (Wounded, Ill, and Injured), the Marine Corps Behavioral Health Program, and Marine Corps Health Services (HS) are developing a comprehensive system of psychological health care for Marines, attached Sailors, and their families, from education and prevention, through all levels of care, including aftercare and/or continuing care. Coordination for this initiative began in FY13. The Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) signed December 2013 and published in MARADMIN 568/13 details the medical and non-medical establishment of a comprehensive system of psychological health services for active duty Marines and their families.

The Community Counseling Program (CCP) provides diagnostic screening and assessments for the purpose of determining appropriate referrals and care of victims of sexual assault. In addition, CCP provides community-based counseling and case management services for victims of sexual assault whose diagnoses are sub-clinical in nature and not potentially disabling. Clinical case management services provide access to care between multiple care settings, ensuring the Marine does not “fall through cracks.” Both services are provided by licensed clinical staff.

CCP Licensure includes Licensed Clinical Social Workers (LCSWs), Licensed Marriage and Family therapists (LMFTs), and Licensed Professional Counselors (LPCs). All clinicians are required to be credentialed to practice independently and have a minimum of two years post-licensure experience in clinical practice, or must be supervised by a licensed clinician who has been credentialed to practice independently.

In addition, regional SAFE Program Managers are currently updating their medical protocols with current 2013 SAFE/SAPR guidelines and legal recommendations. This will include new integrating HIV prophylaxis recommendations into Victim Care Protocols (Truvada and Raltagravir). Checklists utilized at Patuxent River and Naval Medical Center San Diego (MCRD-SD) and an algorithm utilized in the Tidewater region are included as Appendix H.

6.4 Describe your efforts to review, revise, update, and issue policy pertaining to:

- The record of dispositions of unrestricted reports.
- General education for correction of military records when victims experience retaliation.

Provide documentation in the appendix.

Marine Corps Order (MCO) 1752.5B, signed in March 2013, specifies that Staff Judge Advocate (SJA) establish protocol requiring case disposition information be given to the Command/Installation SARC for input into the sexual assault database (DSAID).

In addition, the Marine Corps falls under the Board for Correction of Naval Records (BCNR) and the SECNAVINST 5420.193, which establishes the procedures to correct military records. The Marine Corps has developed a one-page document to be distributed to all victims of sexual assault. The handout provides detailed guidance on how to petition the BCNR for correction of records.

Policy is included as Appendix I.

6.5 Describe your efforts to establish policy for General or Flag officer review of and concurrence in adverse administrative actions and separation of victims making an Unrestricted Report of sexual assault in FY13.

Marine Corps policy requires that the General Court-Martial Convening Authority (GCMCA) be the separation authority in all such involuntary separation cases, regardless of whether or not the victim requests General officer review based on an alleged retaliation action. In practice, almost all GCMCAs in the Marine Corps are General officers; however, those GCMCAs who are not General officers must forward such a case to a General officer in accordance with the Marine Corps Separation and Retirement Manual (MARCORSEPMAN). Paragraph 6307(3)(c) institutionalizes the requirements of Section 578 of the FY13 NDAA:

The separation authority for all administrative separation actions involving any Marine who made an unrestricted report of a sexual assault or any Marine who was the victim of sexual assault (whether or not an unrestricted report was made) that occur within one year of final disposition of his or her sexual assault case shall be a general officer exercising GCMCA and may not be delegated further. See reference (bk) DoDI 6495.02 and Section 578, H.R. 4310: Public Law No. 112-239, National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013.

6.6 Describe your plans for FY14 that pertain to synchronizing and standardizing the SAPR program across the Joint Force (from Joint/Service basing to forward stationed and deployed units worldwide).

In FY14, the Marine Corps will continue to implement the tasks presented in the DoD SAPR Strategic Plan, as well as the remaining initiatives outlined in the Secretary of Defense memoranda dated May 6 and August 14, to include:

- Continued cooperation with the Response Systems Panel, established under the FY13 NDAA to assess systems used to investigate, prosecute, and adjudicate cases of sexual assault.
- Full operationalization of the Marine Corps stood up its Victims' Legal Counsel Organization (VLCO) to ensure proper legal advice and representation to victims throughout the justice process.
- Further research and development pertaining to policy allowing the administrative reassignment or transfer of a Marine who is accused of committing a sexual assault or related offense, balancing the interests of the victim and the accused.

7. Secretary of Defense Initiatives

7.1 Enhancing Commander Accountability—Describe your efforts thus far to develop methods to assess the performance of military commanders in establishing command climates of dignity and respect and incorporating SAPR prevention and victim care principles in their commands, and hold them accountable.

The Marine Corps Fitness Report system provides the official evaluation and record of an officer's performance and contains a section entirely dedicated to leadership. This section evaluates the Commander's ability to set the example, communicate effectively, provide direction, and motivate, which includes his or her ability to develop, lead, and ensure the well-being of subordinates. Ensuring the well-being of subordinates necessitates that officers demonstrate a genuine concern for their safety – a characteristic rooted in the defining Marine Corps values of honor, courage, and commitment. The Commander's efforts must enhance the concentration and focus of the subordinate on unit mission accomplishment, which includes setting an environment free of any criminal behaviors, such as sexual assault.

In June 2012, the Commandant directed the development and implementation of a new command climate survey, to supplement the existing DEOMI Organization Climate Survey. The CMC command climate survey is mandatory within 30 days of assuming command, and annually thereafter. The purpose of the survey is to identify areas in which the unit can be improved, in an effort to prevent misconduct that may be conducive to more serious crimes, such as sexual assault. The SAPR Campaign Plan was built around the role of Commanders, their ability to enforce standards and discipline, and founded on the premise that commands that do not allow misconduct are the same commands that have fewer sexual assaults, suicides, alcohol-related incidents, and less hazing and harassment. The survey will measure the overall health and well-being of a command, and help to identify and mitigate these high-risk behaviors that tear at the fabric of the Corps.

7.2 Improving Response and Victim Treatment—Describe your efforts thus far to implement and monitor methods to improve victim treatment by their peers, co-workers, and chains of command.

The Marine Corps is continually working to improve overall victim care and trust in the chain of command, increase reporting, and reduce the possibility of ostracizing victims. The Marine Corps, in coordination with the DON SAPRO, has solicited input from victims to improve victim treatment by their peers, co-workers, and chains of command. In October 2013, the Marine Corps also completed and implemented a victim advocacy survey that will continue to monitor victim treatment and has incorporated training related to victim care and treatment into training venues. The purpose of the survey is to assess satisfaction with advocacy services, but also asks questions specific to the improvement of treatment by peers, co-workers, and chains of command.

Because sexual assault is a field that is replete with deeply held myths, which often form the basis of reprisals, all Marine Corps SAPR training programs are designed to educate Marines about sexual assault, reduce stigma, and eliminate victim blaming. Reprisals against victims who report an incident is unacceptable and an issue that Marine Corps leadership takes very seriously. Marine Corps SAPR training efforts therefore place heavy emphasis on more intrusive leadership and holding Commanders accountable for setting an environment built on trust and confidence that is non-permissive to sexual assault and responsive to victims in need.

7.3 Ensuring Safety—Describe your efforts to improve the effectiveness of SAPR programs in recruiting organizations, Military Entrance Processing Stations, and the Reserve Officer Training Corps. These assessments will include: 1) the selection, SAPR training, and oversight of recruiters; 2) the dissemination of SAPR program information to potential and actual recruits; and 3) the prevention and education programs in ROTC environments and curricula.

SAPR training has been incorporated into the Delayed Entry Program, Recruit Training, and Military Occupational Specialty (MOS) schools. Prior to attending either Recruit Training or Officer Candidates School (OCS), all selectees complete a two-hour values-based training course. The training focuses on the “whole of character” and ethical behavior as a Marine, instilling a refined and sustained understanding of the core values of honor, courage, and commitment. The training teaches that the success of the Marine Corps is founded on the character of all Marines, on their ability to make sound ethical decisions in any situation, and includes scenarios that address sexual assault, sexual harassment, racial discrimination, alcohol abuse, and hazing. Upon completion of the training, recruits and candidates are required to sign a Statement of Understanding, affirming their transformation and acceptance of the Marine Corps ethos.

Recruits and candidates receive sexual assault training within the first 14 days of both Recruit Training and OCS. This training provides them a general overview of the program, reporting options, available resources, and the principles of bystander intervention. Later in the training, Senior Drill Instructors conduct “foot locker” discussions with all recruits, a method used by Senior Drill Instructors to have candid conversations with recruits.

In addition, extensive SAPR training is given to all student recruiters at the Basic Recruiting School. In addition, the Marine Corps developed the Recruiting Ethics Program and Training, a one-day refresher course designed to provide new and existing recruiters with awareness, tools, and skills to enhance their SAPR decision making and overall performance on recruiting duty. To further enhance prevention in this area, the Marine Corps also instituted a “two-person integrity” policy, which requires that at least two recruiters be present during any interaction with recruit applicants.

7.4 Ensuring Appropriate Command Climate—Describe your efforts to ensure DoD facilities promote an environment of dignity and respect and are free from materials that create a degrading or offensive work environment. Include findings and actions taken from regular visual inspections.

Visual inspections are conducted annually and corrective actions are taken as required. Results are reported up the chain to the Secretary of the Navy.

In June 2013, the Marine Corps has conducted a visual inspection of all of its workplaces and common access spaces to include: office buildings, facilities, aircraft, government vehicles, hangars, ready rooms, conference rooms, individual offices, cubicles, storage rooms, tool and equipment rooms, workshops, break rooms, galleys, recreation areas, Marine Corps Exchanges, and heads. The authority to conduct workplace inspections could be delegated to an appropriate level within a command, unit, or activity, but no lower than the E-7 or civilian supervisory level.

A total of 514 items were removed as a result of the inspection. A detailed list and disposition method for each of these items is provided as Appendix J. Sexually suggestive magazines, posters/calendars and individual artwork represented the majority of inappropriate items found. These items were immediately removed from the workplace and it afforded the Commander and Senior Enlisted Advisor to further reinforce a message that fosters a positive command climate. In addition to the removal of offensive material, other corrective actions include holding Marines and civilian Marines accountable for inappropriate items and behavior and continuous training and education to ensure DON workplaces remain professional and free from degrading, hostile, and offensive material.

Inspections of all Marine Corps workplaces will be conducted on a regular basis, not less than annually. The Inspector General of the Marine Corps will review and address this ongoing requirement during regular command inspections and assessments. These inspections align with the Commander's existing ability to conduct health and comfort inspections to enhance personnel and mission readiness in accordance with MCO 5300.17.

The Secretary of Defense's requirement to conduct visual inspections of the workplace further reinforces the Commander's commitment to establishing a positive command climate that promotes an environment of dignity, respect, and professionalism. All leaders are responsible for keeping the culture of the Marine Corps free of offensive material and behavior that may demean or victimize any of their Marines, and this requires a full-dimensional, 360 degree approach. This visual inspection requirement will be an integral part of this responsibility.

RMKS/1. REF A IDENTIFIES THE CLEAR LEADERSHIP ROLE OF THE UNIT COMMANDER IN SETTING THE TONE AND DETERMINING THE DIRECTION OF THE UNIT. THERE IS NO MORE VISIBLE ASPECT OF LEADERSHIP THAN THE CLIMATE A COMMANDING OFFICER ESTABLISHES FOR THE MARINES IN HIS OR HER CHARGE. IT IS INEXTRICABLY LINKED WITH MISSION ACCOMPLISHMENT. A COMMANDING OFFICER HAS THE GREATEST INFLUENCE IN DETERMINING WHETHER THE MARINES IN THE UNIT ARE COMBAT READY, WHETHER THEY'RE HONORABLE, WHETHER THEY'RE FORTHRIGHT, WHETHER THEY'RE FOCUSED, AND HOW OR WHETHER THEY UPHOLD OUR VALUES AND VIRTUES. WHILE THERE ARE MANY LEADERSHIP STYLES, THE RESULT MUST BE A UNIT OF MARINES AND SAILORS WHO HAVE ABSOLUTE TRUST IN THEIR LEADERS, AND IN THEIR COMPETENCE.

2. IN ORDER TO ASSIST COMMANDING OFFICERS IN GAINING THE INSIGHT NECESSARY TO ADDRESS POTENTIAL AREAS OF CONCERNS AND HOLD MARINES TO THE HIGHEST PERSONAL, PROFESSIONAL, AND UNIT STANDARDS, CMC HAS DIRECTED THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A NEW COMMAND CLIMATE SURVEY (CCS). SURVEY RESULTS WILL BE PROVIDED TO THE COMMANDING OFFICER WHO WILL INFORM THE COMMANDER OF THEIR HIGHER HEADQUARTERS ON THE RESULTS OF THE SURVEY WITHIN FOURTEEN DAYS (NO STANDARD BRIEF FORMAT REQUIRED).

2.A. THE PURPOSE OF THIS SURVEY IS TO GATHER RESPONDENTS'

ENCLOSURE ( 1 )

PERCEPTIONS OF THEIR UNITS' COMMAND CLIMATE ASSOCIATED WITH LEADERSHIP ISSUES AND TO PROVIDE SURVEY FEEDBACK TO UNIT COMMANDERS.

3. THE CCS WILL BE TAKEN BY EVERY LIEUTENANT COLONEL AND COLONEL LEVEL COMMAND ON THE FOLLOWING TIMELINE:

3.A. COMMANDING OFFICERS WHO TAKE COMMAND AFTER 30 JUNE 2013 WILL INITIATE THE CCS WITHIN 30 DAYS OF ASSUMING COMMAND, AND AT LEAST ANNUALLY THEREAFTER.

3.B. COMMANDING OFFICERS WHO TOOK COMMAND PRIOR TO 30 JUNE 2013 WILL INITIATE THE CCS NLT 30 SEP 2013, AND AT LEAST ANNUALLY THEREAFTER.

3.C. COMMANDING OFFICERS WITH AN ESTABLISHED RELIEF DATE ON OR BEFORE 30 SEP 2013 ARE NOT REQUIRED TO INITIATE THE CCS.

3.D. IF THE ANNUAL CCS DATE FALLS WITHIN 90 DAYS OF A COMMANDING OFFICER'S CHANGE OF COMMAND, THE CCS WILL NOT BE REQUIRED AND THE INCOMING COMMANDER WILL REQUEST A CCS WITHIN 30 DAYS OF THEIR ASSUMPTION OF COMMAND.

4. CONSISTENT WITH OTHER MARINE CORPS SURVEY INSTRUMENTS AND TO PROMOTE THE HIGHEST POSSIBLE INTEGRITY OF THE DATA COLLECTED, THE FOLLOWING POLICIES ARE ESTABLISHED:

4.A. INDIVIDUAL SURVEY RESPONSES ARE ANONYMOUS - THE RESPONSES OF MARINES AND SAILORS RESPONDING TO THE SURVEY ARE PROTECTED AND NOT IDENTIFIABLE IN THE SYSTEM. ALL MARINES AND SAILORS MUST BE FREE TO RESPOND WITHOUT CONCERN FOR REPRISAL, REAL OR PERCEIVED.

4.B. ACCESS TO UNIT LEVEL SURVEY RESULTS IS RESTRICTED - THE SURVEY RESULTS FOR A UNIT BELONG TO THE COMMAND THAT TOOK THE SURVEY. EVERY COMMANDER IS RESPONSIBLE FOR ADVISING HIGHER HEADQUARTERS OF THE READINESS OF THE COMMAND AND THE CCS RESULTS WILL FORM PART OF SUCH ASSESSMENT. SINCE A COMMANDER OWNS THE SURVEY DATA THEY MAY SHARE THE RESULTS OF THE SURVEY DATA WITHIN THE COMMAND. SURVEY RESULTS CAN BE PROVIDED TO HIGHER HEADQUARTERS IN AN AGGREGATED FORMAT (E.G. DIVISION CG CAN BE PROVIDED RESPONSES GIVEN BY ALL PERSONNEL IN THE DIVISION FOR A SET PERIOD) - BUT THE IDENTIFICATION OF INDIVIDUAL UNITS WILL NOT BE IDENTIFIABLE IN THE RESULTS.

4.C. SURVEY RESULTS ARE FOR OFFICIAL USE ONLY.

4.D. ABILITY TO CONDUCT TARGETED RESEARCH/ANALYSIS OF DATA - APPROVED RESEARCHERS IN THE ACADEMIC OR MILITARY ENVIRONMENT MAY BE PROVIDED LIMITED ACCESS TO DATA IN ORDER TO STUDY SPECIFIC ISSUES REGARDING LEADERSHIP, CLIMATE, AND CULTURE. THE IDENTITY OF THE

INDIVIDUAL SURVEYED OR THEIR BATTALION/SQUADRON OR REGIMENT/GROUP WILL NOT BE PROVIDED.

4.E. UPON COMPLETION OF THE SURVEY, THE COMMANDER WILL RECEIVE A CODE ALLOWING ACCESS TO THE SURVEY RESULTS, AND A GUIDED DEBRIEF OF THOSE RESULTS FROM THE SURVEY PROVIDER THAT WILL INCLUDE ANALYSIS AND RECOMMENDATIONS CONCERNING SPECIFIC AREAS OF INTEREST. THE COMPLETE DIRECTIONS AND PROCEDURES FOR TAKING THE CCS, AND THE PROCESS FOR COMMANDERS RECEIVING THEIR UNIT'S RESULTS ARE PROVIDED IN DETAIL AT WWW.USMCSURVEYS.COM.

4.F. COMMANDERS ARE ENCOURAGED TO PROVIDE FEEDBACK ON THE QUALITY AND VALUE OF THIS SURVEY. FEEDBACK WILL BE COLLECTED BY THE SURVEY PROVIDER DURING THE DEBRIEF, OR THE COMMANDER MAY SUBMIT FEEDBACK VIA THE CHAIN OF COMMAND. FEEDBACK WILL BE COMPILED IN SUMMARY-AGGREGATE FORM, USED TO REFINE THE CCS, AND TO REPORT SIGNIFICANT MARINE CORPS TRENDS OR FINDINGS.

5. THE CCS WILL BE AVAILABLE AT WWW.USMCSURVEYS.COM BEGINNING 1 JUL 2013.

6. THIS SURVEY DOES NOT REPLACE OR ALLEVIATE THE REQUIREMENT TO TAKE THE DEFENSE EQUAL OPPORTUNITY MANAGEMENT INSTITUTE (DEOMI) SURVEY WITHIN 90 DAYS OF ASSUMING COMMAND.

7. THIS MARADMIN IS APPLICABLE TO THE MARINE CORPS TOTAL FORCE.

GENTEXT/RMKS/1. BACKGROUND. IN REFERENCE A, THE UNDER SECRETARY OF DEFENSE (PERSONNEL AND READINESS) DIRECTED SERVICE CHIEFS IMPLEMENT MEASURES TO STRENGTHEN SEXUAL ASSAULT PREVENTION PROGRAMS AS OUTLINED IN THE FY13 NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT AND SECDEF MEMO OF 6 MAY 2013. IN SUPPORT OF THESE REQUIREMENTS, THE FOLLOWING CHANGES TO THE COMMAND CLIMATE ASSESSMENT PROCESS ARE DIRECTED EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY.

2. ENHANCING COMMANDER ACCOUNTABILITY: ALL COMMANDERS ARE REQUIRED TO ENSURE ALL MEMBERS ADMINISTRATIVELY ATTACHED TO THEIR COMMANDS HAVE THE OPPORTUNITY TO PARTICIPATE IN THE ASSESSMENT PROCESS. FOR COMMANDS WITH MORE THAN 50 PERSONNEL, A CLIMATE ASSESSMENT WILL BE CONDUCTED WITHIN 90 DAYS OF ASSUMPTION OF COMMAND, AND ANNUALLY THEREAFTER. SUBORDINATE COMMANDS OF 50 OR LESS PERSONNEL WILL BE SURVEYED WITH A LARGER UNIT IN THE COMMAND TO ENSURE ANONYMITY.

B. SURVEY ADMINISTRATORS WILL NOW ENTER THE NEXT LEVEL COMMANDER'S INFORMATION ON THEIR DEOCS REQUEST.

C. ONCE THE REQUEST HAS BEEN APPROVED, THE NEXT LEVEL COMMANDER WILL RECEIVE AN EMAIL NOTIFICATION (FROM THE SYSTEM) THAT A COMMAND CLIMATE SURVEY HAS BEEN REQUESTED BY THE SUBORDINATE COMMANDER.

ENCLOSURE (1)

THIS NOTIFICATION IS IN ADDITION TO THE STANDARD COMMANDER'S NOTIFICATION AND ADMINISTRATOR APPROVAL/ACCOUNT INFORMATION EMAIL.

D. UPON SURVEY COMPLETION AND THE GENERATION OF THE REPORT, THE NEXT LEVEL COMMANDER, REQUESTING COMMANDER, AND THE SURVEY ADMINISTRATOR WILL ALL RECEIVE A NOTIFICATION EMAIL STATING THE SURVEY HAS BEEN COMPLETED AND THE REPORT HAS BEEN GENERATED. THIS EMAIL WILL ALSO INCLUDE THE ADMINISTRATOR'S ACCOUNT INFORMATION SO BOTH THE NEXT LEVEL COMMANDER AND REQUESTING COMMANDER CAN ACCESS THE SYSTEM AND RETRIEVE THE PDF SURVEY REPORT.

E. ALL COMMANDERS SHALL DEVELOP AN ACTION PLAN TO ADDRESS CONCERNS IDENTIFIED IN THE DEOCS REPORT. THIS ACTION PLAN MUST ALSO IDENTIFY PERIODIC EVALUATIONS TO ASSESS ITS EFFECTIVENESS. THE COMMANDER WILL BRIEF THE RESULTS, ANALYSIS, AND ACTION PLAN TO THE NEXT HIGHER LEVEL COMMANDER. THE NEXT LEVEL COMMANDER WILL APPROVE THE ACTION PLAN PRIOR TO IMPLEMENTATION.

F. COMMANDING GENERALS MAY EVALUATE THEIR UNITS USING THE DEOCS ROLL-UP REPORT. THIS REPORT CAN BE OBTAINED VIA THE EQUAL OPPORTUNITY ADVISORS (EOA). EXECUTIVE SUMMARIES OF THE REPORT CAN BE OBTAINED BY CONTACTING DEOMI DEOCS SUPPORT TEAM AT (321) 494-5043/2538. COMMANDING GENERALS NOT SUPPORTED BY AN EOA MAY CONTACT HQMC (MPE) AT (703) 784-9371 FOR ASSISTANCE IN OBTAINING THE ROLL-UP REPORT.

3. COMPLIANCE TRACKING. COMMANDING GENERALS SHALL DEVELOP APPROPRIATE TRACKING PROCESSES TO ENSURE COMPLIANCE. REPORT FORMAT WILL BE SENT BY MPE VIA THE EOA COMMUNITY. REPORTS WILL BE FORWARDED TO THE RESPECTIVE MARFOR COMMANDER FOR CONSOLIDATION. MARFOR COMMANDER SHALL SUBMIT REPORTS TO HQMC (MPE) NLT 30 OCTOBER OF EACH YEAR STARTING IN 2014.

4. FOR THE PURPOSES OF THIS POLICY THE TERM "COMMANDER" INCLUDES O-4, O-5, AND O-6 LEVEL COMMANDERS, INSPECTOR-INSTRUCTORS AND OFFICERS-IN-CHARGE (OIC) WITH AUTHORITY TO IMPOSE NONJUDICIAL PUNISHMENT.

5. THESE UPDATES WILL BE INCORPORATED INTO THE NEXT REVISION OF MCO P5354.1D.

6. THESE REQUIREMENTS DO NOT IMPACT THE MARINE CORPS' COMMAND CLIMATE SURVEY, WHICH CURRENTLY MUST BE TAKEN WITHIN 30 DAYS OF ASSUMING COMMAND.

7. THIS MARADMIN IS APPLICABLE TO THE MARINE CORPS ACTIVE AND RESERVE FORCE.

Appendix B

(1) If an installation has multiple SARCs on the installation, a Lead SARC shall be designated by the Service.

(2) For SARCs that operate within deployable commands that are not attached to an installation, they shall have access to the senior commander for the deployable command.

i. A 24 hour, 7 day per week sexual assault response capability for all locations, including deployed areas, shall be established for persons covered in this Instruction. An immediate, trained sexual assault response capability shall be available for each report of sexual assault in all locations, including in deployed locations.

j. SARCs, SAPR VAs, and other responders (see Glossary) will assist sexual assault victims regardless of Service affiliation.

k. Service member and adult military dependent victims of sexual assault shall receive timely access to comprehensive medical and psychological treatment, including emergency care treatment and services, as described in this Instruction and Reference (b).

l. Sexual assault victims shall be given priority, and treated as emergency cases. Emergency care (see Glossary) shall consist of emergency medical care and the offer of a SAFE. The victim shall be advised that even if a SAFE is declined the victim shall be encouraged (but not mandated) to receive medical care, psychological care, and victim advocacy.

m. DoD prohibits granting a waiver for commissioning or enlistment in the Military Services when the person has a qualifying conviction (see Glossary) for a crime of sexual assault or is required to be registered as a sex offender.

n. Improper disclosure of confidential communications under Restricted Reporting or improper release of medical information are prohibited and may result in disciplinary action pursuant to the UCMJ or other adverse personnel or administrative actions. Even proper release of Restricted Reporting information should be limited to those with an official need to know or as authorized by law.

o. Information regarding Unrestricted Reports should only be released to personnel with an official need to know or as authorized by law.

p. The DoD will have two separate document retention schedules for records of Service members who report that they are victims of sexual assault, based on whether the Service member filed a Restricted or Unrestricted Report as defined in Reference (b). The record retention system for Restricted Reports shall protect the Service member's desire for confidentiality.

(1) Document Retention for Unrestricted Reports:

(a) The SARC will enter the Unrestricted Report DD Form 2910, "Victim Reporting Preference Statement," in the Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database (DSAID) (see Glossary in Reference (b)) or the DSAID-interface Military Service data system as an electronic record, where it will be retained for 50 years from the date the victim signed the DD Form 2910. DD Form 2910 is located at the DoD Forms Management Program website at <http://www.dtic.mil/whs/directives/infomgt/forms/index.htm>. The DD Form 2911, "DoD Sexual Assault Forensic Examination (SAFE) Report," shall be retained in accordance with DoDI 5505.18 (Reference (s)).

(2) Document Retention for Restricted Reports:

(a) The SAFE Kit, which includes the DD Form 2911 or civilian forensic examination report, if available, will be retained for 5 years in a location designated by the Military Service concerned. The 5-year time frame will start from the date the victim signs the DD Form 2910.

(b) The SARC will retain a hard copy of the Restricted Report DD Form 2910 for 5 years, consistent with DoD guidance for the storage of personally identifiable information (PII). The 5-year time frame for the DD Form 2910 will start from the date the victim signs the DD Form 2910. However, at the request of a Service member who files a Restricted Report on an incident of sexual assault, the DD Forms 2910 and 2911 filed in connection with the Restricted Report will be retained for 50 years.

q. Any threat to the life or safety of a Service member shall be immediately reported to command and DoD law enforcement authorities (see Glossary) and a request to transfer the victim under these circumstances will be handled in accordance with established Service regulations. DoD recognizes that circumstances may also exist that warrant the transfer of a Service member who makes an Unrestricted Report of sexual assault but may not otherwise meet established criteria for effecting the immediate transfer of Service members. Those Service members may request a transfer pursuant to the procedures in this Instruction.

r. Service members who file an Unrestricted Report of sexual assault shall be informed by the SARC at the time of making the report, or as soon as practicable, of the option to request a temporary or permanent expedited transfer from their assigned command or installation, or to a different location within their assigned command or installation, in accordance with the procedures for commanders in Enclosure 5 of this Instruction.

s. Service members who file Unrestricted and Restricted Reports of sexual assault shall be protected from reprisal, or threat of reprisal, for filing a report.

5. RESPONSIBILITIES. See Enclosure 2.

6. PROCEDURES. See Enclosures 3 through 12.

7. INFORMATION COLLECTION REQUIREMENTS

advocate, in a case arising under the UCMJ, if such communication was made to facilitate advice or supportive assistance to the victim.

m. Legal assistance for victims of sexual assault in accordance with section 1044 of Reference (f) and section 581 of Reference (o).

n. Digital evidence.

o. Handling false reports and official statements.

7. In accordance with Public Law 111-383 (Reference (r)), Services will use the standard definition of “substantiated” in adult sexual assault investigations (see Glossary).

8. MCIOs must include the DD Form 2911, “DoD Sexual Assault Forensic Examination Report,” or reports from civilian sexual assault forensic exams conducted at civilian healthcare facilities (when DoD retains jurisdiction) as part of the archived file. If creating digital records, the DD Form 2911 will be uploaded as part of the archived file.

9. All MCIO adult sexual assault investigative reports will be retained for a period of 50 years. If the investigation was referred to another agency, the MCIO must obtain disposition and final investigative reports and retain them for 50 years.

10. In accordance with section 586 of Reference (o), in all investigations relating to sexual assaults involving members of the Armed Forces; as defined in the Glossary, all physical and forensic evidence must be retained for a period of at least 5 years from the date of the seizure of the evidence. However, items gathered as evidence may be returned to their rightful owner prior to the 5-year period only after written evidence disposition is obtained from the convening authority when:

a. It is determined that the allegation is unfounded, i.e., the crime did not occur and/or it was a false allegation;

b. The subject is acquitted or the appeal process has been exhausted; or

c. The evidence is taken from a suspect who is later deemed to be the wrong person, i.e., mistaken identity.

11. Pursuant to section 581 of Reference (o), the MCIO investigator assigned to conduct an adult sexual assault investigation must inform the victim of a sexual assault (defined as a member of the Armed Forces or a dependent) of the availability of legal assistance and the services of a SARC or a SAPR VA. The member or dependent must also be informed that the legal assistance and the services of a SARC or a SAPR VA are optional and may be declined, in whole or in part, at any time.

disposition. This paragraph is not intended to preclude disciplinary action to include trial by court-martial, when appropriate.

*a. Sexual Offender

* (1) Officers, whether active duty or in a reserve status, who are required to register as a sex offender or who have been convicted of a sexual offense as outlined in The Department of Justice, National Guidelines for Sex Offender Registration and Notification, whether in a civilian court or by court-martial, if not punitively discharged, shall be processed for administrative separation. Such processing will be in accordance with reference (t) SECNAVINST 1920.6c.

* (2) Officers who have been convicted of a sexual offense while on active duty and are separated shall have the sexual offense conviction recorded in their permanent record.

* (3) Sexual offenders shall not be subject to recall for any purpose unless approved by the Secretary of the Navy.

*b. Sexual misconduct includes conduct that could form the basis for a violation of the following Articles of the UCMJ:

* (1) Article 120 - Rape and sexual assault generally

- (a) Rape
- (b) Sexual Assault
- (c) Aggravated Sexual Contact
- (d) Abusive Sexual Contact

* (2) Article 120b - Rape and sexual assault of a child

- (a) Rape of a Child
- (b) Sexual Assault of a Child
- (c) Sexual Abuse of a Child

* (3) Article 120c - Other Sexual Misconduct

* (4) Article 125 - Forcible Sodomy

* (5) Article 80 - Attempts (to commit any of the offenses listed in subparagraphs (1) through (4)).

*c. Processing for separation is mandatory following the first substantiated incident, or substantiated attempted incident, of sexual misconduct.

*d. An incident, or attempted incident, is considered substantiated when there has been a court-martial conviction, civilian court conviction, nonjudicial punishment, or when a commander determines, based on a preponderance of the evidence, that an incident or attempted incident of sexual misconduct has occurred. The limitations in paragraph 6106.1 on separation processing following acquittal at a court-martial do not apply to officers. See reference (bi) DoDI 1332.30, Enclosure (3), paragraph 6.d.

*e. Only the Sexual Assault Initial Disposition Authority (SA-IDA) or higher may determine that processing under this paragraph is an appropriate disposition. This paragraph is not intended to preclude disciplinary action to include trial by court-martial, when appropriate.

4104. RETIREMENT OR RESIGNATION. An officer being processed for separation for cause may, at any time during proceedings, under this chapter, submit a qualified or unqualified resignation or a resignation for the good of the service, or, if eligible, request retirement under of this manual.

1. Resignations tendered under this paragraph shall not request an effective date. The retirement/resignation will be effective upon approval by the Secretary of the Navy. In addition, the resignation will not be input into the unit diary system unless approved by the Secretary of the Navy.

2. Normally, a reserve commission is not authorized for regular officers resigning under this paragraph.

3. Address requests for qualified or unqualified resignation to the Secretary of the Navy via the chain of command and the CMC (JAM). If a resignation is submitted in lieu of a recommendation for administrative separation, the resignation shall state that it is offered under this paragraph and shall contain the appropriate statement below corresponding to the type of discharge requested. If the resignation is submitted to avoid trial by court-martial, the resignation shall contain the statement in subparagraph 4104.3c and follow the procedures in paragraph 4104.4.

a. "I have been informed and understand that if my resignation in lieu of processing for administrative separation for cause is accepted, I shall subsequently receive a certificate of honorable discharge from the naval service."

Marine Corps Sexual Assault Line of Duty (LOD) Determination Protocol

1. Restricted Reporting and LOD Determination. In those instances where a drilling Reservist is a victim of sexual assault, a LOD determination is required. The Marine Corps SAPR LOD protocol is based on a single point of eligibility determination. Unlike LOD determinations made pursuant to JAGINST 5800.7F, Manual of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy, the victim's commander has no role in the determination process. The Wounded Warrior Regiment Reserve Medical Determination and Line of Duty (WWRRMED/LOD) section is the Marine Corps LOD determining activity for drilling Reservist victims of sexual assault. In order to facilitate the LOD process, Reserve Site Commanders should ensure their appointed UVAs are knowledgeable of the LOD determination process. The MARFORRES SARC's will ensure UVAs are familiar with the LOD process. The UVA will support the victim through the process. Upon a positive LOD determination, a Notice of Eligibility (NOE) is given to the victim. The NOE gives a victim injured in a drilling status the ability to receive continuous care from an MTF while in a non-drilling status.

2. The below protocols shall be followed when a drilling Reservist is a victim of sexual assault:

a. Uniformed Victim Advocate (UVA) shall:

(1) Thoroughly explain the process and reporting options to the victim.

(2) Notify the SARC of the need for the LOD determination.

(3) Upon LOD determination, the UVA shall assist the victim in receiving continuous support while in a non-drilling status.

b. Sexual Assault Response Coordinator (SARC)

(1) The SARC receiving notification of need for LOD determination, shall contact the Wounded Warrior Regiment Reserve Medical Determination and Line of Duty (WWRRMED/LOD) section as the LOD determining officials.

(2) The SARC shall notify the determining official of the situation.

(3) Upon a LOD determination, the SARC shall notify the Administrative Officer/Chief and assist in providing continuous care to the victim.

c. WWRRMED/LOD

(1) Conduct LOD determinations in confidential manner as provided in this Order.

(2) Follow the LOD protocol in reaching an eligibility decision.

(3) The determining official shall notify the originating SARC of the final LOD determination.

(2) Example Expedited Transfer Request from the commanding officer

1. Situation. Reference (a) established Department of Defense policy and procedures on expediting the transfer of a Service Member who filed an Unrestricted Report of sexual assault.

2. Mission. To provide guidance to Commanding Officers (COs) and Sexual Assault Response Coordinators (SARCs) on processing transfer requests of Marines who filed an Unrestricted Report of sexual assault.

3. Execution

a. Commander's Intent. COs shall review the reference and expeditiously process a request for transfer of a Marine who files an Unrestricted Report of sexual assault. Every reasonable effort shall be made to minimize disruption to the normal career progression of Marines who seek a transfer following a report that he or she was the victim of sexual assault.

b. Concept of Operations

(1) The SARC shall ensure that Uniformed Victim Advocates/Victim Advocates inform Marines, at the time they elect to file an Unrestricted Report of sexual assault or as soon as practicable, of their option to request a temporary or permanent transfer from their assigned command or base, or to a different location within their assigned command or base. COs will inform Marines of this option in cases where the Marine reports a sexual assault directly to the CO.

(2) Headquarters Marine Corps Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) (MFC-3) will work in conjunction with Manpower Management (MM) to facilitate approved requests for transfer.

c. Coordinating Instructions

(1) Marines requesting a transfer under this policy shall submit a signed and dated written request to their CO. A sample request is provided at enclosure (1). For confidentiality reasons, no details about the reason for request should be included. The NAVMC 10274 Administrative Action Form shall not be used for transfers under this policy.

(2) COs shall approve or disapprove a request for transfer within 72 hours of receiving a signed and dated written transfer request. COs shall document the date and time the request was received.

(3) A presumption is established in favor of transferring a Marine who submits a request to transfer following a credible Unrestricted Report of sexual assault. The CO shall make a credible report determination at the time the request is made after considering the advice of the supporting judge advocate, or other legal advisor concerned, and the available evidence. The credible report determination shall be made within the 72 hour period and in no circumstances shall the determination delay the responsibility to approve or disapprove a transfer request within the 72 hour period. For purposes of this transfer request determination, a credible report of sexual assault is a report having reasonable grounds to believe that an offense constituting sexual assault has occurred.

(4) COs shall make a determination and provide his or her reasons and justification on the transfer of a Marine based on a credible report of sexual assault. COs shall consider the following prior to making a decision to approve or disapprove a transfer request:

- (a) The Marine's reasons for the request.
- (b) Potential transfer of the alleged offender instead of the Marine requesting the transfer.
- (c) Nature and circumstances of the offense.
- (d) Whether a temporary transfer would meet the Marine's needs and the operational needs of the unit.
- (e) Training status of the Marine requesting the transfer.
- (f) Availability of positions within other units on the installation.
- (g) Status of the investigation and potential impact on the investigation and future disposition of the offense, after consultation with the investigating Military Criminal Investigative organizations.

(h) Location of the alleged offender.

(i) Alleged offender's status (service member or civilian).

(j) Other pertinent circumstances or facts, e.g., length of time between sexual assault and request to transfer.

(5) If the Marine's request is approved, the CO shall immediately forward the approved request to MFC-3. A sample request for expedited transfer is provided at enclosure (2).

(6) If the Marine's request is disapproved, the Marine shall be given the opportunity to request review by the first general or flag officer in the chain of command, or a Senior Executive Service (SES) equivalent (if applicable).

(a) If the Marine does not request further review, the CO shall forward the package, with reason(s) for disapproval, to MFC-3 for record purposes only. No action will be taken by MFC-3.

(b) If the Marine requests further review, the CO shall expeditiously forward the request with reason for disapproval to the first general or flag officer in the chain of command (or an SES equivalent). The decision of the first general or flag officer (or SES equivalent) in the chain of command to approve or disapprove must be made within 72 hours of submission of the request for review. Status as a General Court-Martial Convening Authority does not in itself provide authority to act on transfer requests under this paragraph.

1. If approved by the first general or flag officer in the chain of command (or an SES equivalent) the package will be endorsed and forwarded to MFC-3.

2. If disapproved by the first general or flag officer in the chain of command (or an SES equivalent) the package, with reason for disapproval, will be forwarded to MFC-3 for record purposes only. No action will be taken by MFC-3.

(7) COs will notify the Marine in writing of their decision to approve or disapprove the transfer request. Additionally, for approved requests, the Marine's CO (or the CO's designee) shall directly counsel the Servicé member to ensure that he or she is fully informed regarding reasonably foreseeable career impacts, the potential impact of the transfer or reassignment on the investigation and case disposition, or the initiation of other adverse action granting the request. Marines requesting the transfer shall be informed that they may have to return for the prosecution of the case, if the determination is made that prosecution is the appropriate command action.

(8) Upon receipt of the approved request for expedited transfer, MFC-3 will coordinate with the Deputy Director, Manpower Management for active duty Marines and the Branch Head, Reserve Affairs Management for Active Reserve Marines to effect the transfer.

(9) Requests for expedited transfer by Sailors attached to Marine Corps Units will be coordinated by the unit with Navy Personnel Command (Pers-833), Personnel Security Branch Caseworker. The point of contact is Mr. Jerry Gorham at 901-874-4412.

(10) MFC-3 is not the point of contact to request a replacement. Replacements should be requested via the traditional manpower chain.

4. Administration and Logistics

a. Administration. To protect confidentiality, Personally Identifiable Information (PII) will not be included on any paperwork pertaining to the request for expedited transfer being forwarded to MFC-3. Only the tracking identification number, as it appears in SAIRD, will be used to identify the Marine. The tracking identification number will be provided to the CO by the SARC providing services to the Marine. MFC-3 will collect all information needed to execute the transfer from the Point of Contact listed on the request over the phone.

b. Logistics. Requests for expedited transfer can be scanned and forwarded to MFC-3 via e-mail. Copies will be maintained by MFC-3 in a locked filing cabinet.

5. Command and Signal

a. Requests for expedited transfer should be forwarded to Captain K. A. Mobley at kimberly.mobley@usmc.mil and Ms. Gail Reed at gail.reed@usmc.mil.

Fiscal Year (FY) 2013 Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) Program Review:

IV. BEST PRACTICES

1. Command Leadership. The best settings involve spectrums of effort led by Commanding Officers who are passionate about mentoring students, instilling core values, and holding offenders accountable. They are highly visible within their schools. Their approach encompasses sexual assault, alcohol incidents, hazing and harassment, and instructor integrity. They express personal responsibility for service communities. Their zeal is obvious to subordinates.
2. Commandant's Campaign Plan. The Commandant of the Marine Corps (CMC) in 2012 implemented a formal "Campaign Plan" against sexual assault. The document and strategy are noteworthy in their own right, but the Commandant's personal involvement has been especially powerful. Every Marine leader knew about dedicated General Officer meetings on sexual assault and stand-down training led by senior regional commanders. Within the unique culture of the Marine Corps, the Commandant's intent is well understood.
3. New Navy Training Tools.
  - "SAPR-L." The Navy's "Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Training for Leaders" or "SAPR-L" is a 2-hour program designed for officers and senior enlisted personnel that involves a 30-minute video followed by facilitated small-group discussion led by local command leadership. It was deployed Navy-wide in 2012. The professionally filmed video portrays fictional but characteristic events leading up to the sexual assault of one Sailor by another. Numerous attendees told us the training was relevant and impactful – "the best SAPR training we've ever had."
  - "Bystander Intervention." The Navy's new "Bystander Intervention" curriculum includes three structured, sequential, and facilitated 90-minute small-group discussion sessions. Students select and discuss the "best" of several behavior options in various scenarios to explore issues of men's violence against women and empower them to intervene in dangerous social situations. The program has been deployed for all entry-level "A" School students.
4. Senior Leader "Drumbeat" Coordination. An important component of multiple initiatives at Training Support Center, Great Lakes (TSCGL) involved local support coordinated by quarterly "Drumbeat" meetings convened by Commander Navy Region Mid-West. Key stakeholders were assembled to review and coordinate their separate activities and to reinforce the Commander's priority on sexual assault prevention. The effort was widely noticed by subordinates throughout the base.
5. Chaplains. Several schools make especially prominent use of chaplains as student resources for protected conversations, and simultaneously as command assets in actively monitoring command climate. At many Marine Corps locations, chaplains join young Marines in various activities and exercises, and leaders encourage students (even if they are not religious) to utilize chaplains as a sounding board for personal issues. At the Naval Submarine School, a chaplain office is centrally located in the main classroom building for easy and discrete access. Both Navy and Marine chaplains have received specialized community training as sexual assault first responders.

6. Explicit Standards of Conduct. Several locations promulgate explicit expectations for instructor integrity that forbid any social interaction with students during or after their curriculum. More than one requires advance requests for instructors to attend graduation parties and would refuse if alcohol were involved. Instructors who are accused of misconduct are immediately “removed from the podium” while investigations are conducted.

7. Multiple reporting mechanisms. The best settings employ multiple levels of feedback, sometimes including anonymous course critiques and frequent Quality of Life surveys and required in-person interviews with students. Suggestion boxes are common but the least useful of various mechanisms.

8. Civilian Community Coordination. Major commands in Pensacola, Florida participate in monthly meetings with the local Chamber of Commerce and the joint military-civilian Underage Drinking Task Force. “Shore Patrol” type military watches are also conducted at the on-base “Portside Club.” Meanwhile, TSCGL works with the Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS) an occasional basis to send NCIS agents (when their resources permit) in a highly visible manner to break-up hotel room alcohol parties.

9. Innovative Local Practices.

- Senior-Junior SAPR Mentoring. At Navy Technical Training Center, Lackland the week-six students in Master-At-Arms “A” School re-attend SAPR training along with new week-one students, then break up into gender-specific discussion groups to help the new arrivals prepare for exactly what challenges to expect.
- Monitoring Alcohol Behavior. At Training Support Center, Great Lakes senior “Fleet Returnee” students are organized to monitor junior students at the on-base club and “pull them out of line” if found to be drinking too much. The strategy so well that club managers complained of decreased alcohol sales – seen locally as a sign of success. Meanwhile, the Commanding Officer asks taxi drivers where they typically take students in town, and he regularly visits those establishments to have a beer and say hello to Sailors there. Local bar owners recognize him and dislike the practice, but Sailors get the message. Elsewhere, another Commanding Officer during orientation week asks under-age students to raise their hands – he then reminds them it is illegal for them to drink, and he also instructs the others to not tolerate their drinking or supply them with alcohol.
- “The Accused.” At Naval Technical Training Center, Meridian all students watch the 1988 Jodi Foster film, “The Accused,” and then participate in follow-on discussion. The film is uncomfortable to watch and involves a woman who is gang raped by several drunken bar patrons – it focuses on her subsequent experiences as a victim and on the role of bystanders who cheered on the rape.

Initial Military Training

- Weekly liberty briefings. Senior enlisted leaders at the Naval Submarine School hold weekly (Thursday) large-group liberty briefings to review local weekend activities and to re-emphasize expected standards of conduct along with messages of intolerance for alcohol abuse and sexual assault. Other commands conduct similar briefings on various levels. A variation utilized at Marine Corps Combat Service Support School involves addressing all students as a group at the end of liberty periods.

10. “CSADD.” The Coalition of Sailors Against Destructive Decisions (CSADD) is a peer-mentoring program for junior Sailors. Chapters operate with local command support, and they sponsor a variety of local social activities and community projects. Participants at TSCGL produced a series of excellent You-Tube videos and posters on “Bystander Intervention.”

11. Force Preservation Council. Individual Marine Corps commands (below the installation level) utilize a structured and multi-disciplinary approach to raise command-level awareness of any “at-risk” Marines, including but not limited to sexual assault victims, and to coordinate support or other action as necessary. The council meets monthly to keep Commanding Officers informed of those who are struggling with various issues. The emphasis is on safety and helping Marines maintain performance.

12. Barracks Oversight. The best locations paid close attention to leadership presence and monitoring of activities in student barracks. Some locations assigned 24/7 onboard watch and roving patrols by senior enlisted personnel – not just the routine “fire watch” duty stood by junior enlisted personnel. Video monitoring of barracks hallways or common spaces (such as laundry rooms) is a useful adjunct.

MARINE CORPS RECRUIT TRAINING

Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego

Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island

1. Marine Corps recruit training is conducted at Marine Corps Recruit Depot (MCRD) San Diego, California and at MCRD Parris Island, South Carolina. We visited both facilities. Each is operated as a “mirror image” of the other, in strict compliance with standardized Marine Corps guidance. Recruit training, including initial processing, lasts about 13 weeks, and prospective Marines can typically wait 6-9 months in “delayed entry” status for an opportunity to begin. Recruits in training have little free time, and they do not receive liberty privileges. Graduates are known as “Basic” Marines. After a brief period of leave, all of them proceed to entry-level infantry skills training at a School of Infantry (see below).

2. The number of male Marine recruits in training averages about 8000, and they are split about evenly between MCRD San Diego and MCRD Parris Island. In addition, over 1000 female recruits are typically in training at MCRD Parris Island. Marines describe recruit training as both physically challenging and personally transformative, with very strong emphases on mental and moral discipline. Influences on the training environment are pervasive, and even the most intense field exercises include multiple “core-value” training stations. Individuals at all levels described the primary goal of producing basic Marines who represent “the epitome of personal character, selflessness, and military virtue.” Many factors contribute to attrition, which averages about 5% for males and 12% for females. Video monitoring is not utilized except for base perimeter security in some areas. The Commanding General at MCRD Parris Island is female.

3. Drill Instructor (DI) candidates are subjected to rigorous, formal, multi-level “Special Duty” screening. Other examples of Marine Corps “Special Duty” include embassy security and recruiting. Drill Instructors are highly respected, and such duty is career enhancing and sought after. Those selected first attend three months of Drill Instructor School, which has its own 20% attrition rate. Strict standards of conduct are enforced on DI’s throughout recruit training. Recruits are “entrusted to their care,” and DI’s must never strike or personally insult any recruit. Misconduct by DI’s is rare and usually reported quickly by unforgiving fellow DI’s. The command response is aggressive – we heard accounts of DI’s immediately removed from duty and punished severely for infractions that outsiders might view as minor, but that insiders called integrity violations. Recruit Training Platoons of 60-90 recruits usually have three DI’s and another Senior DI assigned. They are augmented by several layers of active and visible direct oversight. There is currently one female Sergeant Major (E-9) assigned to MCRD San Diego as part of a new Marine Corps initiative to expose new male recruits to female leaders. The 108 female DI’s at MCRD Parris Island are assigned to the all-female 4th Recruit Training Battalion or the mixed-gender Support Battalion, with a few also working as DI School instructors and in headquarters roles. Male and female DI’s are trained the same.

4. The command climate at both MCRD locations is professional and strictly disciplined. Sexist or degrading comments are neither heard nor tolerated. Individual DI’s are virtually never allowed to be alone with individual recruits. Recruits have easy access to medical personnel, Uniformed Victim Advocates (UVA’s), chaplains, and Senior DI’s – all of whom, in turn, have good access to command leadership. Chaplains play an especially prominent role as confidential sounding boards for individual issues and as monitors of command climate. In addition, recruits of both genders are systematically interviewed individually by company officers to assess their experiences and check for any mistreatment. Female recruits all train at MCRD Parris Island, where the all-female 4th Recruit Training Battalion is housed in a separate barracks compound. They train similarly to, but separately from, their male counterparts. There is virtually no direct contact between male and female Marine Corps recruit trainees. Female recruits are closely monitored and mentored by female DI's. They have good access to women's health services at a nearby medical clinic. At both MCRD locations, recruits themselves and many others confirmed that recruits in training are not afraid to report misconduct. Several recruits have made restricted or unrestricted reports of prior sexual assaults that occurred before they entered training, but sexual assaults during recruit training are virtually unknown, and none have been reported in the past year at either location.

5. All Marine Corps recruits receive several separate doses of Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) training totaling 7.5 hours. All staff members have also received recent SAPR training in compliance with the Commandant of the Marine Corps' "Campaign Plan" against sexual assault. Much of this training was personally led by the respective Commanding General. Participants describe strong and consistent leadership messages of sexual assault intolerance.

MARINE CORPS POST-RECRUIT ENLISTED TRAINING

School of Infantry-West

School of Infantry-East

1. School of Infantry-West (SOI-West) at Camp Pendleton, California and SOI-East at Camp Geiger, North Carolina conduct infantry skills training for enlisted Marines. We visited both facilities. Each operates entry-level training as a "mirror image" of the other, in strict compliance with standardized Marine Corps guidance. Shortly after recruit training, every new "Basic" Marine receives entry-level infantry skills training. Graduates of MCRD San Diego attend SOI-West, and graduates of MCRD Parris Island attend SOI-East. Both schools conduct two distinct entry-level programs. New Marines designated for the infantry force train for 59 days in the Infantry Training Battalion (ITB), while those designated for other career fields undergo 29 days of Marine Combat Training (MCT) before proceeding elsewhere for additional training in a non-infantry Military Occupational Specialty (MOS). The environments at ITB and MCT are challenging, and students have little free time. Those in the longer ITB program progressively earn graduated liberty privileges, while those in MCT do not receive liberty.

2. Annually about 3900 Marines train at ITB-West and 4300 train at ITB-East. Student numbers vary seasonally but average 650 and 700 respectively. Students at both ITB's are currently all male. Annually another 11,500 Marines train at MCT-West and 13,000 Marines train at MCT-East. The size of each MCT student population averages over 1000. Students at MCT-West are all male, while about 25% of students at MCT-East are females who completed recruit training at MCRD Parris Island. Males and females at MCT-East train together but live in segregated barracks rooms and segregated field berthing. Video monitoring is not utilized, but students are virtually never alone with either students of the opposite sex or individual instructors. Student-to-instructor ratios vary from 1:8 to 1:15, with multiple additional layers of very active instructor oversight by company leaders.

3. Combat Instructor (CI) candidates are subjected to same rigorous, formal, multi-level “Special Duty” screening used for recruit training Drill Instructors. Instructor duty at SOI is highly sought after. Those selected then receive nine weeks of training at the Combat Instructor School, which includes training on sexual assault prevention, access to victim services, the proper handling of cases, sexual harassment, and ethics – with specific attention to the scope of power and authority of instructors. Instructors currently at SOI-West are all male. Thirty-three of the 445 designated CI’s at SOI-East are female, all of whom are assigned to MCT-East. In addition, a small number of female Marines have recently undergone instructor duty familiarization at ITB-East. As at recruit training, strict standards of conduct are enforced on CI’s throughout infantry skills training. Every allegation of misconduct is investigated, and substantiated findings trigger harsh consequences.

4. The command climate throughout both SOI’s is intensely values-based and intolerant of misconduct, with a strong focus on professionalization of the Force. Even the gruffest Marine infantry leaders were well-versed in gender issues and SAPR processes, and several spoke of applying the same concerns they have at home for college-age offspring. Strict formal standards prohibit social relationships between instructors and students during and after training. Students with issues have easy access to other instructors, Uniformed Victim Advocates (UVA’s), medical personnel, and chaplains – all of whom in turn report unfettered access to command leadership when issues arise. Chaplains actively insert themselves into various training activities to sense their tone and interact with students. They report NOT hearing derogatory comments about women, even in all-male settings. Female Marines in focus groups said essentially the same thing, and told us they would not hesitate to report misconduct, including sexual assault, to the nearest instructor – male or female. At SOI-East, three alleged sexual assaults of students by instructors occurred in the summer of 2012. The most serious involved an episode of coerced sex that came to light after a peer reported unusual activity by his fellow instructor. Two others involved inappropriate touching over clothes that were quickly reported by students themselves. All alleged offenders were quickly removed from training duty and are currently awaiting Courts Martial. The victims received support and moved on in their training. No subsequent incidents have been reported, even though several students have come forward to report sexual assaults prior to enlistment. There have been no reports in years of sexual assaults involving students at SOI-West. Students at both locations submit course critiques that can be anonymous, and have access to a suggestion box. The Commanding Officers review them all, and have initiated investigations on rare occasions when misconduct is cited. In addition, the SOI Legal Officers actively review duty logs for evidence of Standard Operating Procedure violations.

5. All personnel at both SOI locations have received Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) training. Non-Commissioned Officers attended the Marine Corps “Take A Stand” program. Permanent personnel received a full day of all-hands training in October 2012 including an informal lecture, guided discussions, ethical decision games, and videos. Students receive 90 minutes of SAPR training structured to compliment that begun during recruit training, and issues of gender and sexual assault are referenced during numerous subsequent discussions of professionalism, ethics, and core values.

Marine Corps Combat Service Support Schools

1. Marine Corps Combat Service Support Schools (MCCSSS) at Camp Johnson, North Carolina is primarily engaged in the training of enlisted and officer Marines in 43 distinct courses spanning four separate schools of financial management, logistics operations, personnel administration, and ground supply. Most students are young enlisted Marines in entry-level training that leads to Military Occupational Specialty (MOS) designation. They typically arrive directly after 13 weeks of recruit training, followed by 4 weeks of Marine Combat Training at the School of Infantry (see above), and their time at MCCSSS serves as an important transition between these uniquely intense prior experiences and subsequent duty with Marine Corps operating forces.
2. About 5500 students entered training during FY12, and the onboard student population varied seasonally from 1100 to 1700. Fifteen percent of students are female, and all MOS training at MCCSSS is mixed gender. Enlisted Marine students live in four barracks buildings – each associated with one of the four main schools. As in the Fleet, students are assigned roommates of the same gender, but male and female rooms are intermixed on various floors. No areas have video monitoring, but MCCSSS staff provides direct leadership presence while serving 24-hour onboard watch duty separately in each of the four barracks, with oversight by a fifth and more-senior onboard Command Duty Officer. Students do not receive overnight liberty while at MCCSSS – liberty hours end at 10 pm on weekdays and 12 pm on weekends. In addition, students are required to participate in vigorous daily early-morning physical training, led by MCCSSS staff, which simultaneously helps prepare Marines for the operating forces while also providing frequent opportunities for small-group mentoring.
3. Instructors at MCCSSS are informally pre-screened by Marine Corps community monitors and school managers, but they are not subjected to the rigorous process associated with Special Duty assignments such as recruit training. They undergo a one-week Training Command preparatory school along with additional indoctrination programs operated by each MCCSSS major school. All sign a Statement of Understanding that outlines strict standards for interaction with students. Of about 380 instructors, 29 (8%) are female. Two instructors are typically present in all classes, and they frequently receive unannounced visits by class auditors, schoolhouse managers, and command leadership. Students submit class evaluations and have easy access to the nearby medical clinic, local chaplains, numerous Uniformed Victim Advocates, and other resources.
4. Focus groups and stakeholder interviews confirm a command climate that is intolerant of misbehavior in general and sexual assault in particular. Occasional misbehavior by instructors is addressed aggressively and there have been no reports of instructors sexually assaulting students. Allegations of sexual assault by others are addressed by the command with equal vigor, and several accused offenders have received pre-trial confinement. The Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) program is actively run; the Sexual Assault Response Coordinator

(SARC) has excellent access to the Commanding Officer; and the command is in the process of hiring a new full-time civilian SARC and a full-time civilian Victim Advocate.

5. Essentially all staff and students have received recently-updated and standardized Marine Corps training on sexual assault prevention and response, and the command tracks participation closely. Students receive at least two doses of sexual assault training specifically while at MCCSSS, totaling at least 90 minutes. In July 2012, the base commander held a base stand-down on sexual assault prevention and response. Shortly after newly arriving in July 2012, the current Commanding Officer met with all MCCSSS staff and instructors to personally convey his standards of conduct. In August 2012, the commanding general led a one-day sexual assault program for commanding officers and senior enlisted at Fort Lee as part of the Commandant's Campaign Plan against sexual assault.
6. Many of the factors described above are new since July 2012. They inseparably correlate with the arrival of the current Commanding Officer and his engaged leadership, along with active larger-scale implementation of the Commandant's Campaign Plan.

Marine Corps Communication-Electronics School

1. The Marine Corps Communication-Electronics School (MCCES) is located on the Marine Corps Air Ground Combat Center at Twentynine Palms, California. The command operates a large number of training programs at seven different locations. At Twentynine Palms, various entry-level training programs in three major areas are grouped respectively into Subordinate Training Units, including Communication-Electronics Maintenance School, Tactical Communication Training School, and Air Schools. New enlisted Marines arrive from the School of Infantry (SOI) to begin Military Occupational Specialty (MOS) training programs within each school. Separate training programs vary in length from several months to one year.
2. The number of Marine students in entry-level training at MCCES varies seasonally but averages about 1500, and about 6% of students are female. Students live in several nearby barracks buildings. Female students are segregated on one floor of a barracks building where the main entry has a duty watch station and side doors are alarmed. There is no video monitoring of barracks spaces. Each barracks has duty watch-standers and a duty Officer of the Day (OOD) is present. Students receive several days of orientation and indoctrination upon arrival at MCCES before beginning their specific curriculum. After that, they receive full liberty privileges. A few married students live off-base with their spouses or families.
3. Instructors are assigned to MCCES after informal screening by MOS community monitors. Upon arrival, each receives several months of instructor training before they begin classroom teaching. All staff personnel, including instructors, sign copies of strict and explicit command guidance on appropriate interactions with students – all forms of fraternization and personal relationships are forbidden. Of about 600 permanent-party staff, about 5% are female. Each class has two or more instructors, and students are rarely alone with individual instructors. Multiple layers of instructor oversight, including officers assigned to training sections, result in frequent instructor observation during class periods. There is a heavy presence of senior enlisted leadership throughout the command. Instructor misconduct is rare, and allegations are aggressively addressed. Instructors accused of misconduct are immediately pulled from duty, and punishment for substantiated allegations is severe. The only alleged sexual assault of a student by an instructor involved an incident almost one year ago of very inappropriate touching in the barracks with others nearby. The incident was immediately reported by fellow students, the instructor was pulled from duty, a criminal investigation and Article 32 hearing have been completed, and the alleged offender is awaiting court martial.

4. Defining features of MCCES include its isolated desert location and its tenant status aboard a larger Marine Corps base engaged in training exercises with operational forces. The setting can be stressful for students in long training curricula. The command maintains an environment of values-based discipline and has also consciously promoted local trips and other positive activities for single Marines. Students have easy access to Uniformed Victim Advocates (UVA's), chaplains, medical personnel, other instructors, and enlisted leadership – each of whom in turn has easy access to command leadership. Customized local posters show photos and contact information for all thirteen command UVA's so that students can select who they would feel most comfortable. Students are provided information cards and are even instructed to program their cell phones with the local 24/7 access phone line for victim support. There are also anonymous suggestion boxes, and all inputs are carefully reviewed. Focus groups confirm few perceived barriers to reporting misconduct, and key stakeholders all separately discussed their commitment to coordinated support of sexual assault victims. The command has appointed and trained their own unit-level Sexual Assault Response Coordinator (SARC) to work in partnership with the installation-level SARC. Local NCIS agents confirm a dramatic shift over the past couple years in the aggressiveness of commands in addressing sexual assault issues and cases.

5. All students and permanent personnel have received Sexual Assault Prevention and response Training by a UVA. Training is also reinforced by UVA's during monthly "field day" formations. One area of specific emphasis involves how victims can preserve Restricted Reporting status if desired. A SAPR stand-down was recently held as part of the Commandant's Campaign Plan against sexual assault. The Commanding Officer, Executive Officer, and Command Sergeant Major are all highly visible and engaged in consistent messages about Marine Corps professionalism and intolerance for sexual assault.

MARINE CORPS OFFICER TRAINING

The Basic School

1. Every newly commissioned Marine Corps officer attends The Basic School (TBS) at Quantico, Virginia. Its mission is to train and educate new officers in high standards of professional knowledge, esprit-de-corps, and leadership – with particular emphasis on the responsibilities and war-fighting skills required of a platoon commander. The six-month curriculum includes classroom instruction, group discussion, and field exercises. It continuously emphasizes the "virtue ethics" of prudence, justice, courage, and temperance, along with the Marine Corps "warrior ethos." While the program is academically and physically rigorous, an active mentorship program helps students remediate identified deficiencies. The largest single component (40%) of student officer evaluation is based on “leadership.” Graduates move on to further training or duty in aviation, combat arms, combat support, or combat service support.

2. About 1600 officers graduate each year. The student officer population averages about 800 and is 10% female. Female students are fully integrated into all training. Students share two-person barracks rooms with roommates of the same gender, but student housing is not otherwise segregated by gender. There is no video monitoring of barracks spaces.

3. Instructors at TBS are carefully screened and the Commanding Officer was hand-picked by the Commandant of the Marine Corps. About 500 enlisted instructors lead student officers in physical training and field exercises. The instructor staff also includes about 80 officers, of whom about 8-10% are female, reflecting the gender makeup of the Marine Corps. Standards of instructor conduct are strict and explicit – fraternization with students is forbidden. Instructors are continuously evaluated by 2-3 others, they receive quarterly written evaluations, and students provide frequent feedback. Instructor misconduct is quickly reported by students or peers. In the past year, an episode of inappropriate touching of a female student by a Warrant Officer instructor was reported by the victim and fellow students. The instructor was immediately removed from duty, the Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS) investigated the case, and the offender ultimately received an Other-Than-Honorable discharge.

4. The command climate at TBS is disciplined and values-based. There were no alleged sexual assaults of TBS students by other students in Fiscal Year 2012. Fraternization and sexual activity among students is forbidden, and occasional violations trigger serious consequences. Students have easy access to Uniformed Victim Advocates (UVA’s), chaplains, other instructors, and school leadership. The Commanding Officer maintains a highly visible presence throughout the command, and he is nothing short of passionate about ethical standards of conduct and leadership.

5. All staff personnel at TBS have received either the Marine Corps “Take A Stand” or “All Hands” Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) training in 2012. Material on sexual assault is integrated into numerous safety briefings, ethical training, and other presentations throughout the curriculum.

8 Day Brief Data Summary

1 NOV 12 – 30 SEPT 13

These percentages have remained relatively consistent over the last year

- This brief represents a summary of 322 ( Q1(Nov & Dec):60, Q2:72, Q3:84, Q4:106) submitted reports.
- 10% (31) of reports are for incidents that occurred prior to service
- 90% (290) of 8 Day Briefs show that the at risk population continues to be the junior enlisted Marine E1-E4 with 85% (273) between 18-24 years old.
- Greatest incidence is located in areas where there is a high density of Marines; Camp Pendleton, Camp Lejeune, and Okinawa .
- Alcohol is involved in 56% (181) of the reports.
- 65% (209) 8 Day Briefs have male offenders on female victims and 23% (74) male victims with male offenders.
- 23% (76) of 8 Day Briefs came from a Training Command. Twenty-one of those seventy-six reports were for incidents that occurred prior to service.
- 48% (153) of the briefs indicated victim and alleged offender were from the same unit.
- SAFE kits were conducted 37 of 128 times for those reports made within 5 days of the incident. No victims were denied a SAFE because of unavailability / access.

| Sexual Assault ChecklistFor Naval Health Clinic Patients   |  | Date/TimeCompleted withStaff Initial   | Contact'sName/Date andTime Arrived |
| 1.   | During working hours, call Captain Hearn at 301-342-1875 and notify her that a sexual assault patient has arrived in main side or BHC clinics. Sequester the patient in a private exam room and immediately inform the SAFE RN/MEDICAL OFFICER as designated in your clinic. (CDR Deschere and Virginia Capps RN are the designated SAFE examiners) If the patient presents with life-threatening injuries, call 911 for transport immediately to the Emergency Room at local hospital. Do not remove clothing unless required for life-saving measures. SAVE THE CLOTHING! If the patient presents and is stable requesting medical treatment to include a SAFE exam, please skip to step 5. If the patient declines to go to ER, please proceed with step 2.          |   |   |
| 2.   | During normal working hours, contact the NHCPR's designated SAPR Victim Advocate; HM3 Harris, Jamie at 301-342-9504/504-377-3418 or Mrs. Darlene Jones-Dorsey at 301-995-4662/240-925-5327. If these members are not available, please contact the SAPR VA 24/7 hotline at 301-481-1057. After hours or holidays call 301-481-1057. If there is no response on the hotline, please call the Sexual Assault Response Coordinator (SARC) at 301-580-8212. Additionally contact Family Advocacy Program (FAP) at 301-757-1872 for military dependents, 18 yrs and older who were assaulted by spouse or intimate partner, along with military dependents, 17 year of age and younger. SAPR Victim Advocate and SARC must be contacted even if victim presents with a UVA: Uniformed Victim Advocate. |   |   |
|  GUIDANCE FOR WORKING WITH LAW ENFORCEMENT and SARC   |  |   |   |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>* The victim's report provided to healthcare personnel, SARCs, or SAPR VA will NOT be reported to law enforcement or to the command to initiate the official investigation unless the victim consents or an established EXCEPTION applies.</li> <li>* Mandatory reporting laws and cases investigated by civilian law enforcement may make it impossible for victims to make restricted reports.</li> <li>* SARC is responsible for reporting Unrestricted reports to installation commander within 24 hours. SARC also responsible for reporting non-PII containing Restricted sexual assaults within 24 hours to installation commander.</li> </ul> |  |   |   |
| 3.   | SAPR Victim Advocate will discuss with the pt whether the incident is a RESTRICTED* or UNRESTRICTED REPORT and inform the RN/MEDICAL OFFICER of the reporting option. They will also have the patient complete the DD 2910. It is not the duty of the RN or the Medical Officer to counsel patients on reporting options; it is the duty of the Victim Advocate.   | Check One//RN Initial <input type="checkbox"/> RESTRICTED _____(Follow Steps 5 - 7) |   |

PATIENT PRESENTS SEEKING CARE FOR SEXUAL ASSAULT

If patient is <18 ys old, they MUST be transferred to CHKD for peds care

STEP 1: TRIAGE/INTAKE

Put patient in SAFE examination room (keys in Pyxis) as soon as possible and inform charge RN ED staff to obtain Vital Signs, collect labs, and attend to life/limb/site concerns
Do not undress patient unless absolutely necessary for lifesaving measures. Save clothing
PHYSICIANS DO NOT PERFORM PELVIC/GENITAL EXAM unless required for lifesaving measures
Page duty examiner at 988-9546, and alert them they MAY POTENTIALLY have a case

PLEASE DRAW ALL LABS WITHIN 60 MINUTES OF TRIAGE TIME

Blood and urine collection is imperative to be done as soon as possible, unless the patient declines collection
For purposes of clinical competency and consent, intoxicated/altered patients must remain in EMD under observation until they are medically cleared by a provider to be able to consent to a forensic examination
Laboratory testing (e.g. Blood Alcohol (BAC) level) is not mandatory and is only ordered if indicated
When called, the Forensic Examiner will ask: "Is the patient medically cleared to provide informed consent?"
The ED physician MUST note on the medical chart
"Based on my history, physical examination and clinical judgment
The patient is medically cleared and has the capacity to provide informed consent for a forensic examination."

STEP 2: LABS

Order set "ASSAULTLABS" - LABS SHOULD BE DRAWN PRIOR TO ADMINISTRATION OF ANY IV FLUIDS and WITHIN 60 MIN OF TRIAGE TIME
*MAX* Order all labs except Blood ETOH, HCG, CBC, CMP under follow up provider's name - see list on pg 2 for name/clinic*

- ✓ Blood ETOH (BAC) level (if indicated): grey top x 1, → send STAT to lab
- ✓ CBC & CMP (if you are prescribing HIV post-exposure prophylaxis)
- ✓ Qualitative urine HCG: (dirty catch is best, not CCMS) – HCG for STAT, pour off remaining urine for Forensic Tox, label with pt sticker, place in plastic bag, and lock in SAFE cart.. Advise pt not to vigorously wipe when done, just pat dry or not wipe at all. Collector must sign, date, and time DD2911, pg 8 of 8, section M (Toxicology Samples).
- ✓ Forensic Tox: grey top x 2, label with pt sticker, place in plastic bag, and lock in SAFE cart. Collector must sign, date, and time DD2911, pg 8 of 8, section M (Toxicology Samples).
- ✓ Hep B surface Ag & Ab Hepatitis = RED TUBE
- ✓ Hep C Ab
- ✓ RPR qualitative RPR = TIGER TOP TUBE
- ✓ HIV Ab HIV – 1/0/2 - Rapid HIV = LAVENDER TUBE X
- ✓ Cultures: Pls have physician enter cultures for GC/Chlamydia, BV/Trich. They will be collected and sent by Forensic Examiner.

Blood alcohol (if ordered), CBC, CMP, and HCG must be entered under the ED physician name.

Forensic blood and urine for SAFE cart doesn't require an MD order.

Hep panel, RPR, HIV, and all STD cultures must be entered under the name of the provider of the clinic where the patient wants to do their follow up appt. Ask pt where they will follow-up

Family members must follow up at NMCP
AD can use NMCP or ANY outlying clinic if they choose

STEP 3: VICTIM'S ADVOCATE - Active Duty Patients ONLY

Non AD Family members:

Non AD family members and/or dependents receive Victim's Advocacy from RESPONSE:

757-622-4300

Please alert Security that Response Volunteer is coming and what time expected. If Marital Rape, FAP must also be alerted.

PATIENT WISHES TO MAKE RESTRICTED OR UNRESTRICTED REPORT

PLEASE NOTE, *ONLY* Victims Advocates SHOULD BE COUNSELING PATIENTS ON REPORTING OPTIONS. THIS IS NOT THE ROLE OF THE ED PHYSICIAN OR STAFF.
VA or ED RN should page the duty S.A.F.E. examiner: 988-9546

DO NOT CALL LAW ENFORCEMENT.
Upon completion of evidence collection, Patient care will return to the ED staff for medicating and discharge planning.

MEDICAL TREATMENT ONLY

Patients have the right to decline any/all evidence collection and be treated medically only. This option involves notification of Victims Advocate and EMD/medical personnel only.

DO NOT ALERT NCIS/LAW ENFORCEMENT
and let them phone consult before proceeding further.

MEDICATE AS INDICATED.

Pt will need broad spectrum coverage for STDs and HIV prevention, if desired.
Pregnancy prevention should also be addressed. Medicate for pain as indicated.

IF PROVIDER HAS RELIGIOUS EXCEPTION TO PROVIDING E.C., PLEASE PASS THIS TASK TO ANOTHER PROVIDER WILLING TO PROVIDE.

When ordering meds, use the CHCS order set "assaultmeds" (non-pregnant) or "assaultmedspreg" (pregnant patients) to order:

- ✓ Update a tetanus toxoid immunization if needed
- ✓ Administer HBIG if the patient is not vaccinated and the perpetrator has a known history of Hep B
- ✓ Prescribe pain medications as needed
- ✓ Prescribe antiemetics as needed
- ✓ HIV prophylaxis (no change if pregnant – use same regiments)
  - Give HIV post-exposure prophylaxis ASAP in the ED if high risk of HIV transmission & < 72 hours from exposure:
    - Truvada 1 tab PLUS Kaletra 2 tabs PO
  - Discharge with HIV prophylaxis if given in ED:
    - Truvada 1 tab PO Daily PLUS Kaletra 2 tabs PO BID both for 30 days
    - Imodium 2 mg, 1 tab po prn diarrhea
- ✓ Consider empiric STD prophylaxis:
  - Ceftriaxone 250 mg IM now OR Cefixime 400 mg PO now PLUS
  - Flagyl 2 gm PO to be taken 24-48 hours after discharge from the ED PLUS
  - Azithromycin 1 gm PO now OR Doxycycline 100 mg PO BID x 7 days

AHLTA CODING:

The sensitive button should be activated when entering chart into AHLTA to enhance privacy.

Please refer to BUMED 6310.11, pg 12
"Coding Guidance".

- ✓ Consider emergency contraception (EC) with Plan B or Next Choice
  - IF PROVIDER HAS A RELIGIOUS/PERSONAL EXCEPTION TO PRESCRIBING EC; there are 2 acceptable options: (1) discuss case with another provider in the EMD (including resident physician) to prescribe, (2) contact EMD Department Head.
- ✓ Consider sleep aids or anxiolytics
- ✓ Place an ASAP Infectious Disease consult if HIV post-exposure prophylaxis is provided.
- ✓ Provide 72 hours of SIQ.

Have the patient follow-up with his/her immunization clinic if they need the hepatitis B or HPV vaccine.

STEP 5: DISCHARGE PLANNING

Fiscal Year (FY) 2013 Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) Program Review:

Appendix I

(d) Provide a report to HQMC (MFB) after completion of the inspection and a follow-up report after 30 days.

(6) Staff Judge Advocate to the Commandant of the Marine Corps (SJA to CMC) in coordination with HQMC (MFB) shall:

(a) Develop and implement annual training requirements for Staff Judge Advocates (SJAs), trial counsel and defense counsel as provided in Appendix N.

(b) Establish SJA protocol which requires that case disposition information be given to the Command/Installation Sexual Assault Response Coordinator (SARC) for input into the sexual assault database.

(c) As the Component Responsible Official for the Victim and Witness Assistance Program (VWAP), ensure installation VWAP councils, Victim and Witness Liaison Officers (VWLO) and Victim and Witness Assistance Coordinators (VWAC) address the special concerns and issues surrounding sexual assault victims.

(7) All General Courts-Martial Convening Authorities (GCMCA) shall:

(a) Establish, in writing, the billet of Command SARC and/or Installation SARC. Guidance on selecting a SARC is in Chapters 3 and 5.

(b) Ensure training is conducted on sexual assault awareness and prevention annually per reference (a). Training will consist of an overview of the content of this Order, definitions, reporting options, high-risk situations and behaviors, programs available to assist victims, and Bystander Intervention training.

(c) Ensure the intent and program elements of this Order are executed.

(d) Ensure that, at a minimum, two SAPR Uniformed Victim Advocates, hereafter referred to as UVAs, are appointed at each battalion, squadron, or equivalent level command.

(e) Ensure organizations not co-located with a Battalion but with a UIC, and without a UVA, develop a SAPR SOP establishing victim response procedures and identifying appropriate local resources. When located on or near a sister service installation, establish an MOU for SAPR services.

Records
(2) DD 149, Application for Correction of Military Record Under the Provisions of title 10, U.S.C.
Section 1552
(3) Applicant's Guide

1. Purpose. To establish procedures for making application and the consideration of applications for correction of military records of current and former members of the Navy and Marine Corps by the Secretary of the Navy acting through the Board for Correction of Naval Records (BCNR) under reference (a).

2. Cancellation. NAVSO P-473 of 28 November 1977. All other regulations and memoranda providing guidance on policies or procedures of BCNR, and delegations of authority inconsistent with this instruction, are cancelled.

3. Action

a. BCNR shall consider and either take corrective action on the Secretary's behalf, when authorized, or make appropriate recommendations to the Secretary regarding applications for the correction of military records following the procedures in enclosure (1).

b. The Assistant Secretary of the Navy (Manpower and Reserve Affairs), under references (b) and (c), has been assigned the responsibility for the overall supervision of BCNR and is delegated authority to take final action on BCNR cases forwarded for review.

c. The Executive Director, BCNR shall administer and oversee the operation of BCNR. The Executive Director shall be subject to the supervision and administrative control of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy (Manpower and Reserve Affairs).

d. Department of the Navy facilities of all commands, bureaus, offices, and boards shall be made available to BCNR to assist it, upon request, in the performance of its duties consistent with applicable statutes and regulations. Requests for records and/or advisory opinions should under normal circumstances be acted upon within 60 days of receipt of BCNR's request.

4. Execution of BCNR Decisions. The Chief of Naval Operations and the Commandant of the Marine Corps shall ensure that action is taken to make the military record corrections directed by the Secretary or BCNR. The applicant and Executive Director will be advised of the action taken.

5. Administrative Correction of Personnel Records. To enhance efficiency and minimize requirements for BCNR actions where possible, the Chief of Naval Operations and the Commandant of the Marine Corps will ensure that obvious clerical or administrative errors are corrected locally under the authority of reference (d) to the extent permitted by law and regulation.

6. Changes in Procedures. BCNR may recommend changes to enclosure (1). Changes must be approved by the Secretary of the Navy and the Secretary of Defense. Enclosure (1) and all approved changes thereto will be published in the Federal Register.

7. Application. Applications to BCNR for correction of naval records must be submitted on DD 149, Application for Correction of Military Record, or exact facsimile. Enclosure (2) is a copy of DD 149. Enclosure (3) provides information to prospective applicants regarding the procedures governing the submission and processing of applications. In processing applications alleging violations of reference (e) there will be strict compliance with the provisions of references (f) and (g).

MEMORANDUM FOR SECRETARY OF DEFENSE

SUBJECT: Comprehensive Visual Inspection of all Department of the Navy Workplaces

As directed in your memorandum of May 6, 2013, the Department of the Navy has completed comprehensive visual inspections of all workplaces to ensure they promote an environment of dignity and respect. Detailed inspection reports respectively addressing the Secretariat, the Navy, and the Marine Corps are attached.

In summary, we conducted visual inspections across the Department, in a thorough and methodical manner, world-wide, and in a spirit of professionalism focused on our high priority on gender equity and respect. Our scope of effort was exhaustive and included ships, aircraft, vehicles, shore facilities, recreation areas, exchanges and other service facilities, common areas of on-base housing, and office environments – starting with my own. The attached reports detail over 4,200 items removed. The vast majority were items that might have been tolerated without comment in a prior era – including historical and other posters, magazines, and graffiti – but whose removal now demonstrates our commitment to positive change and growth. In each case, we sought to visibly underscore the importance of exactly that process.

INFO MEMO

SUBJECT: Department of the Navy Comprehensive Visual Inspection of All DON Workplaces

- In accordance with ALNAV 038/13 and MARADMIN 291/13, the Marine Corps has conducted a visual inspection of all of its workplaces and common access spaces to include: office buildings, facilities, aircraft, government vehicles, hangars, ready rooms, conference rooms, individual offices, cubicles, storage rooms, tool and equipment rooms, workshops, break rooms, galleys, recreation areas, Marine Corps Exchanges, and heads.
- A total of 514 items were removed as a result of the inspection. Sexually suggestive magazines, posters/calendars and individual artwork represented the majority of inappropriate items found. These items were immediately removed from the workplace and this inspection afforded the Commander and Senior Enlisted Advisor the opportunity to further reinforce a message that fosters a positive command climate. In addition to the removal of offensive material, other corrective actions include discussions with Marines and civilian Marines to ensure Marine Corps workplaces remain professional and free from degrading, hostile, and offensive material.
- Inspections of all Marine Corps workplaces will be conducted on a regular basis, not less than annually. The Inspector General of the Marine Corps will review and address this ongoing requirement during regular command inspections and assessments. These inspections align with the Commander's existing ability to conduct health and comfort inspections to enhance personnel and mission readiness in accordance with Marine Corps Order 5300.17.
- The Secretary of Defense's requirement to conduct visual inspections of the workplace further reinforces commanders' commitment to establishing a positive command climate that promotes an environment of dignity, respect, and professionalism. All leaders are responsible for keeping the culture of the Marine Corps free of offensive material and behavior that may demean or victimize any of their Marines, and this requires a full-dimensional, 360 degree approach. This visual inspection requirement will be an integral part of this responsibility.

RMKS/1. IAW REF A, this ALNAV directs that the Under Secretary of the Navy, Chief of Naval Operations (CNO), and Commandant of the Marine Corps (CMC) perform a comprehensive visual inspection of all DON workplaces to ensure they are free from materials that create a degrading, hostile, or offensive work environment. Inspections of all DON workplaces, including the U.S. Naval Academy, must be completed NLT 28 June 2013, and inspection results reported to me by 12 July 2013.

2. Applicability. this ALNAV applies DON-wide. The government workplaces of all DON Sailors, Marines, and civilian employees are subject to comprehensive visual inspections.

3. Purpose. All DON personnel shall be treated with dignity and respect. As stated in REFs A through C, fostering a command climate free of all forms of unlawful discrimination, including sexual harassment, is essential to maintaining high morale, good order, discipline, and readiness. The inspections directed by this ALNAV aim to eliminate materials that create a degrading, hostile, or offensive work environment and to ensure a professional workplace for all DON personnel.

4. Procedures

4.A. Authorized inspection locations. All DON Commanders, Commanding Officers, Officers-in-Charge, and civilian directors shall direct comprehensive and regular inspections of all workplaces and common access spaces under their control for materials listed in subparagraphs 4.D and 4.E.

4.B. Workplaces include but are not limited to:

ALN13038

4.B.1. Office buildings, facilities, naval vessels, aircraft, government vehicles, hangars, ready rooms, conference rooms, individual offices, cubicles, storage rooms, tool and equipment rooms, workshops, break rooms, galleys, recreation areas, Navy and Marine Corps Exchanges, and heads.

4.B.2. Sensitive compartmented information facilities, and other secure facilities.

4.B.3. Common areas of on-base military barracks and bachelor quarters, to include onbase Private-Public Venture (PPV) barracks.

4.B.4. Common areas of off-base PPV barracks if entry/inspection is allowed by the terms of the PPV agreement or if the PPV operator allows entry for this purpose.

4.B.5. All DON school houses and training facilities including, but not limited to, the U.S. Naval Academy, the Naval Academy Preparatory School, Officer Candidate School, Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps Units, the Basic School, Officer Development School, Recruit Training Command, and Marine Corps Recruit Depots.

4.C. Limitations. For purposes of this specific inspection, DON Commanders, Commanding Officers, Officers-in-Charge, and civilian directors will not inspect assigned government laptop or desktop computers (with the exception of visible screensavers), assigned individual barracks rooms/living quarters, assigned desk drawers, assigned cabinet drawers, clothing (e.g., coats), assigned lockers, purses, brief cases, backpacks, private automobiles, and personal electronic devices (e.g., iPads, iPhones, etc.).

4.D. Removal and documentation of degrading or offensive materials.

4.D.1. DON Commanders, Commanding Officers, Officers-in-Charge, and civilian directors will effect the removal of material that a reasonable person would consider degrading or offensive and document any material discovered during the course of workplace inspections.

4.D.2. Degrading or offensive material includes, but is not limited to, documents, logs, books, pictures, photographs, calendars, posters, magazines, videos, props, displays, or other media, including electronic media, that contain inappropriate depictions and are detrimental to a professional working environment.

4.D.3. Degrading or offensive materials are to be immediately removed from the workplace by the service member/civilian who possesses such materials or by the responsible supervisor if the responsible individual is not present for the inspection.

4.D.4. Appropriate disciplinary or administrative action may be considered if an individual fails to comply with an order to remove degrading or offensive material from the workplace.

4.D.5. If there is doubt as to whether material is degrading or offensive, the individual conducting the inspection shall remove the material from the workplace to ensure a professional work environment.

4.E. Command seizure and documentation of contraband.

4.E.1. Individuals conducting the inspection will immediately seize and document any contraband discovered during the course of workplace inspections.

4.E.2. Contraband includes materials that are patently lewd, lascivious, obscene, or pornographic, as well as supremacist images, publications, or materials.

4.E.3. If evidence of a crime is discovered during an inspection (e.g., child pornography, illegal drugs or paraphernalia, unauthorized weapons, stolen property, etc.), individuals conducting the inspection are to immediately contact the Naval Criminal Investigative Service and comply with applicable standard procedures.

5. Additional guidance

5.A. The authority to conduct workplace inspections may be delegated to an appropriate level within a command, unit, or activity, but no lower than the E-7 or civilian supervisory level. Individuals conducting an inspection shall have the appropriate access and clearance.

5.B. While not the focus of this inspection, government computers remain subject to inspection pursuant to applicable laws and regulations. Commanders, Commanding Officers, Officers-in-Charge, and civilian directors have a continuing responsibility to ensure appropriate procedures are in place which prevent degrading, offensive or unlawful material from being stored on government computers.

5.C. DON Commanders, Commanding Officers, Officers-in-Charge, and civilian directors remain responsible and accountable for ensuring compliance with this ALNAV, and must provide clear guidance and intent to those members delegated authority to conduct inspections.

5.D. Each area and person affected by the inspection is to be subject to the same level of inspection.

5.E. Commands should leverage their Equal Opportunity Advisors, Staff Judge Advocates, and Command Counsel when determining what material creates a degrading or offensive work environment. Commands should consult their Staff Judge Advocate or Command Counsel on any questions related to the handling of contraband or suspected criminal activity revealed during the inspection.

ALN13038

5.F. With respect to PPV inspections, installation Commanding Officers will coordinate with the responsible PPV partner.

5.G. DON Commanders, Commanding Officers, Officers-in-Charge, and civilian directors will insure that a copy of this ALNAV is provided to their local bargaining unit pursuant to the terms of the applicable collective bargaining agreement.

6. Reporting

6.A. Deadline for submission to SECNAV. The Under Secretary of the Navy (for the Office of the Secretary of the Navy), CNO, and CMC will submit final reports of inspection results from their respective claimancies to the DON SAPRO NLT 12 July 2013.

6.B. Inspection results from each echelon shall report the amount and type of inappropriate material found, the location where discovered (individual workspace, common workspace, or electronic media), and how the material was removed.

6.C. All commands shall document inspection results using the standardized reporting template that can be downloaded at: HTTP://WWW.DONSAPRO.NAVY.MIL.

6.D. Report submission

6.D.1. The Office of the Secretary of the Navy. The Heads of Echelon I commands/activities under the direct supervision of SECNAV per REF D shall receive and consolidate inspection results from their subordinate commands/activities, and submit results to the DON Assistant for Administration.

6.D.2. Commands Administrative Control (ADCON) to CNO. Echelon II Commanders shall receive and consolidate inspection results from their subordinate commands/activities as delineated by REF D, and submit results to Director, Navy Staff.

6.D.3. Commands ADCON to CMC. Echelon II Commanders shall receive and consolidate inspection results from their subordinate commands/activities, and submit results to Director, Marine Corps Staff.

7. DON Commanders, Commanding Officers, Officers in Charge, and civilian directors will ensure that visual inspections of all DON workplaces are conducted on a regular basis, not less than annually. The Naval Inspector General and Deputy Naval Inspector General for Marine Corps Matters are directed to review and address this ongoing requirement during regular command inspections and assessments.

8. Leaders at all levels are responsible and accountable for ensuring DON workplaces remain professional and free from degrading, hostile, and offensive material.

9. Released by Ray Mabus, Secretary of the Navy.//

Fiscal Year (FY) 2013 Sexual Assault Statistical Report Data Call for Sexual Assault in the Military: United States Navy

1. Analytic Discussion

1.1. Provide an analytic discussion of your Service's Statistical Report. This section should include such information as:

- Notable changes in the data since FY12 (in percentages) and other time periods, as appropriate.
- Insight or suspected reasons for noted changes, or lack of change, in data
- Implications the data may have for programmatic planning, oversight, and/or research
- How Reports of Sexual Assault mesh with your Service's scientifically conducted surveys during FY12 or FY13 (if any)
- Other (Please explain)

United States Navy (USN)

In Fiscal Year 2013 (FY13) the United States Navy has seen a significant increase in the reporting of sexual assaults. The total number of reports this year was 1057, which includes 801 Unrestricted Reports and 256 Restricted Reports that remained restricted. This represents an overall increase from FY12 of 46%. For a crime that is universally underreported, this trend is viewed as a positive endorsement of our efforts to increase trust and confidence in our response system. Reporting is a bridge to victim care and offender accountability.

Changes in Unrestricted Data since FY12

In FY13, Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS) reported 801 Unrestricted sexual assault investigations for the USN and, which meet the criteria established by the Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Office (SAPRO) program. The total Unrestricted investigations in FY13 demonstrate a 52% increase in case volume compared to FY12 where NCIS reported 527 Unrestricted sexual assault investigations. In terms of completed investigations, 500 of the investigations opened in FY13 came to completion within the same fiscal year compared to 332 completed investigations reported in FY12. The completed investigations increased 51% from FY12 to FY13. Another trend is the increase in the number of reports that were delayed by the victim prior to the initiation of an investigation. In FY13, 22% (176) of the incidents investigated did not take place in FY13. This is up from FY12 where 15% (79) of the incidents occurred prior to the reporting fiscal year.

Changes in Restricted Data since FY12

In FY13, Navy received 305 restricted sexual assault reports of which 49 (16%) were converted to unrestricted reports. This represents 24% increase in the total number of restricted reports initially received (246) within Navy in FY12. Forty-seven (19%) restricted reports were converted to unrestricted reports last fiscal year. These reports were made by 287 (94%) service members, 12 (4%) other civilians, and 6 (2%) dependents over the age of 18. Navy's restricted report victims in FY12 included 240 (98%) service members and 6 (2%) dependents over the age of 18. There was a significant number of reports made in FY13 (186, 61%) compared to those made in FY12 (37, 15%) in which the length of time between the sexual assault and the report being made was indicated as “unknown”. Likewise, the incident location was reported as unidentified in 78 (26%) and 28 (11%) of restricted reports received in FY13 and FY12, respectively.

Explanation and Implications of the Data

In FY13, the Secretary of Defense launched an awareness and training campaign which required 100% participation by all active duty, reserve, and civilian employees of the Department of Defense (DoD). The goal of this training campaign was threefold; convey the top-down message of intolerance of sexual assault in any aspect of the DoD, eradicate pre-conceived notions about what constituted a sexual assault, and educate how to report and where to get victim services. One aspect of the training included a video that depicted common scenarios where an assault may occur, such as getting a celebratory drink on a Temporary Additional Duty (TAD) or sexual harassment in the work place that crosses the line into an assault. The depiction of these scenarios allowed the viewer to place themselves in the shoes of the victim, the offender, and the bystander and ask themselves: when should I have asked for help, when should I have walked away, and when should I have intervened? After the video, a moderator helped the viewers understand the boundaries that were broken and why the situations were wrong; this further helped dispel beliefs that the depicted behavior is acceptable or harmless. The impact and effectiveness of this training is one of many factors contributing to the increase in FY13 reporting of incidents of sexual assault.

Changes to Article 120 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ), as of June 28, 2012, also contributed to the increase in investigations. Under these changes, a broader definition of sexual contact was established to include any part of the body touched for sexual gratification; prior to this change, only contact to the sexual-related regions of the body (e.g., the genitalia, anus, groin, breast, inner thigh, or buttocks) were included. Under the newest definition, any person who kissed another person without their permission or touched a person in a non-sexual region such as their neck or shoulder, if done with the intent to abuse, humiliate, harass, degrade, arouse, or gratify, could now be found having violated Article 120. Awareness campaigns on these changes were disseminated to USN service members as well as to NCIS investigators. Additionally, NCIS began investigating all contact offenses on January 25, 2013. Although unrestricted investigations have increased 52% from FY12, investigations of contact offenses (i.e., Wrongful Sexual Contact, Abusive Sexual Contact, and Aggravated Sexual Contact) reported in FY13 increased by 87% from FY12.

| United States Navy Type of Offenses There were 902 reported victims of sexual assault within the unrestricted data. Although 801 investigations were opened in FY13, multiple victims are sometimes involved with a single investigation which results in more victims than investigations. Abusive Sexual Contact was the offense that most victims reported, accounting for 42% of victims (376), followed closely by Sexual Assault (including Aggravated Sexual Assault from the pre-June 28, 2012 UCMJ) which accounted for 34% (309) of victims. Other offenses reported by victims, or on behalf of victims, included Rape (145, 16%), Non-Consensual Sodomy (10, 1%), Aggravated Sexual Contact (41, 5%), and Wrongful Sexual Contact (pre-June 28, 2012 UCMJ)(8, 1%). Six (1%) additional victims made allegations of Indecent Assault (pre-October 1, 2007 UCMJ) and seven (1%) victims alleged to be victims of an attempted sexual assault. Demographic Trends Victims who were involved in USN initiated FY13 investigations were predominantly female (753, 83%), USN service members (752, 83%), in the 19 to 22 age range (459, 51%). The most commonly reported grade for service member victims was E3 (208) and E4 (205), accounting for 28% and 27%, respectively, of all USN service member victims in unrestricted investigations. Approximately 78% (587) of the USN service member victims reported the offense to be between two Navy service members. Combat Areas of Interest The USN had 31 Unrestricted Reports of sexual assault in the Combat Areas of Interest initiated during FY13. Four of the incidents occurred in Afghanistan, 13 reportedly took place in Bahrain, nine incidents in the United Arab Emirates, one in Iraq, one in Jordan, two in Oman, and one in Qatar. Twenty-two of the investigations were complete in FY13 and nine remain pending additional investigative action. A total of 36 victims of sexual assault were documented. All 36 victims were service members and 30 of these were USN service members. Ranks of the victims were dispersed within the enlisted ranks E1 to E6 with only one officer. Service member victims with a grade of E3, E4, and E5 account for 81% of the victims in combat areas. Twenty-eight of the victims were female and eight victims were male. The reported ages ranged between 19 and 38 years. In FY13, there were 244 military protective orders as result of reported sexual assaults. Conditions of the MPOs were violated by 11 alleged offenders. Transfers In FY13, a total of 148 requests for expedited transfers were received from victims who | filed unrestricted reports of sexual assault. Permanent change of station orders were issued in 128 cases and temporary reassignment actions were taken in 18 cases. Two victims' requests were denied at the Flag Officer level. In one case, the Flag Officer found that the report lacked reasonable grounds to believe that an offense constituting sexual assault had occurred. In the second case, the Flag Officer determined that a transfer was not necessary since the victim and alleged offender were not assigned to the same geographical location.

2.2. Subject Data Discussion and Analysis. This section should include an overview of such information as:

- Demographic trends
- Disposition trends
- Experiences in Combat Areas of Interest
- Other (Please explain)

United States Navy

Demographic Trends

Demographic trends inform prevention and awareness efforts; therefore, we examine these in terms of the most recent reports. Data analyzed in this section was selected from Unrestricted Reports opened and closed in FY13 as these are the most recent cases for which we have completed data. There were a total of 535 Subjects of Investigation (subjects) in 500 sexual assault investigations, initiated and completed in FY13. The investigations identified 478 (89%) male subjects and 23 (4%) female subjects. Information about the age of the subjects was varied, spanning 37 years; the largest clusters were that of subjects aged 22 and 23 years. Of the 535 subjects, 399 (75%) were members of the USN, two (<1%) were from the United States Marine Corps (USMC), and two (<1%) were members of the United States Army (USA). An additional 44 (8%) were United States civilians (including DoD civilians, DoD contractors, and other US Government civilians), 17 (3%) were Foreign National civilians, two (<1%) were Foreign National service members, and 64 (12%) were unidentified. The most commonly reported rank for USN service member subjects ranged between E3 and E5 (244), which together accounted for 61% of the USN service member subjects.

Disposition Trends

Disposition data must be examined in terms of all cases closed during a time period vice all cases opened and closed. Thorough investigations and successful adjudications require time, particularly in serious and complex cases; therefore, examining only cases opened and closed in a fiscal year excludes analysis of the more egregious and complex cases, and as a practical matter, all cases reported in the last quarter of the fiscal year. For the sake of accuracy in this section, we have included all dispositions in section D and E of the matrix (final dispositions in Unrestricted Reports opened and closed in FY13 and final dispositions in Unrestricted Reports received prior to FY13). By doing so, we are able to present a more comprehensive picture of military justice actions for sexual assault cases in FY13.

Could not be prosecuted – In FY13, there were 691 final dispositions for subjects accused of sexual assault. Fifty-eight percent (401) of the subjects could NOT be prosecuted for the following reasons: lack of jurisdiction (i.e., civilian subjects NOT subject to UCMJ) (64), the subject was unknown (107), the allegation was unfounded by command, meaning it was false or did not meet the elements of a sexual assault offense (38), statute of limitations expired (6), the subject died or deserted (3), the evidence was insufficient (105), or the victim declined or refused to cooperate with the investigation or prosecution (78).

Initial civilian jurisdiction – In 3% (24) of the remaining subjects, civilian authorities initially assumed jurisdiction. Final disposition data is not available for these cases at the time of this report.

Presented for disposition – In total, 39% (266) subject cases were presented to commanders for a disposition decision in FY13. Commanders preferred courts-martial charges against 110 subjects, conducted non-judicial punishment against 47 subjects, administratively discharged two subjects, and took adverse administrative action against 26 subjects. In cases that began as a report of sexual assault but investigations revealed other offenses instead, courts-martial charges were preferred for non-sexual assault offenses against 8 subjects, non-judicial punishment for non-sexual offenses was imposed on 68 subjects, administrative discharges for a non-sexual offense was taken against one subject, and other adverse administrative actions for non-sexual offenses were taken against four subjects.

Combat Areas of Interest

The USN had 31 Unrestricted Reports of sexual assault in the Combat Areas of Interest initiated during FY13. Four of the incidents occurred in Afghanistan, 13 reportedly took place in Bahrain, nine incidents in the United Arab Emirates, one in Iraq, one in Jordan, two in Oman, and one in Qatar. Twenty-two of the investigations were complete in FY13 and nine remain pending additional investigative action. An additional 16 investigations that were initiated prior to FY13 came to completion in FY13.

A total of 52 subjects of sexual assault were documented in completed cases from a combat area; 29 from FY13 investigations and 23 from pre-FY13 investigations. Fifty of the subjects were identified as male, one subject was reportedly female, and the remaining subject had an unidentified gender. The ages were dispersed, ranging between 20 and 48. Of the 52 subjects, 31 were USN service members, one was a USA service member, 14 were Foreign Nationals, two were US civilians, and four were unidentified. The USN subjects had a rank of E2-E6, O1, O3, and O5.

Forty-six of the 52 subjects received final dispositions, while six subjects are pending disposition. The dispositions of the 46 subjects are as follows. Six subjects were court-martialed, four for a sexual offense and two for a non-sexual offense. An additional five subjects received non-judicial punishment for a non-sexual offense. Prosecution was precluded on six subjects due to their identities remaining unknown, and an additional three subjects due to insufficient evidence. Victims declined participation in prosecuting six subjects and an additional five subject's cases were deemed unfounded by Command. The remaining 15 subjects were not under the authority of the military or United States judicial systems and prosecution was referred to a civilian or foreign authority.

Descriptive Data

Within the FY13 initiated investigations, the USN had more sexual assault incidents reported as occurring On-base than Off-base (51% and 43%, respectively). USN investigations indicate most of the incidents (60%) occurred within the Continental United States (CONUS) with only 27% occurring Outside the Continental United States (OCONUS). Additional location information revealed that most of the USN incidents occurred in private residences (27%), in the barracks/Bachelor Enlisted Quarters (BEQ)/Bachelor Officer Quarters (BOQ; 16%), on-board ships or aircraft carriers (16%), and in hotels (11%). In just under half of the investigations, incidents occurred in close proximity to the victim such as on a victim's home base (42%) or in the victim's off-base residence (5%). Additionally, 2% of incidents reportedly occurred at the victim's TAD/TDY base and 2% of incidents at the victim's deployed base. Twenty-four percent of incidents had no proximity to the victim. The significance of the victim's proximity to the incident location is that many victims have to live and work in the same environment where the incident occurred which can impact the victim's well-being following the incident.

In FY13, 26% of all USN initiated Unrestricted sexual assault investigations indicate the victim's report was made within three days of the incident. An additional 25% were reported within four to 30 days. Therefore, 51% of the investigations indicate reporting within the first 30 days following the incident. Since evidence diminishes across time, the longer a victim waits to report an incident or to cooperate with an investigation, the more challenging it can be to hold the subject appropriately accountable for their actions. Another delayed reporting trend indicates that the sexual assault offense categories that involve a sexual act (e.g., Rape) were more likely to be delayed in the reporting process compared to offense categories that involve sexual contact (e.g., Aggravated Sexual Contact). Forty-seven percent of the Unrestricted sexual assault investigations of Rape and Sexual Assault, combined, were made within the first 30 days following the incident. In comparison, 62% of the reports of Aggravated Sexual Contact and Abusive Sexual Contact together were made in the same time period.

Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays are the most reported days of the week describing when an incident took place, accounting for 61% of the incidents where this information was available. Thirty-three percent of incidents either lack information regarding specific dates of incidents or reference more than one date. Information about the specific time of an incident was unidentified in 58% of the USN Unrestricted investigations. In the reports that did maintain temporal information, the 1800 to 2400 and the 2400 to 0600 time frames are the most often selected as the assault time period, accounting for 39% and 40%, respectively, of the reports with this information available.

Alcohol was reported to be a possible contributing factor in just over half (416, 52%) of the USN Unrestricted incidents of sexual assault. Illicit or prescriptive drug use was reported as a possible contributing factor in 1% (9) of incidents. In 23% (188) of the incidents, there was reportedly no alcohol or drug use and in the remaining 23% (188) of incidents, drug and alcohol use could not be determined. Alcohol-related incidents took place Off-base (246, 59%) more often than On-base (162, 39%) and were often reported to have occurred in residences (153, 37%), barracks/BEQ/BOQ (80, 19%), and hotels (67, 16%). It is important to acknowledge that alcohol and drug use, as reported here, is not derived through empirical evidence such as toxicology reports but rather through self-reporting and therefore may reflect a reporting bias on behalf of the victim, subject, and collateral witnesses.

In 67% (540) of the FY13 Unrestricted investigations of sexual assault, a service member was victimizing another service member and in 64% (511) of the Unrestricted Reports both service members were from the Navy. The Navy on Navy incidents took place On-base (301, 59%) more often than Off-base (198, 39%). These incidents most often occurred in the barracks/BEQ/BOQ (94, 18%), on-board ships (112, 22%), and in the residences (129, 25%). Abusive Sexual Contact was the most reported offense accounting for 43% (222) of the Navy on Navy incidents. The majority of these incidents (464, 91%) occurred among the enlisted ranks.

Investigations

In FY13, initiated investigations increased 52% and completed investigations increased 51%. Many factors made this feat possible. NCIS streamlined the Family and Sexual Violence (F&SV) program model and created investigative teams which expedited the timeline of the investigations. Secondly, NCIS was able to increase manning and hire additional special agents and investigators to respond to the increased workload. Lastly, NCIS re-trained all agents and investigators assigned to the F&SV program such that they could carry out the new program model.

Part of the challenge in an NCIS agent's job is to develop collaborative relationships with many different stakeholders. As the graph (below) demonstrates, many different and autonomous parties initiate reports of sexual assault. The reports initiated by command will be independent from those initiated by local authorities however, it is imperative that all the stakeholders have confidence that NCIS agents and investigators will investigate all claims of sexual assault with diligence.

In FY13 completed and adjudicated investigations, notifications by Command (49%) were the most often means an investigation was initiated. Members of Command are often the first to identify changes in behaviors for the involved parties and sometimes become the first confidants. A victim notified NCIS directly in 12% of the investigations. NCIS is always working toward building better relationships with first responders and in FY13, Criminal Investigative Division (CID) and other on-base security forces notified NCIS in 6% of the investigations. NCIS was also notified by other investigating authorities, such as other Military Criminal Investigative Organization (MCIO) agencies (1%), local law enforcement authorities (11%), or foreign authorities (2%). Some of these investigations are later referred back to NCIS for Military accountability actions; however, others instead go through a non-military justice process. Other initial reporters include people involved in the SAPR program or other victim services (14%), hospital staff (3%) and family and friends of the victim (1%).

Combat Areas of Interest

Sexual assault investigations are diligently conducted regardless whether they occur CONUS, OCONUS, or in a deployed war zone. The statistics presented in this report indicate that demographics and trends of sexual assault in the Combat Areas of Interest largely replicate those in the overall report. That being said, there were some minor differences. In contrast to the non-combat area data, the incident locations were disparate and without specific trends such as in the barracks. Also, the type of sexual assault offense reported in the combat areas was more likely to involve sexual contact vice a sexual act. For example, Abusive Sexual Contact represented 52% of the combat area offenses but only 42% of the overall offenses. Information regarding delayed reports indicates that an incident occurring in a combat area is reported within 30 days slightly higher (61%) than reflected in the aggregate data (52%). It is a positive sign that incidents of sexual assault in combat areas had a better immediacy in their initial reporting; this may relate to benefits of training and awareness even while deployed. An explanation for why these small differences are seen in the combat area data is that the environment on these deployed bases is different than the environment in garrison. Deployed troops have less down-time; they spend more time supporting mission requirements and less time in the living quarters. Daily life while supporting a combat mission may lack day-to-day routine therefore the incidents of sexual assault may also lack planning and predictability and instead be more opportunistic.

3. Restricted Reporting

3.1. Victim Data Discussion. This section should include such information as:

- Demographics trends
- Service referrals
- Experiences in Combat Areas of Interest
- Other (Please explain)

United States Navy

Restricted reports are not reported to law enforcement. SARCs do not indicate the types of offenses for Restricted Reports which are self-reported and may or may not meet the definition and criteria of the UCMJ offenses. For all Restricted Reports, the role of the SARC is to focus on support services (e.g., crisis intervention, referrals to advocacy, medical, counseling services, etc) and case management.

There were notable changes from FY12 to FY13 in the number of Restricted Reports that were reported to SARCs. There were 59 more reports in FY13 (305) than in FY12 (246), an increase of 24%. Several factors may have contributed to this increase. First, SARCs transitioned to utilizing the Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database (DSAID) in FY13, resulting in the increased proficiency by SARCs in capturing SAPR data, which produced a more complete and accurate data set. Additionally, increased confidence in the SAPR Program due to the numerous fleet-wide training programs and the Navy's increased focus and communications on response mechanism, as well as an increased understanding of what constitutes sexual assault may have also positively impacted reporting.

Of the 305 Restricted Reports made within Navy, 98% (299) were made by service member victims as follows: 89% (267) were Navy; 2% (6) were Army; 4% (12) were U.S. Marine Corps; >1% (2) were U.S. Air Force; and 4% (12) were identified as unknown. Navy received no restricted reports from U.S. Coast Guard personnel. The remaining 2% (6) of total Restricted Reports were made by non-service members and involved service member assailants. Four percent (12) of the Restricted Reports involved incidents that occurred prior to the victims' military service.

Demographically, 82% (250) of the Restricted Reports involved female victims and 14% (44) involved male victims. In 4% (11) of the Restricted Reports, the victim's gender was indicated as unknown. Seventeen percent (52) of victims were between the ages of 16-19, 31% (95) were between the ages of 20 – 24, 12% (36) were between the ages of 25 – 34, 2% (5) were between the ages of 35 – 49, and >1% (2) were between the ages of 50 – 64, while 38% (115) ages were unknown. Fifty-four percent (160) of victims were E1 – E4, 13% (38) were E5 – E9, 1% were WO1 – WO5, 1% were O1 – O3, 1% were O4 – O10, 2% Cadet/Midshipman, >1% (1) Academy Prep School Student, and 28% (85) grade of service was unknown. The frequency of unknown demographics could be attributed to lack of victim disclosure or limited data collection by SARC or SAPR VA.

3.2. Reporting Data Discussion. This section should include such information

as:

- Trends in descriptive information about Restricted Reports (e.g., Did more reported incidents occur on/off installation)
- Trends in Restricted Reporting conversions
- Experiences in Combat Areas of Interest
- Other (Please explain)

United States Navy

Of the 305 Restricted Reports in FY13, 16% (49) were converted to Unrestricted Reports - a 3% increase from FY12 (47). Of the 49 converted cases, 92% (45) were made by service member victims and 8% (4) were made by non-service member victims. Approximately 35% (109) of the Restricted Reports were made by service members who indicated that they had been sexually assaulted by other service members, 54% (164) involved service members assaulted by unknown subjects, 9% (26) involved service members assaulted by non-service members, and 2% (6) involved non-service members assaulted by service members (entitled to RR by DOD Policy).

Twenty-seven percent (83) of Restricted Reports were reported as occurring on a military installation, 47% (144) occurred off a military installation, and 26% (78) occurred in an unidentified location. In comparison to FY12 restricted reports, data reflects a 2% increase for incidents occurring on a military installation [FY12 (81)], a 5% increase occurring off a military installation [FY12 (137)], and 64% increase occurring in an unidentified location [FY 12 (28)]. Additionally, disclosures also indicated that 4% (12) incidents occurred aboard ship; 8% (1) happened while the ship was underway (e.g., at sea) and 92% (11) while at port. Approximately 31% (94) of sexual assault incidents were reported to have occurred between midnight and 6 am, 9% of incidents were reported to have occurred between 6 am to 6 pm, while 21% (65) were reported to have occurred between 6 pm and midnight. The time that the incidents occurred was unknown for 39% (120) of the reports.

Sixty four percent (194) of restricted sexual assault incidents were reported to have occurred on an unknown day, while 17% (53) of cases reportedly occurred on Saturday, and 7% (21) of cases on Sunday. The high percentage of unknown day incidents could be attributed to lack of victim disclosure or limited data collection by SARCs or SAPR VAs. The length of time between sexual assault and restricted report was unknown in the majority (61% (186)) of the restricted cases. Approximately 16% (50) of cases were reported within three days of the incident. Based on victim disclosures in the 305 Restricted Reports in FY13, alcohol was involved in approximately 38% (115) of the incidents, a 30% increase from FY12 (81).

There was one Restricted Report of sexual assault for Navy in Combat Areas of Interest (Bahrain), which remained unchanged from FY12 (1). The case involved an E1 - E4, 21-year old male, Navy service member who reported the incident within 31 to 365 days of the sexual assault. The subject was also a service member and the incident occurred off the installation. The incident occurred on a Tuesday between the hours of 6 pm and midnight.

Referrals were provided by SARCs when the victim requested or conveyed a need for military and/or civilian medical, military and/or civilian victim advocacy, mental health, legal, or chaplain services. Referrals were primarily made to military facilities for medical and mental health support. Of the total referrals, 2,454 (86%) were made to military support services: 653 (27%) for victim advocacy, 470 (19%) for mental health, 351 (14%) for Chaplain/Spiritual Support, 318 (13%) for legal, 270 (11%) to DoD Safe Helpline, 297 (12%) for medical, and 95 (4%) were referrals to other services. In addition, 407 (14%) referrals were made to civilian facilities as follows: 131 (32%) for Rape Crisis Center, 87 (21%) for mental health, 63 (16%) for victim advocacy, 59 (15%) for medical, 34 (8%) were referrals to other services, 25 (6%) for legal, and 8 (2%) for Chaplain/Spiritual Support. In FY13, there were 85 unrestricted cases reported to SARCs where a SAFE was conducted, the same as reflected in FY12. In FY13, there were 78 total support service referrals for the nine Restricted Reports of sexual assault from non-service members. Referrals were provided by SARCs upon the victims' request and need for military and/or civilian medical, mental health, legal, victim advocacy, or chaplain services. Referrals were primarily made to military facilities for medical and mental health support as well as victim advocacy services. Of these total referrals, 45 (58%) were made to military facilities, including 9 (20%) for victim advocacy, 8 (18%) for mental health, 8 (18%) for medical, 7 (16%) for Chaplain/Spiritual Support, 6 (13%) for legal, 6 (13%) for DOD Safe Helpline, and 1 (2%) were referrals to other services. In addition, 33 (42%) referrals were made to civilian facilities as follows: 10 (30%) for mental health, 9 (28%) for Rape Crisis Center, 5 (15%) for medical, 4 (12%) for Chaplain/Spiritual Support, 3 (9%) victim advocacy, and 2 (6%) for legal services.

There were no cases in this category requiring support services referrals in a CAI.

In FY13, there was one restricted case reported to SARCs where a SAFE was conducted. There were no instances reported to SARCs where SAFE kits or other supplies were not available at the time of the victim's exam.

Fiscal Year (FY) 2013 Sexual Assault Statistical Report Data Call for Sexual Assault in the Military: United States Marine Corps

1. Analytic Discussion

1.1. Provide an analytic discussion of your Service's Statistical Report. This section should include such information as:

- Notable changes in the data since FY12 (in percentages) and other time periods, as appropriate.
- Insight or suspected reasons for noted changes, or lack of change, in data
- Implications the data may have for programmatic planning, oversight, and/or research
- How Reports of Sexual Assault mesh with your Service's scientifically conducted surveys during FY12 or FY13 (if any)
- Other (Please explain)

United States Marine Corps (USMC)

In Fiscal Year 2013 (FY13) the United States Marine Corps has seen a significant increase in the reporting of sexual assaults. The total number of reports this year was 808, which includes 501 Unrestricted Reports and 307 Restricted Reports that remained restricted. This represents an overall increase from FY12 of 86%, which follows a 31% increase from FY11 to FY12. For a crime that is universally underreported, this trend is viewed as a positive endorsement of our efforts to increase trust and confidence in our response system. Reporting is a bridge to victim care and offender accountability. As the Commandant's Campaign Plan on Sexual Assault continues, a sustained emphasis on engaged leadership and the expectation that Marines will step up should be credited with bringing about these changing beliefs, behaviors, and expectations.

Changes in Unrestricted Data since FY12

In FY13, Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS) reported 501 Unrestricted sexual assault investigations for the USMC and, which meet the criteria established by the Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Office (SAPRO) program. The total Unrestricted investigations in FY13 demonstrate a 50% increase in case volume compared to FY12 where NCIS reported 333 Unrestricted sexual assault investigations. In terms of completed investigations, 291 of the investigations opened in FY13 came to completion within the same fiscal year compared to 172 completed investigations reported in FY12. The completed investigations increased 69% from FY12 to FY13. Another trend that changed in FY13 is the number of reports that were delayed by the victim prior to the initiation of an investigation. In FY13, 27% (134) of the incidents investigated did not take place in FY13. This is up from FY12 where 21% (71) of the incidents occurred prior to the reporting fiscal year. Additionally, 13% (67) of the FY13 unrestricted reports were delayed more than a year before making the report to law enforcement; which is up 86% from FY12.

Changes in Restricted Data since FY12

In FY13 there were 344 initial Restricted Reports of sexual assault, 37 of those reports converted to Unrestricted Reports resulting in 307 reports remaining restricted for FY13. This represents a 201% increase in the number of reports from the 102 in FY12. For those reports where the time between incident and report is known 41% of reports were for incidents that occurred over 365 days ago. Separately, there were 158 Restricted Reports made for incidents that occurred prior to service which represents 46% of all Restricted Reports for FY13.

Explanation and Implications of the Data

In FY13, the Secretary of Defense launched an awareness and training campaign which required 100% participation by all active duty, reserve, and civilian employees of the Department of Defense (DoD). The goal of this training campaign was threefold; convey the top-down message of intolerance of sexual assault in any aspect of the DoD, eradicate pre-conceived notions about what constituted a sexual assault, and education regarding how to report and where to get victim services. One aspect of the training included a video that depicted common scenarios where an assault may occur, such as getting a celebratory drink on a Temporary Additional Duty (TAD) or sexual harassment in the work place that crosses the line into an assault. The depiction of these scenarios allowed the viewer to place themselves in the shoes of the victim, the offender, and the bystander and ask themselves: when should I have asked for help, when should I have walked away, and when should I have intervened? After the video, a moderator helped the viewers understand the boundaries that were broken and why the situations were wrong; this further helped dispel beliefs that the depicted behavior is acceptable or harmless. Following the training, which began in the 3rd quarter and was largely completed in the 4th quarter of FY13, many reports of sexual assault were made from people who referenced the training as the motivation behind their report. Unrestricted investigations initiated in the 4th quarter were at least 29% higher than any previous quarter in FY13. Restricted reporting follows this pattern as well, 70% of the reports were made in the last half of the year.

Changes to the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) Article 120 statute, as of June 28, 2012, also contributed to the increase in investigations. Under these changes, a broader definition of sexual contact was established to include any part of the body touched for sexual gratification; previously only contact to the sexual-related regions of the body (e.g., the genitalia, anus, groin, breast, inner thigh, or buttocks) was included. Under the newest definition, any person who kissed another person without their permission or who touched a person in a non-sexual region such as their neck or shoulder with the intent to abuse, humiliate, harass, degrade, arouse, or gratify would now be held accountable to the Article 120. Awareness campaigns on these changes were disseminated to USMC service members as well as to NCIS investigators. Although unrestricted investigations have increased 50% from FY12, investigations of contact offenses (i.e., Wrongful Sexual Contact, Abusive Sexual Contact, and Aggravated Sexual Contact) reported in FY13 increased by 110% from FY12.

2. Unrestricted Reporting

2.1. Victim Data Discussion and Analysis. This section should include an overview of such information as:

- Type of offenses
- Demographic trends
- Service referrals

- Experiences in Combat Areas of Interest
- Military Protective Orders Issued as a Result of an Unrestricted Report (e.g., Number issued, number violated)
- Approved expedited transfers and general reasons why transfers were not approved
- Others (Please explain)

Type of Offenses

There were 569 reported victims of sexual assault within the unrestricted data. Although 501 investigations were opened in FY13, multiple victims are sometimes involved with a single investigation which results in more victims than investigations. Sexual Assault (including Aggravated Sexual Assault from the pre-June 28, 2012 UCMJ wording) and Abusive Sexual Contact were the most frequently reported offenses investigated, both of which accounted for 35% (201 each) of the victims. Other offenses reported by Victims or on behalf of Victims included Rape (112, 20%), Non-Consensual Sodomy (12, 2%), Aggravated Sexual Contact (32, 6%), and Wrongful Sexual Contact (pre-June 28, 2012 UCMJ; 7, 1%). Four (1%) additional victims were allegedly involved in an attempted sexual assault.

Demographic Trends

Victims who were involved in USMC initiated FY13 investigations were predominantly female (458, 80%), Marine service members (404, 71%), in the 18 to 22 age range (352, 62%). The most commonly reported grade for service member Victims was E4, accounting for 40% (187 out of 429) of all service member victims and 43% (174 out of 404) of all USMC service member victims in unrestricted investigations. Approximately 80% (344 out of 429) of the service member victims reported the offense to be between two service members and 74% (299 out of 404) of the USMC service members reported the offense to be between two USMC service members.

Service Referrals

For both Unrestricted and Restricted reporting victims there were 4,276 referrals to military facilities and 718 referrals for civilian facilities for services. Victims may be referred separately to either military or civilian service providers. These referrals may be made sequentially or concurrently. With a total of 4,994 referrals for 876 victims this works out to average about 5.7 referrals per victim.

Combat Areas of Interest (CAI)

The USMC had 12 Unrestricted Reports of sexual assault in the Combat Areas of Interest initiated during FY13. Eight of the incidents occurred in Afghanistan, two in Iraq, and two in Jordan. Nine of the investigations were complete in FY13 and three remain pending additional investigative action.

A total of 14 victims of sexual assault were documented. All 14 victims were service members and 13 of these were USMC service members. Ranks of the victims were dispersed within the enlisted ranks with only one officer. The most commonly reported rank was that of an E3. Thirteen of the victims were female and one victim was male.

The reported ages ranged between 19 and 32 years.

Military Protective Orders

A Military Protective Order (MPO) can be issued by the commanding officer through Department of Defense Form 2873, ordering two or more persons to discontinue any future contact or communication in person, via technology, or through a third party until a specified date. MPO's are most useful in situations where the named parties are in close proximity, such as stationed on the same installation or housed in the same dwelling, and in situations where interaction may disrupt good order and discipline. NCIS was notified that 231 MPO's were issued at the request of the victim or for protection on behalf of the victim during FY13.

Transfers

There were 56 expedited transfer requests in FY13. Forty two transfers were requests to change installations, frequently called Permanent Change of Station (PCS) orders and 14 were requests for a unit change within or near the installation, commonly called Permanent Change of Address (PCA) orders. One PCS request was denied. The denial involved a victim who requested the expedited transfer over one year and seven months after the violation (abusive sexual contact). The offender was part of the victim's unit during this entire period of time, indicating that the victim was not at risk for further assaults. Although the request was denied, the victim was issued Temporary Assigned Duty (TAD) to a different combat logistics regiment away from the offender effectively accomplishing the intent of the expedited transfer.

Reports of Prior Military Sexual Assaults

A trend in the FY13 data that has received recent interest is the number of victims that reported being sexually victimized prior to their enlistment or commissioning with the USMC. Although the exact number is unknown, NCIS can support that nineteen victims provided information of prior military victimization in an unrestricted report. Seven of these incidents were included in the aggregate data of the present report due to the perpetrator's association with the US Armed Forces. The reported relationship of these seven victims to that of the perpetrators were friends or acquaintances (four), a family member (one), and in two instances a USMC recruiter. The remaining 12 investigations involved two civilians in an off-base venue and therefore were excluded from the aggregate data due to not meeting established reporting requirements. Relationships for these 12 victims include five instances of child abuse by a family member and seven reports of perpetrators who were friends or acquaintances.

Demographic Trends

Demographic trends inform prevention and awareness efforts; therefore, we examine these in terms of the most recent reports. Data analyzed in this section was selected from Unrestricted Reports opened and closed in FY13 as these are the most recent cases for which we have completed data. There were a total of 305 Subjects of Investigation (subjects) in 291 sexual assault investigations, initiated and completed in FY13. The investigations identified 278 (91%) male subjects and eight (3%) female subjects. Information about the age of the subjects was varied, spanning 39 years; the largest clusters were that of subjects aged 20 and 21 years. Of the 305 subjects, 244 (80%) were members of the USMC, four (1%) were from the United States Navy (USN), and two (1%) were members of a branch of service that was unnamed. An additional 20 (7%) were United States civilians, four (1%) were Foreign National civilians, and 31 (10%) were unidentified. The most commonly reported rank for USMC service member subjects ranged between E3 and E5 (158) which accounted for 64% of the USMC service member subjects.

Disposition Trends

Disposition data must be examined in terms of all cases closed during a time period vice all cases opened and closed. Thorough investigations and successful prosecutions require time, particularly in serious and complex cases; therefore, examining only cases opened and closed in a fiscal year excludes analysis of the more egregious reports received, and as a practical matter all cases reported in the last quarter of the fiscal year. For the sake of accuracy in this section, we have included all dispositions in section D and E of the matrix (final dispositions in Unrestricted Reports opened and closed in FY13 and final dispositions in Unrestricted Reports received prior to FY13). By doing so, we are able to present a complete and accurate picture of military justice for sexual assault cases in FY13.

Final Dispositions for all Completed Investigations in FY13

Could not be prosecuted – In FY13, there were 403 final dispositions for subjects accused of sexual assault. Forty-seven percent (191) of the subjects could NOT be prosecuted for the following reasons: lack of jurisdiction (i.e., civilian subjects NOT subject to UCMJ) (22), the subject was unknown (51), the allegation was unfounded by command, meaning it was false or did not meet the elements of a sexual assault offense (7), statute of limitations expired (0), the subject died or deserted (4), the evidence was insufficient (77), or the victim declined or refused to cooperate with the investigation or prosecution (30).

Initial civilian jurisdiction – In 5% (19) of the remaining subjects, civilian authorities initially assumed jurisdiction. Further analysis is not possible due to lack of information regarding these cases.

Presented for disposition – In total, 48% (193) subject cases were presented to commanders for a disposition decision in FY13. Commanders preferred courts-martial charges against 113 subjects, conducted non-judicial punishment against one subject, administrative discharged two subjects, took adverse administrative action against two subject, courts-martial charges were preferred for non-sexual assault offenses against 24 subjects, non-judicial punishment for non-sexual offense was initiated on 27 subjects, administrative discharges for non-sexual offense were taken against five subjects, and other administrative actions for non-sexual offense were taken against 19 subjects.

Combat Areas of Interest

The USMC had 12 Unrestricted Reports of sexual assault initiated in the Combat Areas of Interest initiated during FY13. Eight of the incidents occurred in Afghanistan, two in Iraq, and two in Jordan. Nine of the investigations were complete in FY13 and three remain pending additional investigative actions. An additional five investigations that were initiated prior to FY13 came to completion in FY13.

A total of 16 subjects of sexual assault were documented in completed cases from a combat area; 10 from FY13 investigations and six from pre-FY13 investigations. Fourteen of the subjects were identified as male and the remaining two subjects had unidentified genders. The ages were dispersed, ranging between 19 and 57. Of the 16 subjects, nine were USMC service members, four were Foreign National civilians, and three were unidentified. The USMC subjects had a rank of E3, E4, E6, E7, or E8.

Thirteen of the 16 subjects received final dispositions, while three subjects are pending possible adjudication. The dispositions of the 13 subjects are listed here. Two subjects were court-martialed, one for a sexual offense and one for a non-sexual offense. An additional subject received non-judicial punishment for a non-sexual offense. One subject received adverse administrative actions for a non-sexual offense. Prosecution was precluded on six subjects due to their identities remaining unknown and another two subjects due to insufficient evidence. The remaining subject was a Foreign National and was disciplined by a foreign authority.

Descriptive Data

The USMC had more sexual assault incidents reported as occurring On-base than Off-base, which was fairly consistent over the last several years. In FY13, approximately 56% of the sexual assault investigations initiated were reported to have occurred On-base, vice 39% that were reported to have occurred Off-base. USMC investigations indicate most of the incidents (77%) occurred within the Continental United States (CONUS) with only 22% occurring Outside the Continental United States (OCONUS). Additional location information revealed that most of the USMC incidents occurred in either private residences (28%) or in the barracks/Bachelor Enlisted Quarters (BEQ)/Bachelor Officer Quarters (BOQ; 29%). In over half the investigations, incidents occurred in close proximity to the victim such as on a victim's home base (47%) or in the victim's off-base residence (6%). Additionally, 5% of incidents reportedly occurred at the victim's TAD base and 2% of incidents at the victim's deployed base. Twenty-seven percent of incidents had no proximity to the victim. The significance of the victim's proximity to the incident location is that many victims have to live and work in the same environment where the incident occurred which can exacerbate the victim's well-being following the incident.

In FY13, 28% of all USMC Unrestricted sexual assault investigations initiated indicate the victim's report was made within three days of the incident. An additional 28% were reported within four to 30 days. Therefore, 56% of the investigations indicate reporting within the first 30 days following the incident. Since evidence diminishes across time, the longer a victim waits to report an incident or to cooperate with an investigation, the more challenging it can be to hold the subject accountable for their actions. Another delayed reporting trend indicates that the sexual assault offense categories that involve a sexual act (e.g., Rape) were more likely to be delayed in the reporting process compared to offense categories that involve sexual contact (e.g., Aggravated Sexual Contact). Forty-eight percent of the Unrestricted sexual assault investigations of Rape and Sexual Assault, combined, were made within the first 30 days following the incident. In comparison, 71% of the reports of Aggravated Sexual Contact and Abusive Sexual Contact together were made in the same time period.

Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays are the most reported day of the week pertaining to when an incident occurs, accounting for 51% of the incidents. An additional 29% of incidents either lack information regarding specific dates of incidents or reference more than one date. Information about the specific time of an incident was unidentified in 36% of the USMC Unrestricted investigations. In the reports that did maintain temporal information, the 1800 to 2400 and the 2400 to 0600 time frames are the most often selected as the assault time period, accounting for 26% and 27% of the reports.

Alcohol was reported to be a possible contributing factor in just under half (240, 48%) of the USMC Unrestricted incidents of sexual assault. Illicit or prescriptive drug use was reported as a possible contributing factor in less than 1% (2) of incidents. In 20% (101) of the incidents, there was reportedly no alcohol or drug use and in the remaining 32% (158) of incidents drug and alcohol use could not be determined. The subject's use of drugs or alcohol was reported in all of the 240 designated incidents whereas the victim's use of drug or alcohol was reported in 83% (200) of the incidents. Alcohol-related incidents took place both On-base (121, 50%) and Off-base (114, 48%) and were often reported to have occurred in residences (86, 36%), barracks/BEQ/BOQ (73, 30%), and hotels (38, 16%). It is important to acknowledge that alcohol and drug use, as reported here, is not derived through empirical evidence such as toxicology reports but rather through self-reporting and therefore may reflect a reporting bias on behalf of the victim, subject, and collateral witnesses.

In 59% (297) of the FY13 Unrestricted investigations of sexual assault, a service member was victimizing another service member and in 51% (257) of the Unrestricted Reports both service members were Marines. The Marine on Marine incidents took place On-base (179, 70%) more often than Off-base (71, 28%). These incidents occurred in the barracks/BEQ/BOQ (107, 42%) more often than residences (41, 16%). Abusive Sexual Contact was the most reported offense accounting 41% (106) of the Marine on Marine incidents. The majority of these incidents (242, 94%) occurred among the enlisted ranks.

Investigations

In FY13, initiated investigations increased 50% and completed investigations increased 69%. Therefore, not only did NCIS drastically increase their caseload; they improved their completion rate. Many factors made this feat possible. NCIS streamlined the Family and Sexual Violence (F&SV) program model and created investigative teams which expedited the timeline of the investigations. Secondly, NCIS was able to increase manning and hire additional special agents and investigators to respond to the increased demand. Lastly, NCIS re-trained all agents and investigators assigned to the F&SV program such that they could carry out the new program model.

Part of the challenge in an NCIS agent's job is to develop collaborative relationships with many different stakeholders. As the graph (below) demonstrates, many different and autonomous parties initiate reports of sexual assault. The reports initiated by command will be independent from those initiated by local authorities however, it is imperative that all the stakeholders have confidence that NCIS agents and investigators will investigate all claims of sexual assault with diligence and without prejudice.

In FY13, a victim notified NCIS directly in 28% (142) of the Unrestricted Reports. This number represents an increase (compared to 14% in FY12) in the faith the victim places in NCIS to hold the accused accountable for unlawful actions. Notifications by USMC Criminal Investigative Division (CID) and other on-base security forces (112, 22%) or via Command (115, 23%) are the next most often means an investigation is initiated. NCIS is always working toward building better relationships with first responders and USMC CID and other military security forces play a large part in incidents that take place On-base. Furthermore, members of Command are often the first to identify changes in behaviors for the involved parties and sometimes become the first confidants. Investigations also get initiated by other investigating authorities, such as other Military Criminal Investigative Organization (MCIO) agencies (11, 2%) as well as through local law enforcement authorities (55, 11%). Some of these investigations are later referred back to NCIS for Military prosecutorial actions however; others instead go through the civilian justice process. Other initial reporters include people involved in the SAPR program or victims services (47, 9%) and family and friends of the victim (14, 3%).

Combat Areas of Interest

Sexual assault investigations are conducted with diligence regardless whether they occur CONUS, OCONUS, or in a deployed war zone. The statistics presented in this report indicate that demographics and trends of sexual assault in the Combat Areas of Interest largely replicate those in the overall report. That being said, there were some minor differences. Almost all of the reports of sexual assaults in a combat area took place On-base vice 56% of the aggregate data. In contrast to the non-combat area data, the incident locations were disparate and without specific trends. Also, the type of sexual assault offense reported in the combat areas was more likely to involve sexual contact vice a sexual act. For example, Abusive Sexual Contact represented 50% of the combat area offenses but only 32% of the overall offenses. Information regarding delayed reports indicates that the combat area data replicates the overall trends in the amount of incidents reported within the first 30 days; however, when a report is delayed, it is more likely to be delayed by a year or more when it occurred in a combat area compared to the general data trends. One explanation for why these small differences are seen in the combat area data is that the environment on these deployed bases is slightly different than the environment in garrison. Deployed troops have less down-time; they spend more time supporting mission requirements and less time in the living quarters. Leave is spent traveling to non-combat countries since rest and recreation may be limited on deployed bases. Concerning delays to reporting, if a deployed victim does not want to immediately report the incident, it would be reasonable that the victim would wait until they are integrated back into a normal routine at their home installation. Furthermore, the victims may not start to process the incident and understand the impact it has to their daily lives until they are no longer in the imminent danger that combat areas present.

USN Subject was on leave at a residence with US Civilian Victims #1 and #2. All three were drinking heavily prior to going to bed in separate rooms. Victim #1 awoke to find Subject fondling her breasts and masturbating. Subject put Victim #1's hand on his penis. Victim #2 reported waking up to find Subject fondling her breasts and masturbating in her room. Victim #2 felt back being due to her heavy repositioning. Later that morning, Victim #2 awoke and was completely naked with injury to her vaginal area, which was confirmed during a medical examination. The local police contacted NCIS to obtain a DNA sample from Subject. Local Sheriff's Office advised the trial date for the investigation is being closed as there is no longer a USN venue.  |

USN Victim #1 reported while in the delayed enlistment program (DEP) she was forcibly raped on two separate occasions by USN Subject. USN Victim #4 advised Subject made multiple non-consensual sexual advances toward her and attempted to kiss her on one occasion while she was in the DEP program. USN Victim #2 provided a sworn statement wherein the reported Subject was her recruiter and Subject touched her in a sexual manner without her consent while holding her wrists, pushing her against the wall, and trying to restrain her in the recruiting office. USN Victim #3 provided a sworn statement wherein the reported Subject was her recruiter and he kissed her, touched her breasts and told her he wanted to have sexual intercourse with her when she returned the recruiting office, while on liberty. USN Victim #5 provided a sworn statement wherein the reported Subject, who was her recruiter, had sexual intercourse with her several times before she departed for Boot Camp. Subject was interrogated and he denied engaging in sexual activity with, or making sexual advances towards, any women he recruited or attempted to recruit. On 08MAR10, Subject received an Article 32 Hearing and was charged with violations of UCMJ Article 92 (violation of a lawful general order), UCMJ Article 107 (false official statement), UCMJ Article 120 (rape), UCMJ Article 128 (sodomy), and UCMJ Article 134 (adultery). On 05APR12, Subject was referred to General Court Martial. On 16APR12, Subject departed from U.S. Navy and flew the United States to Egypt. On 23MAY12, the charges referred to General Court-Martial in the case of Subject were withdrawn. On 04JUN13, US Civilian Victim #6 provided a signed sworn statement wherein the reported Subject placed his hand on her upper leg, attempted to kiss her neck, and kissed her on the mouth while providing her a ride to school. This investigation is administratively closed pending the apprehension of Subject who is currently in a fugitive status. |

USA Victim #1 reported being raped at a Naval recruiting center. Victim #1 indicated USN Subject pulled her into an unoccupied office where he first performed oral sex on her before forcibly moving her to a suite where he had sexual intercourse with her despite her attempts to get away from him. Victim #1 indicated the more she tried to resist, the rougher the Subject was with her. USN Victim #2 provided a signed sworn statement wherein she advised she had been sexually assaulted by Subject on two occasions. Victim #2 advised Subject engaged in intercourse with her against her will, and Subject forced her to perform oral sex on him. On 03APR12, Charges of violations of the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) Article 92 (Failure to Obey an Order or Regulation), 107 (False Official Statement), 120 (Rape and Sexual Assault), and 125 (Sodomy) were preferred against Subject. On 16APR12, an Article 32 hearing was convened and charges were referred to a General Court Martial. Subsequently, Subject deserted the US Navy on 23 February 2012. Subject returned to the United States and surrendered to authorities. On 21 JUN 13, a trial by General Court Martial was convened. Subject was found guilty of violation of one (1) specification of UCMJ Article 85 (Desertion), violation of two (2) specifications of UCMJ Article 92 (Failure to Obey an Order or Regulation), violation of six (6) specifications of UCMJ Article 107 (False Official Statement), and violation of two (2) specifications of UCMJ Article 120 (Rape and Sexual Assault). Subject was sentenced to confinement for a period of five (5) years, reduction to the pay grade of E-1, forfeiture of $3,645.60 per month for five (5) years and a Bad Conduct Discharge.   |

USN Victim reported that USN Subject penetrated her vaginally and orally with his penis, without her consent after Victim, Subject, and other service members from her unit consumed alcohol. Victim stated she was a virgin prior to the assault and felt embarrassed by Subject. A mixture of DNA from at least two people was recovered in the sperm fraction testing done on a cutting from Victim's panties. Subject and the 39 other males that were tested were excluded as possible non-DNA contributors to the mixture. Subject went to a General Courts-Martial on 14DEC12 and charged with three specifications of Article 120, for rape, aggravated sexual assault, and abusive sexual contact, and Article 125, forcible sodomy. Subject was acquitted of all charges and specifications.   |

USN Victim reported she had requested assistance from her Command because of feelings of depression and suicidal thoughts. Victim was referred to US Civilian Subject Victim reported during their meeting, Subject began attributing her symptoms to sexual tendencies and asked her if she was sexually submissive. At the end of the session, Subject began to kiss Victim on the lips, oral sex and told her he wanted her to go down on him right now. Victim became scared and attempted to leave the room when Subject got up and approached Victim. Subject reached out with his right hand and grabbed Victim around the throat. Subject spanked Victim's buttocks and punched her in a sensual manner. Victim pulled away and Subject squeezed her neck harder, then strangled Victim on her neck and crossed the side of her neck. A Peer Review hearing was held on 14 February 2012, recommended the revocation of Subject's civil privileges and reporting to the National Board of Health Care Providers. On 12JUN13, BUMED denied Subject's appeal of his revocation of civil privileges and this decision was reported to the National Healthcare Provider Database on 16JUN13.   |

Local Police Dept reported that USN Subject, a Navy recruiter, was under investigation for the sexual assault of US Civilian Victim. Subject drove Victim home from the recruiting station, when Subject stopped his government van in close proximity of Victim's house, rubbed Victim's shoulders, put his hand up her shorts, and inserted his finger into her vagina. Trial was originally set for 09MAY13, but was subsequently postponed. Due to the additional delays with the criminal case, on 05AUG13 the ADESP board recommended and Subject was administratively separated from the USN with a General Under Honorable Conditions discharge. There is no possibility for appeal. Further judicial action will be conducted under the jurisdiction of the local Police Department and the District Attorney's Office.  |

USN Victim reported she had been drinking alcohol with friends in USN Subject's two bedroom apartment and fell asleep on a chair in the living room. Victim awoke to Subject having sex with her on the floor of Subject's bedroom, with no recollection of how she got there. On 05OCT12, Subject was found guilty of violating the Uniform Code of Military Justice Article 120 (aggravated sexual assault) at a trial by General Courts-Martial. Subject received a reduction in rank to E-1, forfeiture of $1,655.00 pay for two months, and restriction to the limits of base for sixty days. Subject is further required to make sex offender notifications per 42 United States Code Section 14701. |   |

USN Victim reported she went to a bar with friends to celebrate St. Patrick's Day. Victim indicated she had been drinking alcohol prior to arriving at the bar and drank wine at the bar. Victim recalled speaking with USN Subject at the bar but does not remember anything toward the later part of the evening, specifically after being provided a beer by one of Subject's friends and shortly thereafter entering the bathroom. Victim's friends tried to contact her, but Subject answered Victim's phone and told them where Victim could be found. Victim was located in a side alley, passed out, and noted pains on. Victim stated her legs and body were sore, as well as having pain in the throat and vaginal area. Case was referred to a General Court-Martial following an Article 32 Hearing. Subsequent case developments precluded the government's ability to prove that the victim was substantially incapacitated, a necessary element of aggravated sexual assault. Subject was ultimately taken to a Summary Court-Martial for violation of Article 120 (indecent acts) as the best way to hold him accountable. Subject pled Guilty and was sentenced to Reduction in Rank to E-4 and forfeiture of 20 pay for one (1) month. Subject also agreed to waive his right to separation board and received an Honorable discharge from the Navy.  |

USN Victim stated that after missing the last train to return to base, he sat down in the train station and does not remember anything until he woke up in a closet, lying on the floor with an unknown male Subject performing oral sex on him. Victim kicked Subject off of him, and noticed his laptop computer, identified her necklace, and cross necklace. Victim indicated that his anus felt sore during the walk back to the train station, but he did not recall any actual penetration. All logical leads did not allow for the identification of the Subject by FN Police; DOD action was precluded and case closed.   |

US Civilian Victim reported socializing with USN Subject most of the day and accompanied him to a cocktail (off-base). After having a few alcoholic beverages, Subject took Victim back to his on-base residence. Victim reported that she remembered being fully clothed when she last consciousness and when she awoke, she was wearing Subject's T-shirt and her underwear while Subject was standing over her wearing only boxer shorts. Subject was interviewed and stated that he and Victim engaged in consensual sexual activity but not intercourse. Subject was arrested by civilian authorities and placed in a civilian confinement facility. During this time, he was administratively separated from the US Navy and received an Other Than Honorable discharge. Subject pled guilty in civilian criminal court to Making False Statements and was sentenced under First Offender guidelines as follows: 2 years confinement, 3 years probation, 80 hours of community service, and will not have any contact with Victim or her family.   |

US Civilian Victim #1 and USN Subject were socializing at Subject's house. Victim #1 wanted to feel down due to alcohol and head down. Subject proceeded to grab Victim #1's back, then buttocks and breast, then digitally penetrated Victim #1's vagina. Victim #1 repeatedly said no and eventually pushed the Subject away and told Subject to leave. Victim #1 made a phone call to Subject where Subject apologized for violating the Victim. USN Victim #2 reported that she was in her room and put her hand down her underwear. Victim #2 had to tell Subject "no," "no," and "get out" repeatedly before Subject left. Charges were preferred and sent to an Article 32 hearing. Following the Article 32 hearing and report, the charges were dismissed due to insufficient evidence. Subject went to and administrative separation board hearing where he was separated from the USN under other than honorable conditions.  |

USMC Victim #1 reported to the Honor Clinic for additional X-rays of her hip. USN Subject was the X-ray technician. Subject asked Victim #1 that she was to be completely nude for the types of X-rays she needed. Victim #1 was not provided any gown and was placed in a frog-like position during the procedure while Subject placed his hand on her stomach in the area of Victim #1's ovaries. Victim #1 was kept in this position for approximately 4 minutes while Subject was developing the X-rays. Subject recommended an additional set of X-rays for her hip, which would involve Victim #1 being placed in a kneeling position while Subject would have to digitally penetrate her vagina. Victim #1 was again placed in the kneeling frog-like position in the nude, however, as Subject was about to digitally penetrate her the phone rang. This happened 3-4 times and as a result the procedure was never completed. Numerous screening interviews of Subject's female patients identified O2D Civilian Victim #2 and USN Victims #3-#5 as additional females directed by Subject to be partially or completely nude during their X-rays, making them feel uncomfortable and awkward. On O2B#1: Subject was found guilty at a General Courts-Martial of violators of UCMJ Article 120, a specification of wrongfully commit indecent conduct with service members and civilians, and Article 80, 2 specifications of attempt to wrongfully commit indecent conduct with another service member. Subject was found not guilty to attempt to commit wrongful sexual contact, indecent conduct with a minor, and assault and battery. Subject was sentenced to 2 years confinement, dishonorable discharge, and reduction in rank to E-1. |

DOD Civilian Victim reported that USN Subject came to her residence she made Subject a gin and tonic drink, and they began to talk. Subject told Victim that he and his wife had an open relationship and he wished to have a sexual relationship with Victim. Victim stated she did not want to have that type of relationship with Subject and asked him to leave. Subject became angry, grabbed Victim by the hair and forced her into a bedroom and pushed her onto a bed. Subject then choked Victim and continued to pull her hair before Subject threw her onto the bed and digitally penetrated her vagina with his finger. Subject was taken to an Article 32 hearing, after which charges were withdrawn and dismissed due to victim refusing to participate further in the investigation and resulting lack of evidence. Subject was subsequently taken to an administrative separation board; the board found the evidence did not support the basis.   |

USN Victim stated she was drinking alcohol with friends at the smoke back behind the barracks one evening, and USN Subject, who was not drinking, helped her to enter room to go to sleep. Victim stated she awoke to Subject reaching up her shorts and attempting to touch her genitals. Victim told Subject "no" and pushed his hand away, then fell back to sleep. Victim stated she awoke later as Subject forced her mouth over his erect penis. Victim stopped her, told him to stop, and then went back to sleep, waking up later to find the Subject had positioned her on top of him and inserted his penis into her vagina. Charges were preferred and sent to an Article 32 hearing. Following the Investigating Officer's recommended dismissal of the sexual assault charges due to insufficient evidence, on 11Feb12, Subject was received reprobated punishment after being found guilty of Article 10 (False statements), Article 120 (Aggravated Sexual Assault), Abuse of Sexual Contact, and Wrongful Sexual Contact and Article 121 (Forcible Sodomy) at Captain's Mast. He was awarded 45 days restriction, 45 days extra duty, forfeiture of pay of $100.00 for two months, and reduction in rank from E-2 to E-3. Subject was also administratively separated from the Navy with a General discharge.  |

DOD Civilian Victim reported she and her husband hosted a gathering at their residence. Victim stated she went to sleep in the upstairs of her residence after consuming approximately five (5) drinks. Victim awoke an unknown amount of time later to find USN Subject on top of her digitally penetrating her vagina. Victim stated she pushed and kicked Subject off of her and then passed out again. Victim stated she was awakened again later when Victim's husband came to bed. Victim stated after her husband fell asleep, Subject walked into the bedroom and began rubbing Victim's back, legs and buttocks. Subject then digitally penetrated Victim. During the course of the investigation, US Civilian Victim #2 and DOD Civilian Victim #1 were identified. On 22Jan13, A General Courts-Martial Subject was found guilty of Articles 111 (Drinking While Intoxicated) and 128 (Simple Assault) of the UCMJ and not guilty for three specifications of Article 120 (Sexual Assault). Subject was awarded 6 months confinement and a bad conduct discharge. |  |

USN Victim reported that she had attended a party at the residence of a co-worker on the previous night. Victim stated she drank to the point of intoxication and was taken to an upstairs bedroom by a female service member. Victim stated she awoke to an unknown male USN Subject #1 having sexual intercourse with her when she heard a female enter the room. Victim stated she believed there was a second unidentified male (US Civilian Subject #2) in the room. Subject #2 stated he had sexual intercourse with Victim after Subject #1 had sexual intercourse with Victim. A witness reported that she walked in on Subject #2 having missionary sex with Victim and USN Subject #3 was on the bed next to them. Subject #3 later told witness that she gave cunnilingus to Victim. Subsequent to interviewing Subject #3 admitted to the sexual assault of Victim. Subjects #1 and #3 were charged and an Article 32 hearing held. As a result of the Investigating Officer's finding and recommendation that there was insufficient evidence to go forward, the charges were dismissed. The state's attorney's office has declined prosecution of Subject #2. |   |

USN Victim reported she was digitally penetrated and subsequently raped by USN Subject while walking to base from an H-Hop. Victim stated she was walking with Subject when he pulled her aside and put his hand down her pants and digitally penetrated her without her consent. Victim related she pulled away from Subject and informed him to stop which he initially did. Victim explained they walked a little farther down the street when Subject pulled her between two unknown buildings and raped her by penetrating her vaginally with his penis. Subject was interrogated and admitted to digitally penetrating Victim with his finger and engaging in sexual intercourse with her. Subject advised Victim did not verbally consent to the activity, but described Victim as engaging in the consensual activity. Victim stated that she no longer wanted to cooperate in the investigation, and therefore, in conjunction with the Regon Legal Service Office recommendation against prosecution following the victim's decision not to cooperate, the command decided not to pursue charges but issued Subject a non-prosecution letter of caution. |   |   |

This investigation was initiated following notification that multiple USN female service members had come forward with reports of wrong sexual contact against USN Subject. USN Victim related multiple instances of Subject striking them on the buttocks, brushing against their buttocks with his groin, calling them by demeaning names, and asking them inappropriate questions of a sexual nature. Many of these incidents occurred during the work day aboard ship. Victim #1 stated she related one instance wherein Subject grabbed her inner thigh over clothing near her crotch and kicked her until she kicked Subject. Victim #4 stated she accused a role from Subject after a softball game and during the ride. Subject pinched the nipple area of her breast. Victim #5 indicated Subject touched her breast, and rubbed her breasts and her vaginal area over her bra and panties without consent. On 01 AUG13 a General Courts-Martial (GCM) for Subject was convened wherein Subject pleaded guilty pursuant to a pretrial agreement to violations of Articles 92 (Failure to obey order of regulation), 120 (wrongful sexual contact), and 128 (Assault of the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ)). The adjudged sentence received by Subject was: Dishonorable Discharge (DD), 24 months confinement, reduction to E-1 suspended for (6) six months, and a $2,000 fine. |

In March, 2012, USN Victim reported that in February of 2010, that she was in her dorm room watching a movie when US Civilian Subject came to her room and asked to talk because he was upset his girlfriend had kissed another guy. Subject kissed her and she started "making out" before she told Subject she felt uncomfortable and that he should leave. Subject asked Victim if it would be okay if they had sex. Victim replied no. Subject began to use force and tried to place his hand under her shorts and she knocked his hand away and told him to stop, but Subject pulled her shorts and underwear down and removed her shirt and bra. Subject forcibly penetrated her vagina with his penis. Victim stated she did not consume any alcohol. The command determined no action would be taken against Subject, as he is no longer subject to the UCMJ. Assistant United States Attorney declined to pursue this case.  |  |

USN Victim disclosed during a counseling session she was raped by USN Subject at her temporary residence. Victim reported the assault occurred after she was out drinking alcoholic beverages with Subject and other command members. Victim was incapacitated as a result of drinking and recalled being physically assaulted to her back, fully clothed. Victim reported waking up without clothing and finding Subject in bed with her, also without clothing. Victim advised Region Legal Service Office (RLSO) Trial Counsel she declined to participate any further in this investigation and trial. As a result, Command elected to not prefer charges against Subject. Subject was given Non-Judicial Punishment for violations of UCMJ Articles 92 (Failure to Obey a Lawful Order or Regulation), Article 107 (False Official Statement) and Article 120 (Wrongful Sexual Contact). Subject was awarded 45 days restriction, given extra duty for 45 days, ordered to forfeit 1/2 pay for two months, and was reduced to an E-2. Subject was administratively separated from the Navy with an Other Than Honorable discharge. |  |

USN Victim was interviewed and stated for the past two (2) years USN Subject has been sexually harassing her. Victim reported she went to Subject's office to inquire about some training she needed. When Victim started to leave, Subject forcefully grabbed her buttocks and pulled her back into his office. Victim stated when Subject pulled her back into his office he pulled her so close that her hands were pinned to his chest and she could not move them. Subject then proceeded to use his hands to grope and grab Victim's buttocks again. Charges were preferred and an Article 32 case was disposed of by Separation in Lieu of Trial (SILT) due to the status of Subject's current EOD, and Subject received an other than honorable discharge.  |  |

Command initiated an investigation into allegations of misconduct by USN Subject. USN Victim reported he was sexually assaulted by Subject at Subject's off base residence. After arriving at Subject's house, Subject began to pressure Victim into trying on a Scottish kil, which he ultimately agreed to do. Soon after trying on the kil, Subject tackled Victim into taking off his underwear because under garments are not seen with a kil. Victim complied. While Victim's back was turned, Subject held Victim's head against the closet wall, reached under the kil, and grabbed Victim's penis. Victim attempted to resist but was unable to do so. Subject continued to grab and pound around and punched Subject away. Charges against Subject were dismissed and his accused misconduct was disposed of as Commanding General's non-judicial punishment (NJP). Subject accepted NJP for violating UCMJ Article 134 - Fraternization and Article 133 - Conduct Unbecoming an Officer and Gentleman. Subject accepted retirement in the pay grade O-3/Lieutenant in lieu of further processing for administrative separation for cause. Subject received an Honorable characterization of discharge.   |

USN Victim reported USN Subject invited her to his room to have a beer. While in Subject's room, Subject pulled down Victim's shirt and bra and began to kiss and grab her breasts without the consent of Victim. Subject stood in front of Victim and placed his penis in Victim's face. Victim refused to perform oral sex on Subject. Prior to Victim exiting her room, Subject pushed Victim up and placed her on his bed and proceeded to kiss Victim. Subject was interrogated and admitted to exposing his penis and making sexual advances to Victim. A Special Court-Martial was held for Subject. Subject was found guilty of violation of Uniform Code of Military Justice Article 120 (Sexual Assault), Article 107 (False official statements), and Article 134 (Obstructing Justice). Subject was sentenced to 89 days confinement, reduction in rank to E-6, and forfeiture of 203 pay while confined.   |

USN Victim reported USN Subject sexually assaulted her while they were swimming off base. Victim reported she was in the water with Subject, who was helping her learn how to ride on a "boogie board", she felt Subject's erect penis brush against her buttocks, but did not feel that she was sexually assaulted. Victim reported Subject then pushed her erect penis against her buttocks four (4) to five (5) more times, although she pushed him away each time. Victim stated Subject's sexual contact with her body became more aggressive each time, the last one being accompanied by his hands forcing her genital area over the clothing. Victim stated Subject then forced her to have sex with her telephone apologizing for his sexually aggressive behavior. Subject was tried and found guilty at Special Court-Martial for violation of Article 120 of the UCMJ for the wrongful Sexual Contact of Victim. Subject was awarded 60 days of Hard Labor, work confinement, 60 days Restriction, and Reduction in Grade to E-1. Subject was subsequently administratively separated from the Navy with an Other Than Honorable discharge. |  |

USN Victim reported during a party at her previous home she drank two (2) beers, but was not intoxicated. Victim reported USN Subject was intoxicated and attempted to initiate a sexual relationship with her several times at the party. Subject became intoxicated to the point in which he went to sleep in the den area of the residence. Victim stated Subject later asked her to come into the room where he was sleeping because he wanted to show her something. Victim entered the room and Subject threw her to the ground and began to kiss her. Victim reported she was physically overpowered by Subject and her hands were pinned over her head and her legs were forced apart. Subject removed Victim's panties and inserted his penis inside of her vagina. Subject contacted the captain at a General Court-Martial and was found guilty of violating Article 120 (a) Forcible Rape, and subsequently dismissed from the United States Navy and sentenced to four (4) years confinement.  |  |

USN Victim reported to Local PD that she had become intoxicated at a residence and lost consciousness on a couch. Victim was awoken by acquaintances who claimed they interrupted USN Subject, who was not wearing pants, attempting to remove Victim's pants. Subject was ejected from the residence. Local PD arrested Subject for attempted rape. The case was tried in the Court Court, wherein all charges against Subject were dismissed. As a result of the dismissal and the decision of Subject's command not to pursue any further administrative or judicial action, this investigation is closed.   |  |

USN Victim, who had previously reported this as a restricted sexual assault, had decided to make the report unrestricted. Victim reported she went out to the bar area of Yokosuka City, with several friends and co-workers and consumed approximately eight beers causing her to have lapses in her memory, so she decided to go home. Victim reported USN Subject took a cab home with her and she fell asleep on the couch. Victim later awoke to the physical sensation of someone performing oral sex on her and realized her shorts and underwear had been removed while she was passed out. Victim pushed Subject's hands to stop them, and Subject came up from under the covers and got on top of her. Subject forcibly penetrated Victim's vagina with his penis despite her resistance. Subject was found guilty of violating Article 120 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice (Abusive Sexual Contact). The General Court-Martial Military Judge sentenced Subject to a Dishonorable Discharge, reduction in rate to E-1, total forfeiture of pay and allowances, $50,000 fine and four years confinement.                                       |  |

USN Victim reported he was assaulted by a Navy Chaplain (US Civilian Subject) in the mid-1990's. Victim disclosed he went to the Chaplain's office for grief counseling after the passing of his grandfather. Victim met with Subject and Subject directed Victim to close his eyes, extend his arms and repeat the Our Father prayer. While Victim's eyes were closed, Subject grabbed the back of Victim's head and pressed his groin into Victim's face. Victim reported he felt Subject's erect penis under his clothing. Victim did not report that drugs or alcohol were a factor in this assault. Due to expired statute of limitations and Subject being a US Civilian now, this investigation is closed.   |

USN Victim #1 was interviewed and stated that she went boating with two alternates from her command and while boating two other members of her command showed up as well, including USN Subject. Victim #1 and Subject where Subject forcefully pulled off Victim #1's pants and inserted his penis into her vagina. Subject then had sex with Victim #1 for approximately 30 minutes despite Victim #1's protests. Victim #1 was later able to get away from Subject and curl into a fetal position. Subject then placed two fingers on Victim #1's lower jaw, forcing her mouth open and then inserted his penis in her mouth, forcing Victim #1 to orally copulate Subject. USN Victim #2 reported while watching TV in Subject's room, Subject put his hand under her shirt and fondled her breasts. Victim #2 and Subject had sex. Victim #2 awoke an undressed in the late with Subject on top of her attempting to insert his penis into her vagina. Court-martial charges were performed and taken to an Article 32 hearing based on one of the victim's allegations, as the other victim declined to participate. As a result of the hearing, the investigating Officer recommended going forward with charges and the convening authority agreed. There were evidentiary issues regarding consent resulting in insufficient evidence to prosecute. Subject was subsequently administratively separated and with a general discharge. |

USN Victim was interviewed and reported the crime was perpetrated in advance, with plastic garbage bags taped to the floor of the Dome Equipment Room (DEM) and Boatman's Locker of the ship. At one point subsequent to the rape, Victim was zip-tied and restrained. USN Subject brandished a crude knife and a razor blade cutter, and had in his possession a meat and saw. Subject advised Victim that he planned to dismember her and discard the pieces of her corpse overboard. Victim convinced Subject that she would not report the assault, and therefore Subject could release her without repercussions. Subject acquiesced following the rape. On 03DEC12, Subject was found guilty of violations of Articles 120 (Rape), 125 (Forcible Sodomy), 128 (Assault), and 134 (Communicable Threat of the UCMJ). Subject was sentenced to 18 months in prison (with the possibility of parole), reduction in rate to E-1, all forfeiture of pay and allowances, and a dishonorable discharge from the Naval Service.   |

Local PD arrested USN Subject for Sex Assault in the Fourth Degree. In the early morning hours, Subject, while jogging, approached US Civilian Victim and grabbed her buttocks and breast. Subject fled the area on foot. Subject pled "Deferred Acceptance of a No Contest." Civilian judge sentenced Subject to six (6) months in jail, of which one hundred and seventy-three (173) days would be deferred. Judge ordered that Subject would immediately serve seven (7) days in state prison and would receive one (1) year probation. During his probationary period, Subject was ordered to regularly meet with an assigned probation officer and complete a sex offender treatment program, an anger management program, and a mental health program. Subject was administratively separated from the Navy and received an Other Than Honorable Discharge.  |

USN Victim was interviewed to determine her knowledge of events associated with another investigation. During the interview, Victim reported she was sexually assaulted by USN Subject. While underway, Subject forced her hand onto his clothed crotch and touched her breast without her consent. Victim later visited Subject at his hotel where she advised Subject to not and digitally penetrate her vagina and fondle her bare breasts. Victim consensually performed oral sex on Subject. Victim advised Subject she didn't want to have intercourse, but Subject continued to push her hand forward attempting to have intercourse. Victim felt she could not resist Subject's advances and use a condom. Later that evening, Victim engaged in consensual intercourse with Subject. Following an Article 32 hearing an Investigating Officer advised that reasonable grounds only existed for a non-sexual assault offense. Subject was awarded non-judicial punishment for violations of Article 92 (Failure to obey a lawful general order) and Article 128 (Assault consummated by a battery) and was awarded reduction in rate to E-4 and forfeiture of one half of one month's pay (1150) for two months. Subject also received a General Discharge from the USN. |

USN Victim reported she was partying and was drinking numerous alcoholic beverages with USN Subject and friends. At approximately 1000 hrs, Victim was awoken by Subject rubbing his stomach and placing his hand on his penis through his shorts. Victim advised she pulled her hand away from Subject and turned on her side. Subject then placed his hand between Victim's bra and her arm and Victim told him no. Subject paused and then slowly moved his hand across Victim's body on his way to the bathroom. Victim reported once Subject was in the bathroom, she immediately gathered her boot and sandals and left the room. Subject was interviewed and admitted culpability. The Command dismissed all charges against Subject at Disciplinary Review Board, due to insufficient evidence, and issued Subject a letter of counseling for poor judgment.   |

USN Victim reported while in port she was sexually assaulted by US Civilian Subject (who was a USN member at time of assault). Victim, Subject, and several other shipmates went to a club while overseas. While at the club, Victim became very intoxicated and later passed out. Victim recalled falling asleep on Subject's shoulder while at the club. Victim stated once they returned to the ship, she recalled waking up to Subject who was on top of her penetrating her vagina with his finger. Subject separated from the United States Navy in Oct11. Assistant United States Attorney was briefed electronically on the results of this investigation and subsequently declined to prosecute this case.  |   |

USN Victim reported he was highly intoxicated at an off-base hotel, paid for by USN Subject, when Subject kissed and embraced her after confessing to Victim a long time crush. Subject asked Victim to perform fellatio on him. Victim stated he was afraid and wanted to say no, but did not. Victim stated after performing fellatio, Subject had Victim turn around and lay on his stomach, after which Subject inserted his penis into Victim's anus, and had anal sex with Victim for approximately 10-15 minutes. Victim stated that Subject stopped having anal sex with him the moment Victim asked him to do however. Subject then performed fellatio on Victim followed by manual stimulating Victim's penis. At no point did Subject use force, nor did Victim say no. Victim stated he has no recollection after that point. Subject was separated from the US Navy and released to his interview. Coordination was made with the Prosecutors' Office, who declined prosecution of this case.  |   |                        |

US Civilian Victim disclosed that during her deployment to Bahrain in 2011, she was sexually assaulted by a USN member. Victim reported that while on a temporary duty assignment she was repeatedly raped by USN Subject during the time she shared a flat with him. Subject threatened to tell her husband she was having an affair with her and as a result she did not report the repeated sexual assaults. Subject also stated he knew US Navy Seal members and he could have her husband killed. Subject gave her alcoholic beverages on a night's basis and she drank to the point of passing out so she would not have to endure the sexual assaults. Victim stated that due to her anxiety and panic attacks from the sexual assaults by Subject, she obtained prescription medication which further incapacitated her. Subject was received non-judicial punishment as a result of violating UCMJ Article 134 (Adultery). Subject received a Punitive Letter of Reprimand.  |   |                        |

USN Victim reported that morning while on watch, she left the bridge to conduct a trash run with USN Subject. On the way back to the bridge, the ladder led adjacent to the spy deck. Subject asked Victim for sex. Victim stated that when she refused, Subject took control of her wrists and forced one of her hands to his groin where Victim made physical contact with Subject's penis. Victim reported that while physically fighting off Subject, Subject grabbed her head by her ponytail, attempted to force her head towards his groin. Victim reported she broke free from Subject and went back to the bridge where she later reported the matter to her first line supervisor. Victim did not report that drugs and/or alcohol were a factor. Subject was taken to Special Courts-Martial and charged with violating Article 92 and Article 128. Subject was acquitted of charges.   |   |                        |

USN Victim reported she was in her barracks room when USN Subject asked to come over. Subject was intoxicated and began kissing her and touching her face. Victim and Subject began undressing and insisting she perform oral sex on him. Victim stated that at some point, Subject bit her on the cheek, causing pain and leaving an impression mark on her face. Victim reported Subject took her pants off and attempted to have anal sex with her while standing behind her, while at the same time wrapping his hands around her throat, strangling her. Victim resisted and Subject turned her over to her back and was attempting to penetrate her while placing his hands on her neck and using his body weight. Victim broke free of Subject's hands and Subject placed a pillow over her mouth and nose so she couldn't breathe. Subject was interrogated when he was stopped and admitted when he went over to Victim's home and admitted to strangling Victim. Subject was charged with Article 120 (Rape and Aggravated Sexual Assault) and Article 125(Sodomy) later with rape. Subject pled and was found guilty of Article 128 (Assault) and Article 111 (Drunk Operation of a Motor Vehicle) and sentenced to 446 days of confinement, reduction in grade to E-1, and received a Bad Conduct Discharge (BCD). |   |                        |

USN Victim provided a sworn statement indicating she attended a party and consumed three cans of Bud Light while at the party. Victim reported she laid down in a bed at the party and awoke sometime later, when she realized someone was having vaginal sexual intercourse with her. Victim initially believed her husband was having sex with her, but realized it was not her husband when she noticed a white hand around her waist. Victim told USN Subject to stop. Subject admitted culpability in sexually assaulting Victim. Subject accepted a plea bargain and pled guilty to the Aggravated Sexual Assault of Victim at GCM. Subject was found guilty and sentenced to 43 months confinement; however, the pre-trial agreement (PTA) cap was 18 months. Subject was given a Dishonorable Discharge but the PTA capped that punishment at a BCD. Subject was adjudged total pay forfeitures and reduction in rate to E-1. |   |   |                        |

USN Victim reported she was assaulted and raped several times over a five month period by her boyfriend, USN Subject #1. Victim reported that on various occasions, during the last few months, Subject #1 had physically prevented her from leaving and had intercourse with her while she was crying and asking for him to stop. Subject #1 was interrogated and admitted to raping Victim on three different occasions, to include engaging in nonconsensual sex with Victim with classmate, USN Subject #2 and USN Subject #3. Subject #3 was also interrogated and stated that he did engage in sexual relations with Victim but that was consensual. Victim signed a Victim Preference Statement (VPS) declining to continue her cooperation. As a result of General Courts-Martial, Subject #1 was found guilty of Article 120 (Abusive Sexual Contact and Indecent acts), Article 121 (Larceny) 134 (treating restriction), awarded four (4) years confinement and a Dishonorable Discharge from the United States Navy. Liaison with Regional Legal Service Office (RLSO) revealed that at the decision of Commander, Subject #3 received no administrative/disciplinary action, and Subject #2 was subject to administrative separation from the U.S. Navy under an Other than Honorable Discharge. |   |

USN Victim went to USN Subject's barracks room and immediately upon entering the room Subject refused to allow her to exit by blocking the doorway with his body. Subject took hold of Victim's wrists and forced her to one of the beds in the room. Subject sat on top of Victim, holding her down by the wrists. Victim verbally told Subject to stop and that she wanted to leave the room; however, Subject forcibly held her on the bed for approximately fifteen minutes holding her neck and attempting to lift her shirt and unbutton her shorts. Subject was unsuccessful in touching the victim under her clothing as she pushed his advances away. Victim who had not consumed any alcohol advised Subject was heavily intoxicated. After approximately fifteen minutes, Subject lost consciousness and passed out on the bed. Subject went to NJP and all charges were dismissed.   |   |

USN Victim reported she and three other male service members rented a cabin. While at the cabin the group consumed alcohol and became heavily intoxicated. At the end of the night of drinking in a hot tub with the group, Victim took a shower and went to bed. Victim was awakened by Subject who was fondling her breasts under her shirt and repeatedly digitally penetrating her vaginas with two fingers. Victim told Subject's penis pressed against her buttocks which Subject then attempted to insert into her vagina but failed. An Article 32 hearing was held and the Investigating Officer (IO) recommended all charges be dropped due to insufficient evidence to warrant further judicial action. As a result, Command elected not to refer charges.   |   |

USN Victim reported a male individual she did not know, later identified as USN Subject, approached her on the beach. Subject asked Victim to kiss him. Subject reportedly advised Victim he would leave her alone if she agreed to kiss him. Victim agreed to kiss Subject when Subject reached his hand into Victim's pants, without Victim's consent, and digitally penetrated her vagina with one or more fingers. Victim pushed Subject's hand away from her vagina then subsequently agreed to accompany Subject to a more public area on the pier, after Subject promised they would only talk. Immediately after they sat down on the pier, Subject pushed Victim with both hands to the supine position. Victim placed her hand in Subject's face in an attempt to stop him. Victim found herself with her pants off, and Subject asking Victim to assist him to insert his penis into her vagina. Victim told Subject "no", but Subject subsequently inserted his penis in her vagina on his own. Subject continued to have intercourse with her until the police arrived. The State Attorney's Office previously found Subject guilty of Indecent Exposure in Public related to the case. Subject was required to pay $450 and complete 100 hours of community service. |   |

Civilian Victim, USN Subject, and Subject's spouse, were drinking at Subject's residence. Subject's spouse decided to take a bath and Victim decided to lie down on the couch. After lying down on the couch, Subject attempted to place Victim's hand on his penis multiple times. Subject then proceeded to place his finger or possibly his penis, into Victim's mouth. Victim pretended to be asleep hoping Subject would stop. Charges were preferred and sent to an Article 32 hearing. Based upon the investigating officer's recommendation, the convening authority dismissed the charges due to a lack of reasonable grounds, credible evidence and issues of credibility resulting in insufficient evidence to proceed to trial.  |

USN Victim reported during a temporary additional duty assignment she went to several bars with members of her command. While at a bar, USN Subject approached Victim and she reported being "in and out of it" while speaking to Subject. Victim's next memory was being in her hotel room and Subject was on top of her, vaginally penetrating her. Additionally, Victim orally copulated Subject after he lost his erection. Subject also orally copulated Victim. Victim relayed she engaged in sexual intercourse and oral copulation with Subject because she was afraid and did not know how to get out of the situation. Victim advised she was scared to say no to Subject. An Article 32 hearing was held in reference to the above captioned investigation. The investigating Officer (IO) determined that there was not reasonable grounds to pursue charges against Subject and recommended withdrawing and dismissing the specifications. Concurring with the IO's recommendation, the command determined that no action would be taken due to insufficient evidence of any offense and the allegations being unfounded.                      |

Civilian Victim stated she met USN Subject online, and they met on approximately five dates, including the evening of the assault. After the date, they returned to Victim's residence, and she invited Subject to sleep on her couch. After Victim went to her bedroom, Subject entered the room and subsequently brought Victim a trash can so she could vomit. After Victim vomited, Subject got into bed with Victim and began having sex with Victim. Victim told Subject to stop and to get off of her but Subject continued to have sex with her and did not get off until he ejaculated. Victim stated she was not able to leave. Subject was indicted in the Circuit Court. Subject pleaded guilty to second degree assault and the rape charge was dismissed. Subject was subsequently sentenced to 10 years, with all but 6 months suspended, as well as 3 years of supervised probation.  |

USN Victim and Civilian Subject were friends until the day before the incident when they had a falling out. On the evening of the incident, Subject said he wanted to talk to Victim so they went upstairs to her room. Victim expected Subject to talk outside her room, but Subject followed her inside when she said something in the hallway. After they entered the room, Subject threw Victim on the bed, then threw her phone away from her when she tried to telephone for help. Subject held Victim down and tried to force her while removing her pants and underwear, then inserted his fingers in her vagina. Victim said she screamed and yelled at Subject to stop, but he kept going. neighbor, heard Victim screaming and entered the room through their shared bathroom when he yelled at Subject to leave the room. The County District Attorney's Office (CDAO) subsequently declined to prosecute Subject for the alleged sexual assault due to lack of evidence and delayed reporting.   |

USN Victim stated on this particular night she was contacted by Civilian Subject requesting her to come get him from a bowling alley to his level of intoxication. After Victim packed Subject up from the bowling alley, they went into a hotel room and hanging out with his friends. Victim consumed a few drinks, decided to spend the night, and took a shower in the hotel room. While in the bathroom, Subject started banging on the door attempting to come in. Victim quickly took a shower and got dressed. When Victim opened the door, Subject pushed her causing her to fall to the ground and hit her head extremely hard on the toilet. Soon thereafter, Victim laid down to go to sleep and Subject laid next to her. Subject started trying to unbutton Victim's pants and she told him to stop. Victim stated her head was "throbbing" when she laid down and the "backed out" but could still hear Subject banging her. Victim stated when she was "backed out" she was sexually raped by Subject. Assistant United States Attorney (AUSA), United States Attorney's Office declined prosecution on this case citing a lack of evidence. |

USN Subject and USN Victim were alone in Subject's room watching movies, when Victim fell asleep and woke up to find herself naked with Subject on top of her and raping her via perineal penetration. Victim tried to get up but Subject held her down. Subject stopped when he was doing and laid next to Victim but she wouldn't let her go, wrapping his arms around Victim. Victim awoke again to find Subject assaulting her. The assaults continued 4-6 times throughout the night and early morning hours. An Article 12 hearing was held, following which, the charges were dismissed due to lack of reasonable grounds. |

After falling asleep on a couch in the residence, USN Victim woke up and saw USN Subject sitting next to her naked. Subject's hand was on Victim's leg moving towards her groin area while Subject's other hand was holding Victim's right hand around Subject's erect penis. Victim removed her hand from Subject's penis and pushed his other hand off her leg. Subject tried placing his hand inside Victim's shorts multiple times, but Victim would roll over to prevent his access. Subject left and returned several hours later attempting to place his hand inside Victim's shorts. Victim resisted and Subject lifted up Victim's shoulders, wrapped a blanket around her, and tried to keep her arms down. Victim continued to roll as Subject attempted to move his hand under her shorts toward her groin area. A CO's Non-Judicial Punishment hearing and found Subject guilty of a violation of the Uniform Code of Military Justice Article 120 (Abusive Sexual Contact). Subject was awarded sixty days restriction, forfeiture of $875.00 pay per month for two months, and reduction to the next inferior pay grade. Subject was administratively separated from the Navy with an Other Than Honorable discharge. |  |

USN Victim #1 reported he went to sleep in his room and was awoken by the feeling of her underwear being pulled down to approximately mid thigh. Victim reported feeling an unknown person, USN Subject, hand "heating" his penis, followed by Subject masturbating him for approximately 10 to 15 minutes. USN Victim #2 and #3 were identified as having similar experiences with Subject. Commanding Officer determined Subject violated Article 120 (Abusive sexual contact) of the UCMJ and imposed NJP in the form of reduction in rank one pay grade, forfeiture of $753.00 pay per month for two months and 60 days restriction. Subject was administratively separated from the Navy with an Other Than Honorable discharge. |

USN Victim #1 reported through her chain of command that USN Subject asked her to kiss him, touched her thigh, touched her breast, and then exposed his penis to her while they were on duty. During command hearing, USN Victim #2 was identified as a second victim of abusive sexual contact by Subject one time in Subject's quarters and one time while they were on duty. Commanding Officer (CO) of SE RLSD recommended to Command not move forward with a prosecution of Subject. It was reported that Command completed a Page #3 entry in Subject's service record book for personal conduct.  |   |   |

USN Victim reported Civilian Subject took her to a campsite in the desert, and subsequently physically and sexually assaulted Victim. Subject groped Victim, deeply penetrated Victim, and made Victim orally copulate him. Subject also restrained Victim with a rope, beat her with a belt, and repeatedly threatened her with violence. Victim stated she escaped from Subject and was subsequently located by Imperial County irigation workers, who assisted her in contacting the local police. Due to a lack of jurisdiction in this incident, the inability to locate the crime scene, and the inability to locate Subject, this investigation is closed.  |   |   |

USN Victim stated she and USN Subject had been heavily drinking at Pier 525. At some point Victim believed she passed out. Victim awoke on the ground underneath a pine tree near a grassy area between Pier 525 and the Navy Exchange (NEX). Subject was beside Victim when she awoke. Subject admitted he and Victim had consensual sexual intercourse underneath a pine tree near an open field. Subject was taken to an Article 32 Hearing, Investigating Officer (IO), reported there was insufficient evidence that a violation of Article 120 of the UCMJ was committed and recommended the charges be dismissed, with no further action. Commanding Officer (CO), withdrew charges against Subject.   |   |

USN Victim reported that Civilian Subject raped her for approximately 15 seconds in his bedroom located at the off-base residence. At a point in time, Victim was also present during the rape and the victim's friend had consensual sex with Subject at that time. This case was worked jointly with Oakland Police Department (OPD), which determined the case is "not prosecutable" due to lack of corpus (evidence that a crime was committed). As a result, OPD has closed this case.  |   |   |

USN Victim disclosed while on liberty in Szabo and after a night of drinking, ran into Subject and suggested he come back to Victim's hotel room, and sleep in the extra bed, so he would not have to go all the way back to the ship. Subject made sexual advances towards Victim once they were alone in the hotel room. Victim refused the advances, and Subject went to a nearby boat. Victim then fell asleep. Victim woke up and found Subject on top of her. Victim did Subject to get off her a couple of times, and the other victim then took a shower after waking up, and then went around and inside her vagina and anus. All charges against Subject referred to trial by General Court Martial were withdrawn and dismissed due to Victim declining to participate.  |   |

Civilian Victim stated she had been sexually assaulted by USN Subject #1 on three (3) occasions from December 2011 through March 2012 at Subject's residence in Overland, WA. Victim provided pictures of her engaged in perverted sexual intercourse with Subject #1 that she believed had been taken by Civilian Subject #2, due to a wedding ring that she observed on a hand in one of the pictures. Subject was reported to have been present for one of the assaults and is reported to have had sexual contact with Victim without Victim's knowledge or consent. Deputy Prosecuting Attorney, Kitsap County Sheriff's Office (KCSO), advised her office has declined to prosecute Subject #2 due to insufficient evidence.   |   |   |

USN Victim stated she and her friend went to the "Sandbox" in Dubai to drink and hang out with friends including USN Subject and other members of her division. Later that night Victim, her friend, and Subject left the "Sandbox", returned to the ship, and went to the Chart Vault. While in the Chart Vault Subject tried to kiss Victim and touch her groin. Victim reportedly told Subject "No", but he continued to try to kiss her and touch her groin. Subject became upset with Victim. Victim and Subject continued their disagreement in the passageway when they went out to the Port Quarter looking for some privacy. Subject came up behind Victim and put his arms around her. Victim said she pushed back with her arms, but Subject put his hands back around her waist, put his hand down her pants, and fondled her vagina. Victim said she told Subject "No", but he continued to kiss her. Victim said she finally just gave up and started kissing Subject. Subject unzipped her pants and pulled her pants and underwear down to just above her knees. Subject then allegedly pulled his pants and underwear down to just above his knees, sat down on a nearby bench, and pulled Victim on top of him. Victim said she was holding her head using the handrails and Subject inserted his penis into her vagina without a condom. Victim continued to have sexual intercourse with Subject and they were caught by security. Subject was reported before Commanding Officer (CO), for Non-Judicial Punishment. Subject was charged with a violation of the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) Article 92 (Failure to obey orders or regulations) and engaged in sexual activity aboard the ship. Subject was placed on restriction for thirty (30) days, assigned extra duty of thirty (30) days, ordered to forfeit $100 of pay per month for two (2) months, and reduced in rank to the next inferior pay grade. Subject's reduction in rank was suspended pending no further disciplinary issues for six (6) months. Commanding Officer, determined probable cause existed only for a non-sexual assault offense which was previously adjudicated at NJP in Curti and there was insufficient evidence of a sexual assault or abusive sexual contact. No further administrative or judicial action was taken against Subject. |   |   |

USN Victim reported over the past seven (7) months USN Subject has repeatedly attempted to have sex with her against her will. Subject walked up behind Victim and wrapped his arms around Victim's abdomen area, and his hands down outside her clothing, and began rubbing Victim's groin area. Victim immediately pushed Subject away telling him to stop. Subject complied. In July 2012, while on duty, Victim began talking to Subject. As Victim sat on a table, Subject suddenly pushed and pinned Victim down on the table and forced his hips between her legs. Victim attempted to push Subject away, telling him to stop but he was so strong. Subject told Victim down with one hand then unzipped her uniform with his other hand, slid his hand under her shirt and sports bra, and began fondling her breasts. Subject was brought before Captain's Mast for violation of Article 120 (Abusive sexual contact) (U.M.C.J.) Article 120 (Abusive Sexual Contact) and Article 134 (Indecent Language). Subject was awarded non-judicial punishment as follows: Restriction for 60 days, Forfeiture of half pay for two months and Reduction to next inferior pay grade E-5. Following Captain's Mast, Subject was processed for Administrative Separation (Other than Honorable Discharge) for commission of a serious offense.  |   |   |

USN Victim stated while returning from the female head, she passed USN Subject in the passenger area to a water fountain. Subject turned and struck Victim in the abdominal area with a closed fist, causing her to double over. Subject threw Victim to the ground, straddled her while he was standing, placed his left hand over her mouth and made the statement, "I've seen you before." Subject produced a locking type knife and held it to Victim's throat. Subject made the statement, "If you scream, I'm going to kill you." Victim indicated Subject used the knife to cut the front of Victim's shirt open from the collar to approximately the mid-thigh level. Victim explained her body location. Victim stated she placed the knife on the dock and groped her right breast by reaching under her bra for approximately 2 to 3 minutes. Victim stated she heard a loud noise and believed another person was walking down the stairs. Subject retrieved the knife and departed the area by turning down the stairs to an unknown location. A General Court-Martial found Subject Not Guilty of Uniform Code of Military Justice Article 120 (Aggravated Sexual Contact) and Article 120 (Assault). |  |

USN Victim related that sometime in July or August 2010 he was out socializing with a group of eight to ten friends from training when a decision was made to rent a hotel room. Victim stated that he and several others had consumed alcohol to the point of intoxication when he eventually fell asleep fully clothed on one of the hotel room beds. Victim was awakened at an unknown time when he realized USN Subject was performing oral sex on him without his consent. Subject did not notice Victim originally waking up, so Victim woke up in a conspicuous manner so as to alert Subject and get him to stop the unwanted sexual contact. At this prompting, Subject ceased the activity. Subject pled guilty at courts-martial to a violation UCMJ Article 125 (Sodomy). Subject was sentenced to 60 days confinement, 60 days restriction, reduction to E-2, forfeiture of $1,000/month for 6 months. Subject was administratively separated from the Navy with an Other Than Honorable discharge. Subject is further required to register as a sexual offender.  |  |

USN Victim reported that USN Subject exposed his penis to her and was masturbating in front of her near the west catapult Integrated Catapult Control Station (ICCS). Subject never ejaculated but did grab Victim's wrist in an attempt to pull her into an adjoining space. Victim told Subject to let her go. In addition, Victim reported Subject pulled out the shorts from her back to look down at her buttocks. A Special Court-Martial was convened and Subject was found to be guilty of Article 92 (Violate a lawful order) and Article 120c (Indecent Exposure) of the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ). Subject was adjudged to the following: a reprimand; reduction in rank to E-2, 60 days restriction, and hard labor without confinement for 60 months. Subject was administratively separated from the Navy with an Other Than Honorable discharge.   |  |

USN Victim advised USN Subject made sexual advances towards her and asked her to go home with him for the evening. While talking with Victim at the bar, Subject slipped his hand up Victim's skirt, reached under her underwear and touched Victim's vagina. Victim advised no penetration occurred, and she immediately became very upset, stood up and left the bar. Victim did not want to pursue prosecution of Subject and signed a Victim Declaration Acknowledgment. Following legal review of the allegation of sexual assault made against Subject, to include video surveillance from the footage of the bar that was in conflict with the Victim's statements, the command declined to criminal charges would be pursued at courts-martial, but rather, at non-judicial punishment. Subject received NJP for violating UCMJ Article 1134 for being drunk and disorderly, and was awarded forfeitures and 15 days of restriction.   |  |  |

USN Victim reported that, sometime at the end of May or beginning of June (2012), while the ship was on a port-call, she went on liberty with several dignitaries. Victim and her dignitaries had dinner then went to a local bar. Victim did not recall how she left the bar, what she left the bar, or how she got back aboard the ship. Victim's next memory is of USN Subject walking her and talking her to follow him. Victim awoke the next morning wearing different clothing than she had worn the night before. Victim went to use the restroom and noticed she was not wearing panties, which was unusual for her. Victim then noticed an unusual smell emanating from her genitals and advised she felt like she had sex, though she could not recall any portion of the act. Later that morning, Victim saw Subject, and Subject told Victim, "last night is our little secret." This confirmed Victim's suspicion Subject had raped her. An Article 32 hearing was held. As a result of that hearing, the Investigating Officer (IO) recommended the case not be referred to trial by courts-martial, citing a lack of credible evidence. Subsequent to those findings, Commanding Officer declined further action. |  |  |

USN Victim stated USN Subject smoked/kipped her bare buttocks while she was in the shower and then walked out. The next day, while standing in the for shower, Subject began to touch Victim's left breast in a provocative manner. On the same day, while in the Galley eating lunch, Victim stated Subject began caressing her inner thigh, over her clothes, very close to her crotch. Then, later that evening, while Victim was asleep in her bunk, Subject came to Victim and placed her hand on Victim's hip and asked Victim if she wanted to have sex in the shower. Victim stated she did not oblige. Subject and Subject returned to her bunk area. Victim also stated on 08SEP12, while she was washing her hair in the shower with her eyes closed, Subject backed her bare buttocks against Victim's groin area in a provocative, grating manner. Subject was administratively separated with a General discharge from USN for misconduct.   |  |  |

USN Victim #1 attended a social gathering, and became extremely intoxicated. Victim #1 recalls returning to her barracks room and receiving oral sex and being vaginally penetrated. Victim #1 stated she woke the next morning with vaginal pain and realized the tampon she had been wearing had been pushed into her vaginal cavity. Victim #1 questioned two members of her command who told her USN Subject had walked her to her room the night before. Victim #1 asked Subject what had occurred the previous night and Subject responded he thought they had consensual sex. During trial preparation, Victim #1 disclosed USN Victim #2 was sexually assaulted by Subject. Victim #2 stated in 2011, Subject attempted to sexually assault her. Victim #2 stated she did not desire to cooperate with the investigation or participate in a trial. Subject was taken to General Courts-Martial and charged with violation of UCMJ Article 120, sexual assault due to substantial incapacitation, and was acquitted.   |   |

Civilian Victim (Dependant Wife) reported to County Sheriff's Office she had gone on a motorcycle ride with USN Subject, where they stopped at the rest area. At that location, Victim stated that after smoking a couple of cigarettes, Subject pushed her against a yellow pole, pulled her pants down to her knees and her underwear to the side, and forced his penis into her vagina. Victim stated Subject had a firm handshake on the right side and she felt intimidated by it. Subject was arrested and charged with rape. Subject appeared in County District Court for a probable cause hearing. Victim had previously contacted the County District Attorney's office and informed them that she would not return to her state to testify against Subject. The County DA made a motion to the court that the charge of rape be dismissed. The motion was granted and no further administrative or prosecutorial action will be pursued. Executive Officer, advised Command would not pursue any further administrative or judicial action against Subject.   |   |

USN Victim stated she began an online relationship with USN Subject in March or April of 2012. Upon a permanent change of station, Victim arranged to pick up Subject after he finished work. Victim and Subject then parted at his community center, where they proceeded to talk and "kiss". Victim then told Subject she no longer wanted to be physical with him. Subject then proceeded to force Victim to touch his genital area through his clothing, and then through her clothing, and touch her breast. Victim stated Subject suddenly stopped and she drove him to his barracks building. Subject was taken to non-judicial punishment (NJP) for violation of Article 120 (Abusive Sexual Contact) and was awarded reduction in rank and forty-five days restriction and extra duty. Subject was administratively separated from the Navy with an Other Than Honorable discharge.   |   |

Victim advised that she attended the Khari Ball and at one point the Victim accompanied Subject to his truck at Subject's request. Victim reported she only remembers walking down a hallway and after that point she has no memory until the following evening. Victim later learned of the assault from a voice mail message Subject left her in which he advised he wanted to have sexual intercourse with her again. Victim advised she questioned Subject about the incident and Subject advised they had sexual intercourse in his truck. An Article 15 for Subject was conducted. The investigating Officer recommended the charge of Sexual Assault be dismissed, as reasonable grounds do not exist to conclude Subject committed a sexual assault. Subject signed a plea agreement to plead guilty to UCMJ Article 92 (Violation of a Direct Order), and UCMJ Article 134 (Injurious Sexual Intercourse). The charge of UCMJ Article 120 (Sexual Assault) was dismissed. Subject was sentenced to forfeiture of two-thirds pay per month for one month and restricted for a period of 60 days. |   |

Victim indicated she was assaulted by an Afghan member while deployed to Afghanistan. The incident was a strong arm assault and forcible groping of the Victim's breast and groin area over her clothing and the Subject attempted to kiss the Victim. Additionally, the Victim had to leave the assignment and return to the U.S. early due to an environment of resentment between her and the other AA members. Army CID initially investigated the case and Subject received verbal (20) days confinement as an Afghan member who was subsequently bonded to his family. It was determined whether the Subject had also received corporal punishment. This investigation is closed as no further action can be taken against Subject due to lack of jurisdiction.  |   |

Victim reported she returned to the ship's berthing barge following an evening of consuming alcoholic beverages at an on-base social gathering with other personnel. The Victim stated the Subject requested to speak with her and later escorted her to the dental doctor's office. While inside the dental doctor's office, the Victim stated the Subject informed her that she was in trouble and advised that she knew what she needed to do, produced a purple condom, instructed her to pull down her pants, and commenced having penetrative vaginal intercourse with her without consent. The Victim stated she only consented to the sexual assault because she felt as if she had no other choice and due to her lack of judgment as a result of the level of intoxication. General Court-Martial was held where the Subject was found guilty of violating UCMJ Article 102 (Engaging in sexual acts onboard the ship), Article 120 (Sexual assault) and Article 134 (Adultery and Fornication) and was adjudged ninety (90) days confinement, reduction to E-1, a Bad Conduct Discharge (BCD) and required to register as a sexual offender.   |   |

NCIS obtained written permission from the county sheriff's office to release their investigation in the Subject's Commanding Officer regarding a June 11 rape investigation. The Subject was accused of raping the Victim in his father's off base residence, after a house party where the Victim became intoxicated and went to sleep in one of the empty bedrooms. According to the Victim, she and the Subject were talking on the bed, he reached over and began to unbutton her pants, when she said no and pushed him away, the Subject stopped. The Victim later woke up to the Subject groping her, she sat up and he pushed her off of her. Following subsequent contact by the county sheriff's office, the Victim elected not to pursue the investigation and stated she wanted to put the incident behind her. No criminal charges were filed against the Subject and the case was closed.   |   |

Victim reported she met the Subject, exchanged numbers, and later went on a date. During their first date, the Subject attempted to kiss the Victim and she refused but the Subject knocked her to the floor, pointed a weapon at her she believed to be a " Glock", pulled his penis out of his pants, and told her to "suck his dick." As the Victim was screaming, kicking and punching, the Subject pulled her pants, blouse and bra off, leaving her panties and vagina penetrated her with his penis. Afterward, the Subject treated to kiss members of Victim's family if she took. The Victim further explained that the Subject would pick her up four to five times a week and take her to unknown residences to rape her. The Victim stated she would be asked her where she resided, forced her to drink alcohol sometimes to the point of passing out, burned her with cigarettes, and put her in restraints. The Victim further stated this sexual abuse continued for a year and a half. State Attorney's Office revealed that the prosecution of Subject was declined citing the victim's delayed reporting, lack of physical evidence, lack of witness testimony to corroborated allegations, and the lack of a reasonable probability of conviction in the case. |   |

Victim reported that he and Subject had visited a local bar and requested of Subject that he be allowed to stay the night due to impairment. Victim stated that he stripped down to his boxer shorts and went to sleep alone, but later awoke to find Subject lying next to him, his hand inside Victim's shorts, attempting to masturbate him. Victim stated that he immediately removed Subject's hand, got dressed and left without exchanging words with Subject. Victim advised that he later spoke to a superior who he felt about this incident but he decided to report what happened to his command. Subject plead guilty at a Court-Martial and was convicted of two counts of the lesser included offense of assault consummated by a battery (Article 129). Subject was awarded 90 days confinement, reduction in grade to E-2, and forfeiture of $1,100.00.  |   |

Victim reported she had met Subject online and made arrangements to have dinner with him. After dinner, Victim agreed to accompany Subject to his residence to watch a movie during which they both consumed alcoholic beverages. After the movie Subject offered the use of a spare bedroom to Victim to stay in so she did not have to drive home at the time. Victim went to sleep in the spare bedroom but reported that she was later awakened by Subject pulling off the bed covers and asking if she wanted to "fool around." Victim told Subject to not do that and he left the room. Subject returned to the bedroom later, pulled back the covers, and removed Victim's underpants. Victim responded by getting out of bed and going to the bathroom. Subject repeatedly refused to allow Victim to leave. Subject was later arrested local authorities and charged with abduction and sexual battery. Subject went to the Criminal Court and was acquitted of all charges. |  |

Victim reported that she was in the barracks room of another USN member with several other friends, consuming alcohol when she became ill and vomited on the balcony and again in the bathroom. Victim believed she passed out in the bathroom and Subject brought Victim back to the living room and laid her down on the couch. Subject then got behind Victim on the couch, pulled down her pants, and had sexual intercourse with her. Victim stated she had a tampon in at this time and the intercourse was painful. Victim did not say anything to Subject at the time, but just laid there shaking and unable to move. Subject then got behind Victim and laid down on the floor, but shortly thereafter got behind Victim on the couch again and had sexual intercourse with Victim a second time. An Article 32 hearing was held; the investigating Officer found reasonable grounds; did not exist to refer charges against Subject, and thus, charges were dismissed. |

Victim provided a delinquent report alleging that in 2009 a former Army Subject, who is no longer in the Army, engaged in non-consensual sex with her. She stated that after going through BARR training, she now believes that Subject's actions were correct but commiserated that she doesn't want him to get in trouble, nor does she think he deserves to be punished, but she does want recognition that something happened that shouldn't have happened. RLSO indicated there was no commiserated based prospective merit due to the nature of the incident, the time elapsed, and that the alleged subject is no longer in the US Army.   |  |

Subject was under investigation for sexual harassment by CID when allegations of sexual contact were uncovered. Seven Victims were ultimately determined to be harassed and/or sexually assaulted by Subject. Subject pleads guilty pursuant to a pretrial agreement with a Special Courts-Martial to eight specifications of Article 92 (Failure to Obey Order or Regulation) and multiple specifications of Article 128 (Assault), and the Article 120 (indecent exposure) charge was dropped. Article 92 hearing was held under Art. 92. Subject received confinement for 30 days and a reduction in rank from E6 to E4. The pretrial agreement also required the subject to waive his right to an administrative separation board and risk receiving other than honorable discharge.   |  |

Victim advised she approached Subject who looked very upset and told her his cousin and two of his friends had passed away in a short period of time and began to visibly cry. Subject asked Victim for a hug then tried to run his hands over her lower back. Victim told him to stop and he agreed to stop. Subject reportedly apologized by saying he was upset and did not know what he was thinking. Subject then placed his hand on her right thigh and began rubbing it in a sexual manner. Victim told him to stop and stood up to leave. Subject allegedly grabbed Victim pinning her arms to her sides, and placed both of his hands on her buttocks. Subject then tried to kiss Victim. Victim told him to stop and pushed him off her. She then left. Victim reported Subject began teasing, calling, and following the Victim. Victim was found guilty at Non-Judicial Punishment of a violation of Article 120 (Abusive Sexual Contact) and Article 123 (Assault), and subsequently given Restriction/Extra Duty for 60 days and forfeiture of pay for 2 months. Subject was administratively separated under Other than Honorable conditions from the United States Navy. |

Victim stated she and Witness were invited over to Subject's barracks room. Victim stated she poured a glass of champagne and told Subject she was going back to her barracks after the drink. Subject then came up behind her and said "not too far" and began kissing the back of her neck and ear while groping her back, stomach, and chest. Victim does not remember how, but she ended up lying with her back on the floor and Subject on top of her attempting to put his hands down her pants. Victim advised she was able to fight off Subject and ran out of the room. Victim had bruises on her arms and wrists. Subject stated Victim's bruises were caused not by Subject but by Witness holding Victim's wrists and arms when she attempted to assist him after drinking alcohol. Subject denies sexually assaulting Victim and stated that all activity between them was consensual. Subject received Non-judicial Punishment for a violation of Article 133 (Conduct Unbecoming an Officer and a Gentleman) and received a reprimand in writing. |   |

Victim stated she was raped by Subject in the barracks room. Victim reported that beforehand, she and several dignitaries were celebrating and drinking beer and doing shots of tequila and rum. Later, the Victim was walking in the hall toward her room with one of her friends who was hospitalized and she was intoxicated and was stumbling some as she walked, when Subject came up from behind her, lightly grabbed her arm, pulled her aside and kissed her on her lips. Subject then led Victim to his room. Victim stated she did not remember a lot about what happened when they got into Subject's room other than Subject undressed Victim's pants and started hitting on her shirt. The next thing Victim remembered was Subject on top of her engaged in sexual intercourse. Victim stated she remembered thinking she did not want to have sex but she did not physically say no until about a minute later. Victim stated she told Subject "no" at least four times. Charges were preferred and taken to an Article 32 hearing. The investigating Officer recommended that charges against Subject be identified or disposed of administratively due to insufficient evidence. The command withdrew and dismissed the charges due to insufficient evidence. |   |                        |

Victim #1 advised while sleeping with Subject in their shared residence, she was awakened by Subject who removed Victim #1's underwear and shorts and forced penis-vagina intercourse with her against her stated desires. Victim #2 reported she had "made out" with Subject at a bar and again later at his residence. However, Victim #2 acknowledged she was drunk and had no memory of the sex events that occurred at Subject's residence. Victim #2 alleged she later advised Subject if he had sex to what Subject shook his head "yes" to imply they did. Subject was taken to Captain's Mast for Adultery and Fraudulent Receipt of Basic Annual Housing (BAH) of approximately $80,000. Subject was awarded 45 days of extra duty and reduction in rate. Subject was notified of processing for Administrative Separation for commission of a serious offense. Subject was administratively separated from the Navy with an Other Than Honorable discharge.  |   |                        |

Investigation was opened regarding injurious and harassing behavior to include an allegation of sexual assault in the workplace. Victim reported that Subject approached him while he was sitting at his desk and rubbed his penis on Victim's arm in a self-stimulating manner. Victim advised Subject then proceeded to the desk of another USN member and committed the same act against her. Subject was issued a letter of caution from his employer as a result of the investigation.  |   |   |                        |

Victim reported she was inappropriately sexually touched by Subject during a massage she received from a contact vendor through MWR. During the session, the Subject did many things that made the Victim uncomfortable including massaged the back of one inner thigh where he reached too far up near Victim's crotch, massaging Victim's butt, and massaging Victim's chest during which he put his hands on her breasts with two hands, massaging the sides and twisted the nipple. After each of these actions, the Victim told the Subject "excuse me" and the Subject stopped the action. The Assistant US Attorney determined their office would not be prosecuting this case due to a lack of evidence.                                     |             |                        |

Victim indicated that she had been engaged in a consensual sexual relationship with Subject however on one occasion while in Subject's barracks room, Subject deviated and forcibly held Victim down on the bed and kissed and touched Victim under her shirt and pants against her will. Subject stopped after about 15 minutes and did not penetrate Victim's vagina with his fingers, hands or his penis during this specific incident. Victim also indicated that Subject often used "taking his own life" and his rank to leverage sexual acts with her. A Special Court-Martial, Subject was found guilty of Article 92 (Sexual Harassment) and Article 124 (Intimidation). Subject was found not guilty of Article 120 (Rape) and Article 126 (Indecent Exposure). Subject was awarded Subject 11 months, reduction to the paygrade of E-3, forfeiture of two thirds of his pay while confined and a Bad Conduct Discharge.  |   |             |                        |

Victim provided that after meeting through an online website specific to individuals interested in an alternative lifestyle, Subject accompanied Victim back to her apartment and immediately started bearing her with his belt on her arms, back and face. Victim attempted to flee the apartment, he roared and her pleas for Subject to stop the assault met with negative results. Ultimately, Subject removed Victim's clothes, held Victim's hands to an ottoman and continued to rape Victim until Victim's perineal area was injured. Due to local civilian authorities' lack of desire to prosecute case, it was requested that NCIS assume investigative control. According to Victim, alcohol or drugs were not consumed by either her or Subject. Charges were preferred and an Article 32 hearing commenced. The Investigating Officer found that although reasonable grounds existed to go forward, there were difficulties with the evidence. Therefore, the contract withdrew and dismissed the charge.   |   |             |                        |

According to Victim, she was at the on-base residence of a USN member following a children's birthday party. After the children had been put to bed, the adults started drinking alcoholic beverages and playing cards. Victim was assaulted in her house and pulled on the living room floor to sleep after becoming intoxicated, falling down while walking, and vomiting twice. Victim's recollection of events after laying down is incomplete until the following morning when she went to the bathroom and noticed residual body fluid on her lower body and pants. Subject admitted to knowing Victim was very intoxicated, mistaking sexual activity pulling down Victim's pants/underwear, pulling his own pants down, and engaging in sexual intercourse with Victim. Subject was convicted at General Court-Martial for violation of UCMJ, Article 120 (Rape) and sentenced to a Dishonorable Discharge, 3 years confinement, Total Forfeitures of all pay and allowances, and must register as a Sex Offender. |

Notification was made after a witness reported seeing an USNA Faculty member Professor, Subject, slip the buttocks of a USN Midshipman Victim during class. Victim provided that Subject's actions were nothing out of the ordinary and that Subject often slipped student's buttocks in a humorous way or as a requirement for instances such as incomplete assignments. Further, Victim stated that he has witnessed Subject slip other students in the same manner, both male and female, but that neither he nor his classmates perceive it as sexual conduct. Victim concluded by stating that he did not report the incident and feels although Subject should be informed that her actions are inappropriate she should not be punished. USNA will administer action against Subject and no further action will be pursued.   |

Victim reported meeting Subject on the social media site tagged.com. They met up at a local restaurant then decided to go back to Subject's room at the Navy Gateway Inn. Victim related she told Subject she would be doing anything sexual with him however Subject immediately began forcing and touching her once they entered the room. Victim said she rebuffed Subject's advances. Subject's advances became more aggressive as he continued to push himself onto Victim. He attempted to tie her pants off while she was sitting in a chair in the room and got Victim onto the bed and laid on top of her while she struggled to get off of her. Victim stated she dialed 911 while Subject attempted to slip the phone out of her hands. Subject inserted his penis into Victim's vagina and she began to scream for help and crying. Subject pleaded "just let me do it". The rape was interrupted when a man began banging on the door and asking if everything was alright. Subject then took off from the room. Two witnesses reported hearing screams for "help" and "he is trying to rape me". Alcohol is not believed to be a factor in this incident. Subject was charged at General Court-Martial with violating Article 120 (Rape), Article 134 (Threat, communicating), Article 95 (Feeling Apprehension), and Article 128 (Assault of a commissioned/officer) of the UCMJ. He was found guilty of violating UCMJ Articles 95, 120, and 134, and found not guilty of violating UCMJ Article 128. He was adjudged confinement for 933 days, forfeiture of all pay and allowances, and to be administratively discharged. Additionally, he will be required to register as a sex offender. |   |

Victim stated while changing clothes in the female locker room Subject sexually assaulted her by touching her bare abdomen and right breast and she has no recollection of why she was on the ship. In response to the unwanted touching, Victim pushed Subject and stated "What is wrong with you, why do you treat me that?". Subject admitted to going to Victim's bare abdomen and right breast over her back. After an Unauthorized Absence (UA) a command member was sent to Subject's barracks and found Subject unresponsive in the shower of her bathroom. Subject was pronounced dead. RLD provided the Sexual Assault Disposition Report which states the disposition of this investigation is death by offender.  |   |

According to local authorities Subject and Victim were at a bar. Subject agreed to give Victim a ride to a friend's residence; however, Subject instead proceeded to drive to a location owned by Subject's mother. When Subject pulled into the yard of the property, Subject parked his vehicle with the passenger door against a tree, therefore Victim could not exit the vehicle. Subject grabbed the Victim by the waist and strangled her then removed Victim's clothes and inserted his penis into her vagina, while keeping his forearm against Victim's neck and upper chest area, and while threatening to kill her. Victim repeatedly told Subject to stop and to take her home. The assault lasted approximately twenty (20) minutes and Subject ejaculated in Victim's vagina. Subject admitted to raping Victim and told her he was intoxicated and using meth, ecstasy and crack at the time of the incident. Subject was arrested and charged with rape, sexual assault, terrorist threats, unlawful restraint and simple assault. Subject will be administratively separated from the US Navy. Subject was administratively separated and received an Other Than Honorable discharge. Subject awaits trial by local authorities.   |   |

Victim #1 reported he reported he "blacked out" and "traced" they had been drugged because he had no recollection of an approximate seven-hour time frame. Victim #1 said that he and Victim #2 got two bottles of beer and two bottles of Soju (a popular Korean potato-based wine) along with sharing a chicken dinner at a local restaurant in Hawaii. Victim #1 said he has no recollections following that until the following morning when he awoke alone on the passenger side of an SUV in a male and female waking him up and saying "Get out, my car." Victim #1 said he felt extremely tired and groggy, but did not have a hangover or upset stomach as would be expected if he had drunk to excess. Victim #2's account of the story is similar. Victim #2 recalled sharing two bottled beers and two bottles before completely blacking out and waking up fully clothed in someone else's bedroom and recalled seeing a female, also fully clothed, lying on her side on the floor beside the bed. Victim #2 was alarmed and dazed and could not discern how he came to be in the house with the female. Victim #2 later recalled walking down a cobblestone road and being assisted at least one time by a male. Victim #2 then recalled being on a bed in an unknown private residence, fully clothed but with an underfed male and female. Victim #2 said he had a "feeling" of having his hand over and fingers inserted inside her vagina. Victim #2 also relayed that he recalled a male of having the man's penis in his mouth and the man becoming upset. Victim #2 said he had no other memories of activities inside the residence. Toxicology showed Victim were not drugged, but highly intoxicated. Victim declined to pursue the matter with local police and no Subjects were identified. Due to lack of identified Subjects, DoD action was precluded and the case closed. |  |

Victim reported she approached Subject for professional assistance and over the next few days, Subject started requesting her work space in the ship galley to flirt with her. Victim claimed at first she dismissed Subject's advances as joke but on one day Subject made sexual advances at her, including asking to see her breasts, vagina, and buttocks. Victim stated she told Subject to stop but Subject grabbed Victim by the arms, turned her body against the wall of the ship, and pressed his unexposed erect penis against her unexposed buttocks. Alcohol and/or drugs were not contributing factors to the allegation. An Article 32 hearing was conducted and preferred Court-Martial charge. On 21 August 1, Subject appeared at Mast convened by Commanding Officer/NAVY ONE, USN Dover. Subject was found guilty of violations of the UCMJ under Article 92 (Sexual Harassment), 120 (Sexual Assault - Abusive Sexual Contact), and 134 (Fratricides). Subject was awarded a punitive letter of reprimand. |  |

Victim reported that she and her roommate were conducting a pack out (for Victim's roommates) at their off-base residence with an Italian moving company. Victim reported that when she was alone with one of the movers, the Subject went behind her, pulled her up around the waist with both arms saying "I want to span you around". Victim said, "No." As Subject was putting Victim down, Subject put his hands over the front of Victim's genital area on the outside of her sweatpants and proceeded to touch her hands up Victim's entire body, touching her breasts. As the Italian authorities maintain exclusive jurisdiction regarding the incident, this investigation is closed.   |

Victim reportedly was looking at an apartment for rent when an unknown suspect grabbed her from behind, pulled both of her arms behind her, and pulled her underwear down to her mid-thigh. The suspect then forced the Victim to bend over penetrating her with his penis into her vagina. Victim advised she struggled to move in an attempt to get free and was able to grab the suspect's penis causing him pain. Victim stated she could not identify the Subject. Victim signed a Victim Preference Statement declining her continuance to participate in captioned investigation. Due to the lack of evidence to identify a Subject, DoD action was precluded and case was closed.  |

Victim reported not while on duty. Victim and her liberty lodger got into a taxi cab and while Victim was in the front seat the unknown male taxi driver, Subject, repeatedly reached over and rubbed his hands across Victim's breasts while trying to get her attention. Victim responded by pushing the Subject's hands away and the taxi driver then moved his hands up and down Victim's left thigh. Victim again pushed his hands away. When one of the liberty buddies noticed what was happening, he repositioned her in the center of the back seat and lowered her head as so the Subject knew he was watching. Foreign authorities related based on the lack of information as to the taxi cab number, a photograph of the suspect, or contact information for the victim. There are no viable leads to follow. Victim signed a Victim Preference Statement as they no longer wish to be involved. It is unknown if alcohol was a factor. |  |   |

Victim provided she attended a party, got very drunk, and laid down on a bed in a back bedroom of the home. Victim said that some time later Subject entered the room, took off Victim's left sock, and rubbed his feet onto the bottom of Victim's foot. Victim said that Subject then put his hand on her right ankle and began to slide his hand up her leg. Victim said that when Subject got his hand just above her knee, she hunched, and then Subject ran out of the room. Victim said she reflected over and saw Subject's face as he exited the room. Victim said she was fully clothed during the encounter (except for her left sock), and that Subject did not touch or penetrate her genitalia. In addition, Victim said that she had several naked photos of herself on her cell phone, which was left in the living room, and someone had sent them to her numbers she did not recognize. Victim declined to report the matter to local authorities who have primary jurisdiction. No further investigative activity was warranted at this time. |   |

Victim reported that local authorities that the Subject took an unknown number of sexually explicit photographs of Victim while she was passed out from alcohol consumption in a spare bedroom of another USN member. Victim recalled feeling something touch her leg as she slept but remembered the house owner had a dog so she went back to sleep. Victim later awoke to a flash and saw someone run out of the bedroom. Sleeping in the bed next to Victim was Victim's USN boyfriend, who also awoke, saw Subject next to the bed, and then saw Subject run from the bedroom. Victim's boyfriend chased and caught Subject. Subject took his phone and Subject had taken 10-15 pictures of Victim's breasts, vagina, and buttocks. Local authorities declined prosecution of Subject due to lack of evidence. Subject was found guilty of violating Article 120c (UCMJ), (Indecent Viewing, Visual Recording, or Broadcasting) at a Court-Martial and was sentenced to eight (8) months confinement, reduction in rank to pay grade E-1, forfeiture of two-thirds pay while confined, mandatory registration as a sex offender, and was subsequently discharged with an Other than Honorable Discharge. |

After receiving SAPR training, the Victim reported two incidents that occurred earlier in her career. The first incident allegedly occurred approximately 14 years ago as a party in an undisclosed hotel room. Victim had consumed alcohol and blacked out. When Victim regained consciousness, she was in the shower and another unidentified female was fondling her breasts. The second incident occurred while Victim was assigned to a ship. During this time, Victim was forced to expose her breasts while an unidentified person of authority masturbated in front of her. There was allegedly another unidentified female in the room during the time who did not report the incident or make any effort to intervene. Victim stated she did not come forward in either case because she was a junior Sailor and did not know who to trust. Victim signed a Victim Preference Statement declining to provide any compelling details or participate further in an investigation. Due to lack of further investigative leads and no identified Subjects, DoD action was precluded and the case was closed. |

According to Victim, while having a discussion with Subject about Victim being a virgin, Subject told Victim he (Subject) would perform fellatio on Victim because it was not fair. Victim was still in virgin. Victim declined Subject's offer and continued to consume alcoholic beverages. Victim attempted to leave Subject's residence but Subject prevented Victim from leaving. Subject carried Victim into his bedroom and forcibly raped Victim. Victim resisted and told Subject to stop. Subject commented the knew Victim was attempting to gain custody of the US Navy young child and Victim consented to have Subject perform either sexual Victim, and claim self defense or he would have Victim arrested for false crimes. Subject had presented herself as a US Marshall. The civilian Deputy Prosecuting Attorney declined prosecution and the case was closed because Navy did not have jurisdiction over the subject.  |

Victim stated when she was a Plebe (Freshman), two years ago, Subject approached her while she was on watch duty and attempted more than once to get her to go to his room, but she ignored him. Victim stated about a week later, Subject entered her room when she was alone and kissed her. Victim stated she did not have time to react, but it was not something she wanted. Victim reported Subject entered her room on another occasion while she and her roommate were asleep and got off of her and leave unless she kissed him. Victim declared she lightly "poked" Subject on the lips then Subject left. CO advised Subject would receive adverse administrative action for a sexual assault offense via the Conduct System.  |

Victim reported that while he was in a 10 day Temporary Assigned Duty (TAD) he was hazed and sexually assaulted on multiple occasions by Subjects #1, #2, and #3. Victim reported being called down to Subjects' bathing when he found Subject #2 and #3 sitting on a couch nude and masturbating using a "Flashlight". Victim said Subject #2 and #3 cornered him and another sailor, and tried to force them to smell their Flashlights. Victim also reported having his clothes taken while he was in the shower and subsequently being "naked dog walked" while nude by Subject #1, Subject #2, and Subject #3. Victim reported that on multiple occasions Subject #1 made inappropriate comments to him, sometimes while exposing his penis, when Victim advised Subject #1 he was going to eat. Subject #1 received non-judicial punishment for violations of Article 92 (Hazing) and Article 134 (Disobeying Orders). Subject #1 was awarded the following NJP: 45 days restriction, 45 days extra duty, forfeiture of $1347 per month for 2 months, 11 month suspension, and a reduction in rank from E-5 to E-4. Subject #2 received non-judicial punishment and was awarded the following NJP: 60 days restriction, forfeiture of $887 per month for 2 months, and a reduction in rate from E-3 to E-2. Subject #3 received non-judicial punishment and was awarded the following NJP: 45 days restriction, 45 days extra duty, forfeiture of $887 per month for 2 months, 11 month suspension, and a reduction in rank from E-3 to E-2. All Subjects were discharged from the USN with an Other Than Honorable (OTH) discharge for Misconduct - Commission of a Serious Offense (CSO). |   |

Victim had made it known in a letter to her CO that she was a victim of sexual assault prior to Victim appearing at Non-Judicial Punishment for an unrelated issue. Victim reported while out walking two unknown males accosted her and dragged her from the sidewalk to a side of a house and forced Victim to perform oral sodomy on them, eventually raping Victim. Victim refused to provide details of this incident. Subsequently, Victim executed a Victim Preference Statement. Based on the lack of information provided, no further investigative tracking could be completed. It is unclear whether alcohol and/or drugs was a factor in this case. Due to lack of viable leads and identified Subjects, DoD action was precluded and case was closed. |

Her brother's girlfriend let Subject into the barracks room and her brother's girlfriend "passed back out." Victim explained shortly after Subject entered the room, he proceeded to get on top her and pin her arms down while he attempted to remove her shorts. Victim declared Subject was able to remove his pants and insert his penis into her vagina for approximately five (5) seconds until she was able to push him off and onto the floor. Victim advised she does not want to participate further in the investigation and refused to make an official statement to law enforcement. Trial Counsel related no adjudicative action will be taken against Subject, due to a lack of admissible evidence. |

Victim met Subject at the Mall and had consensual sex with him in his truck. Victim stated the sex was not planned and that she really didn't want to have sex, but stated she did nothing to stop it and gave Subject no indication it was not welcomed. Later that night, during a party for Subject's wife Victim was sleeping in the guest room. Victim stated Subject advised her he had wanted to have sex with her the night before as well, but just kissed and "tingered" her. Victim stated she has no recollection of Subject touching her vagina and only knows it occurred because he told her. The Disposition Letter from the Commanding General was received wherein no punitive action related to violations of Article 120, Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) were pursued. The Pre-Trial agreement for Subject was received wherein Subject agreed to plead guilty at a Summary Court Martial for a violation of Article 134 (Adultery) UCMJ. Subject pled guilty at a Summary Court Martial and was awarded a forfeiture of 2/3 pay for one month and a reduction to E-4 (Corporal).  |

Subject instructed Victim#1 to remove his clothing and during the course of the "physical" Subject touched Victim#1's genitals. Victim#1 stated the examination did not seem like a normal physical; therefore, he asked other Marines in his section if they had received physicals. The other Marines responded that they had not been given physicals, and Victim filed a restricted report of sexual assault. Marine Victim#2 indicated Subject told him he needed to get shots prior to deploying. Victim#2 stated Subject gave him the shots, checked his ears, eyes, mouth and heart, and then told Victim#2 that he needed to conduct a testicle exam. Victim#2 advised Subject checked his testicles and penis for approximately two to three minutes. Approximately one month later, Subject told Victim#2 he needed another physical and inspected Victim#2's penis and testicles again. Marine Victim#3 indicated that he saw Subject for a physical, during which Subject grabbed both Victim#3's testicles and told him to cough. Victim#3 advised he did not report any pain or concerns about having a hernia, and he had just had a hernia exam. An Administrative Counseling and Warning (Page 13) was issued to Subject for negligence and failure to act in accordance with medical Standard Operating Procedures, specifically that Subject performed procedures outside his scope of authority. The result of these administrative actions will most likely be that Subject will be denied the opportunity to re-enlist in the USN. Command advised Subject has been temporarily reassigned to a different command while he awaits the issuance of new orders, and no further administrative action will be taken by command. |   |

Victim stated while he was urinating Subject began grabbing his penis and began to kiss his neck. Victim reported Subject then pulled down Victim's pants and attempted to insert his penis in Victim's anus; however, Victim related he backed out and was unsure if his anus was actually penetrated. Victim reported when he awoke on the perpetrator's bathroom floor, his anus hurt and when he subsequently defecated he observed blood in his stool. Subject received non-judicial punishment for a violation of Article 107 (False official statements). Subject was awarded reduction in rank to E-3, forfeiture of $1,007.00, (45) days restriction and (45) days extra punitive duties. However, the reduction in rank, restriction and extra duties were suspended for three months. |

Victim reported she went to a residence in Baltimore, MD for the weekend with friends. Victim had laid down on the living room sofa to sleep when Subject walked in, pulled her pants off, vaginally penetrated her with his penis and performed oral sexual intercourse on her. Victim told Subject "no" and "stop" several times but never attempted to physically stop Subject. Victim eventually pushed Subject off her and ran to a friend's room for help. Victim then immediately reported to the hospital where local authorities were contacted. Local authorities ultimately declined to charge Subject, citing absence evidence of incapacitation or resistance by Victim. Due to lack of jurisdiction, closure of local authorities' case, and the lack of cooperation of Victim, this investigation is closed. |

At some point during the alleged hazing, Victim claimed Subject ordered him to touch his penis. Victim said he felt obligated to comply with the order because Subject is higher ranking, and consequently placed his hand on Subject's crotch over his clothing. Command found Subject to be in violation of Article 92 (failure to obey order or regulation) of the UCMJ and given a Non-Judicial Punishment (NJP). Subject was reduced in rank to E-2, ordered to forfeit $835.00 per month for two (2) months for a total of $1,670, and put on restriction and extra duty for forty-five (45) days.  |

Victim pulled away from Subject and as she did, Subject ran his hands down the center of her back and her hips. As she attempted to enter the driver's side of her vehicle, Subject came up from behind her and placed his hand between Victim's legs on her upper, inner left thigh and slid his palm upward cupping her crotch with his palm. Command issued a memorandum stating Subject will receive administrative counseling for his behavior at the command event.   |

Victim related she had a dream or memory of Subject having sex with her. Local law enforcement assumed primary investigative jurisdiction and conducted an investigation; however, the case was ultimately closed as being unfounded. Victim reported she remembered additional details regarding her alleged rape. Victim reported she passed out and later woke up to Subject having sex with her before passing out again. An Article 32 Hearing was conducted wherein all charges and specifications were dismissed.  |   |

During the trip back to the base, the unknown male attempted to sexually assault her in his vehicle. Victim refused to cooperate or provide information to local law enforcement. Victim advised she had no desire to participate in any criminal investigation or judicial action pertaining to her sexual assault. No Subject was identified.  |

Victim was unable to tell the name, the armed service, the rate or rank, nor the race or ethnic background of the perpetrator because it was dark in the room he dragged her into and he was wearing an issued winter mask. Victim signed a Victim's Preference Waiver indicating she was not interested in pursuing the investigation. SJA stated that further investigation and the possibility of prosecution given the scarce identifying information of the perpetrator and the victim's decision to not participate further, was not viable. |

ENCLOSURE 4:
DEPARTMENT OF THE AIR FORCE

UNDER SECRETARY OF THE AIR FORCE
WASHINGTON

MEMORANDUM FOR UNDER SECRETARY OF DEFENSE (PERSONNEL AND READINESS)

SUBJECT: FY13 Annual Report on Sexual Assault

As directed by the Section 1631 of Public Law 111-383, I am forwarding the enclosed AF SAPR Annual report to provide numerical data and statistics regarding sexual assault within the Air Force. The Air Force received 1052 reports of sexual assault; 635 were unrestricted and 412 were restricted. These totals include 30 reports from the deployed area; 19 of which were unrestricted and 11 which were restricted.

We remain committed to eliminating sexual assault from the Air Force and continue to enhance sexual assault prevention methods and programs, investigations, accountability, victim support, and assessment methods.

Eric K. Fanning

Executive Summary

In an effort to synchronize efforts across the service, the Air Force disbanded its four-person Sexual Assault Prevent and Response (SAPR) Office, which had been aligned under the Air Force's Manpower and Personnel Directorate, and stood up a stand-alone, directorate-level office in June, 2013, led by a general officer who reports directly to the Air Force Vice Chief of Staff. The new Headquarters Air Force SAPR Office is authorized a cross-functional staff of 32 people with a broad range of relevant expertise such as operational command; research and analysis; education and training; victim assistance; investigation and law enforcement; legal procedure; mental health; public affairs; and legislative relations. Embedded Judge Advocate General's Corps, Surgeon General, and Office of Special Investigations representatives act as force multipliers by opening direct lines of communication to their respective functional organizations. This structure is facilitating streamlined, agile, and cross-functional policy development, data collection and analysis, and actionable advice for Air Force leaders to effect the elimination of sexual assault in the Air Force.

On November 15, 2012, the Secretary of the Air Force, the Air Force Chief of Staff, and the Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force issued a letter to all Airmen stating there is no place in the Air Force for sexual assault, and every Airman needs to take action and be part of the solution. In the first two weeks of December, 2012, the Air Force conducted a service-wide health and welfare inspection designed to eliminate environments conducive to sexual harassment or unprofessional relationships, both possible leading indicators of sexual misconduct. Following that inspection, the Chief of Staff issued a letter to all Airmen on January 2, 2013, reinforcing the message that images, songs, stories, or so-called "traditions" that are obscene, vulgar, or that denigrate or fail to show proper respect to all Airmen, are not part of Air Force heritage and will not be accepted as part of Air Force culture.

During Fiscal Year 2013, the Air Force embarked on a number of initiatives to reach out to Airmen, support victims, and foster command climates of dignity and respect. The Air Force SAPR Office conducted focus groups at 14 bases with more than 1,400 Airmen to gather information about their perceptions on sexual assault and the Air Force's efforts to eradicate it. The Air Force stood up a groundbreaking Special Victims' Counsel program in which victims of sexual assault are offered personal legal representation. The Air Force began implementation of a Special Victims Capability ahead of expected guidance from the Department of Defense. This initiative identified and brought together specially trained investigators and judge advocates to more effectively hold perpetrators accountable. Every Airman in the Air Force participated in a SAPR Stand-Down Day, a scenario-based, small-group training focusing on bystander intervention and fostering cultures of dignity and respect. The Air Force also started a comprehensive revision of the Air Force's SAPR policy guidance and training curriculum.

During Fiscal Year 2013, the Air Force also significantly enhanced its SAPR victim support with the addition of 91 full-time victim advocates to the standing force of 114 full-time installation SARCs and 2,307 trained and certified volunteer military and civilian victim advocates.

In Fiscal Year 2013, investigators opened 635 investigations into allegations of sexual assault in which a servicemember was either a subject or a victim. Based upon the method directed for calculating investigations for this report, this number of investigations does not include those conducted by other services' investigative agencies, nor does it include investigations involving only civilian subjects and victims (e.g., a report by a dependent spouse that he/she was sexually assaulted by a government civilian employee). Additionally, this number specifically excludes investigations into so-called "intimate partner" cases, which fall under the Family Advocacy program (this includes assaults between spouses, cohabitating intimate partners, people who have a common child, and people who have been in an intimate dating relationship for more than 30 days). Finally, sexual assault allegations involving child victims are outside the scope of this report. For purposes of this report, these 635 investigations are considered to be proxies for unrestricted reports of sexual assault. Based upon the DoD Annual Report methodology, a single investigation is treated as a single report, regardless of the number of subjects and victims involved in the investigation. For the sake of consistency, this report will refer to the 635 as "unrestricted reports."

The Air Force also received 488 restricted reports of sexual assault (reports falling under the Family Advocacy program are not included here). Of these, 76 converted from restricted to unrestricted at the request of the victims, resulting in the initiation of an investigation. Thus, of the 488 initially restricted reports received in Fiscal Year 2013, 412 remained restricted at the end of Fiscal Year 2013.

This represents an increase of 186 unrestricted reports (increase of 41.4%) and an increase of 71 restricted reports (20.8%) from the number of reports received in Fiscal Year 2012. In 2012, there were 790 total reports; 449 were unrestricted; and 341 remained restricted after 58 converted to unrestricted. The Fiscal Year 2013 totals include 30 reports from the Combat Areas of Interest (an increase of 6 from Fiscal Year 2012, when there were 24), 19 of which were investigations considered to be unrestricted reports as described in Section 1.1. There was an increase of 9 unrestricted and a decrease of 3 remaining restricted reports. In Fiscal Year 2013, 2 restricted reports converted to unrestricted, while none converted in Fiscal Year 2012.

1.1 Summarize your Service or Component’s efforts to achieve the Prevention Endstate: “cultural imperatives of mutual respect and trust, professional values, and team commitment are reinforced to create an environment where sexual assault is not tolerated, condoned, or ignored.”

During Fiscal Year 2013, the Air Force implemented major initiatives in support of the prevention line of effort beginning with a Secretary of the Air Force, Air Force Chief of Staff, and Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force letter, sent on November 15, 2012, to all Airmen stating there is no place in the Air Force for sexual assault, and every Airman needs to take action and be part of the solution. This letter was immediately followed by an Air Force service-wide health and welfare inspection during the first two weeks of December, 2012, that was designed to eliminate environments conducive to sexual harassment or unprofessional relationships, which studies suggest are leading indicators of sexual misconduct. Following that inspection, the Chief of Staff issued a follow up letter to all Airmen on January 2, 2013, reinforcing the message that images, songs, stories, or so-called “traditions” that are obscene, vulgar, or that denigrate or fail to show proper respect to all Airmen, are not part of Air Force heritage and will not be accepted as part of Air Force culture. While the inspections are complete, the effort to promote a climate of dignity and respect for all Airmen continues. Commanders at every level are empowered to initiate repeat health and welfare inspections for their units at any time.

Progress in the prevention line also was made through a number of other Air Force SAPR efforts to include:

- The enactment of the Airman’s “Bill of Rights” which is provided to all newly accessed Airmen – ensuring they understand how they should be treated and how they should treat others.
- Enhancement of the dialogue on sexual assault among Airmen through a variety of initiatives.
  - The Air Force SAPR Office engaged with Airmen during focus groups at 14 installations globally to assess the SAPR climate and the effectiveness of headquarters initiatives. The focus groups, which included more than 1,400 personnel from junior enlisted Airmen to senior Air Force officers, provided feedback for the ongoing transformation of the AF SAPR Program.
  - The Vice Chief of Staff of the Air Force launched an “Every Airman Counts” Campaign seeking innovative ideas on how best to tackle the issue of sexual assault through a public-facing blog. The blog initiative kicked off on July 16, 2013, receiving more than 56,000 visits and roughly 875 comments by the end of Fiscal Year 2013.
  - The initiation of Senior Leader web chats with senior leaders and experts in the field of sexual assault prevention and response, personally hosted by the Vice Chief of Staff, allowing Airmen of all ranks and their SARCs the ability to ask questions and share concerns on sexual assault with one of the Air Force's top leaders. During Fiscal Year 2013 one web chat was conducted with Airmen from Holloman AFB and another with all MAJCOM and Installation SARCs.
- Established and filled 91 full-time victim advocate positions.
- Increased the number of Full Time SARC positions from 89 to 121.
- Revamped the training courses for wing commanders, vice wing commanders, group commanders, and Senior NCOs to reflect the Air Force's increased emphasis on establishing a climate of dignity and respect.

- Executed an Air Force Wide SAPR "Stand Down" day for all AF military and civilian personnel whereby:
  - Commanders were given tools and instructions to facilitate group-participation education such as scenario-based training examples for small-group discussion; information on identifying environments tolerant of sexual harassment; role-playing scenarios and bystander intervention strategies
  - Instructors used examples of real-life sexual assault cases and discussed intervention opportunities
  - Materials, including twenty-three videos addressing such topics as: male victims, bystander intervention, response to trauma, and offender characteristics and tactics, were made available to units to help ensure topics covered included the following: ethics, bystander intervention, zero-tolerance policy, creating a climate of respect, male sexual assault victims, rape myths, definition of consent, and risk-reduction measures.
  - Individual Major Commands initiated programs and events that focused on the prevention of sexual assault. For example, vice wing commanders in United States Air Forces in Europe (USAFE), spoke at all SAPR Annual Training sessions to reinforce the importance of this critical issue and the importance of prevention.
  - All participants receive training on: professional values, trust, mutual dignity and respect, and a team commitment to an environment where sexual assault is not tolerated, condoned, or ignored.
- Air Force senior leaders encouraged subordinate commanders to reach out to non-military experts in the sexual assault arena in order to obtain fresh perspectives and a deeper understanding of this issue which led to:
  - Air Combat Command (ACC) organized a lunchtime learning session with Dr. Alan Berkowitz, a nationally recognized trainer and lecturer on rape prevention programs and techniques for fostering healthy communities and workplaces. He also is a proponent of bystander intervention in collaboration with Northern State University in Aberdeen, South Dakota. The session was conducted with the Ellsworth Air Force Base first sergeants and covered such topics as barriers to reporting, allegedly "false" reports, victim reaction to trauma, and other critical issues relevant to the military community and sexual assault.
  - The Commander at the 70th Intelligence, Surveillance and Reconnaissance Wing at Fort Meade, Maryland, brought in the program "Can I Kiss You" conducted by the nationally recognized presenter Mike Domitrz. A discussion of consent, bystander intervention and how to support sexual assault survivors was conducted in several sessions with Airmen under the age of 25 as well as with the Defense Information School trainees. This interactive presentation allowed for candid discussion of Airmen's roles in sexual assault prevention and response.

1.2 Identify the ways you are changing organizational prevention-based practices.

The Air Force transformed its SAPR strategy in concert with the revised Department of Defense strategy published in May 2013. A major portion of this strategic shift focuses on efforts to improve awareness regarding the scope and complexity of the problem. The quantity and quality of information regarding sexual assault in the Air Force will be increased by getting more victims to come forward and cooperate in investigative and judicial actions. This information will, in turn, help the Air Force to better understand and prevent sexual assault either by deterring perpetrators or by identifying and holding them appropriately accountable as soon as possible. Finally, the Air Force will emphasize a climate of dignity and respect that is intolerant of inappropriate sexual behavior. In keeping with this updated strategic vision, the Air Force had various prevention-based initiatives underway in Fiscal Year 2013 that will continue into next year.

In support of that strategy, the Air Force has also made substantial progress transforming its SAPR training in other programs, ranging from entry-level venues – such as Basic Military Training, Reserve Officer Training Corps detachments, and the Air Force Academy – up through and including the Transition Assistance Program courses required for those separating or retiring from the Air Force to help ensure that each Airman is exposed to SAPR principles regularly throughout their careers. By the end of Fiscal Year 2013, reviews were scheduled or underway for all Air Force SAPR training which included aligning the transformed training curricula with the new strategy.

During Fiscal Year 2013, the Air Force SAPR Office planned a SAPR Leadership Summit for subject-matter experts to present information on prevention-based practices, offender dynamics and grooming behaviors to all Wing Commanders, Major Command (MAJCOM) and Installation SARCs, as well as MAJCOM Command Chiefs, to educate them on concepts such as the neurobiology of trauma and understanding recovery.

Prevention curricula were rebuilt incorporating adult learning theory that allows for discussion and personalization of materials to include more interactive scenarios and personal stories in order to improve knowledge and understanding of key issues such as consent and communication. The Air Force continues to emphasize bystander intervention in its formal training and small group discussions as an effective prevention strategy that all Airmen can practice. The Air Force also launched mentorship programs (e.g. Flight Lead Program, Men's Roundtable, "Let's Connect") designed to provide mentors to Airmen younger than 26 years old to help them understand measures for preventing sexual assault and alcohol-related incidents.

During Fiscal Year 2013, a series of steps were taken to transform the climate toward sexual assault within the Air Force. The Chief of Staff directed a force-wide health and welfare inspection focused on removing inappropriate sexually oriented material from the work place. In June, 2013, the Air Force conducted a service-wide SAPR "Stand-Down” Day with a focus on prevention. Participation in the “Stand-Down” Day was mandatory for all Airmen. These events will become regular Air Force events, with two scheduled for Fiscal Year 2014. Each “Stand-Down” Day will focus on different aspects of the prevention strategy. For example, the spring Fiscal Year 2014 “Stand-Down” Day will focus on offenders and bystanders, while the second “Stand-Down” Day will address trauma and victim empathy.

1.3 Describe your efforts to comply with Department of Defense SAPR core competencies for all SAPR training to ensure consistency. Include Professional Military Education, Pre-Command, and Senior Enlisted training.

The Air Force launched a number of highly successful efforts in the SAPR training arena. These included:

- The creation of an Integrated Product Team (IPT) to review and assess SAPR curricula for pre-command and senior enlisted training. Part of that assessment included reviewing sister service and university materials and best practices. The IPT identified the need to develop a framework to deliver standardized SAPR curricula to meet Secretary of Defense requirements. Considerations included: class size – minimum to maximum number of participants; timing – when training should be provided and length of each course; content – what topics should be included in initial and refresher training, and who should develop the training; delivery – how content should be presented in initial and refresher training, and who should provide the training; and assessment – how training effectiveness should be assessed.
- The review of its annual refresher training, accessions, pre-deployment, post-deployment, chaplain, professional military, as well as SARC and victim advocate training to help ensure compliance with DOD SAPR core competencies guidelines. The Air Force is comparing these learning objectives against the training curricula currently in place.
- The development of a new pre-command course that is conducted at the wing, group, and squadron levels. The course is discussion-based and allows leaders to work through a variety of scenarios they are likely to encounter. The curriculum highlights specifically what leaders can do to foster climates based on respect and dignity for all. This course emphasizes the relationship between a unit’s climate and the incidence of sexual assault. Leaders are encouraged to make prevention a part of their daily message to their subordinates. Additionally, attendees of both the Major Command squadron commanders’ courses and Major Command Wing Commander Conferences received SAPR briefings.
- The establishment of two working groups to transform the SAPR curricula in Air Force senior enlisted military education and training. The professional military education courses include the Senior NCO Academy and the First Sergeant’s Academy. Other senior enlisted training opportunities include the Chief’s Leadership Course and Command Chief Course. Different methods of delivery such as scenario-based training are being reviewed. The review will help ensure the Air Force meets the core competencies and learning objectives and updates curriculum.

- Enhancing education at the First Term Airmen Centers across the Air Force. The education focuses on creating/maintaining an environment of respect, bystander intervention, risk reduction, sexual harassment and sexual assault. The Air Force revised its SAPR training briefings to standardize the material in order to fully align with the Department of Defense.
- The Air Force employed training programs focused on courses that service members attend at career milestones, such as professional military education and senior enlisted training, as well as pre-command training. Some specific examples of initiatives intended to address the “describe sexual assault and its impact on the military” core competency include increasing Airman awareness of the impact on victims, increasing their exposure to the data on prevalence, and increasing awareness regarding the types and amount of resources available to respond to incidents. During Fiscal Year 2013, the Air Force introduced several videos into SAPR training curricula as a mechanism to improve Airman awareness of the impact on victims. The Air Force also began to provide Airmen across the board with a more clear sense of the prevalence of sexual assault within the Air Force by providing that data during training events. SARC also supported leadership immersion sessions for incoming leaders.

For the “describe strategies to prevent sexual assaults” core competency the Air Force introduced efforts intended to help Airmen better understand prevention strategies, arm them with the ability to talk about sexual assault, and provided a better understanding of leadership roles in the SAPR program. SAPR “exercise injects” were used at some events to test proper response from the various groups, squadrons, and supervisors. Where possible, the Air Force supplemented training with assigned and contracted subject matter experts.

For the core competency of “identify support resources available to victims of sexual assault,” the Air Force focused on making Airmen more aware of the policies and procedures in place and in improving their understanding of how to gain access to those resources. During the June mandatory Air Force-wide SAPR stand down for all military and civilian personnel, the message was delivered by unit SARCs as a means to put a face with the program. The training included discussions about what services are available to victims, such as the Special Victims’ Counsel program and the availability of expedited transfers.

1.4 Describe your progress in implementing the findings and recommendations from the SAPR Initial Military Training reviews. Include your efforts to enhance accession training by including SAPR policies and implementation of SAPR training within 14 days of entrance to active duty.

A multi-disciplinary SAPR training Integrated Product Team (IPT), comprised of 16 members with subject matter expertise as well as diverse professional field experience, which met in January, 2013, made outstanding progress in implementing the findings and recommendations from the SAPR Initial Military Training reviews. The team included a forensic consultant, a professor from a civilian university, a former prosecutor, a senior social scientist, as well as several Air Force curriculum development and SAPR specialists. The overarching goal of the IPT was to establish an appropriate framework to deliver a Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault Prevention and Response curriculum at all venues of accessions training. Additionally, the IPT sought to help ensure that all Airmen depart accessions training with the same basic level of understanding of the Air Force's core values and their personal responsibility as a member of the Air Force to treat all Airmen with dignity and respect. Specifically, the Team assessed timing, content and method of delivery of sexual harassment and SAPR-related materials, and determined the availability of student feedback mechanisms on the effectiveness of that training. The IPT also reviewed whether curricula included facets related to Air Force culture and gender dynamics, such as unprofessional relationships. The team reviewed curricula for Basic Military Training, Officer Training School, Basic Officer Training, the United States Air Force Academy, Reserve Officer Training Corps, initial occupational training, technical training, and flying training. The Officer Training School program also includes: Commissioned Officer Training course (4 ½ weeks), Air National Guard Academy of Military Science (6 weeks), and Reserve Officer Commissioned Officer Training courses (2 ½ weeks).

All accessions and initial skills venues conduct sexual harassment and SAPR education. All initial skills venues now "frontload" sexual harassment and SAPR curriculum to help ensure students fully understand, at the beginning of their training, what constitutes improper or criminal behavior and what avenues for reporting and assistance are available to them. At the Air Force Academy, extensive additional mandatory training on sexual harassment, sexual assault, and related concepts is provided. There, cadets engage these concepts in greater depth over the course of four years. The foundations of sexual harassment and SAPR education are provided during initial training, with the understanding that greater depth on these topics will be addressed through developmental education across an Airman's career (e.g., that enlisted Airmen will learn more about how SAPR relates to their leadership roles when they attend Airman Leadership School and the NCO Academy). A new course, "Forbidden Relationships," was added to Basic Military Training. This course is designed to help new accessions understand Air Force expectations for their behavior as well as the behavior of their superiors. The course further provides information on how trainees can report concerns and misconduct, as well as available services. Three Basic Military Training SAPR trainers were added to the faculty in July, 2013, and these trainers teach the SAPR curriculum. Additional scenario-based training was added to all technical training locations' SAPR training in 2013. Although standardization of Air Force training on sexual assault and SAPR is important, a single lesson plan for all accession sources was deemed unwise due to the varying length of training time and the differing demographic of students at each venue. Therefore, the Integrated Product Team recommended a tailored versus a standardized curriculum.

1.5 Identify specific SAPR monitoring, measures, and education that impart individual skills associated with bystander intervention and appropriate risk reduction that does not blame victims.

The Air Force implemented several initiatives to impart bystander-intervention and risk-reduction skills that avoid victim blaming, which included providing video clips which depicted both men and women (actors) in public locations (bars, clubs, restaurants, etc.) where bystanders had the opportunity to intervene in a potentially risky situation involving both strangers and non-strangers. Airmen in the training were asked to discuss what they would do in those circumstances in order to highlight bystander intervention principles and methods.

As part of the Air Force SAPR “Stand-Down” day and to keep training aligned with Air Force strategy and policies, the Air Force SAPR office also made several resources available on the Air Force portal website that commanders could use to train personnel on bystander intervention and risk reduction. The training items which were made available included materials on bystander intervention (including four videos), consent, and risk reduction, as well as scenario-based training which included sexual assault icebreaker, role play scenarios, and intervention strategies.

Installation SAPR personnel were not limited in how to use these training materials, but were directed to have interactive and open conversations with Airmen about intervention strategies. Some installations used concepts from the "bystander" videos and created locally relevant role playing scenarios where audience members participated and then discussed intervention strategies afterward in small group discussions.

Small groups further addressed how alcohol is frequently a tool used by perpetrators, sometimes to target under-aged victims who may be reluctant to report. In an effort to reduce victim blaming, SAPR personnel conducted mentoring sessions with Airmen and senior leaders, fostering small group discussions about familiar situations which can lead to sexual assault and personalizing the scenario by encouraging Airmen to picture a family member or friend in these situations. One recurring theme in the training is reminding Airmen that even when victims have engaged in collateral misconduct, the perpetrator – not the victim – remains the person responsible for the sexual assault. Some bases have also produced installation based videos to make them location specific.

Interactive training sessions on bystander intervention focused on how to intervene safely, why a person should intervene, and what the potential consequences of not intervening are. All training discussions ask participants to develop risk-reduction strategies. Discussion focused on whether such strategies could be used to blame a victim and/or how they can help prevent an incident. Societal views on provocative clothing and alcohol use by women in social situations were also addressed. Depictions challenged audiences to discuss whether males who dress provocatively and drink excessively heightened their risk for sexual assault. This teaching method is intended to overcome societal biases and victim blaming.

One Major Command used “Welcome to the Party” – a full teaching curriculum centered on 30-minute film/drama designed for young adults that portrays three incidents/scenarios. The curriculum is designed to be presented by a qualified professional with experience in sexual assault prevention education. The detailed curriculum includes eight classroom activities, extensive lecture materials, supplemental student handouts, thorough background information, as well as resources and reference guides. The film includes multi-format viewing designed to allow the instructor many options for presenting the film and structuring discussions and lectures. The participants were separated into groups to discuss the scenarios and were given a victim-blaming statement. The statements were read and discussion ensued regarding the veracity of victim-blaming myths.

Another Major Command used a leader’s training module which focused on building victim empathy, informing leadership of military SAPR principles, and inspiring leaders to enlist all Airmen to proactively intervene and advocate for victims. A trained, savvy, compassionate leader is vital to establishing a climate of dignity and respect in which bystanders feel empowered to intervene.

The Air Force Academy created a cadet-specific bystander intervention training program. The training was reinforced through various venues and programs that emphasize skills associated with bystander intervention to include Cadet PEERs (Personal Ethics and Education Representative), the Women’s Forum (women cadet-to-cadet mentoring with faculty mentorship), and Cadet Wingman Days. Additionally, the Air Force Academy SAPR office focused on leadership and first responders training to help ensure victims were cared for in a manner free of blame and an environment consistent with the Department of Defense’s vision.

The Air Force makes a clear distinction between risk-reduction measures and primary prevention of sexual assault, and stresses the victim is never to blame for a crime that someone else chose to commit.

1.6 Describe your efforts to establish policies that create and sustain safe environments free of sexual assault. Include policies and practices that address alcohol consumption and barracks/dormitories visitation.

Air Force senior leaders determined a service-wide policy regarding alcohol in the dormitories was not warranted at this time, and that commanders should retain the authority to choose and implement policies best suited for their commands.

A number of installations have established structured dormitory walk-through programs. In a typical program, a First Sergeant or a senior noncommissioned officer heads a team of volunteers, normally consisting of senior noncommissioned officers but may include officers or junior noncommissioned officers. The team picks random days to walk through the dormitories typically between 8 p.m. and midnight during the week or at any time on the weekend. Most walk-throughs will occur over the weekend or known down times if there are shift workers. They engage in conversations with Airmen they encounter, assess the overall climate and conditions in the dormitories and take immediate action to address safety issues. Other installations have variations of the same program.

Several installations have been successful in integrating victim advocates into the training cadre as Airman Leadership School instructors. This benefits both programs, as SAPR expertise is delivered in seminars, and it also puts emphasis on the students' leadership responsibility as they become noncommissioned officers. Instructors introduce students to SAPR volunteer opportunities both on- and off-base, leadership engagement, and cultural change.

Some Air Force bases have prohibited alcohol in dormitories. Many have installed security cameras. One major command requires PIN access for all dormitory rooms and common areas.

The Air Force has encouraged installation commanders to offer results of alcohol policies employed for consideration service-wide. Some commanders have made all dormitories alcohol-free, another instituted a no-alcohol policy in contingency dormitories (used for transient personnel who are on their way to, or returning from, the deployed environment) due to close barracks-style sleeping quarters. Select overseas locations have used the "Airman Assisting Airman" initiative, a voluntary foot patrol, which helps identify Airmen who have over-consumed alcohol and might be a threat to fellow Airmen. This is especially useful in locations where Airmen congregate in groups, which is often the case at overseas bases and some stateside bases. The flexibility of local commander discretion to adapt these policies to the population they serve has been an important tool for them and source of feedback for headquarters level consideration. The Air Force focus has been on providing work environments that promote dignity and respect while holding each other accountable for inappropriate behavior. Dorm room inspections are performed regularly and concerns are addressed.

1.7 Describe progress, assessment, efforts, and/or approved plans for requiring commanders to conduct an organizational climate assessment within 120 days of assuming command and annually thereafter. Include policy for providing results to the next level in the chain of command.

In accordance with the July 25, 2013, Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness memorandum, which incorporates the requirements from the Fiscal Year 2013 National Defense Authorization Act, the Air Force Directorate of Manpower, Personnel, and Services published guidance requiring commanders of each military command and commanders of subordinate units of 50 or more persons to conduct a climate assessment within 120 days after assumption of command, and annually thereafter. Additionally, the memo directed that the results and analysis of annual climate surveys must be provided to the commander requesting the survey and to the commander at the next level in the chain of command as soon as possible, but no later than 30 days after receiving the survey results.

1.8 Describe collaboration efforts concerning prevention with external experts, federal partners (e.g. NATO), advocacy organizations, and educational institutions, to include prevention subject matter experts. Describe results and/or implementations of lessons learned from collaboration efforts.

In Fiscal Year 2013, the Air Force SAPR office had tremendous success interacting and collaborating with 33 subject matter experts and 14 agencies in the fields of legal, psychology and behavior, organizational culture, medical and forensics, and a variety of domestic and sexual violence advocacy groups. The Air Force furthered efforts to enhance SAPR education and training by conducting several Integrated Product Team (IPTs) meetings with university experts and other subject matter experts to assess the pre-command, senior enlisted and accession-level SAPR education and training curricula. As a result of the IPTs, the Air Force SAPR office incorporated changes in the pre-command and accession-level training. Prevention efforts are focused on educating Airman to sustain an environment of mutual respect and dignity while holding personnel accountable.

A few of the experts not previously noted that the Air Force worked with this year include:

- Dr. Anthony Hassan from the School of Social Work at the University of Southern California. The Air Force discussed the use of avatars (digitally simulated people which trainees interact with) as a means to enhance and engage personnel during SAPR training. Dr. Hassan was appointed clinical associate professor at the USC School of Social Work in 2009, serving as the inaugural director of the Center for Innovation and Research on Veterans and Military Families (CIR) and chair for the military social work program. A retired Air Force officer, he brings 25 years of experience in military social work and leadership development.
- Mr. Steve Kovalenka, the Area Director for Franklin Covey. The Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force and other senior leaders met with Mr. Kovalenka to explore whether the Franklin Covey model can be effectively used to enhance the positive culture in the Air Force. These discussions assisted the Air Force in assessing the wisdom and feasibility of fielding an additional training segment following Basic Military Training designed to establish long term behavioral changes.
- Ms. Gail Stern, M. Ed., who has been a sexual assault prevention educator since 1991 and is the co-author of the non-stranger rape prevention program, Sex Signals, which educates Airmen on the common misconceptions of sexual assault/rape and how to handle unwanted sexual advances. In August the first training session occurred at the United States Air Force Academy as part of a curriculum focusing on dating, male and female communication, intimacy, and sexual assault prevention. Additionally, Officer Training School and Reserve Officer Training Corps incorporated Sex Signals into their commissioning programs.
- Dr. Joel Milner of Northern Illinois University. Dr. Milner has written more than 200 scholarly publications primarily focused on family violence and sexual assault. He is also the founding director of the Center for the Study of Family Violence and Sexual Assault. This center promotes research that “informs prevention, intervention, and treatment of family violence and sexual assault.” The Air Force SAPR office met with Dr. Milner to discuss various methodologies and studies regarding perpetrators and perpetrator behaviors. The Air Force SAPR office used information from the meetings to begin creating the Air Force’s long-term SAPR strategy.

- Dr. Rebecca J. Macy and Dr. Sandra L. Martin of the University of North Carolina. The Air Force SAPR office met with these professionals to discuss effective research in risk reduction of sexual assault and preventing re-victimization and the use of epidemiological strategies to understand the prevalence of the problem of sexual assault in the USAF. This consultation assisted the Air Force in exploring the utility of using an epidemiological “vector-based” approach to combating sexual assault.
- The National Crime Victim Law Institute and Victim Rights Law Center. The Air Force consulted with both of these organizations when standing up the Special Victims’ Counsel program. The organizations provided expertise during the process of developing initial policies and instructors at Special Victims’ Counsel training courses throughout the year. The National Crime Victim Law Institute filed an amicus brief in a case that was appealed to the Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces. In that case, the court held victims have the right to be heard through their Special Victims’ Counsel with respect to pre-trial evidentiary motions on rape-shield, psychotherapist-patient communications, and victim advocate-victim communications.

At the installation-level units furthered prevention efforts by strengthening local partnerships with advocacy groups, first responder and law enforcement professionals while also targeting education and prevention programs throughout the military and civilian communities. Some examples include:

- Partnering with local civilian Sexual Assault Response Team (SART) and local coalitions to develop a SART Cooperative Working agreement bringing together law enforcement, victim service providers, medical and legal resources to work towards improving services and awareness of issues that can reduce risk.
- Partnering with the Department of Justice Office for Victims of Crime to facilitate a training event which included the topic “Strengthening Military-Civilian Community Partnerships to Respond to Sexual Assault. This topic is a broader Department of Defense and Department of Justice initiative. Approximately 40 community and law enforcement victim service providers learned how to better serve both family members and active duty military sexual assault victims.
- A sexual assault survivor and motivational speaker discussed the relationship between alcohol and sexual assault while another speaker from The Date Safe Project addressed overseas high school students at Department of Defense Schools and young Airmen about communication of respect in social relationships.

- Training with local law enforcement/advocacy groups who educated military legal, law enforcement and leadership on awareness of drug-facilitated sexual assaults, self-defense, the realities of sexual assault as it pertains to offender behavior and societal perception of the crime and how to maintain healthy environments.
- Partnering with local rape crisis centers fostering collaborative efforts for victim support and sharing of training resources to include prevention programs. Additionally, Air Force Reserve command focused on partnering with state sexual assault coalitions to expand resource availability for geographically separated reserve sexual assault victims.
- Working with TESSA (Trust, Education, Safety, Support, and Action), a multi-faceted agency that includes a confidential Safe house, Victim Advocacy, Counseling and Children's Programs, a 24/7 Crisis Line, and Community Outreach and Education programs in Colorado Springs, the Air Force Academy presented a "Basic Victimology" course for all Academy Cadet Wing permanent party, Air Officer Commanders, and squadron military trainers. Activities provided front-line supervision with additional tools and experience to use when mentoring and talking to cadets about sexual assault prevention and response.

1.9 Describe your efforts to establish and implement policies that prevent individuals convicted of a Federal or State offense of rape, sexual abuse, sexual assault, incest, or other sexual offenses, from being provided a waiver for commissioning or enlistment in the Armed Forces.

The Air Force has not granted waivers for these offenses. Air Force Policy Document 36-60, SAPR Program, states that it is Air Force policy to prohibit the enlistment or commissioning of personnel in the active duty Air Force, Air National Guard or Air Force Reserve components when the person has a qualifying conviction for a crime of sexual assault. "Qualifying conviction" is defined as "a State or Federal conviction for a felony crime of sexual assault and any general or special court-martial conviction for a Uniform Code of Military Justice offense which otherwise meets the elements of a crime of sexual assault, even though not classified as a felony or misdemeanor." Sexual assault, for purposes of this policy, is defined as: "intentional sexual contact, characterized by use of force, physical threat or abuse of authority or when the victim does not or cannot consent. It includes rape, nonconsensual sodomy, indecent assault, or attempts to commit these acts."

1.10 Describe your plans for Fiscal Year 2014 that pertain to delivering consistent and effective prevention methods and programs, including how these efforts will help your Service plan, resource, and make progress in your SAPR program.

During Fiscal Year 2014, the Air Force SAPR Office will complete its transformation within the Air Staff to become an independent 32-person office led by a general officer reporting to the Vice Chief of Staff. In addition, the Air Force will complete a full review of its training programs to help ensure that they are compliant with Department of Defense requirements and are consistent with Air Force strategic goals.

Once full operating capability has been reached, the Air Force SAPR Office will be composed of a Policy Division and an Operations, Research and Analysis Division. The Policy Division will be comprised of subject matter experts from the legal, investigative, medical, legislative, and SAPR communities. The role of the Policy Division is to develop and review SAPR strategy and guidance in support of leadership objectives. The Operations, Research and Analysis Division will oversee the execution of SAPR programs, assess their effectiveness and investigate innovative ways to improve SAPR program effectiveness.

The first Air Force updates made to the SAPR training program for Airmen were focused on the annual refresher training program delivered via SAPR Stand-Down Days. These changes provided the swiftest avenue to bring information to all Airmen. In keeping with the Air Force strategy, the themes of “victims come forward,” “perpetrators are neutralized,” and “transforming the Air Force Climate” will be stressed during the two SAPR “Stand-Down” Days scheduled for Fiscal Year 2014. The spring “Stand-Down” Day will focus on presenting research about offender dynamics and grooming. Understanding how offenders operate, Airmen will learn what to watch out for, when to intervene and why victim support is every Airman's mission. The fall “Stand-Down” Day will focus on the neurobiology of trauma and victim empathy. The Air Force will help ensure all Airmen receive about reactions to trauma, which in turn, will allow them to better support victims and encourage them to seek assistance when needed. These “Stand-Down” Days will be facilitated by local base level leaders using a concept of operations developed by the Headquarters SAPR Office.

A new, week-long Basic Military Training Capstone course will incorporate Sexual Assault Prevention and Response topics in a discussion based learning experience. After the Capstone course, every new Airman will be able to distinguish the difference between risk reduction and prevention and be comfortable openly talking about sexual assault and their role in prevention.

All levels of professional military education are being reviewed by the Air Force SAPR Office with the intent to standardize training across the force. Training will be centered on evidenced-based materials that are well-researched and proven to be effective. Standardizing all materials will help ensure a consistent message and approach in the field. All training will incorporate adult learning theory which allows for personalized learning. Presentations will encourage discussion, create deeper understanding and ignite action.

All SAPR training will incorporate the core competencies provided by the Department of Defense SAPR Office. Airmen will be able to explain the nature of sexual assault in the military environment using scenario-based, real-life situations to demonstrate the entire cycle of prevention, reporting, response, and accountability procedures. Airmen will be able to articulate their personal interest and commitment to the issue of prevention and response. The Air Force SAPR Office will partner with prevention specialists and organizations such as The University of North Carolina, the University of New Hampshire and the End Violence Against Women in the civilian community to help ensure the use of appropriate and evidence-based prevention practices.

Assessment has become a critical part of the Air Force SAPR program and each training event will, therefore, use feedback and/or assessment to help ensure effective and consistent messaging. Some of the other events or products that the SAPR office intends to lead, sponsor or develop in Fiscal Year 2014 include a Chief of Staff of the Air Force SAPR Leadership Summit, a day-long Three-Star General SAPR discussion; monthly SAPR Council meetings, a Judge Advocate General's Corps SAPR Summit, Sexual Assault Awareness Month activities, Informational Displays, and the publication of a revised Commanders Guide.

The SARC's course has been extended to an eight-day course to allow for more in-depth knowledge to arm SAPR personnel to conduct their duties. The course was developed by experienced SARCs based on recommendations for a course review by the Department of Defense SAPR Office. The updated training will include hands-on exercises, role playing and presentation of job specific knowledge. The Air Force SAPR Office intends to conduct a pilot application of the revised SARC course in January 2014. Future victim advocate training conducted at Air Force installations will be based on this course.

Finally, Air Force SAPR interactions with Airmen will be developed to change the culture regarding sexual assault. The Air Force will continue educating Airmen that there is a difference between prevention and risk reduction, changing attitudes regarding acceptable versus unacceptable behavior, and convincing leaders and bystanders to intervene early and appropriately. These concepts will be key elements of the modifications to Air Force training programs. In addition, the Air Force will make healthy command climates an important element of each commander's performance evaluation.

2. LOE 2—Investigation—The objective of investigation is to “achieve high competence in the investigation of sexual assault.”

2.1 Summarize your Service or Component's efforts to achieve the Investigation Endstate: “investigative resources yield timely and accurate results.”

AFOSI field units use a Sexual Assault Investigative Plan Worksheet and Sufficiency Assessment Tool to develop written investigative plans. The tool facilitates the required initial and periodic collaboration between agents and military justice attorneys, as it integrates legal sufficiency (Articles 120, 125 and 80 elements of proof) with investigative sufficiency. Also, each staff at AFOSI's seven intermediate headquarters conducts 100 percent reviews of sexual assault investigations conducted by its subordinate field units. In turn, Headquarters AFOSI randomly selects and reviews 10-15% of all sexual assault investigations closed each month. These reviews focus on ensuring sexual assault cases are of high quality. Cases determined to have deficiencies are returned for additional investigative work. Headquarters AFOSI's random case review results are briefed monthly to senior AFOSI leaders, including the AFOSI region commanders responsible for field investigations. AFOSI senior leaders receive regular data pertaining to the timeliness of investigations. Case assessment information, together with timeliness data, helps AFOSI commanders maintain the necessary oversight needed to help ensure high quality, timely investigations.

2.2 Describe your Service or Component's implementation plan for the establishment of a Special Victim Capability (SVC), comprised of specially trained investigators, judge advocates, administrative paralegal support, and victim-witness assistance personnel.

Sexual Assault Investigators

AFOSI and representatives of The Judge Advocate General have participated in working groups led by Department of Defense Inspector General to develop Department of Defense policy and procedures for the implementation of a Special Victim Capability by the Military Criminal Investigation Organizations. Meanwhile, AFOSI and The Judge Advocate General have established a policy of early and frequent collaboration on major criminal cases, including sexual assault, domestic violence and child abuse. The Secretary of the Air Force approved the hiring of 24 additional civilian special agents to investigate sexual offenses. These 24 Sexual Assault investigators have all received training specifically tailored to the investigation of sexual assault allegations and have been stationed at locations with high sexual offense caseloads. They serve as AFOSI's primary Special Victim Capability investigators and sexual assault investigation subject-matter experts. To the greatest extent possible, these investigators are the lead agents on sexual assault investigations within their units. All specially designated Sexual Assault Investigators are required to attend advanced sexual assault investigations training designated by Headquarters AFOSI within 180 days of assuming their duties.

One of the 24 Sexual Assault Investigator billets has been designated as the AFOSI Sexual Assault Investigation and Operations Consultant and is located at AFOSI 2 Field Investigations Squadron, Joint Base Andrews, Maryland. The individual assigned to this billet is available to provide all AFOSI units with guidance on sexual assault investigation tools, techniques, and best practices. This agent also serves as the command's point of contact for special victim capabilities and services and works closely with the Air Force Judge Advocate's Special Victims Unit Chief of Policy and Coordination. This agent may review recently opened, high-interest sexual assault cases to determine whether the owning unit's investigative plan is sufficiently scoped to address all pertinent aspects of the allegation. The agent may also provide detailed advice and on-scene assistance for particularly complicated cases (e.g., those with serial offenders) or especially serious sexual assault allegations. AFOSI has other operational consultants who assist field agents in conducting violent crime investigations, to include sexual assault cases; but the Sexual Assault operational consultant serves as the primary AFOSI subject-matter expert for sexual offenses and focuses his or her field assistance on those investigative activities most likely to result in probative information or evidence for these sexual cases.

Another Sexual Assault Investigator is assigned to the Air Force Special Investigations Academy, Federal Law Enforcement Training Center, and provides both basic and advanced sexual assault investigations training to AFOSI and judge advocate personnel. The remaining 22 Sexual Assault Investigators are currently assigned to 18 different locations, including three sites outside the continental United States. The locations are adjusted as needed, based upon recent sexual assault case loads. Sexual Assault Investigators are supported by specialists (psychologists, forensic science consultants, polygraph examiners, criminal analysts, technical services, etc.) assigned to various AFOSI specialty centers throughout the world.

All AFOSI special agents received instruction on the sexual assault investigations training requirements set forth in Department of Defense Instruction 6495.02, Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) Program Procedures, and Department of Defense Instruction 5505.18, Investigation of Adult Sexual Assault in the Department of Defense. In addition, AFOSI established a new Sexual Crimes Investigations Training Program in August 2012 to train agents in advanced sexual assault investigation topics and techniques. To be certified as a Sexual Assault Investigator, AFOSI special agents received advanced sexual assault investigation instruction during the Sexual Crimes Investigations Training Program. The program is an eight-day, 64-hour course designed to provide advanced specialized training for criminal investigators and prosecutors. The advanced topics taught at the program included cognitive bias, cognitive interviewing, topics on better understanding and treatment of victims of sexual assault, advanced topics on predatory behaviors of sexual assault perpetrators, advanced crime scene processing, special investigative techniques, domestic violence, and other topics. Investigators meeting the Sexual Crimes Investigations Training Program training requirements will be identified in the Air Force personnel system as having a Special Experience Identifier designated for Special Victim Capability. The extensive curriculum is preparing for evaluation to receive Federal Law Enforcement Training Accreditation.

Sexual Crimes Investigations Training Program attendees included AFOSI special agents and Air Force prosecutors. Each class consists of 24 students (18 special agents and six attorneys). The intermixing of AFOSI agents and judge advocates fostered collaboration, enabled students to discuss Air Force-specific policies, procedures and challenges throughout the course, and was critical to building a Special Victim Capability across the Air Force. As of the end of Fiscal Year 2013, four iterations of the program have been held with 72 AFOSI special agents and 24 Air Force judge advocates graduating from the program. Three iterations of the program are planned for Fiscal Year 2014.

An AFOSI Operational Psychologist provided instruction to each Sexual Crimes Investigations Training Program class on the cognitive interview technique, designed to empower victims and improve their ability to provide detailed information. This technique was developed by Dr. Ronald Fisher, a Professor of Psychology at Florida International University, and is backed by years of peer-reviewed scientific research. The Federal Law Enforcement Training Center is planning to incorporate cognitive interviewing into the entry-level instruction they provide federal law enforcement officials on interviewing. All incoming agents must graduate from the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center in order to receive their AFOSI Agent badge and credentials. AFOSI is also teaching this technique in several of its advanced criminal investigations courses and currently has more than 100 agents trained.

Additionally, AFOSI supervisory special agents attend the Advanced General Criminal Investigation Course. This course was designed as a train-the-trainer course geared towards Superintendents and Criminal Investigations Branch Chiefs who, as local installation leaders, will train personnel under their supervision. This advanced training incorporates the eight essential task requirements identified in Department of Defense Instruction 6495.02, and includes the participation of judge advocates, forensic scientists, and clinical psychologists, who serve as course instructors.

Special Victims Unit Senior Trial Counsel

All Air Force judge advocates receive significant trial advocacy training and preparatory moot court experience during the Judge Advocate (JA) Staff Officer Course, the initial training course to become judge advocates. To become certified as trial and defense counsel, judge advocates must graduate from the course, serve effectively as trial or assistant trial counsel at courts-martial, and be recommended for certification by his or her supervisory Staff Judge Advocate and by a military judge.

Experienced trial counsel are selected to serve as Senior Trial Counsel as expert prosecutors who specialize in prosecuting complex cases. These counsel typically serve in this position for a three-year period in which their responsibilities entail assisting local counsel with reviewing evidence and drafting charges, consulting with investigators, and serving as lead counsel in court. There are currently 16 Senior Trial Counsel. Of these 16, a team of 10 are part of the Special Victims Unit, specializing in the prosecution of particularly complex cases including sexual assault, crimes against children, and homicides. Two of these attorneys serve additional roles. One acts as a liaison to the Defense Computer Forensics Laboratory, ensuring expeditious analysis of forensic evidence and providing expert consultation to local trial counsel on issues of digital evidence. The other, the Chief of Policy and Coordination, liaises with HQ AFOSI to improve Judge Advocate General-AFOSI teaming at the headquarters and local level; provides expert reach-back capability to local judge advocate offices; and leads training of judge advocates worldwide in all aspects of sexual assault prosecution.

The Chief, Government Trial and Appellate Counsel Division, makes the final decision as to which Senior Trial Counsel will be designated as a member of the Special Victims Unit, taking into account completion of one year as either Senior Trial or Senior Defense Counsel, attendance at two or more advanced litigation-skills-focused courses, specialized training in prosecuting sexual assaults, and demonstrated ability to prosecute a variety of sexual assault and/or complex cases. There is no minimum number/type of cases required to meet this criteria. Abilities considered include mastery of court rules and law, ability to handle expert witnesses, and ability to appropriately support victims.

Integration of AFOSI and Judge Advocate Capabilities

At the case level, investigators and trial counsel work together from the start of the case through completion. Staff Judge Advocates at the installation level develop local procedures with their servicing AFOSI detachment commander to coordinate with agents as early as possible in the investigative stages of a case. AFOSI notifies the legal office when substantive criminal investigations are initiated, and the Staff Judge Advocate designates an attorney along with an investigative support team to provide initial counsel to the AFOSI case agent on the new investigation.

The Staff Judge Advocate designates an investigative support team as early as practicable in the investigative process. The team is composed of attorneys, and paralegals when appropriate, who work with the AFOSI case agent during the investigation to provide legal support.

AFOSI briefs the judge advocate on initial investigative steps. The collaborative process continues during the development of the Investigative Plan and the investigative support team works with the AFOSI case agent in identifying potential criminal offenses for investigation, comparing evidence in the case with the elements of proof for a given offense. The judge advocate coordinates with the AFOSI case agent on subject interviews.

As appropriate, investigative support team members or judge advocate staff members attend AFOSI case review meetings and AFOSI personnel attend relevant judge advocate military justice meetings.

The investigative support team reviews and updates the initial proof analysis crafted by trial counsel to address the elements, evidence, anticipated objections, and potential defenses for each specification. The judge advocate assigned to the team will discuss the results of the analysis with AFOSI.

Within 30 days of the conclusion of trial, the SJA and members of the trial team conduct case reviews with AFOSI to review case lessons learned. The previously mentioned AFOSI Sexual Assault IOC and the Judge Advocate General's Corps Special Victims Unit Chief of Policy and Coordination collaborate to help ensure productive integration between AFOSI and judge advocate personnel working at the case level.

Paralegal Support Personnel

Air Force Special Victim Capability paralegal support personnel will be selected from assigned legal personnel by the local Staff Judge Advocate. Special Victim Capability paralegals provide support to Special Victim Units and trial counsel in all sexual assault cases arising in their jurisdiction. Paralegals selected for Special Victim Capability duties will have completed the Paralegal Apprenticeship Course and/or Paralegal Craftsman Course at the Air Force Judge Advocate General's School. These intensive 9- to 11-week courses are designed to prepare paralegals to provide general military justice support, while providing additional training in legal research and writing, as well as witness interviewing skills. In addition to these courses' training requirements, paralegals who are selected to serve as a Noncommissioned Officer in Charge of a Military Justice section in a base legal office will also attend the Military Justice Administration Course offered at The Judge Advocate General's School. The Military Justice Administration Course provides training in the management of base legal offices' military justice sections to judge advocates and paralegals that are currently or soon will be the Chief of Military Justice (attorney) or the Noncommissioned Officer in Charge of Military Justice (paralegal). Students learn to manage a base-level military justice section, including how to administratively process a case from the initial stages of the investigation through the post-trial phase.

Paralegals may also receive distance education and on-the-job training on topics such as post-traumatic stress disorder, counterintuitive behavior, sex offender registration, expedited transfer, Department of Defense Victim Service Standards, rights of crime victims, victim support agencies, the SAPR program, and SARC and SAPR victim advocate privileges. Paralegals assigned to Special Victim Capability positions will be capable of providing a full spectrum of pretrial and trial support for the Special Victims Unit Senior Trial Counsel, including interviewing witnesses, preparing courts-martial documents, drafting charges and specifications, managing military justice actions, providing technical and administrative support, and recording and transcribing judicial and administrative proceedings and investigations, as required. Paralegals will also facilitate witness and court member appearance, and coordinate and provide logistical support for all legal proceedings and hearings.

Victim and Witness Assistance Program Personnel

Each base legal office has a Victim and Witness Assistance Program coordinator and at least one victim/witness liaison appointed to assist victims during the military justice process. The victim liaison assigned to the victim in each particular case will be a member of the Special Victims Unit for purposes of that case. Currently judge advocates and paralegals receive Victim and Witness Assistance Program training through the respective military justice courses they attend.

In Fiscal Year 2013, The Air Force Judge Advocate General's School began developing a Victim and Witness Assistance Program distance education course which will be implemented in Fiscal Year 2014. This five-week course focuses on teaching victim liaisons how to discuss the military justice process with victims, enhance their understanding of the neurobiology of trauma and counterintuitive behavior, and help ensure every victim liaison is familiar with Air Force and civilian resources available to victims of crime. The Victim and Witness Assistance Program distance education course will be fielded multiple times a year, enhancing the installation-level training and reach-back support for judge advocates and paralegals who serve as victim liaisons in base legal offices so that they will be prepared to support victims throughout the military justice process and work with SAPR and Family Advocacy Program personnel and Special Victims' Counsel to help ensure victims have access to the support and resources they need to get through the military justice process and work towards recovery.

Training, Selection, and Certification Standards

For attorneys, the Air Force litigation training roadmap includes foundational courses offered by The Air Force Judge Advocate General's School, which include: the Judge Advocate Staff Officer Course, the Trial and Defense Advocacy Course, and the Advanced Trial Advocacy Course. The Air Force Judge Advocate General's School implemented the Advanced Sexual Assault Litigation Course in 2013, incorporating course material focused on sexual assault, domestic violence, and child abuse. All Special Victim Unit Senior Trial Counsel were required to attend this course annually. The Air Force Judge Advocate General's School also provided continuing litigation training through its Training by Reservists in Advocacy and Litigation Skills program which visits multiple Air Force legal offices each year, and trial advocacy courses, which are held at regional locations so that Judge Advocate General Corps personnel may receive updated training. In order to foster a collaborative approach to Special Victims Capability investigations and prosecutions, judge advocates are attending Sexual Crimes Investigations Training Program jointly with AFOSI agents at Federal Law Enforcement Training Center. Agents and judge advocates also jointly attend the Advanced Sexual Assault Litigation Course at The Air Force Judge Advocate General's School. In Fiscal Year 2013, nearly 30 judge advocates attended three Sexual Crimes Investigations Training Program courses and six AFOSI agents attended the first iteration of Advanced Sexual Assault Litigation Course.

In addition to the courses discussed above, trial counsel and Senior Trial Counsel may also take advantage of the advanced training courses offered by the other Military Departments and interagency partners. Examples include the Army's Sexual Assault Investigations and Prosecution Course, Army Military Police Special Victims Unit Investigations Course, Prosecuting Complex Cases, Air Force Advanced Trial Advocacy Course, Air Force's Intermediate and Advanced Sexual Assault Litigation Courses and the National District Attorney's Association Prosecution of Sexual Assault Course. These courses hone the skill sets of both trial counsel and AFOSI investigators while facilitating effective partnership in investigating and prosecuting special victim cases.

2.3 Describe your efforts to enhance training and/or plans for enhanced training for investigators of sexual violence. Include your measures of effectiveness or means by which you are measuring enhancements.

In 2012, AFOSI established a new Sexual Crimes Investigations Training Program, specifically to train Air Force investigators and attorneys in advanced sexual assault investigation topics and techniques, discussed in more detail above. Advanced topics at the course include those discussed above, as well as advanced topics on predatory behaviors of some sexual assault perpetrators, advanced crime scene processing, special investigative techniques, domestic violence, and other related areas. Four iterations of the course have been held (one in 2012 and three in 2013) with 72 AFOSI special agents and 24 Air Force judge advocates graduating from the program. Three iterations of course are planned to be held in Fiscal Year 2014.

AFOSI uses a multi-pronged approach to measure the effectiveness of training. Staff members at the Air Force Special Investigations Academy use both written and practical exams to test students' grasp of the material during training and hand out end-of-course critiques. They also solicit feedback from students' supervisors six months after the course ends on the effect training has had on each student's ability to conduct investigations. Additionally, Headquarters AFOSI reviews ten percent of the investigations closed each month and reports whether or not they meet/exceed AFOSI's published standards. Issues identified during case reviews are resolved with direct feedback to the field through a variety of venues and through changes to AFOSI policy and training, as appropriate.

2.4 Describe your Service's efforts to participate in Defense Enterprise Working Group of Military Criminal Investigation Organizations and Defense Criminal Investigative Services to assess and validate joint investigative technology, best practices, and resource efficiencies benchmarked against external law enforcement agencies.

The AFOSI Forensics Program Manager is the chair of the requirements working Group for some technology initiatives being developed at the Department of Defense level, as well as an active member of the Defense Forensic Enterprise Research, Development, Test and Evaluation working groups. AFOSI has also partnered with the FBI to look at possible solutions to technology requirements within the Department of Defense.

2.5 Describe your Military Criminal Investigative Organization's (MCIO) progress on establishment of a Working Group to review initial baseline, periodic refresher, and advanced sexual assault investigation training in order to establish common criteria, measures of effectiveness, and leverage training resources and expertise. If already in progress or completed, briefly describe recommendations, results, and ongoing efforts.

Senior headquarters staff from AFOSI, USACID and NCIS held several working group sessions in 2013 to assess MCIO baseline, periodic refresher and advanced sexual assault training. The working group is also assessing the extent to which training resources and expertise is being appropriately cross-utilized in advanced training. This working group was established in response to a recommendation in Department of Defense Inspector General Report 2013-043, pertaining to "Evaluation of the Military Criminal Investigative Organizations' Sexual Assault Investigation Training." The working group anticipates completing its assessment in early 2014.

2.6 Describe and provide documentation of your Service or Component's implementation of policy for retention of sexual assault documentation (e.g. DD Forms 2910 and 2911). Documentation should be included as an appendix.

The Air Force is rewriting AF Instruction 36-6001, SAPR Program, requiring retention of DD Forms 2910 and 2911 for 50 years in both restricted and unrestricted cases. AFOSI has published policy requiring retention of DD Forms 2910 and 2911 in AFOSI investigative case files and the retention of those files for 50 years. Specifically, AFOSIMAN 71-122, Volume 1, paragraph 4.3.3.9. mandates that agents "file hardcopies of the DD Form 2910 and DD Form 2911 in the AF Form 3986 of the case file, and attach electronic copies of the DD Forms 2910 and 2911 in I2MS." I2MS is AFOSI's electronic investigative information management system. In addition, AFOSI Manual 71-121, paragraph 3.1.9.7 directs "all adult sexual assault investigative reports will be retained for a period of 50 years."

2.7 Describe your efforts to review and implement policies and procedures that ensure all Unrestricted Reports of sexual assault (and attempts) against adults will be immediately reported to the MCIO, regardless of the severity of the allegation.

AFOSI investigates all allegations of rape, sexual assault, aggravated sexual contact, abusive sexual contact, forcible sodomy, and attempts to commit any of these offenses. Under Air Force Instruction 36-6001, para. 6.1.1, commanders notified of a sexual assault must take immediate steps to notify AFOSI or the appropriate criminal investigative agency. Paragraph 2.12 of the Air Force Instruction states that any Air Force military member or civilian employee (other than those authorized to receive confidential communications) who receives a report of a sexual assault incident about a subordinate in the individual's supervisory chain, shall, "as soon as possible, report the matter to the AFOSI." A violation of this provision may be punishable under the Uniform Code of Military Justice (Article 92, failure to obey a lawful order) for military members or by administrative disciplinary action for civilian members.

Per Air Force Instruction 71-101, Volume 1, paragraph 1.5, "Commanders/Directors at all levels shall ensure that criminal allegations or suspected criminal allegations involving persons affiliated with the Department of Defense or any property or programs under their control or authority are referred to the appropriate Military Criminal Investigative Organization or law enforcement organization. Action authorities, or designees, will not order or permit any type of commander directed investigation or inquiry when there is an ongoing AFOSI investigation without coordinating with AFOSI and the servicing Staff Judge Advocate."

2.8 Describe efforts, policies, and/or programmatic changes undertaken to improve Service member confidence and/or victim participation in the investigative and military justice process, as well as how you are addressing the number of victims declining to participate. Include rate of conversion from Restricted to Unrestricted reporting.

AFOSI continued its efforts to improve its Sexual Crimes Investigations Training Program Course. The course curriculum was specifically developed to improve how investigators work with victims and, in turn, the overall quality of investigative products. Investigators receive training to help them better appreciate the challenges victims face in reporting sexual assaults; better understand how memory and recall are affected by trauma; and better enable them to appreciate how their own cognitive biases affect how they receive, process and integrate information into their case assessments and investigative theories. Additionally, investigators received both classroom and practical training in the use of cognitive interviewing, an interviewing technique proven through peer-reviewed research to result in a significant increase in both the quantity and quality of information received from victims and witnesses. Cognitive interviewing, a more open and less direct style of eliciting information, helps victims feel less pressured and more at ease in providing their recollection of events related to the criminal event.

In January, 2013, the Air Force established the federal government's first, large-scale Special Victims' Counsel program to provide victims of sexual assault with independent, military attorneys to represent them through all aspects of their case. The establishment of the Special Victims' Counsel program has dramatically increased the support for Airmen who have been impacted by the crime of sexual assault. At the end of Fiscal Year 2013, of those Airmen who have been represented by Special Victims' Counsel whose cases have closed, 91% were "extremely satisfied" with the advice and support the Special Victims' Counsel provided during the Article 32 hearing and court-martial (the other 9% were satisfied) and 98% would recommend other victims request a Special Victims' Counsel. More information about the Special Victims' Counsel program is at section 3.3.

The Fiscal Year 2013 rate of conversion is 15.6%, which is an 1.1% more than the Fiscal Year 2012 rate of 14.5%.

2.9 Describe your plans for Fiscal Year 2014 that pertain to the achievement of high competence in the investigation of sexual assault.

In Fiscal Year 2014, AFOSI will continue to use two improvement processes initiated in 2012: random quality case reviews and advanced sexual assault training.

In 2012, AFOSI started mandatory intermediate level (AFOSI Region) quality case reviews of all sexual assault investigations. Headquarters AFOSI also initiated a ten-percent random case review of recently completed sexual assault investigations. The Headquarters AFOSI case review results are reported to senior Headquarters AFOSI and field leaders on a monthly basis. These quality case review processes emphasize the importance of investigative sufficiency. AFOSI leadership will continue random case reviews in 2014.

AFOSI will also continue to provide advanced sexual assault training through its Sexual Crimes Investigation Training Program discussed in section 2.3, above. In Fiscal Year 2014, AFOSI will hold three additional courses that will train 54 additional agents and 18 additional military prosecutors. The course has received excellent end-of-course reviews and is one of AFOSI's most sought-after in-residence training courses.

The Department of Defense Inspector General has already announced its intention to conduct another comprehensive assessment in Fiscal Year 2014 of sexual assault cases closed in 2013. Comparison of the Fiscal Year 2014 assessment with Department of Defense Inspector General's 2012 assessment will allow us to see if progress has been made in improving case quality.

3. LOE 3—Accountability—The objective of accountability is to “achieve high competence in holding offenders appropriately accountable.”

3.1 Summarize your Service or Component's efforts to achieve the Accountability Endstate: “perpetrators are held appropriately accountable.”

The Air Force took a number of steps in Fiscal Year 2013 to enhance efforts to hold perpetrators accountable.

On May 16, 2013, Change 1 to Air Force Instruction 71-101, Volume 1, Special Investigations, was published. This change made the Air Force Office of Special Investigations (AFOSI) the responsible investigative authority for all offenses of adult sexual assault. Prior to this, sexual assault allegations were divided between AFOSI and Security Forces investigators. Although the Security Forces investigators are professional and effective criminal investigators, the consolidation of sexual assault investigations under AFOSI will facilitate greater information sharing and expertise, yielding thorough, accurate, and expert investigations. High-quality investigations are essential to successful prosecutions and administrative actions, which facilitate holding perpetrators accountable.

On June 17, 2013, the acting Secretary of the Air Force directed that – in all cases involving rape under Article 120(a) of the Uniform Code of Military Justice, sexual assault (Article 120(b)), forcible sodomy (Article 125) and attempts to commit those offenses (Article 80) – the special court-martial convening authority would be required to provide the general court-martial convening authority (in the grade of brigadier general or higher) written notice of the initial disposition action taken within 30 days of taking such action. This notification increases the visibility of actions taken on sexual assault offenses by ensuring the general court-martial convening authorities are notified of the initial disposition of these cases by their subordinate commanders. This additional level of oversight contributes to holding perpetrators appropriately accountable.

In addition to the foregoing, the acting Secretary of the Air Force also directed on June 17, 2013, that AFOSI may not close out investigative files in cases of sexual assault until the general court-martial convening authority has signed a written report of command action for those cases. This additional requirement ensures AFOSI investigations are not inadvertently or prematurely closed. The requirement also creates a feedback mechanism whereby AFOSI is notified of the command action taken in each case. This mechanism facilitates the tracking of cases from investigation to resolution rather than having portions of cases worked by discrete offices.

As discussed above, the Air Force initiated implementation of a robust special victim's capability, which includes enhanced litigation and investigation training. In addition to this training, the Air Force has designated Special Victims Unit Senior Trial Counsel and specially trained Sexual Assault Investigators. The integration of these counsel and investigators help ensure high-quality investigations and prosecutions of perpetrators.

The Air Force embarked on an effort to publish sexual assault convictions to help ensure that the conclusions of perpetrators' cases are known to offenders' units, as well as the larger Air Force population. The Air Force synopsis cases resulting in conviction, providing a short overview of the cases and the result at trial. The synopses further identify the convicted perpetrator by name and base of assignment. These results were published on the Air Force's Judge Advocate General's website, and were publicly available. The Air Force partnered with Air Force Times in which Air Force Times agreed to publish the case synopses in both print and electronic formats. The first such publication is scheduled for early Fiscal Year 2014.

The Air Force has also adopted an aggressive administrative discharge policy, ensuring the commencement of discharge proceedings against any Airman found to have committed a sexual assault. Section 572 of the Fiscal Year 2013 National Defense Authorization Act requires discharge processing for anyone convicted of – but did not receive a punitive discharge for – rape under Article 120(a) of the Uniform Code of Military Justice, sexual assault (Article 120(b)), forcible sodomy (Article 125) and attempts to commit those offenses (Article 80). On July 2, 2013, the Air Force adopted a substantially broader and more stringent policy than required by the National Defense Authorization Act by publishing Interim Change 7 to both Air Force Instruction 36-3206, Administrative Discharge Procedures for Commissioned Officers, and Air Force Instruction 36-3208, Administrative Separation of Airmen. These instructions now require mandatory discharge processing for any Airman who commits a sexual-assault type offense, regardless of whether that person was tried by court-martial. Thus, an administrative action for a sexual-assault type offense will trigger the automatic discharge processing. Moreover, the range of offenses mandating administrative discharge processing is much broader than the four Uniform Code of Military Justice provisions cited in the National Defense Authorization Act. The Air Force Instruction provisions instead reach members who have committed the “touching” offenses of aggravated sexual contact and abusive sexual contact, in addition to the provisions listed in the National Defense Authorization Act. The discharge process is discussed in greater detail, below.

3.2 Describe your efforts to enhance training and/or plans for enhanced SAPR training for attorneys and military judges. Include your efforts to monitor training requirements to ensure the optimal number receive enhanced SAPR training and your measures of effectiveness.

Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Program Procedures are governed by Department of Defense Instruction 6495.02, SAPR Program Procedures, which includes training requirements in four categories that apply to judge advocates: 1) annual training that is mandatory for all service members; 2) responder training that is required for judge advocates and Victim And Witness Assistance Program personnel; and 3) judge advocate training for judge advocates who are responsible for advising commanders on the investigation or disposition of, or who prosecute or defend, sexual assault cases; and 4) legal assistance attorney training to help ensure judge advocates have the capability to provide legal assistance to sexual assault victims.

Annual training is completed at the installation level under training programs established through the Air Force SAPR Office and installation SARCs. The Air Force Judge Advocate Corps has completed a training module that combines the requirements of responder training, judge advocate training, and legal assistance attorney training. A webcast to initially field this training is scheduled for December 11, 2013. Additionally, different Major Commands and installation legal offices are using the expertise and experience of their personnel to help ensure SAPR training requirements are met. All SAPR training requirements are monitored by unit training monitors. Additionally, SAPR training is an inspection item so that installations undergoing inspections pursuant to Article 6 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice are inspected on whether they are fulfilling SAPR training requirements.

All 25 active duty and reserve Air Force trial judges completed live SAPR training in 2013. In April, 2013, the nine newly appointed Air Force trial judges graduated from the Army Judge Advocate General's School's 3-week Judges Course, which contained seminars and training on all aspects of sexual assault litigation. In addition, in Fiscal Year 2014, the Air Force Trial Judiciary will make sexual assault the keynote topic for its 3-day Joint Military Judges Annual Training, which will be attended by judges in all the services.

3.3 Describe your Service's efforts to conduct an assessment of Department of Defense Pilot Program for Special Victims' Counsel. If an assessment has been completed, explain findings and recommendations.

The Air Force, as the first service to implement the Special Victims' Counsel program, proactively initiated a Victim Impact Survey, with feedback from several civilian subject matter experts incorporated into the questions and format, that was fielded on March 20, 2013 in order to measure program effectiveness as a whole. The survey measures whether Special Victims' Counsel are effectively assisting their clients with various military justice matters, including assisting them with understanding the investigative and courts-martial processes, their rights as crime victims, and whether they were able to exercise their rights as crime victims. The survey also measures victims' subjective feelings on whether they felt supported throughout the military justice process. The survey is provided to all sexual assault victims involved in the military justice process, including those represented by a Special Victims' Counsel and those who are not.

Results at the end of Fiscal Year 2013 include:

- 91% "extremely satisfied" with the advice and support Special Victims' Counsel provided during the Article 32 hearing and court-martial;
- 98% would recommend other victims request an Special Victims' Counsel;
- 93% indicated their Special Victims' Counsel advocated effectively on their behalf;
- 95% indicated their Special Victims' Counsel helped them understand the investigation and court-martial processes

The Special Victims' Counsel program provided a report on the first six months of the program's operation to the Department of Defense's General Counsel on September 1, 2013. The report provided an initial review of the Special Victims' Counsel program and included information on: 1) the statutory and policy background on the establishment of the program, 2) demographics of victim-clients represented, 3) structure and resources of the program, 4) training for Special Victims' Counsel, 5) training and outreach efforts Special Victims' Counsel have conducted around the Air Force, 6) feedback from victim-clients, and 7) successes and challenges Special Victims' Counsel have had in carrying out their duties. The report also provided an initial assessment of whether Special Victims' Counsel Program objectives are being met and found based on the feedback in the Victim Impact Surveys that the Special Victims' Counsel program is meeting these objectives of providing independent representation, empowering victims, building and sustaining victim resiliency, and increasing the level of legal assistance provided to victims. The conclusion also pointed out the disparity in demand between victims who sought assistance from the Special Victims' Counsel program and those who sought legal assistance under the Air Force traditional legal assistance program. In its first six months of operation, 489 victims of sexual assault requested Special Victims' Counsel assistance, compared to the 14 victims who sought legal assistance under the Air Force traditional legal assistance program in Fiscal Year 2012.

The report described above was completed by the Special Victims' Counsel program itself. Separately, the Joint Service Committee on Military Justice completed an independent assessment of the Air Force Special Victims' Counsel Program for the General Counsel of the Department of Defense.

3.4 Describe your efforts to expand the availability, sequencing, and scope of commander's legal courses. Include your measures of effectiveness.

Commanders receive legal training at the Wing Commanders Course, Group Commanders Course, Squadron Commanders Course, and from their Staff Judge Advocate and servicing legal office throughout their command time. Further, as officers, these commanders have received various levels of professional military education which include training and discussions of many of the personnel and command issues which they face. These courses include Squadron Officer School as a junior officer, Staff College as a mid-grade officer and War College as a senior officer.

Commanders receive a briefing from a Judge Advocate General's Corps representative during their initial orientation period when they assume command. This is followed by regular training and interactions such as quarterly Status of Discipline meetings. Issues discussed at Status of Discipline meetings, in accordance with Air Force Instruction 51-201, Administration of Military Justice, include courts-martial and nonjudicial punishment processing times, types of offenses, and demographic data for closed cases. The Status of Discipline meetings provide an opportunity for commanders to hear how their fellow commanders handled cases, and it is an opportunity for the Staff Judge Advocate to provide lessons learned and training as necessary.

3.5 Describe your efforts to assess the effectiveness of the policy to elevate initial disposition authority to a Special Court Martial Convening Authority in the grade of O-6 or higher. Provide documentation in the appendix. If assessment complete, briefly describe results and recommendations.

The Air Force requires Special Court-Martial Convening Authorities who serve as initial disposition authorities for sexual assault cases to notify the General Court-Martial Convening Authority, in writing, of the initial disposition decision in such cases within 30 days of the initial disposition. Doing so ensures the General Court-Martial Convening Authority is aware of the actions taken with the command and allows the General Court-Martial Convening Authority to intervene and take jurisdiction over a case if he/she deems it necessary in the interests of justice.

In an April, 2012, memorandum, the Secretary of Defense directed that, effective June 28, 2012, in certain sexual assault cases, the initial disposition authority under the Uniform Code of Military Justice be elevated to commanders who possess at least special court-martial convening authority and who are in the O-6 grade or higher. The Air Force has implemented this directive through education of The Judge Advocate General's Corps and the provision of templates for legal offices. The Air Force cites the April, 2012, memorandum as authority for the elevated initial disposition authority.

In Fiscal Year 2014, the Air Force will seek input from legal offices, SARCs, and commanders in order to do so. Once this feedback has been collected and evaluated, the Air Force will be better able to assess the effectiveness and the impacts of the elevation of initial disposition authority.

3.6 Describe any treatment or rehabilitation programs implemented by your Service or Component for those members who have been convicted of a sexual assault. Include any pertinent referrals such as drug and alcohol counseling, or other types of counseling or intervention.

Members convicted of a sexual assault offense who are sentenced to confinement lengths qualifying for incarceration at larger confinement facilities (e.g., Miramar Naval Confinement Facility or Leavenworth) may receive appropriate counseling and intervention, to include drug and alcohol counseling. While the Air Force does not operate those facilities, it supports them with assigned medical personnel.

3.7 List updates or efforts to update policies requiring the processing for administrative separation of any member convicted of a sexual assault. Include documentation in the appendix.

The Air Force initiated new administrative discharge provisions to enhance efforts to hold perpetrators appropriately accountable. Involuntary discharge proceedings will now be initiated for Air Force members who commit sexual assault (including contact offenses), sexual assault of a child, or attempt to commit these offenses, unless a waiver is granted. If discharge action is warranted, the process must start promptly. Discharge action may be waived only if the commander determines the member meets certain limited retention criteria and the request for a waiver of mandatory discharge processing is approved by the General Court-Martial Convening Authority.

The discharge procedures for officers found in Air Force Instruction 36-3206, Administrative Discharge Procedures for Commissioned Officers, were amended with Interim Change 7 on July 2, 2013. Paragraph 3.3 of this instruction now addresses administrative discharge processing for officers who have committed a sexual assault, without regard to whether or not they were convicted in court of the assault. The discharge procedures for enlisted members are found in Air Force Instruction 36-3208, Administrative Separation of Airmen. This instruction was amended on July 2, 2013 with Interim Change 7, and paragraph 5.55 addresses discharge processing for enlisted members who have committed sexual assault.

Under these instructions, members who commit sexual assault (consisting of rape, sexual assault, aggravated sexual contact, abusive sexual contact, forcible sodomy, or attempts to commit any of those offenses) against an adult or child are subject to administrative discharge processing. When a commander receives information indicating the service member committed an act rendering the service member subject to discharge, the commander will either initiate discharge proceedings or initiate a waiver of the discharge proceedings. In deciding whether or not to recommend a waiver, commanders must give full consideration to the victim's views on retention of the service member, the nature of the offense, all the circumstances surrounding the offense, any matters in extenuation, the member's military record, and the member's potential for future productive service. The commander must also determine that the following specific retention criteria are met before recommending a waiver of discharge processing:

- The conduct surrounding and including the sexual assault is a departure from the member's usual and customary behavior;
- The conduct surrounding and including the sexual assault under all circumstances is not likely to recur;
- The sexual assault did not involve the penetration, however slight, of the vulva or anus or mouth of another by any part of the body or by any object, with an intent to abuse, humiliate, harass, or degrade any person or to arouse or gratify the sexual desire of any person;
- The sexual assault was not committed by:
  - using force causing or likely to cause death or grievous bodily harm to any person,
  - threatening or placing the other person in fear that any person will be subjected to death, grievous bodily harm, or kidnapping,
  - first rendering the other person unconscious, or
  - administering to the other person by force or threat of force, or without the knowledge or consent of the person, a drug, intoxicant, or other similar substance and thereby substantially impairing the ability of the other person to appraise or control conduct;
- The sexual assault was not the result of an abuse of rank, grade, authority or position.
- Under the particular circumstances of the case, the service member's continued presence in the Air Force is consistent with the interest of the Air Force in maintaining proper discipline, good order, leadership and morale.

In addition to the above criteria, the victim's views on retention and the impact on the victim must be considered.

3.8 Describe your plans for Fiscal Year 2014 that pertain to the achievement of high competence in holding offenders appropriately accountable.

During Fiscal Year 2014, the Air Force will conduct several research programs to better understand perpetrators. Collectively, the research will provide data on grooming tactics of perpetrators, their approaches to manipulation and boundary testing, and their methods for selecting victims. The studies will look for patterns among offenders' behaviors and characteristics, as well as prior accusations of sexual assault or other crimes. If these studies identify actionable information, Air Force policies and training will be adjusted to incorporate the study results.

AFOSI plans to continue efforts to improve the quality of its investigative products by conducting random quality reviews of investigations, and by providing high quality basic and advanced training to its investigators.

The Air Force SAPR Office will address nearly every wing commander in the Air Force at the Air Force Chief of Staff's Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Leadership Summit, scheduled for December 11-12, 2013. The purpose of this Summit is not only to reinforce the importance of eradicating sexual assault from the military, but also to address specific concepts, such as commanders' roles in ensuring offenders are held accountable. The Summit will cover such issues as biases and misconceptions that have interfered with Air Force efforts to hold offenders accountable and the connection between sexual harassment and sexual assault. Similarly, the Air Force SAPR Office intends to deliver the same message to The Judge Advocate General's Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Summit, scheduled for December 17-18, 2013.

The Air Force intends to continue publishing synopses of sexual assault convictions both on publicly available websites, as well as in Air Force Times, throughout Fiscal Year 2014, on a monthly basis.

4. LOE 4—Advocacy/Victim Assistance--The objective of advocacy/victim assistance is to “deliver consistent and effective victim support, response, and reporting options.”

4.1 Summarize your Service or Component's efforts to achieve the Advocacy/Victim Assistance Endstate: “Department of Defense provides high quality services and support to instill confidence and trust, strengthen resilience, and inspire victims to report.”

The Air Force delivers high quality services and victim support with a comprehensive approach to its response system. The Air Force ensures its SAPR personnel are properly trained and equipped to provide services to victims, educate commanders and Airmen, and to collect meaningful data about the crime of sexual assault. The SARC course is designed to thoroughly prepare these critical front-line personnel.

In Fiscal Year 2013, the Air Force embarked on a comprehensive validation and revision of its SARC course, which is conducted at Air University's Ira C. Eaker Center for professional Development at Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama. This review incorporated the findings and recommendations in the Department of Defense Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Office report, “Observation of SARC and Victim Advocate Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Training,” published on January 31, 2013. The new course will be fielded in Fiscal Year 2014 and will be expanded from five days to eight days. The new course curriculum is focused on providing students information that specifically relates to their responsibilities as a SARC or full time Sexual Assault Victim Advocate. The new course will create an active learning environment that is based on adult learning theory. Students will process new information and apply new concepts and skills with enhanced interactive role plays, small group discussions, and exercises that allow for application of their learning. SARCs and sexual assault victim advocates will practice completing forms, conducting intakes, completing DSAID entries, and conducting training. Focus will be placed on interpersonal communication, facilitation skills, and instruction by requiring students to create and deliver a presentation for critique by course faculty and fellow students. In addition, the SARC course will include a pre- and post-assessment of the students' knowledge.

The Air Force has seen tremendous success with the Special Victims' Counsel program. The feedback from victims represented by Special Victims' Counsel has shown that Special Victims' Counsels are extremely well received by their clients, with 98% of the clients saying they would recommend Special Victims' Counsel to other victims. By the end of Fiscal Year 2013, 489 Airmen had requested Special Victims' Counsel services. Special Victims' Counsel are highly competent, trained legal professionals that achieved an immediate and substantial victory early in the program when the Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces ruled that victims had the right to be heard through their Special Victims' Counsel, at least with respect to pre-trial evidentiary hearings. Special Victims' Counsel enabled their clients to participate intelligently and effectively in the investigation and prosecution processes with confidence in their decision to make a report. Special Victims' Counsels are not in the installation chain of command, but have direct access to that chain allowing them the opportunity to advocate directly on their client's behalf. The Judge Advocate General of the Air Force issued a memorandum to all Staff Judge Advocates on October 7, 2013, reemphasizing the importance of victims of sexual assault having meaningful access to convening authorities. The memorandum specifically states that "where practical, Staff Judge Advocates and trial counsel should seek to help ensure victims of sexual assault and/or their Special Victims' Counsel are given meaningful opportunities to consult with convening authorities, either in writing, telephonically, or in person, prior to any decision concerning whether or not to prosecute, pursue a disposition by plea, or dismiss charges involving the victim." The visibility and proven professional competence of the Special Victims' Counsel program is designed to inspire victims to report, knowing that they will be supported not only by SAPR personnel, but also through legal representation by a Special Victims' Counsel.

Senior Air Force leaders have employed interactive technology to communicate with Airmen about the importance of preventing sexual assault, maintaining climates of dignity and respect, and holding offenders accountable. On July 16, 2013, the Vice Chief of Staff launched the "Every Airman Counts" initiative. Part of this initiative includes an outward-facing blog in which Airmen and members of the public can both view content about the issue of sexual assault in the military as well as engage in frank, open discussion about these topics. The Air Force purposely adopted a liberal comment policy in which only egregious comments that violate the site's terms of service are rejected (e.g., using profanity, defamation, and so on) in order to facilitate discussion. Senior leaders and SAPR professionals have been able to monitor these discussions to more clearly understand common biases, mindsets, and opinions about sexual assault.

The Vice Chief of Staff has also embarked on an initiative to host "senior leader web chats" between Air Force senior leaders and Airmen in the field. These real-time, two-way broadcasts will use technology that allows senior leaders to both communicate Air Force visions and initiatives to Airmen, but also to take questions from the Airmen. The first of these web chats is planned for early Fiscal Year 2014.

The Air Force Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Office conducted focus groups at 14 bases from July 22 to September 27, 2013, in order to provide an assessment on attitudes and experiences regarding sexual assault in the Air Force. The focus group teams met with more than 1,400 Airmen from multiple rank demographics and all Major Commands. Focus groups were also held with commanders at the installations as well as survivors of sexual assault who agreed to meet with select focus group leaders. About half of the Airmen in the focus groups were volunteers, while the rest were randomly selected and directed to participate. Participants included civilians and Air Force Reservists. The focus groups helped the Air Force understand misconceptions about sexual assault and allowed Airmen to express their thoughts about Air Force climate and leadership. The focus groups provided additional feedback about sexual assault training as well as indicators of best practices regarding sexual assault prevention and awareness at the installation level. Meeting with Airmen face-to-face allowed the Air Force to both demonstrate high-level commitment to this issue and senior-leader empathy for and commitment to victims. These small group discussions allowed the Air Force to learn about challenges victims face to further inform specific initiatives to strengthen their resilience and inspire victims to report.

The Air Force requires forensic examiner training that meets Department of Justice recommendations. Privileged providers and sexual assault nurse examiners are used to perform sexual assault forensic examinations at selected military treatment facilities, typically where 24-hour emergency services are available. In many Air Force locations, civilian facilities and examiners are available and possess the appropriate expertise. If civilian facilities are used, then the Air Force military treatment facilities will complete a memorandum of understanding with that civilian facility. Of the 74 Air Force facilities, 22 provide examiners in-house or use nearby Department of Defense facilities, with the remaining 52 using civilian facilities. One Air Force installation contracts with a specific provider to come onto the installation to perform exams on an as-needed basis. The Air Force has also updated the mental health patient informed consent document to include a specific reference to the patient's right to obtain a second opinion upon receiving certain mental health diagnoses. Finally, the Air Force has established a policy/execution working group to identify and address issues and facilitate information flow to and from military treatment facilities.

The Air Force SAPR Office has partnered with the Air Force Aid Society to provide specific forms of victim support. In Fiscal Year 2013, the Air Force Aid Society agreed to provide financial assistance to ten victims by facilitating travel of family members to support victims, facilitating travel of victims to see their families, replacing items confiscated by investigators (such as phones, laptops, bed linens, and similar items). The Air Force SAPR Office was also able to create a process in which the Air Force Aid Society can provide support to victims through the installation SARC, allowing the victim to maximize their privacy and minimize the dissemination of personally identifying information.

4.2 List the total number of full-time SARC/SAPR victim advocates serving at brigade or equivalent level. If not at 100%, describe your efforts to achieve 100% fill.

Full-time SARCs: 114 (84 are required).

Victim Advocates: 221 (84 are required).

4.3 List the total number SARCs and SAPR victim advocates certified in Fiscal Year 2013. If not at 100%, describe your efforts to achieve 100% certified.

The Air Force has 114 certified SARCs (some are serving in deputy/alternate SARC positions), and 2,306 certified SAPR victim advocates (these include full-time and part-time volunteer victim advocates).

4.4 Describe your efforts to develop victim continuity of care protocol in collaboration with the Department of Veterans Affairs and external Veterans Service Organizations.

Every Airman who is separating or retiring from the Air Force receives a briefing on his or her Veterans Affairs benefits, to specifically include the availability of medical treatment for victims of military sexual trauma.

Air Force SAPR leadership has formed a strong relationship with the Department of Veterans Affairs' National Military Sexual Trauma Team. The team's goal is to help ensure service members who are transitioning out of the military and those who are newly discharged Veterans from the military are aware of Veterans Affairs' services and benefits.

The Air Force Medical Service has Executive Staff Oversight of every Military Treatment Facility responsible for care coordination of service members transitioning out of the military in need of Veterans Affairs' services.

4.5 Describe your efforts to improve the portability and availability of victim services in deployed environments, ensuring continuity of victim care. Include a description of the steps taken during that year to ensure that trained personnel, appropriate supplies, and transportation resources are accessible to deployed units in order to provide an appropriate and timely response in any case of reported sexual assault in a deployed unit, location, or environment.

During Fiscal Year 2013, the Air Force maintained six deployed SARCs, one at each Air Expeditionary Wing (based in Kyrgyzstan, Qatar, United Arab Emirates, Kuwait, and two in Afghanistan). Deployed Air Force SARCs provide a wide array of support to the deployed environment, including data-collection and reporting efforts, such as weekly activity reports, after-action reports, and quarterly statistics. The headquarters holds a monthly teleconference with the SARCs who service the deployed environment in order to provide real-time updates on policy changes and revisions. The deployed-environment SARCs regularly report on trips they make to the Forward Operating Bases in the deployed environment and the ongoing efforts to help ensure that Airmen have access to reporting channels and support services. SAPR Operations continues to use USAFCENT points of contact for administrative issues regarding SARC deployments.

All six of these SARCs, as well as their associated victim advocates, are trained prior to deployment and are credentialed through the National Organization of Victims Assistance. While deployed, personnel are required to complete refresher training and limited victim advocate training. Victim services include medical, mental health, legal, chaplain/spiritual support, Special Victims' Counsel services, and victim advocacy.

During Fiscal Year 2013, the Air Force Medical Service staffed six remote sites in the deployed environment with sexual assault forensic examiners, trained to Department of Justice standards. Stationing examiners in the field both expedites care and minimizes transportation challenges.

In conjunction with the Department of Defense mandated SAPR Stand-Down Day, all six Air Expeditionary Wings met the requirements set by the Secretary of the Air Force, even during ongoing combat operations. The Combined Forces Air Component Commander also created a 15-minute video that illustrated his and the Command Chief's conviction in eradicating sexual assault from Air Force ranks. All six Air Expeditionary Wing commanders mandated all Air Force flight commanders and chiefs to join them in viewing the video. The wing commanders then led group discussions about the material with their Airmen. This video helped ensure deployed Airmen knew when/how to receive SAPR services in theater and how to act as active bystanders. 100% of these wings' populations participated.

All deployed Airmen going into the deployed environment receive pre-deployment training. Airmen deploying within Air Expeditionary Wing confines are met and briefed by the Air Expeditionary Wing SARC. The Airmen are provided with name of the SARC, location of SARC Office and a detailed description of how the SARC ensures care in the AOR. Airmen deploying in support of Joint operations are provided the same information through email and telephone since they are at locations where the Air Force is not the Service lead.

The Air Force has taken first steps to add to services available to Department of Defense civilian employees and their family dependents (18 years and older) and Department of Defense contractors in support of overseas contingency operations who are victims of sexual assault. The policy provides limited emergency care medical services at a medical treatment facility for personnel otherwise not authorized to receive such care. However, all victims of sexual assault in deployed locations are transported to an appropriate evaluation site, evaluated, treated for injuries (if any), and offered SARC and victim advocate assistance, along with the option of a Sexual Assault Forensic Exam as quickly as possible. It is Air Force policy to respond to sexual assault victims not otherwise entitled to care services at a standard equal to that allowed by law in response to any medical emergency care given.

4.6 Describe revised policies and/or procedures developed that allow Reserve Component Service members who are victims of sexual assault while on active duty to remain on active duty status to obtain the treatment and support afforded active duty members. Include documentation in the appendix.

Medical continuation – allowing Reserve Component members to remain on active duty past the normal expiration of Reserve orders – authorizes medical care for members who incur or aggravate an injury in the line of duty, and to provide pay and allowances while they are being evaluated, treated for, or recovering from a service-connected injury. Air Force Instruction 36-2910, Line of Duty Determination, Medical Continuation, and Incapacitation Pay, is in draft and should be finalized by March, 2014. Injuries and illnesses incurred as a result of sexual assault while performing active service or inactive duty training are specifically included as injuries and illnesses qualifying for medical continuation. The draft Air Force Instruction explains that continued medical entitlements beyond initial treatment remain dependent on a line of duty determination as to whether or not the sexual assault incident occurred in an active status or inactive duty training status. If the member is found to have been in the line of duty at the time of the assault, Reserve Component members may be entitled to medical continuation orders for the purpose of military treatment. Members who meet eligibility criteria for medical continuation must volunteer for retention or recall to duty under 10 U.S. Code Sec. 12301(h), Reserve Components Generally, or Title 32, U.S. Code.

4.7 Describe your efforts to enhance sexual assault training for health care providers. Include requirements that ensure training conforms to "A National Protocol for Sexual Assault Medical Forensic Examinations, Adults/Adolescents"; how to handle a Restricted Report; and how to conduct the SAFE exam.

The Air Force Medical Operations Agency partnered with the Air Force SAPR Office and civilian experts to develop a computer-based training with small group discussion questions for mental health staff on sexual assault awareness and treatment. It is scheduled for completion in March, 2014. Training will be focused on increasing sensitivity/knowledge of mental health staff about sexual assault victims, explaining the neurobiology of trauma, and specific treatment considerations for sexual assault victims.

In addition to all other SAPR training and along with all health care personnel, all providers must take SAPR First Responder Training for Health Care Personnel. This training was revised to include updated Department of Defense Instruction requirements and emphasize the Restricted Reporting process. Air Force Instruction 44-102, Medical Care Management, establishes the requirement for provider training in reference to performing sexual assault exams; the training must conform to "A National Protocol for Sexual Assault Medical Forensic Examinations, Adults/Adolescents." Providers performing sexual assault examinations are required to complete refresher training annually and repeat initial training requirements every five years, at a minimum.

To facilitate knowledge and help ensure appropriate guidance is readily available, military treatment facilities providing sexual assault exams must help ensure examiners have access to and are familiar with the guidance found in: U.S. Department of Justice, Office on Violence Against Women, "A National Protocol for Sexual Assault Medical Forensic Examinations, Adults/Adolescents"; Department of Defense Instruction 6495.02, Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) Program Procedures; and Air Force Instruction 36-6001, Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR).

4.8 Describe sexual assault related health care initiatives undertaken by your Service in Fiscal Year 2013. Include mental health treatment programs and follow-up procedures that are gender-responsive, culturally competent, and recovery-oriented.

The Air Force Medical Operations Agency partnered with the Air Force SAPR Office and civilian experts to develop an enhanced computer-based educational module with small group discussion questions for mental health staff on sexual assault awareness and treatment. It is scheduled for completion in March, 2014. Training will focus on increasing sensitivity/knowledge of mental health staff about sexual assault victims, explaining the neurobiology of trauma, and specific treatment considerations for sexual assault victims.

In addition, the Air Force Medical Operations Agency, in partnership with the Air Force SAPR Office, initiated a revision of Air Force Instruction 44-172, Mental Health, provisions regarding the patient informed consent document to clearly inform patients about the option of obtaining a second opinion regarding diagnosis or treatment recommendations (policy already exists in Air Force Instruction 10-203, Duty Limiting Conditions).

Also, the Air Force Surgeon General, in partnership with the Air Force SAPR Office developed a procedure for medical review of mental health recommendations for administrative separations for victims of sexual assault. Once approved by Air Force leadership, guidance will be disseminated; reviews may begin as early as Spring 2014.

4.9 List the number of victims, if any, whose care was hindered due to lack of SAFE kits or timely access to appropriate laboratory testing resources and describe the measures you took to remedy the situation.

In Fiscal Year 2013, the Air Force did not have victims whose care was hindered due to lack of SAFE kits or timely access to appropriate laboratory testing resources.

4.10 List initiatives and programs implemented to reduce the stigma and overcome barriers associated with reporting sexual assault.

A critical component to reducing the stigma and overcoming barriers associated with reporting sexual assault is the establishment of command climates of dignity and respect. The Air Force formed a cross-functional working group to assess methods in which the Air Force could assess the performance of commanders in establishing command climates of dignity and respect, to require commanders to incorporate SAPR prevention and victim care principles in their commands, and to hold those commanders accountable. The working group created proposals which will be adopted in Fiscal Year 2014. The proposals include changing feedback and performance report forms for all Airmen so that their contributions to healthy climates are specifically considered and captured in official records used for promotion and assignment decisions. Moreover, commanders will conduct unit climate assessments within 120 days of taking command, and annually thereafter. The results will be provided to the commander's superior officer, as well as be briefed to the unit members. Finally, an Inspector General Special Interest Item was proposed to specifically address commanders' implementation of prevention and victim care principles.

In order for Airmen to be more comfortable reporting, the Air Force SAPR Office provided instruction at the squadron commander courses in Fiscal Year 2013 through the Major Command SARCs. The focus of the education was to teach squadron commanders how to interact with victims. A large part of the fear of reporting is the shame/stigma. By educating commanders, Air Force leadership should become better equipped to handle reports of sexual assault, to create environments supportive of victims, and to encourage Airmen to report incidents of sexual assault. The instruction is conducted by teams of judge advocates, AFOSI investigators, and SAPR personnel.

The instruction teams teach commanders to recognize their own biases and what command actions can interfere with reporting. The team further addresses the problem of victim-blaming, characteristics of perpetrators, and the impact of sexual assault (as well as the investigative and judicial processes) on victims.

The Air Force has also worked to partner with survivors of sexual assault to produce short videos about their experiences. These videos were posted on the Every Airman Counts blog, discussed above. One purpose of these videos was to highlight the services victims are able to receive by coming forward and reporting their assaults. Similarly, the Air Force has been identifying victims who are willing to speak publicly about their experiences so that they can educate Air Force leaders and Airmen about removing barriers to and the stigma attached to reporting.

Currently the Air Force has three survivor videos and one survivor article posted on the blog. These videos plus the article had 15,304 hits on the day of their release. In the first video, the survivor recounts being raped and shares her experience with a message of empowering other survivors to come forward for the emotional, medical and legal support they need. In the other two videos, the survivors' message is the importance of educating Airmen on sexual assault and how to recognize it. The survivor article was written by an anonymous survivor who communicates the message that recovery services are available through SARCs, no matter how far in the past the assault occurred.

4.11 Describe what measures have been taken by your Service to ensure that Service members are informed in a timely manner of the member's option to request a Military Protective Order (Military Protective Order) from the command of assignment. Include documentation that requires law enforcement agents to document Military Protective Orders in their investigative case files, to include documentation for Reserve Component personnel in title 10 status.

When a service member makes an initial election to make an unrestricted report of sexual assault, Air Force SARCs advise – and the member annotates on the DD Form 2910, Victim Reporting Preference Statement – that, “depending on the facts of [the] case, [the member] may request a Military Protective Order,” and that the member “also [has] the option of requesting a Civilian Protective Order from civilian courts.” If the service member elects to make a restricted report, Air Force SARCs advise – and the member annotates on the DD Form 2910 – that, the member “understand[s] that certain protective actions, such as a Military Protective Order and/or Civilian Protective Order against the offender ... will NOT be available.” Likewise, the Commander's Checklist for Unrestricted Reports included in AFI 36-6001, SAPR Program, Attachment 2, requires the commander to determine if the victim desires or needs a protective order, particularly if the victim and alleged perpetrator are assigned to the same command, unit, duty location, or living quarters.

Air Force judge advocates who serve at the base level work hand-in-hand with commanders and investigators from the initiation of sexual assault cases. The judge advocates explain the utility and limitations of the protective orders to commanders, as well as assist in drafting the orders.

As discussed above, the establishment of Special Victims' Counsel to represent and protect victims and their rights has also enhanced a victim's ability to seek and request a Military Protective Order. Special Victims' Counsels are likewise experienced judge advocates and will discuss whether a Military Protective Order would be advantageous with their clients.

Headquarters Air Force OSI has inserted all Military Protective Order requirements levied on the Military Criminal Investigation Organizations by Department of Defense Instruction 6495.02, SAPR Program Procedures, into the newest re-write of AFOSI Manual 71-121. AFOSI Manual 71-121 is still in review, pending publication. Once published, it will require agents to document Military Protective Orders and Civilian Protective Orders for both active duty personnel and Reserve Component personnel in Title 10 status in their reports of investigation for sexual assault offenses. It will also require agents to inform the local Case Management Group chair and co-chair on the existence of any known Military Protective Orders.

4.12 Describe and provide documentation of your Service or Component's expedited victim transfer request policy, including measures taken to ensure victims are informed in a timely manner of their right to request an expedited transfer. Documentation should be included as an appendix.

When a service member is first electing whether to make an unrestricted or restricted report of sexual assault, Air Force SARCs will advise and victims will annotate on the DD Form 2910 that they understand members making an unrestricted report may request an expedited transfer (temporary or permanent) to a different installation or to a different location on the same installation. Similarly, victims annotate they understand that restricted reporting does not provide this opportunity.

To help ensure Airmen are being properly cared for, the Air Force drafted a policy clarification ahead of the permanent policy revision. The guidance details the steps a SARC, victim advocate, and the requesting commander will take during the expedited transfer process. Included are sample memorandums to be completed, what the victim needs to be counseled on prior to granting the request, timelines that must be followed, alleged offender movement options, use of the Case Management Group for aid in making the decision, and a processing checklist.

4.12.1 Pertaining to temporary and/or permanent local expedited transfers (a different location within their assigned command or installation), provide:

- The number requested - 17
- The number approved as the victim requested - 17
- The number approved different than the victim requested - 0
- The number denied and a summary of why - NA
- The number moved within 30 days of approval - Air Force does not track
- The number moved after 30 days of approval - Air Force does not track

4.12.2 Pertaining to permanent requested expedited transfers (from their assigned command or installation), provide:

- The number requested - 118

- The number approved as the victim requested - 109
- The number approved different than the victim requested - 0
- The number denied and a summary of why – 9
  - Expedited transfers denied were typically denied due to conflicts with other personnel actions. For example, one individual requesting an expedited transfer was pending trial by court-martial. In most cases, however, the requesters were facing a Medical Evaluation Board with the potential for a medical separation. The Air Force SAPR Office is investigating ways to avoid denials of expedited transfer requests based upon personnel processes.
- The number moved within 30 days of approval – Air Force does not track
- The number moved after 30 days of approval – Air Force does not track

The Air Force SAPR Office has identified areas for improvement with respect to tracking the expedited transfer application process. The Air Force will be strengthening data collection practices in this area in Fiscal Year 2014.

4.13 Describe your plans for Fiscal Year 2014 that pertain to delivering consistent and effective victim support, response, and reporting options.

The Air Force plans to finalize a new strategic plan complementary to the Department of Defense’s strategy for preventing and responding to sexual assault. The Air Force has identified three fundamental effects this strategy is intended to produce: victims come forward, perpetrators are neutralized, and Air Force climate is transformed. In order to encourage victims to come forward, the Air Force must foster an environment where Airmen believe reports of sexual assault will be taken seriously; their privacy and legal rights will be protected at all levels; and victims who do come forward will be provided realistic and accurate information explaining the process to assist them in establishing expectations.

The Air Force will conduct four iterations of the revamped and expanded SARC course at Air University at Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama. Courses are scheduled for January, February, April, and September.

The Air Force Chief of Staff will host a Leadership Summit to be attended by all wing commanders, command chiefs, and SARCs. Blocks of instruction will cover such issues as victim trauma and recovery and victim perspectives.

The Judge Advocate General will host a SAPR Summit to be attended by all Staff Judge Advocates and law office superintendents. The Summit will feature blocks of instruction on the neurobiology of trauma, Special Victim Counsel support, common victim legal issues, and victim collateral misconduct.

The Air Force will conduct two service-wide SAPR “Stand-Down” Days in Fiscal Year 2014. The training will include scenario-based discussions, subject-matter expert education on Victimology and victim care, and in-depth indoctrination of legal responsibilities of commanders handling sexual assault cases.

The Air Force plans to expand the Special Victims’ Counsel program by adding five additional attorneys and assessing whether efficiencies can be achieved by moving some counsel to different installations.

The Air Force will continue to work with the Air Force Aid Society in an effort to expand support available to victims. Specific initiatives include funding for safe rooms and replacement of items seized by investigators (such as phones, laptops, and bed linens).

The Air Force will start specifically assessing Airmen on how they contributed to climates of dignity and respect. Feedback and evaluation forms for every Airman will be modified to help ensure organizational climate is discussed during feedback sessions. Climate assessments will be mandated within the first 120 days of a commander assuming command and annually thereafter. The results of these assessments will be briefed to the commander's superior officer, as well as to the members of the unit. A Special Interest Item for the Inspector General's new Unit Effectiveness System will be established to assess to what degree commanders have developed a command climate of dignity and respect, and to what degree SAPR prevention and victim care principles have been implemented within their commands.

To measure the effectiveness of Air Force efforts in supporting victims, the Air Force will field a new Victim Experiences Survey, replacing the existing Victim Impact Survey. This expanded survey will evaluate each individual and/or agency the victim deals with during the reporting, investigative, and judicial processes, to include first responders and the medical community. The Victim Experiences Survey will further ask victims specific questions about the climate in their unit.

5. LOE 5—Assessment—The objective of assessment is to “effectively standardize, measure, analyze, assess, and report program progress.”

5.1 Summarize your Service or Component's efforts to achieve the Assessment Endstate: “Department of Defense incorporates responsive, meaningful, and accurate systems of measurement and evaluation into every aspect of the SAPR program.”

The Air Force initiated a variety of assessments to achieve the Assessment Endstate. The main metric of interest, sexual assault prevalence, will be measured annually: biennially by the Workplace and Gender Relations Survey – Active Duty, and biennially on opposite years by the Air Force. The Air Force will also be assessing various aspects of culture/climate, such as confidence in the chain of command, willingness to intervene, and how safe the environment feels, through the Defense Equal Opportunity Management Institute Organizational Climate Survey. This survey is fielded within 120 days of command change and annually thereafter. Additionally, training, SAPR down-days, and educational initiatives will be followed with a questionnaire to assess the efficacy of the training. Currently, The Judge Advocate General's Corps has an existing survey assessing Special Victims' Counsel efficacy and the Victim and Witness Assistance Program. The Air Force is enhancing this product to evaluate victims' experience with each individual and agency the victim deals with during the reporting, investigative, and judicial processes, to include first responders and the medical community. The victim experiences survey will further ask victims specific questions about the climate in their unit.

In Fiscal Year 2013, the Air Force Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Office published a weekly “kneeboard” set of slides which include tables and graphs of the current state of the data in the Defense Sexual Assault Institute Database. This “kneeboard” is designed to provide a synopsis of the current state of sexual assault in the Air Force on a week-to-week basis in an accessible, easy-to-read format. The kneeboard is delivered to Air Force wing commanders and Major Command Staff Judge Advocates each week. Examples of data include the number of reports (restricted and unrestricted); the gender of the victims and subjects; the number of cases involving alcohol; and the length of time between the incident and the report being made.

Lastly, the Air Force works alongside the other Services to provide data for the Department of Defense sexual assault-related metrics which include reporting, military justice, and investigative process data.

5.2 Describe oversight activities during Fiscal Year 2013 that assess the SAPR program effectiveness. Include frequency, methods used, findings and recommendations, corrective action taken (e.g., program management review and Inspector General inspections), and other activities. Include documentation of published reports in appendix.

The Air Force improved the relevancy of its Unit Climate Assessment in Fiscal Year 2013 by embedding six questions focusing on four dimensions of the Sexual Assault Prevention and Response climate factors. These factors and results detailed areas for further work in 2014 and beyond, namely, the need to develop more information geared towards junior enlisted and civilians and to reduce the perceived barriers to reporting sexual assault.

The Air Force Inspector General fielded two Special Interest Item inspection assessment requirements in January, 2013. The first assessment directed all units to complete a Self-Assessment Checklist no later than January 31, 2013. The second directive required United States Air Forces in Europe to complete an inspection between January 18 and February 15, 2013, to determine the effectiveness of the Sexual Assault Prevention and Response program at each installation.

Major Command SARCs conducted staff-assistance visits to installations they have oversight of. During these visits, the Major Command SARCs assess the installations’ SAPR programs in terms of effectiveness, visibility, and adherence to higher headquarters’ guidance.

The Air Force conducted the Internal Communication Assessment Group survey to measure Airman’s knowledge of Sexual Assault Prevention and Response principles; 1,923 respondents completed survey in July-August, 2013. The results provided the Air Force the Airmen’s perspective with respect to the SAPR training. The results of this survey supported the Air Force’s move away from computer-based SAPR training to small-group, scenario-based training.

The Air Force Audit Agency assessed whether or not SAPR personnel met the personnel training and qualification requirements set out in Air Force Instruction 36-6001, SAPR Program, and the additional requirements identified by the Air Force SAPR office. Qualification deficiencies were corrected during the assessment. The Air Force Audit Agency's recommendation to supplement Air Force guidance with respect to training and qualification requirements is being included in the upcoming revision of Air Force Instruction 36-6001.

In early Fiscal Year 2013, the Air Force conducted a service-wide Health and Welfare Inspection covering every Air Force installation, and almost 600,000 workplaces. The inspection resulted in 32,216 findings, ranging from romance novels to pornographic magazines and electronic files which could be construed as detrimental to healthy Air Force climates. Corrective action was taken on the spot as these items were discovered. More information about this inspection can be found in Section 7.4.

Formal Military Equal Opportunity complaints have been on a downward trend. Compared to complaints filed per year, substantiated complaints are low. Of those formal complaints filed, the top three allegations are based on race, gender, and sexual harassment. Informal Military Equal Opportunity complaints have also been on a downward trend, and the resolution rate of those complaints is high. Anecdotal information from informal out-and-about inspections indicates that military personnel are accustomed to addressing concerns and complaints through their chain of command.

In Fiscal Year 2013, the Air Force determined that Sexual Assault Prevention and Response program effectiveness can be measured by the degree to which healthy climates have been fostered and maintained. Criteria for measuring this include whether the climate promotes diversity; increases awareness and knowledge; increases understanding and implementation of bystander intervention principles; increases opportunities for dialogue/discussion/debate; empowers victims to come forward; and increases accountability. The Air Force is revising the Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Inspector General checklist to include new compliance inspection requirements, such as monitoring SARC call-lines, to capture measurable results.

5.3 Describe any and all implementations of Government Accountability Office (GAO) and Defense Task Force-Sexual Assault in the Military Services (DTF-SAMS) recommendations. Include any assessments of implementation.

The GAO report for Air Force SAPR will not be released until January 2014. The Defense Task Force on Sexual Assault in the Military Services has been disbanded. The task force's report was published on December 1, 2009. Among other things, the task force recommended enhancing the medical and mental health care for servicewomen who are victims of sexual assault, and that the Department of Defense (1) develop department-level guidance on the provision of care to victims of sexual assault; and (2) take steps to improve first responders' compliance with the department's requirements for annual refresher training.

In addition to all other SAPR training, and along with all health care personnel, all providers must take SAPR First Responder Training for Health Care Personnel. This training was revised to include updated Department of Defense Instruction requirements and emphasize the Restricted Reporting process. Air Force Instruction 44-102, Medical Care Management, establishes the requirement for provider training in reference to performing sexual assault exams; the training must conform to “A National Protocol for Sexual Assault Medical Forensic Examinations, Adults/Adolescents.” These standards are used to select training venues. Providers performing sexual assault examinations are required to complete refresher training annually and repeat initial training requirements every five years, at a minimum.

To facilitate knowledge and help ensure appropriate guidance is readily available, military treatment facilities providing sexual assault exams must ensure examiners have access to and are familiar with the guidance found in: U.S. Department of Justice, Office on Violence Against Women, “A National Protocol for Sexual Assault Medical Forensic Examinations, Adults/Adolescents”; Department of Defense Instruction 6495.02, SAPR Program Procedures; and Air Force Instruction 36-6001, SAPR Program.

The task force recommended Congress should, as a permanent measure, enact a comprehensive military justice privilege for communications between a victim advocate and a victim of sexual assault. This was accomplished in Military Rule of Evidence 514, also known as the victim-victim advocate privilege, which gives SARCs and victim advocates the ability to receive and not disclose communications from victims pertaining to the sexual assault. The Air Force has fully implemented Military Rule of Evidence 514 and includes a block of instruction on the privilege at the Air Force SARC course, which is required for all new SARCs, deputy/assistant SARCs, and full-time victim advocates.

The task force also recommended ensuring service members who report they were sexually assaulted are afforded the assistance of a nationally certified victim advocate. This is complied with through National Organization for Victim Assistance credentialing which was required by October, 2013.

The task force recommended ensuring victims understand their rights, including the opportunity to consult with legal counsel to minimize victim confusion during the investigative process. This is accomplished both through the completion of the DD Form 2910 and SARC guidance to the victim during the completion of the form. The Air Force’s Special Victims’ Counsel program further ensures legal support is available at any time to help victims with any legal concerns.

The task force called for improving medical care for victims of sexual assault, particularly those in deployed areas. SAPR services are crucial in deployed environments, and deployed commanders are responsible for providing home-station level care to victims. The Air Force has six deployed SARCs providing services in the deployed environment.

The task force recommended informing victims and service members of disciplinary actions related to sexual assault. Commanders are taught how to work with victims of sexual assault who also have collateral misconduct in command courses. The commanders' authority to decide whether to defer action on collateral misconduct is also addressed at the SARC course and is addressed in Department of Defense Instruction 6495.02, SAPR Program Procedures.

5.4 Describe your efforts to ensure integrity of data collected in the Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database.

SARCs are required to enter all adult sexual assault cases (other than those cases tracked by Family Advocacy) into the Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database within 48 hours of a report. Only those SARCs who are credentialed, with a cleared background check, and have completed Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database training are authorized access to the system. Logging in to the system requires the use of a common access card, and users are directed to log out whenever they are not using the database or when they walk away from their terminal. SARCs are trained to complete all mandated fields with information regarding the incident, victim, and subject. The Air Force Sexual Assault Prevention and Response office reviews Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database data to help ensure it is complete and accurate.

5.5 Describe any measures your Service or Component has established to assess and manage your SAPR program. If you have begun assessing your program based on these measures, describe your findings thus far and actions taken.

The Air Force has been developing questionnaires to assess the efficacy of training events, SAPR Down-Days, and educational initiatives, to be fielded in Fiscal Year 2014. The Air Force SAPR Office is also developing plans and methodologies for assessing various aspects of Air Force culture and climate, such as confidence in the chain of command, willingness to intervene, and how safe the environment is perceived to be by Airmen. These assessments will be fielded through the Defense Equal Opportunity Management Institute Organizational Climate Survey which will be used within 120 days of a commander assuming command and annually thereafter. Additionally, prevalence of sexual assault will be measured annually.

The goals of the Sexual Assault Prevention and Response program are to effectively educate Airmen about sexual assault, foster a climate of dignity and respect, and ultimately decrease the prevalence of sexual assault in the Air Force. The survey will build on the Victim Impact Survey that The Judge Advocate General's Corps implemented in Fiscal Year 2013 to help ensure that victims only receive one survey regarding their experiences with support individuals and agencies. The survey will further ask victims about their satisfaction with each individual and agency with whom they had contact. The survey will also include specific questions about the climate in their unit.

To improve management of the SAPR program, the Air Force SAPR Office was transformed into a stand-alone, directorate-level organization that reports directly to the Air Force Vice Chief of Staff. The new Headquarters Air Force SAPR Office is now led by a general officer and is authorized a cross-functional staff of 32 people with a broad range of relevant expertise.

5.6 Provide a summary of your research and data collection activities conducted in Fiscal Year 2013. Include documentation in the appendix.

With the purpose of providing an assessment on sexual assault in the Air Force, the Air Force SAPR Office conducted focus groups at 14 bases from July 22 to September 27, 2013. The Air Force SAPR Office representatives met with more than 1,400 Airmen from multiple rank demographics and all Major Commands. About half of the Airmen in the focus groups were volunteers, while the rest were randomly selected and directed to participate. Some of the volunteers included civilians and reserve component members. As a result, Sexual Assault Prevention and Response training efficacy was specifically raised.

On a weekly basis, the Air Force Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Office publishes a “kneeboard” set of slides which includes tables and graphs of the current state of the data in the Defense Sexual Assault Institute Database. Examples of data include the gender of the subjects and victims, whether alcohol was involved, and how much time elapsed between the incident and the date the incident was reported to the authorities.

5.6.1 Describe your efforts to develop and harmonize sexual assault focused survey efforts to align with Department of Defense and other Services.

Department of Defense implemented biennial Workplace and Gender Relations Survey – Active Duty, to measure, among other things, sexual assault prevalence and incident specifics. The Air Force will implement additional biennial surveys to measure these topics of interest on opposite years of the Workplace and Gender Relations Survey – Active Duty. The definitions and terminology used by the Department of Defense survey have been incorporated into the planned Air Force survey to help ensure the two surveys are acting in harmony. Further, the Workplace and Gender Relations Survey – Active Duty will include an Air Force-specific module at the end of the Workplace and Gender Relations Survey – Active Duty so that the Air Force may ask questions specific to Air Force initiatives each year either through the Air Force contracted survey or the Workplace and Gender Relations Survey – Active Duty.

5.7 Describe your plans for Fiscal Year 2014 that pertain to effectively standardizing, measuring, analyzing, assessing, and reporting program progress.

The Air Force will assess prevalence and reporting through the biennial Workplace and Gender Relations Survey – Active Duty and biennial Air Force surveys. Both surveys will use common Department of Defense definitions for unwanted sexual contact and sexual assault behaviors in order to be directly comparable. These surveys will continue to be used on alternate years to provide annual prevalence data. Climate will be assessed with the Defense Equal Opportunity Management Institute Organizational Climate Survey within 120 days of a command change and then annually thereafter; this is implemented through Defense Equal Opportunity Management Institute and is standardized across the Department of Defense. Training and education initiatives’ efficacy are assessed through Air Force Sexual Assault Prevention and Response surveys as well as post-training questionnaires distributed following all formal Air Force Training and SAPR Stand-Down days. The Judge Advocate General’s Corps has an existing survey assessing the extent to which victims are satisfied with their representation and services received from the Victim Witness Assistance Program. The Air Force is enhancing this product to evaluate each individual and/or agency dealt with during the reporting and investigative/judicial process, to include first responders and the medical community. The victim experiences survey will further ask victims specific questions about the climate in their unit. The Air Force will continue to work alongside the other Services to provide data for the Department of Defense sexual assault-related metrics which include reporting, military justice, and investigative process data.

6. Overarching Tenet: Communication and Policy

6.1 Summarize your Service or Component's efforts to synchronize and standardize the SAPR program across the Joint Force (from Joint/Service basing to forward stationed deployed units worldwide).

The Joint Force sexual assault prevention efforts are harmonized in the effects-based goal of primary prevention. The Air Force takes into account the lessons learned from its sister service experiences, both benchmarks and setbacks, to inform the Air Force SAPR program's policy development and ongoing operation. The mechanism to facilitate this crosstalk ranges from daily informal interactions among the various Service and Department teams to formal processes in Department of Defense and the Joint Staff to achieve program harmony. The Secretary of Defense holds a weekly meeting with all the SAPR directors covering policy topics progressing through each element of Department of Defense strategy and reporting on progress and challenges implementing the respective initiatives in an open forum. Ahead of these Department of Defense meetings, the Joint Staff facilitates a process to reach consensus among the respective Services with escalating rounds of dialogue from the functional directors to the Service Operational Deputies and culminating with a Joint Staff position on a given proposal prior to presenting it to the Secretary of Defense for a decision.

6.2 Describe your efforts to post and widely disseminate sexual assault information (e.g., hotline phone numbers and internet websites) to Service members, eligible dependents, and civilian personnel of the Department of Defense.

The Air Force conducted an extensive internal and external media campaign as the new SAPR office was standing up. The director of the Air Force SAPR office conducted interviews with Air Force Times and the office's internal public affairs teams. Those articles were posted on the Air Force website. In each of the articles there was a "for more information" contact line so readers had a place to find additional information. Additionally, the Air Force had wide-reaching stories in The New York Times, and on National Public Radio's (NPR), "All Things Considered;" and Public Broadcasting Service's (PBS), "To the Contrary." Additionally stories were published in Air Force Times and on the Air Force's website outlining Air Force efforts on tackling this issue for the Service. Lastly, Christian Science Monitor and the American Bar Association Journal published lengthy positive stories on the Special Victims' Counsel program. There have been smaller, subsequent stories that continue to highlight the great success of that program.

The Air Force SAPR Office issued public affairs guidance to all wing vice commanders and public affairs officers. This guidance advised installation webmasters to include a prominent SAPR link on their wing websites. The links direct Airmen to local SAPR information to include, but not limited to, definitions, education material, Special Victims' Counsel information, reporting options, and contact information for local SARCs.

All Air Force bases are required, per Air Force Instruction 36-2624, The Career Assistance Advisor, First Term Airmen Center and Enlisted Professional Enhancement Programs, to have a First Term Airmen Center. The center provides a structured program to transition Airmen from a training mindset to a mission-oriented environment. First Term Airmen Center students were issued class folders developed by installation SARCs. The folders contain pertinent numbers and information concerning the SAPR program.

All SARCs participated in base events throughout the year and especially in April during Sexual Assault Awareness Month. During these events, SARCs disseminate information and promotional items containing hotline numbers, email addresses, and websites to service members, eligible dependents, and civilian personnel of the DoD.

SARCs and Victim Advocates routinely used various briefings as opportunities to educate Airmen on SAPR contact numbers, reporting options and eligibility information. Additionally, fliers, pamphlets and posters were distributed across installations with contact information and eligibility information. Briefings included annual training, Commander's Calls, base newcomers orientations and other venues as requested by installation leaders. The Air Force has also disseminated information about the availability of and access to SARC services and the Special Victims' Counsel program on the American Forces Network (for overseas installations).

The Air Force placed particular focus for education has been at the accession stage – that is, the initial recruitment and training of the service's newest Airmen. Prior to initial processing at the Military Entrance Processing Station, Air Force applicants watch an Air Force Recruiting Service video featuring the service's commander and command chief. The video addresses appropriate and inappropriate professional relationships. In addition, applicants are presented with a copy of the Applicant Rights/Responsibilities card. After an applicant watches the video, recruiters are required to discuss the video with the applicant to help ensure the applicant fully understands the importance of maintaining a professional applicant-recruiter relationship. The recruiter must document the applicant's viewing of the video and the subsequent discussion in the applicant's electronic file. The applicant will also sign a professional relationship contract, with one copy provided to the applicant and another kept on file.

Sometimes, applicants must wait a significant length of time before entering the Air Force (i.e., finishing high school, waiting for a job position to open, etc.). These applicants typically enter the Delayed Enlistment Program. Each Delayed Enlistment Program member is provided with a Development Guide, which is a book created to provide each recruit with the fundamentals in becoming a professional Airman and to help facilitate their transition to military training and on to active duty in the Air Force. Recruiters use this guide as a training tool to prepare recruits for entry onto active duty.

Just before the applicant is scheduled for physical processing at the Military Entrance Processing Station, either the Military Entrance Processing Station or the Flight Chief (depending on how the squadron/flight is set up) will review the Professional Relationship contract, ensuring it was properly completed.

Immediately before (typically the day prior to or the day) an applicant travels to attend Basic Military Training, that applicant is put on Extended Active Duty and receives a final brief from his/her recruiter. That briefing reiterates what is and is not professional behavior.

Once at Basic Military Training, trainees receive 11 1/2 hours of core training relating to gender diversity, sexual harassment and sexual assault. This is in addition to briefings conducted by the group and squadron commanders during Basic Military Training. The curriculum includes the following:

- Human Relations I (2 1/2 hours; first week): Covers DOD and AF vision regarding equal opportunity policy; creating smooth running workplace; professional, unprofessional relationships and fraternization; positive skills for building relationships; positive skills for conflict resolution; religious diversity; professional relationships, building relationships and sensitivity in dealing with other cultures.
- Human Relations II (2 hours; second week): Covers barriers to respectful human relations such as stereotyping, prejudice, disparaging terms, discrimination, hazing and sexual harassment; positive human relations skills; Air Force's viewpoint; and the interrelationship of Air Force core values, human relations and mission readiness.
- Forbidden Relationships & Sexual Predator Risk Indicators (3 hours; second week): Defines forbidden relationships (also referred to as unprofessional relationships), why they are wrong, how they may occur (sexual grooming) and be prevented or dealt with. Also covers, sexual predator risk indicators and how to protect against them.
- Accessions I Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (4 hours; fourth week): Air Education and Training Command developed accession level lesson containing detailed content on: definition of sexual assault and definition of consent; prevention; Air Force zero tolerance policy; four common sexual assault roles (perpetrator, facilitator, passive bystander and victim); culture of responsible choices program; and victim response process (victim sensitivity/reporting procedures).

In addition, trainees are given the SARC 24-hour confidential hot line number to report sexual assault or to speak to a victim advocate, and are provided the Lackland Air Force Base intranet web site in their Basic Military Training study guide. They are also briefed that they have a hot-line phone in every trainee dormitory that provides direct access to the SARC at any time.

6.3 Describe your development and implementation of specialized medical and mental health care policy for sexual assault victims. Include a copy of your implementation plan in the appendix.

The Air Force Medical Operations Agency updated the mental health patient informed consent document to include a specific reference to the patient's right to obtain a second opinion related to diagnoses received in the mental health clinic. The Air Force Medical Operations Agency's Mental Health Division is working to establish policy which will require a higher level review of mental health recommendations for administrative separation of victims of sexual assault. Once the policy has been finalized, dissemination and implementation will be promptly carried out.

The Air Force established a policy/execution working group to identify and address issues and facilitate information to and from Air Force military treatment facilities. Working group initiatives include improved policy guidance and development of a self-assessment checklist to enhance program compliance.

6.4 Describe your efforts to review, revise, update, and issue policy pertaining to:

- The record of dispositions of unrestricted reports.
- General education for correction of military records when victims experience retaliation.

Provide documentation in the appendix.

According to the Fiscal Year 2014 National Defense Authorization Act, records of unrestricted reports shall be kept for 50 years. The Air Force is in the process of updating records disposition schedules to reflect this change.

Air Force Board for Correction of Military Records eligibility and procedures are addressed in Air Force Instruction 36-2603, Air Force Board for Correction of Military Records, as well as in informational materials posted on the Air Force Personnel Center's website. Both are publicly accessible. SAPR personnel are taught to discuss correction of military records and veterans benefits with clients who are separating from the military. Additionally, transition assistance classes, which are mandatory for all Airmen separating or retiring from the service, give out instructions on how to contact the board and directions on how to obtain information about applying to the board for relief.

6.5 Describe your efforts to establish policy for General or Flag officer review of and concurrence in adverse administrative actions and separation of victims making an Unrestricted Report of sexual assault in Fiscal Year 2013.

On July 2, 2013, Change 7 to Air Force Instruction 36-3206, Administrative Discharge Procedures for Commissioned Officers, and Change 7 to Air Force Instruction 36-3208, Administrative Separation of Airmen, were implemented. For enlisted members, Airmen who have made an unrestricted report of sexual assault within the 12 months preceding the date of notification of discharge “must be advised of the right to request review by the general court-martial authority who is a general officer if the Airman believes the recommendation for involuntary separation was initiated in retaliation for having made [the unrestricted report].” Upon request for review, the case is referred to the general court-martial convening authority for the final separation decision. If the convening authority is not a general officer, the case must be referred to the next higher level of command who is a general officer. The convening authority then reviews the circumstances and grounds for the proposed separation. If the convening authority determines the recommendation for discharge was made in retaliation for the report of sexual assault, that authority will terminate the discharge. If, however, the convening authority determines the recommendation was not made in retaliation for the report of sexual assault, the authority may approve the discharge (if there is sufficient evidence to support separation and separation is warranted). In that case, the convening authority must indicate that the recommendation for discharge was not made in retaliation for a report of sexual assault.

For officers, the policy is essentially the same, except that the request for review is elevated to the show cause authority. Show cause authority is typically the Major Command commander. Show cause authority is not generally delegable to non-general officers.

6.6 Describe your plans for Fiscal Year 2014 that pertain to synchronizing and standardizing the SAPR program across the Joint Force (from Joint/Service basing to forward stationed and deployed units worldwide).

The Department of Defense’s objective is to establish the conditions within the military which lower sexual assault prevalence and increase reporting. The Air Force and the other Services have concurred on a set of established criteria and measurement data that track a variety of different facets dealing with sexual assault data. This data will establish a baseline to track trends and help the Air Force and the Services determine whether prevalence is decreasing and reports are increasing.

The Air Force will continue to implement additional surveys to measure sexual assault prevalence, incident specifics, and other relevant data pertaining to sexual assaults in order to support assessment of the effectiveness of Air Force policies and programs. The data Air Force is collecting will mirror the DoD’s biennial Workplace and Gender Relations Survey – Active Duty, to be given on opposite years of the WGRA. Additionally, definitions and terminology used by the DoD survey have been incorporated into the Air Force survey to help ensure both surveys are acting in harmony.

The Air Force is developing a Victim Experiences Survey to obtain feedback from victims regarding their experiences throughout the continuum of care. The survey is focused on the services (Sexual Assault and Response Coordinator, Victim Advocate, Medical Services, Special Victims' Counsel, Office of Special Investigation, and Staff Judge Advocate) victims typically interact with throughout their cases. This tool will allow the Air Force to assess victims' perception of the care and support they are receiving. This survey has been advertised at the Joint level and all the Services have expressed an interest in working concurrently to produce a Joint victim experiences survey. The Air Force will field its survey in Fiscal Year 2014.

The Air Force has issued guidance to installation vice commanders that installation web sites should have a prominent and visible link on their home pages that links to their respective local SAPR information. When a visitor clicks on the link from the home page, they are to be directed to a website that contains reporting options, definitions of sexual assault, contact information for the local SARC, as well as sexual assault conviction data for that respective installation (if applicable).

7.1 Enhancing Commander Accountability—Describe your efforts thus far to develop methods to assess the performance of military commanders in establishing command climates of dignity and respect and incorporating SAPR prevention and victim care principles in their commands, and hold them accountable.

The Secretary and Chief of Staff made it clear to commanders that they must take the lead in establishing command climates of dignity and respect and incorporating SAPR prevention and victim care principles in their commands. The Air Force has implemented an array of initiatives designed to assess the performance of commanders in establishing command climates of dignity and respect and incorporating SAPR prevention and victim care principles in their commands, and to hold them accountable.

First, the Air Force has modified the feedback and evaluation forms for every Airman to help ensure organizational climate is discussed during feedback sessions. Along with modifying the forms, Air Force Instruction 36-2406, Officer and Enlisted Evaluation Systems, defines the term "organizational climate" and holds all Airmen responsible for contributing to a healthy unit climate in which every member is treated with dignity and respect, and one that does not tolerate unlawful discrimination, sexual harassment, or sexual assault in any form. The instruction explains that noncommissioned and commissioned officers can build a healthy organizational climate by: communicating clear direction at all levels of supervision; adhering to and enforcing standards; not tolerating and, when necessary, appropriately responding to any form of sexual harassment, sexual assault, hazing, unlawful discrimination, or any other conduct harmful to the good order and discipline of the unit; being accountable for their actions; and cultivating an environment where teamwork, unity and cohesiveness are the standard practice. All noncommissioned officer and officer evaluators will assess ratees on what they did to help ensure a healthy organizational climate.

Second, the instruction now specifically highlights commanders' responsibility for creating a healthy climate in their command and adherence to SAPR program directives. Evaluators are now required to take commanders' special responsibility and authority into consideration when evaluating commanders' effectiveness in ensuring a healthy climate.

Third, in accordance with Section 572(a)(3) of the Fiscal Year 2013 National Defense Authorization Act, unit climate assessments were increased in frequency from every two years to within the first 120 days of assuming command and annually thereafter. In addition to conducting the climate assessments, the assessed commanders must now brief both their immediate supervisors and their unit members on the results of the climate assessments. This will increase the visibility of the assessment results and provide feedback to the members of the unit.

Fourth, the Air Force has established an Inspector General Special Interest Item to assess to what degree commanders have established a command climate of dignity and respect, as well as to what degree SAPR prevention and care principles have been implemented in their commands. The Air Force further created a list of inspection items to be used by inspectors during unit inspections in order to assess commanders' adherence to the above initiatives and to what extent the commanders have been successful in establishing climates of dignity and respect within their units.

7.2 Improving Response and Victim Treatment—Describe your efforts thus far to implement and monitor methods to improve victim treatment by their peers, co-workers, and chains of command.

The Air Force SAPR Office began developing a survey focusing on victim experiences with each individual and/or agency a victim deals with during the reporting and investigative, and judicial processes. The survey will ask victims their satisfaction with each individual and agency with which they were in contact with as well as specific questions about the climate in their unit.

The Air Force has been developing questionnaires to assess the efficacy of training events, SAPR Stand-Down Days, and educational initiatives. Headquarters Air Force is also developing plans and methodologies for assessing various aspects of Air Force culture and climate, such as confidence in the chain of command, willingness to intervene, and how safe the environment is, as perceived by Airmen. These assessments will be fielded through the Defense Equal Opportunity Management Institute Organizational Climate Survey which will be used within 120 days of assumption of command and annually thereafter. Additionally, prevalence of sexual assault will be measured annually.

Paragraph 1.5, above, further elaborates on specific efforts taken by the Air Force to educate Airmen on improving treatment of victims by their peers, co-workers, and chains of command. Those efforts were undertaken as part of the Air Force's SAPR "Stand-Down" Day in Fiscal Year 2013, which all Air Force members were required to participate in.

7.3 Ensuring Safety—Describe your efforts to improve the effectiveness of SAPR programs in recruiting organizations, Military Entrance Processing Stations, and the Reserve Officer Training Corps. These assessments will include: 1) the selection, SAPR training, and oversight of recruiters; 2) the dissemination of SAPR program information to potential and actual recruits; and 3) the prevention and education programs in ROTC environments and curricula.

The Air Force evaluated its SAPR curriculum at all venues of training, utilizing a cross-functional recruiter analysis group and a multi-disciplinary integrated product team of subject-matter experts. Focus areas included recruiter selection, training and oversight; and Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps curricula and environments. The Office of the Under Secretary of Defense (Personnel and Readiness), Military Personnel Policy, and the Military Entrance Processing Command assumed responsibility for improving effectiveness in the military entrance processing stations environment, including dissemination of SAPR program information to recruits.

The following efforts were implemented for recruiter selection, training and oversight: 1) Increased supervision of recruiters and interaction with leadership; 2) Implementation of training programs aimed at increasing deterrence; 3) Education of applicants and recruits on the Airman's Bill of Rights and empowerment; and 4) Increased emphasis that only professional relationships are acceptable in today's recruiting culture.

In Fiscal Year 2013, the Reserve Officer Training Corps curriculum was revamped to include: 1) weaving SAPR scenarios throughout lessons on leadership, Air Force core values, Air Force culture and wingman behaviors; 2) frontloading SAPR curriculum to help ensure students understand what constitutes unprofessional or criminal behavior and available avenues for reporting; 3) incorporating Sex Signals, a traveling sexual assault educational production; and 4) presenting all training materials, to include scenario-based training and "audience specific" videos, for subject-matter-expert review to help ensure appropriate and effective materials are being used. The presentation of the materials for review has provided the additional resource of a central repository for SAPR training course material that instructors can use in their classes.

7.4 Ensuring Appropriate Command Climate—Describe your efforts to ensure Department of Defense facilities promote an environment of dignity and respect and are free from materials that create a degrading or offensive work environment. Include findings and actions taken from regular visual inspections.

The Air Force Chief of Staff tasked commanders on November 28, 2012, to examine their work settings and better ensure Airmen at all levels consistently apply standards of professionalism and respect across the service. The purpose of this Health and Welfare Inspection was to reinforce expectations for the workplace environment, correct deficiencies, and deter conditions that may be detrimental to good order and discipline. Commanders were tasked with looking for and removing unprofessional or inappropriate items that hinder a professional working environment. The Health and Welfare Inspections yielded the following results:

Over 100 Air Force installations were inspected. Commanders inspected almost 600,000 workplaces of Air Force military and civilian personnel. The areas inspected included all government workspaces and shared common areas such as briefing rooms, break rooms, squadron recreational areas, heritage rooms, government shared computer drives and military dormitory common areas. Commanders looked for and removed three broad categories of material: pornographic; unprofessional; or inappropriate or offensive.

The results yielded 32,216 reported findings, in the three categories: 631 instances of pornography (magazines, calendars, pictures, videos that intentionally displayed nudity or depicted acts of sexual activity); 3,987 instances of unprofessional material (discrimination, professional appearance, items specific to local military history such as patches, coins, heritage rooms, log books, song books, etc.); and 27,598 instances of inappropriate or offensive items (suggestive items, magazines, posters, pictures, calendars, vulgarity, graffiti). Identified items were documented and either removed or destroyed. In two instances commanders consulted with law enforcement, as appropriate, to determine if the items met a criminal investigative threshold.

The Air Force also uses organizational climate assessments to promote healthy climates. The assessments are designed to provide commanders information about the health of the climate the commanders' units by identifying positive and negative factors within the units, as well as how unit members perceive unit climate. Historically, the Air Force has used the Unit Climate Assessment as the primary climate organizational assessment tool, however, effective January 1, 2014, Air Force will transition from the Unit Climate Assessment to the Defense Equal Opportunity Management Institute's Equal Opportunity Climate Survey as the sole organizational climate assessment tool. This survey will be given within 120 days of change of command and annually thereafter. The survey results will be required to be briefed to the commander's superior officer, as well as to the members of the unit. Through organizational climate assessments, commanders are able to address any issues presented by their workforce in order to promote appropriate command climates.

In addition to formal climate assessments, installation Equal Opportunity personnel also conduct informal "out and about" assessments in which the Equal Opportunity personnel both talk to unit members and conduct visual inspections of unit work areas. The Equal Opportunity personnel brief commanders on their findings, thereby providing commanders additional information about the health of the command climate. Commanders are alerted to any inappropriate materials found during the visual inspection, affording commanders the opportunity to immediately address the issue.

Part 2 - Fiscal Year (FY) 2013 Sexual Assault Statistical Report Data Call for Sexual Assaults in the Military: United States Air Force

1. Analytic Discussion

1.1. Provide an analytic discussion of your Service's Statistical Report. This section should include such information as:

- Notable changes in the data since Fiscal Year 2012 (in percentages) and other time periods, as appropriate.
- Insight or suspected reasons for noted changes, or lack of change, in data
- Implications the data may have for programmatic planning, oversight, and/or research
- How Reports of Sexual Assault mesh with your Service's scientifically conducted surveys during Fiscal Year 2012 or Fiscal Year 2013 (if any)
- Other (Please explain)

In Fiscal Year 2013, investigators opened 635 investigations into allegations of sexual assault in which a service member was either a subject or a victim. Based upon the method directed for calculating investigations for this report, this number of investigations does not include those conducted by other services' investigative agencies, nor does it include investigations involving only civilian subjects and victims (e.g., a report by a dependent spouse that he/she was sexually assaulted by a government civilian employee). Additionally, this number specifically excludes investigations into so-called "intimate partner" cases, which fall under the Family Advocacy program (this includes assaults between spouses, cohabitating intimate partners, people who have a common child, and people who have been in an intimate dating relationship for more than 30 days). Finally, sexual assault allegations involving child victims are outside the scope of this report. For purposes of this report, these 635 investigations are considered to be proxies for unrestricted reports of sexual assault. Based upon the DoD Annual Report methodology, a single investigation is treated as a single report, regardless of the number of subjects and victims involved in the investigation. For the sake of consistency, this report will refer to the 635 as "unrestricted reports."

The Air Force also received 488 restricted reports of sexual assault (reports falling under the Family Advocacy program are not included here). Of these, 76 converted from restricted to unrestricted at the request of the victims, resulting in the initiation of an investigation. Thus, of the 488 initially restricted reports received in Fiscal Year 2013, 412 remained restricted at the end of Fiscal Year 2013.

This represents an increase of 186 unrestricted reports (increase of 41.4%) and an increase of 71 restricted reports (20.8%) from the number of reports received in Fiscal Year 2012. In 2012, there were 790 total reports; 449 were unrestricted; and 341 remained restricted after 58 converted to unrestricted. The Fiscal Year 2013 totals include 30 reports from the Combat Areas of Interest (an increase of 6 from Fiscal Year 2012, when there were 24), 19 of which were investigations considered to be unrestricted reports as described in Section 1.1. There was an increase of 9 unrestricted and a decrease of 3 remaining restricted reports. In Fiscal Year 2013, 2 restricted reports converted to unrestricted, while none converted in Fiscal Year 2012.

The increase in the number of reports is likely due to a number of factors, including intense command focus on the issue of sexual assault, greater confidence in the chain of command, increased awareness of Air Force initiatives to enhance victim care, and Air Force efforts to hold perpetrators appropriately accountable. Air Force members are likely far better educated about what constitutes sexual assault, what reporting options are available, and what victim-care services are available than in past years due to enhanced SAPR education and outreach. These initiatives are discussed in detail earlier in this report.

At the end of Fiscal Year 2013, 412 reports remained restricted of the 488 original restricted reports made. Eighteen more restricted reports converted this year than in the previous year (76, 15.5% in Fiscal Year 2013 versus 58, 14.5% in Fiscal Year 2012). This change may indicate that individuals have better knowledge of the program and trusted command, the investigation team, the military justice system, and the overall formal processes associated with unrestricted reporting. An important note is that of the restricted reports made, 122 (25%) of the assaults occurred prior to entry in the Air Force, a 9% increase in restricted reports for pre-service assaults from Fiscal Year 2012. This may indicate that these victims wished to avail themselves of services offered by the Air Force that were not available to them as civilians.

The success of the SAPR program also continues in deployed environments as policies and procedures are refined at specific locations to provide the best available services for victims.

2. Unrestricted Reporting

2.1. Victim Data Discussion and Analysis. This section should include an overview of such information as:

- Type of offenses
- Demographic trends
- Service referrals
- Experiences in Combat Areas of Interest
- Military Protective Orders Issued as a Result of an Unrestricted Report (e.g., Number issued, number violated)
- Approved expedited transfers and general reasons why transfers were not approved
- Others (Please explain)

There were 635 investigations initiated as unrestricted reports (as defined in Section 1.1, above) in Fiscal Year 2013. This number includes investigations initiated pursuant to 76 individuals who converted their restricted reports to unrestricted. The total number of victims involved in these investigations is 737. There were 645 (88%) female victims and 92 (12%) male victims. There were 695 (74%) military victims and 208 (22%) civilian victims. The service affiliation of 34 victims is unknown. Of the 376 cases in which the age of the victim is known, the average age is 26. The majority (198, 53%) were between the ages of 20 and 24. There were 59 (16%) victims between the ages of 16 and 19, 55 (15%) between 25 and 29, 35 (9%) between the ages of 30 and 34, and 17 between the ages of 35 and 39. Of the 569 military victims, 399 (70%) were in the grades of E-1 to E-4, 105 (18%) were in the grades of E-5 to E-7, and 3 were in the grades of E-8 to E-9. There were 31 (5%) victims in the grades of O-1 to O-3, and 7 in the grades of O-4 and O-5. There were 9 cadet victims (2%), and the grades of 14 individuals are unknown. These demographics are not materially different from those reported in Fiscal Year 2012. In fact, the rate of male victims remained the same (12%) as it was in Fiscal Year 2012.

The demographics for the reports in the Combat Areas of Interest (there were 23 identified victims in unrestricted reports and 13 victims in restricted reports in Fiscal Year 2013) largely track the trends above.

Forty-six victims requested military protective orders in Fiscal Year 2013, and the Air Force SAPR Office has record of 34 orders being issued. One of the orders was violated (by both the victim and the subject).

In Fiscal Year 2013, 118 requests for expedited transfers were made, and 109 of those were approved. Expedited transfers denied were typically denied due to conflicts with other personnel actions. For example, one individual requesting an expedited transfer was pending trial by court-martial. In most cases, however, the requesters were facing a Medical Evaluation Board with the potential for a medical separation.

2.2. Subject Data Discussion and Analysis. This section should include an overview of such information as:

- Demographic trends
- Disposition trends
- Experiences in Combat Areas of Interest
- Other (Please explain)

There were 658 subjects, including service members, civilians, and unidentified subjects, in the Fiscal Year 2013 investigations. The vast majority of subjects (604, 92%) were male, 31 (5%) of the subjects were female, and the remainder (23) were unknown. Of the 537 subjects with known ages, 239 (45%) were between 20 and 24 years of age, 37 (7%) between the ages of 16-19, and 119 (22%) between the ages of 25 and 29. Additionally there were 71 (13%) subjects between the ages of 30 and 34, and 24 (4%) between the ages of 35 and 39. The grade of 5 subjects is unknown, and the majority (322, 56%) are in the grades of E-1 to E-4. There were 11 cadet subjects, 173 (30%) subjects in the grades of E-5 to E-7, and 11 in the grades of E-8 and E-9. For the officer subjects, there were 34 (6%) in the grades of O-1 to O-3 and 24 (4%) in the grades of O-4 to O-6.

There were 508 subjects in cases closed in Fiscal Year 2013. Of those subjects, 60 (12%) were foreign or U.S. civilians whom the Air Force has no jurisdiction over, and 26 offenders could not be identified. Six of the subjects were from other services, and those services were responsible for taking action with respect to those subjects. Eleven service members were prosecuted by civilian authorities. Command action was precluded or declined in 89 cases. This means the evidence was insufficient to prove a crime was committed, the victim refused to participate, or the allegation was simply unfounded. This left 283 subjects for whom evidence supported command action. Court-martial charges for sexual assault offenses were preferred in 169 of those 283 cases. In other words, court-martial proceedings on sexual assault grounds were initiated in 59.7% of the cases in which the evidence supported command action. Of the 169 cases in which charges were preferred for sexual assault offenses, 13 subjects were administratively separated in lieu of proceeding to trial. Charges were dismissed in 35 cases (in 5 of those, nonjudicial punishment was subsequently given to the subjects). The remaining 121 cases proceeded to trial, with 74 (61.2%) cases resulting in a conviction on any offense. Of those convicted, 62 (83.8%) were sentenced to confinement, and 50 (67.6%) had a punitive discharge adjudged.

Of the 35 cases in which charges were dismissed, 17 were dismissed pursuant to the recommendation of the Article 32 investigating officer, 14 were dismissed due to the victim declining to participate in the judicial process, and 3 were dismissed based upon the Staff Judge Advocate's recommendation. In the remaining case, new evidence was uncovered indicating no assault occurred.

Nonjudicial punishment was used in 29 cases for sexual offenses and 36 cases for non-sexual offenses. In 47 cases, other administrative actions were taken against subjects.

Of the 89 cases in which command action was precluded or declined 52 cases were found to have insufficient evidence of a crime, victims in 23 of the cases would not participate in the investigation and/or prosecution, and commanders determined 14 cases were unfounded.

There were no significant differences noted in combat areas of interest.

2.3. Reporting Data Discussion and Analysis. This section should include an overview of such information as:

- Trends in descriptive information about Unrestricted Reports (e.g., Did more reported incidents occur on/off installation)
- Investigations
- Experiences in Combat Areas of Interest
- Other (Please explain)

Fiscal Year 2013 saw an increase of 186 investigations considered to be unrestricted reports as described in Section 1.1. More than half of the reports investigated were service member on service member (416, 66%), followed by 144 (23%) service member on non-service member, 39 (6%) unidentified subjects on service member, and 36 (6%) non-service member subjects on service member. Reported sexual assaults occurred slightly more frequently on the installation, with 299 (47%) occurring on the installation, 286 (46%) occurring off base, and 50 (8%) occurring in unidentified locations. Of the reports, 183 (29%) were reported within 72 hours of the incident, 117 (18%) within 3 to 30 days of the event, and 172 (27%) between 31 and 365 days. Data on length of time between incident and report was unavailable in 88 (14%) cases, and 75 (12%) reports were made more than 12 months after the assault. Data on the reason for the delay in reporting is not available. Of the 383 cases when the time of occurrence was known, just under half (178) were reported as occurring between midnight and 6 a.m. Two hundred ninety three (46%) of the reported assaults occurred on a Friday, Saturday or Sunday.

3. Restricted Reporting

3.1. Victim Data Discussion. This section should include such information as:

- Demographics trends
- Service referrals
- Experiences in Combat Areas of Interest
- Other (Please explain)

Fiscal Year 2013 also saw an increase of 89 of restricted reports, from 399 in Fiscal Year 2012 to 488 in Fiscal Year 2013. Four hundred five women (83%) and 60 men (12%) filed restricted reports of sexual assault, showing an increase of 16% in female reporting and an increase of 22% in male reporting for reports with known victim gender. Of the total number of restricted reports, 303 (62%) were service member on service member, 69 (14%) were non-service member on service member, 35 (7%) were service member on non-service member and 81 (17%) were unidentified subject on a service member assaults. The grades of service member victims, from the highest number of reports to the lowest were E-1 to E-4 (309, 63%), E-5 to E-9 (56, 11%), cadet (24, 5%), O-1 to O-3 (29, 6%), O-4 to O-5 (5, 1%), with 22 victims whose grades were not recorded (5%). The age group reporting, from highest to lowest was 20-24 (187, 38%), 16-19 (105, 21%), 25-34 (91, 19%), and 35-49 (20, 4%), with 41 of unknown age. The majority of the restricted reports indicate the assault occurred during the hours of 6:00 p.m. and midnight (165, 34%) and midnight to 6:00 a.m. (162, 33%); the other assaults occurred between the hours of 6:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. (70, 14%) or remain unknown as to the actual time (91, 19%). These demographics do not vary greatly between Fiscal Year 2012 and Fiscal Year 2013.

With the expansion of the availability of restricted reporting to adult dependents (non-service members) in January, 2012, 34 dependents availed themselves of the option.

Data for the days of the week of the incident were: unknown (261, 53%), Saturdays (79, 16%), Sundays (50, 10%), and Fridays (41, 8%); all other reports were scattered over the remaining days of the week. The number of reports in which the day of the incident is unknown is much greater than last year (261 versus 56). The large number of unknown days of the week likely derives from the assumption that the individuals who were sexually assaulted prior to entry to the Air Force or at some point earlier in their career do not recall or know the actual day of the week the assault occurred.

There were no significant differences noted in combat areas of interest and other reports.

3.2. Reporting Data Discussion. This section should include such information as:

- Trends in descriptive information about Restricted Reports (e.g., Did more reported incidents occur on/off installation)
- Trends in Restricted Reporting conversions
- Experiences in Combat Areas of Interest

- Other (Please explain)

Victims made restricted reports within 3 days of the assault 19% percent (94) of the time; 20% (96) of the time within 4 to 30 days after the assault; and 19% (93) within 31 to 365 days after assault. Thirty percent of victims (148) made a restricted report longer than 365 days after the assault, and the length of time between the incident and the report is unknown in 12% (57) of the restricted reports. The largest change came in reports made within 3 days of the assault, as the rate was 32% in Fiscal Year 2012 and decreased to 19% in Fiscal Year 2013. Of the 488 restricted reports, 275 (56%) reported the incident occurred off military installations, 141 (29%) on military installations, and 72 reports had unidentified locations for the incidents.

Most restricted reports made to Air Force SARCs were made by members of the Air Force (439, 90%) with the remaining 10% of the reports from Army (9), Navy (9), Marines (4), Coast Guard (2), and unknown (25) service members. With the expansion of the availability of restricted reporting to adult dependents in January, 2012, 34 dependents availed themselves of the option.

Restricted reports made in the Combat Areas of Interest showed that almost 54% of assaults occurred between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m., on Monday, Tuesday, and Saturday, on the installation (10 of 13), and were reported 4 or more days (12 of 13) after the incident. All 13 victims were Air Force, and most were female (8); under 24 (7); and junior enlisted (10). The small number of reports yields greater variations in the data from year to year.

4. Service Referrals for Victims of Sexual Assault

4.1. Unrestricted Report Referral Data Discussion. This section should include such information as:

- Summary of referral data and how your service counts a “referral”
- Combat Areas of Interest referral data
- Discussion of any trends of interest identified in referral data
- Other (Please explain)

In Fiscal Year 2013, service member victims in unrestricted reports were given 1,983 referrals to military resources and 459 referrals to civilian resources. The majority of referrals to military resources were for victim advocacy services (540 referrals), mental health (418 referrals), legal assistance (370), and medical care (220). The majority of civilian-resource referrals were for mental health services (111), rape crisis services (109), and medical services (65).

One hundred thirteen SAFE kits were completed for military victims. Twenty three were completed for non-military victims.

In the Combat Area of Interest, 34 total referrals were made for victims of sexual assault with unrestricted reports, all to military facilities; 9 were made for medical treatment, 6 for mental health, 7 were made for legal services, and 3 for chaplain/spiritual support.

Referral numbers do not correlate to the number of reports or victims, since an individual victim may have multiple referrals or none based on victim preference.

4.2. Restricted Report Referral Data Discussion. This section should include such information as:

- Summary of referral data and how your service counts a “referral”
- Combat Areas of Interest referral data
- Discussion of any trends of interest identified in referral data
- Other (Please explain)

Service member victims in restricted reports were given 760 referrals to military resources and 224 referrals to civilian resources. The majority of referrals to military resources were to victim advocacy services (221), mental health (156), medical care (123), and legal assistance (94). The majority of civilian-resource referrals were for medical care (57), victim advocacy services (48), and mental health (32).

In the Combat Areas of Interest, 18 referrals were issued to military facilities; 5 for medical treatment, 5 for mental health, 1 for legal services, 3 for chaplain/spiritual support, 1 for the DoD Safe Helpline, and 3 for victim advocates.

Thirty-six SAFE kits were completed for military victims, one in the Combat Areas of Interest. Five were completed for non-military victims.

4.3. Service Referrals for Non-Military Victims Data Discussion. This section should include such information as:

- Summary of referral data
- Combat Areas of Interest referral data
- Discussion of any trends of interest identified in referral data
- Other (Please explain)

Non-service member victims were given 237 referrals to military resources and 125 referrals to civilian resources in unrestricted cases.

For restricted cases, non-service member victims received 187 referrals to military resources and 104 to civilian resources.

Twenty-three SAFE kits were completed for non-service member victims.

There were no civilian victims in the Combat Areas of Interest.

She later stated it could have been a dream. Victim subsequently declined to participate. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the initial disposition authority determined there was insufficient evidence to support preferred charges without the Victim's participation. The commander sent Subject with a LOR for misconduct and initiated administrative discharge proceedings. The special court-martial convening authority terminated discharge proceedings.  |  |  |

Victim stated that she passed out and woke up to Subject on top of him with Subject's penis inserted into his anus. The investigation into Victim's allegation was joined with ongoing investigation stemming from misconduct Subject allegedly committed while he was an instructor at basic military training from 2008-2010. In 2009, several members of his 55-member male training flight reported that Subject committed acts of maltreatment against them. Among the instances of maltreatment, Subject struck members in the genitals, ordered them to perform PT while naked in close proximity to the commander, and ordered members to get top hot on their genitals as punishment. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for forcible sodomy, abusive sexual contact, simple assault, cruelty or maltreatment, failure to obey a general order, and denial of flight. Following the Article 32 hearing, the general court-martial convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Subject was convicted of 2 specifications of abusive sexual contact, 4 specifications of simple assault, 12 specifications of cruelty or maltreatment, 4 specifications of failure to obey a general order, and 7 specifications of denial of duty. Subject was sentenced to confinement for 6 months, forfeiture of $1,000/month for 3 months, and reduction in grade to E-6. At the conclusion of FY13, administrative discharge action against Subject was pending. |  |

Subject took her home to his off-base residence and Victim indicated that she woke up the next day and Subject indicated they had sexual intercourse, but she did not remember having sex. On a second separate occasion Victim was at Subject's off-base residence watching a movie and Subject attempted to initiate sexual contact. Victim told Subject "no". Victim went to sleep and woke up to Subject touching her breasts. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for aggravated sexual assault, maltreatment, denial of duty. Following the Article 32 hearing, the general court-martial convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Subject submitted a request for a Chapter 4 discharge in lieu of court-martial. The general court-martial convening authority approved the Chapter 4 request with a LOTHIC service characterization.   |  |

That night they both drank excessive amounts of alcohol and Victim got sick and passed out. Despite the efforts of other Airmen at the party to separate Subject from Victim, Subject had sexual intercourse with Victim while she was too drunk to consent. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges of sexual assault, abusive sexual contact, and abusive sodomy. Following the Article 32 hearing, the general court-martial convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Subject pled guilty to sexual assault and forcible sodomy pursuant to a Plea Agreement. Subject was sentenced to confinement for 3 years and 9 months, a dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of all pay and allowances, and reduction in grade to E-1.   |  |

Victim heard noises coming from Victim's room and went into the room where she found Subject laying on top of Victim in her bed, yelled at him, and began to hit him to get him off of Victim. Victim woke up to the witness's yelling. Victim's pajama pants and underwear had been removed, but the shirt she was wearing remained. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges of aggravated sexual assault, housebreaking, unlawful entry, and dereliction of duty for underage drinking. Following the Article 32 hearing, the convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Subject was convicted of dereliction of duty for underage drinking and acquitted of the remaining offenses. Subject was sentenced to hard labor for 60 days, forfeiture of $300/month for 6 months, and reduction to E-2.   |

Victim #1 reported that he went to the couch in the basement and Subject who he had dated in the past, came down to talk to him. Victim #1 reported that he passed out and the next thing he remembered was Subject on top of him kissing him. A witness who entered the room reported seeing Subject on top of Victim, kissing Victim with Victim's penis on Subject's hand and that Victim appeared unconscious and was not moving. Victim #2 reported that he and Subject were hanging out in his dorm room, that he had recently taken prescribed antidepressants and became drowsy. Victim #2 reported that Subject attempted to kiss him and that he said "no" and pushed Subject away. Victim #2 reported that he fell asleep and woke up to Subject's penis inside his buttocks grinding on him. Victim #2 reported that Subject forcibly penetrated his anus with his penis. Subsequently, Victim #2 communicated to the legal office and AFOSI that he no longer wished to participate in the investigation. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for sexual assault, abusive sexual contact, and child endangerment (related to a separate allegation not involving either Victim #1 or Victim #2). Following the Article 32 hearing, the general court-martial convening authority referred the charges of sexual assault and abusive sexual contact to a general court-martial. Subject was convicted of sexual assault and abusive sexual contact. Subject was sentenced to confinement for 1 year, a dishonorable discharge, total forfeiture of all pay and allowances, and reduction in grade to E-1. |  |

Victim stated she and Subject had sex and Subject came over and started touching her breasts and pulling off her pants. Victim stated she stayed motionless and felt like she couldn't move or say anything. Victim also relayed that she could have stopped the assault if she wanted to, but that something prevented her from doing so. Subject proceeded to have sex with her. Case initially investigated by Great Falls PD and Subject assigned in Great Falls, MT. Great Falls relinquished jurisdiction to the Air Force. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges of aggravated sexual assault, wrongful sexual contact, and adultery. Following the Article 32 hearing, the general court-martial convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Subject submitted a request for a Chapter 4 discharge in lieu of court-martial. The general court-martial convening authority approved the discharge in lieu of court-martial with an UOTHC serious characterization.   |  |

Victim reported that Subject forced her to have sex with him twice. Victim also reported that Subject indicated he could not support Victim financially and placed a letter online arranging for Victim to have sex with other men for money. Victim told Subject she did not want to do that and Subject in another room to make sure she did what she was told. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for rape, forcible pandering, unlawful communication of a threat, and destruction of non-military property. Following the Article 32 hearing, the general court-martial convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Subject was convicted of forcible pandering and unlawful communication of a threat. Subject was sentenced to confinement for 7 months, a dishonorable discharge, total forfeiture of all pay and allowances, and reduction in grade to E-1.   |   |

After a night of heavy drinking, the female Armen went back to their hotel room and allowed Subject and another male Airman to sleep in their room since they had been locked out of their hotel room. During the night, Victim awoke to Subject attempting to have sexual intercourse with her. She jumped out of bed and eventually called the police. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges of aggravated sexual assault. Following the Article 32 hearing, the commander preferred an additional charge of abusive sexual contact and the general court-martial convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Subject was acquitted of aggravated sexual assault and convicted of abusive sexual contact. Subject was sentenced to confinement for 12 months, a dishonorable discharge, and reduction in grade to E-1.   |   |

Victim #2 reported that Subject touched her back through her clothing and underneath her bra strap. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred two specifications of abusive sexual contact involving Victim #1 and Victim #2 and two specifications of harassment involving two other female Airmen who did not make sexual assault allegations. Prior to referral the special court-martial convening authority withdrew and dismissed the abusive sexual contact specifications and the commander preferred additional specifications of assault consummated by battery. The special court-martial convening authority referred the charges to a special court-martial. Subject pled guilty to all specifications. Subject was sentenced to confinement for 20 days, reduction in grade to E-1, restriction to base for 10 days, forfeiture of $1010, and a reprimand. Subject was subsequently administratively discharged with a General Service characterization. |   |

Victim and Subject shared a beer and Subject started kissing Victim. Victim reported that she told Subject that she did not like him like that. Victim reported that Subject carried her to his room, where she again told him "No." Victim reported that Subject took her clothes off and penetrated her vagina with his penis. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for rape and providing alcohol to a minor. Following the Article 32 hearing, the special court-martial convening authority dismissed the charges due to Victim declining to participate. Commander offered the Subject nonjudicial punishment for providing alcohol to a minor and making a false statement. The commander imposed punishment of reduction to E-4, forfeiture of $1,521.00/month for 2 months, 45 days extra duty, and a reprimand.         |

Subject picked Victim up. Victim reported going to sleep in Subject's bed and recalling at one point feeling Subject on top of her. Victim indicated there were significant gaps in her memory but the next morning Subject acknowledged that they had sex. Victim and Subject had been in a prior consensual sexual relationship, but were no longer together. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred a charge for aggravated sexual assault. Following the Article 32 hearing, the general court-martial convening authority referred the charge to a general court-martial. Subject was acquitted.  |   |

Victim alleges that some of the pressuring involved Subject kissing her and touching her breasts or vagina. Subject denied there was ever an affair. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the initial disposition authority determined there was probable cause only for a non-sexual assault offense. The commander offered Subject nonjudicial punishment for adultery. The commander imposed punishment of reduction in grade to E-4, suspended forfeiture of $1,201.00/month for 2 months, and a reprimand.  |

Subject drove them all home to the civilian's home. Victim reported that she woke up with Subject on top of her and felt him penetrate her vagina with his penis. Victim subsequently declined to participate in the case. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate the initial disposition authority determined there was insufficient evidence to prefer charges without the Victim's participation. The commander served Subject with an LOR for poor decision making on the night of the alleged sexual assault. |   |

Subject, her next-door neighbor, brought clothes for Victim to change. Victim passed out and awoke choking on Subject's penis. Victim turned away and Subject left. During a separate incident, Victim went to Subject's house. They fell asleep watching a movie together. Victim awoke to Subject touching her breast. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for forcible sodomy and wrongful sexual contact. Victim declined to participate in the Article 32 hearing. Following the Article 32 hearing, the special court-martial convening authority dismissed the charges due to Victim's desire not to participate in the case.   |

Victim volunteered to ride Subject back to base. Subject invited Victim to his dorm room to watch a movie. While they were sitting on the bed, Subject positioned himself on top of Victim and touched her legs, then her breasts. Victim asked him not to touch her but Subject continued. Subject then flipped Victim on her stomach and pulled her pants down, digitally penetrating her vagina and also inserting his penis into her vagina. Victim reported she was in a state of shock and was frozen, unable to communicate or physically resist. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for rape. Following the Article 32 hearing, the special court-martial convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Subject was acquitted.  |

Victim, Subject, and other Airmen were drinking alcohol. Victim reported that Subject pressed Victim against a wall and began to kiss her. Victim kissed Subject back and Subject stated he wanted to have sexual intercourse. Victim told Subject she was not interested. Victim reported that Subject pushed Victim onto the bed, removed her clothing, and inserted his penis into her vagina. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for rape. Following the Article 32 hearing, the general court-martial convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. A video of the incident discovered on the eve of trial showed evidence of consent. The general court-martial convening authority dismissed charges and returned the case to the commander for appropriate disposition. The commander offered the Subject nonjudicial punishment for indecent conduct for having sexual intercourse with Victim in the presence of other Airmen and other offenses not related to the incident. The commander imposed punishment of reduction to E-1, suspended forfeiture of $745/month for 2 months, and a reprimand. Subject was subsequently discharged for drug use with a General Service characterization. |

Victim stated that she left Subject's dorm room to go back to her own and fell asleep. Subject called her to ask if he could come over. Victim told him no. Victim said she woke up to Subject in her bed and told him to leave. She indicated she did not remember what happened after that but says that she awoke again to find his hands on her neck, and felt his hands on her arms, back, inner thighs, breasts, and groin while she was groping her. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander determined there was probable cause only for a non-sexual assault offense. The commander offered Subject nonjudicial punishment for underage drinking. The commander imposed punishment of suspended reduction in grade to E-2, suspended forfeiture of $835/month for 2 months, 45 days extra duty, and a reprimand.  |

All three returned to Subject's residence on-base. Victim reported that Subject's wife forcibly removed her pants and digitally penetrated her and Subject then engaged in sexual intercourse with her after she said "no." After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the initial disposition authority determined there was probable cause only for non-sexual assault offenses. The commander served Subject with an LOR and nonjudicial punishment for indecent exposure and adultery. The commander imposed punishment of suspended reduction in grade to E-3 and a reprimand.  |

On the first occasion, Victim and Subject consensually kissed. Subject also started to grab and rub Victim's breast and vagina. When Victim said "no," Subject departed. On the second occasion, Victim reported that she fell asleep and woke up to find Subject on top of her attempting to penetrate her vagina with his penis. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for sexual assault, abusive sexual contact, and obstruction of justice. Following the Article 32 hearing, the general court-martial convening authority referred charges to a general court-martial. Subject was acquitted.   |

During the movie, Subject grabbed her head and forced her to perform oral sex on him. When she tried to resist, he smacked her in the head until she complied. Almost a year later, after a night of drinking Subject was invited to the dorm room of Victim #2 with whom he had had previous consensual sexual intercourse. Victim #2 invited Subject to stay the night, but never consented to sex. That night, in bed, Subject forced her to have sex with him. Upon learning of the sexual assault, Victim #1 advised her previous reported to unrestricted. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the staff judge advocate, the commander preferred charges for rape, abusive sexual contact, forcible sodomy, and assault consummated by a battery. Following the Article 32 hearing, the convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Subject was convicted of rape, abusive sexual contact, forcible sodomy, and assault consummated by a battery. Subject was sentenced to confinement for 11 years, a dishonorable discharge, and a reprimand.  |

Victim asked if they could just watch TV, to which Subject agreed. Victim reported that she and Subject began to kiss again and Subject again started to rub her vagina underneath her clothes, then removed both of their clothes, and pulled Victim on top of him and placed his penis inside her vagina. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the staff judge advocate, the commander preferred charges of rape and deviation of duty for having a minor in his dorm room. The Article 32 hearing officer recommended that the rape charge be dismissed. The convening authority dismissed the charges. Commander offered the Subject nonjudicial punishment for deviation of duty for having a minor in his dorm room. The commander imposed punishment of reduction to E-4 with suspended reduction to E-1, forfeiture of $1,149 for 1 month with $89 suspended, 30 days extra duty, and a reprimand.   |   |

Victim went to sleep and Subject began touching her breasts and genitals. Victim reported that she attempted to push Subject away, but passed out and when she woke up again she was naked and said her vagina was sore. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the initial disposition authority determined that because the Victim indicated she would decline to participate in a prosecution, there was probable cause only for a non-sexual assault offense without her testimony. The commander served Subject with nonjudicial punishment for deviation of duty for providing alcohol to a minor. The commander imposed punishment of suspended reduction in grade to E-4.   |   |

Victim had never met them before, but as she passed their table, they began talking to her. Victim declined to leave the bowling alley and Subject's friend offered to walk her home. Subject and his friend walked Victim to her dorm. As Victim went inside, Subject said he wanted to get to know her better. Victim agreed that because she does not have a phone and she does not have a Facebook account, he could stop by her room over the weekend to hang out. Victim entered her room at about 2100 and changed into pajamas. She heard some banging noise outside and realized someone was at the door. She opened the door and saw Subject. Subject put his hands on both sides of Victim's head and tried to pull her in, as if to kiss her. Victim immediately put her hands on his chest area and said "no". She repeated "no" two or three times before Subject acknowledged what she was saying. Victim told Subject to go home. Subject apologized. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander determined there was probable cause only for a non-sexual assault offense. The commander issued an LOR to Subject.           |   |

Everyone consumed alcohol. Subject then went with a smaller group of friends that included Victim to a party at a hotel room in town. At the party, they all continued to consume alcohol. Subject and Victim were in the same bed, where a friend of Subject's had Victim down while Subject forced himself upon her. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges of resisting apprehension, misbehavior of sentinel, breach of the peace, aggravated sexual assault, indecent exposure, assault consummated by a battery, drunk and disorderly conduct, and unlawful communication of a threat. Following the Article 32 hearing, commander preferred an additional charge of wrongful sexual contact. The general court-martial convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Subject was convicted of aggravated sexual assault, 2 specifications of assault consummated by a battery, indecent exposure, drunk and disorderly conduct, and misbehavior of a sentinel. Subject was sentenced to confinement for 3 years, a dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of all pay and allowances, and reduction in grade to E-1. |   |

Victim drank alcohol beforehand. Victim and Subject danced together. Victim stated that Subject drove her back to her house and the next thing she remembered was Subject over her in her bed penetrating her vagina with his penis. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred a charge for sexual assault. The victim testified on behalf of the Article 32 hearing and indicated she did not want to participate in a court-martial. Following the Article 32 hearing, the special court-martial convening authority dismissed the charges. The commander served Subject with an LOR.   |  |   |

While at the club she danced and talked with Subject. Subject invited Victim to come home and have sex with him and Victim agreed. Subject asked Victim if she would be his dominatrix and Victim said she would. Victim reported that once she was alone with Subject in the car she was too scared to say "no" to his demands for sexual acts and had sexual intercourse with Subject. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for rape, sexual assault, forcible sodomy, assault consummated by a battery, and indecent acts. Following the Article 32 hearing, the Staff Judge Advocate advised the special court-martial convening authority there was insufficient evidence to go forward. Additionally, the Victim indicated that she did not wish to pursue a court-martial. The initial disposition authority agreed with the recommendation. The commander offered Subject nonjudicial punishment for committing indecent acts. The commander imposed punishment of reduction in grade to E-4 and a reprimand.   |   |

Victim's wife confronted Victim approximately 5 months later stating she was the cause of the divorce between her and Subject because Subject had fondled Victim's inner thigh and breast when they were in the car driving back onto base 5 months earlier. Victim responded that she was unconscious at the time and did not consent to the touching. The investigation also uncovered allegations that Subject sexually assaulted his step-daughter. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges of aggravated sexual contact with a child, abusive sexual contact with a child, and abusive sexual contact. Following the Article 32 hearing, the convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Subject was acquitted.  |   |

Victim and Subject both drank alcohol. Victim reported that she began blacking out and lost memory of the events of the night but woke up to Subject on top of her having sex. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander determined there was probable cause only for a non-sexual assault offense. The commander preferred charges for unprofessional relationship and adultery. The Victim expressed that she did not want to testify. The initial disposition authority reviewed the case and determined there was insufficient evidence to proceed without the Victim's participation. The commander served Subject with an LOR for engaging in an unprofessional relationship and adultery. |  |   |

Victim #1 and Subject had been at the beach and Victim was wearing her swimsuit. She stated Subject got on top of her and penetrated her vagina. Victim #1 stated she said "No, I don't want to," but Subject continued and she said "I said I don't want it. Stop" while attempting to push Subject away. On a separate occasion Victim #2 was at the beach for a bonfire where she was drinking alcohol. Victim #2 and Subject were again back to base. Victim #2 reported that the next thing she remembered was being in a room behind her dorms with Subject's penis inside her vagina. Victim #2 stated that she blacked out and/or fell asleep during the sexual assault. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for rape and aggravated sexual assault. Following the Article 32 hearing, the general court-martial convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Subject was acquitted.   |   |

Victim #1 reported that while watching movies Subject kept trying to grope her and she said "No." Victim #1 stated that they went upstairs and were in a "topping" position and that Subject groped her again, she said "No," and then Subject removed her pants and penetrated her vagina with his penis. Victim #1 told Subject to stop and he did not immediately stop. Victim #1 reported the alleged sexual assault to the local police department. The prosecutor declined to prosecute the case. Victim #2 reported that while Subject was living with her and her husband as a tenant he was drinking alcohol one night and Victim #2 awoke to Subject digitally penetrating her vagina and spooning her from behind. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred 2 specifications of sexual assault involving Victim #1 and Victim #2 and a specification of assault consummated by battery involving Victim #3 (who did not make a sexual assault allegation). Following the Article 32 hearing, Subject requested a Chapter 4 discharge in lieu of court-martial. The general court-martial convening authority approved the Chapter 4 discharge with an UOTHC service characterization. Subject grabbed the breasts of Victim, a subordinate officer. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the initial disposition authority reviewed the case and returned to the commander for disposition. The commander offered the Subject nonjudicial punishment for wrongful sexual contact and conduct unbecoming an officer. The commander imposed punishment of a reprimand. |   |

Victim attended a party with her husband involving a race, the objective of which was significant consumption of alcohol. Victim reported that later in the night she followed Subject upstairs and her first recollection was her husband entering the room and storming out after seeing her in bed with Subject. Victim stated that she tested Subject, who confirmed sexual intercourse did not occur, but that he digitally penetrated her. Victim stated that she did not believe she was the victim of a crime, did not wish to press charges, and that she likely would have consented to sexual contact with Subject had she not been under the effects of alcohol. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the initial disposition authority determined there was probable cause only for a non-sexual assault offense. The commander issued an LOR to Subject.  |   |

Subject invited her and her friend to a house party. Victim was intoxicated. Victim wanted to go to sleep and Subject offered her bed. Victim woke up and discovered Subject was digitally penetrating her vagina. Victim indicated thinking "I didn't want this" but decided that if Subject thought he could do this she would at least get an orgasm out of it and leaned over to grab Subject to pull him on top of her. Subject said she needed a condom and Victim left the room. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred a charge for aggravated sexual assault. The commander dismissed the charge.  |   |

Victim's friends eventually left while Victim stayed behind with Subject and his wife. Subject's wife offered for Victim to sleep at the house since it was getting late. Victim reported not waking up to Subject's wife turning on the light and noticing Subject under the covers next to her with his hand down her pants digitally penetrating her vagina. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for aggravated sexual assault, abusive sexual contact, and conduct unbecoming an officer. Following the Article 32 hearing, the general court-martial convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Subject was convicted of one specification of aggravated sexual assault, one specification of abusive sexual contact, and three specifications of conduct unbecoming an officer. Subject was sentenced to confinement for 1 year and a dismissal. During demerency, the general court-martial convening authority disapproved the findings of guilty and the sentence. As a result Subject is no longer required to register as a sex offender. |   |

Victim consumed several mixed alcoholic drinks and was not used to drinking alcohol. Subject had a couple of alcoholic drinks, but was not intoxicated. Victim danced with Subject and Subject left the party with her and accompanied her back to her dorm room. Once inside, Victim and Subject had oral and vaginal intercourse. The next day, Victim felt like she would not have had sex if she were sober and reported the incident as a sexual assault. Victim agreed to an interview and said the sexual acts were consensual. Victim also stated she was aware of her actions during the incident. After receiving the report, the commander preferred charges for rape, forcible sodomy, and failure to obey a lawful order. Following the Article 32 hearing, the Investigating Officer recommended not going forward with the case. The special court-martial convening authority dismissed the charges.  |   |

Subject and Victim were drinking alcohol, although Victim was underage. Subject escorted Victim back to Subject's hotel room where they engaged in sexual intercourse and other sexual activity approximately five times. Victim recalls some of the sexual activity, but states she backed out at some point. The next morning, she woke up sore and she was partially undressed. Later the next day, Victim sent Subject a message and asked him what happened. He replied that the sex was a "good workout." Before the night in question, Victim and Subject had a previous relationship. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for sexual assault. Following the Article 32 hearing, Victim stated she did not want to participate in any further proceedings. As a result the special court-martial convening authority dismissed the charges. Subsequently, Subject was administratively discharged with a General service characterization.  |   |

While out to dinner with other co-workers and Victim, Subject flirted with Victim. After reviewing the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander determined there was probable cause only for a non-sexual assault offense. The commander offered Subject nonjudicial punishment for dereliction of duty for engaging in an unprofessional relationship. The commander imposed punishment of a suspended reduction in grade to E-5 and a reprimand.  |

Subject left the party with his wife and then came back to the party. At that time Victim was asleep on a sofa. Victim stated she woke up and Subject was half laying on top of her legs on the sofa. She motioned to other Airmen to get Subject off of her and they woke up and told Subject to sleep on the floor, which he did. Victim fell back asleep and woke up and felt Subject's mouth on her vagina. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for aggravated sexual assault, abusive sexual contact, wrongful sexual contact, and assault consummated by a battery. Following the Article 32 hearing, the general court-martial convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. The incident acts charge was dismissed. Subject was convicted of wrongful sexual contact and acquitted of aggravated sexual assault and abusive sexual contact. Subject was sentenced to confinement for 45 days, a bad conduct discharge, and reduction in grade to E-1.  |   |

When Subject arrived, Victim relayed that she had been drinking alcohol. Victim and Subject watched movies while Victim continued to drink alcohol. After several hours, Victim initiated kissing with Subject and brought Subject into her bedroom and put her hand down his pants. Subject undressed and removed Victim's clothes and they continued to kiss and Subject digitally penetrated Victim. Subject then engaged in vaginal intercourse. Victim stated that she was comfortable with everything except the intercourse and did not want it to go that far. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the initial disposition authority determined there was probable cause only for a non-sexual assault offense. The commander issued an LOC to Subject. |  |

She reported waking up in the morning with her clothes off feeling as though she had sex. The next night Subject rolled her over and Victim pretended to sleep while Subject had intercourse with her. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for aggravated sexual assault. Prior to the Article 32 hearing, the Victim declined to participate. Subsequently the special court-martial convening authority determined there was insufficient evidence to proceed without the Victim's participation. No action was taken in this case.   |

When Victim arrived Subject stated "whatever happens in his house, stays at his house." Later in the evening when Victim was outside on the phone, Subject began to rub Victim's leg up near his pocket and then moved his hand to touch the lining of Victim's underwear. When Victim got the phone, they talked about what happened and the Subject made an offer to commit a sex act with him. Victim indicated he did not want to participate and Subject stated "she will stand up for you" and then changed his mind. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander offered Subject nonjudicial punishment for abusive sexual contact. The commander imposed punishment of suspended reduction in grade to E-3, forfeiture of $200/month for 2 months, and a reprimand. Subject was subsequently administratively discharged with a General Service characterization.  |

They all returned to a hotel room that they shared. Victim reported that she woke up in the hotel room alone with Subject wearing only a shirt and could not remember what happened the night before. Victim stated that she asked Subject what happened and he said that they had sex and she was not sure if she had given consent. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred a charge for aggravated sexual assault. Following the Article 32 hearing, the general court-martial convening authority determined the charge due to the Investigating Officer's recommendation that the case should not go forward to trial.   |

Local law enforcement responded to a call that Victim was walking down the street wearing only a shirt. Subject stated that he and Victim had consensual sex and he had given her cab fare and she had left. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for rape, aggravated sexual assault, and unlawful possession of drugs. Following the Article 32 hearing, the general court-martial convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Victim subsequently declined to participate or respond to the subpoena. As a result, the general court-martial convening authority dismissed the charges.   |

Victim #1 engaged in consensual kissing with Subject and consented to Subject removing her underwear and digitally penetrating her. Later in the evening Victim #1 and Subject were in the same bed and Subject rolled Victim #1 onto her back, removed her underwear and began digitally penetrating her without her consent. Victim #1 told Subject to stop, but Subject penetrated her with his penis. At an another point in the evening Victim #2 was in the bathroom because she felt sick. Subject came up behind her and began to touch her. Victim #2 said "No," but Subject turned Victim #2 around and forced his penis inside her vagina from behind. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for rape. Following the Article 32 investigation, the convening authority dismissed the charges due to the Investigating Officer's recommendation not to go forward with the case.  |

Victim began to feel sick and informed the group she was going back to her dorm. Subject offered to walk her back. As they started walking, Subject led Victim in a direction away from her dorm. Subject pushed Victim against a wall and attempted to kiss her. Victim said "No." Subject then pushed Victim to the ground, exposed his penis, and attempted to get her to perform oral sex on him. Victim fought back. Subject ripped off Victim's leggings and underwear, held her down by her wrists and forearms and penetrated her vagina with his penis and then flipped her over and orally sodomized her with his penis. After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges of rape and forcible sodomy. Following the Article 32 hearing, the general court-martial convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Subject was convicted of one specification of rape and one specification of forcible sodomy. Subject was sentenced to confinement for 3 years, a dishonorable discharge, total forfeiture of all pay and allowances, reduction to E-1, and a reprimand. |

After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for rape and conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman. Following the Article 32 hearing, the general court-martial convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Subject was convicted of sexual assault and conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman. Subject was sentenced to confinement for 2 years and 3 months, and a dismissal.  |

After receiving the report of investigation and consulting with the Staff Judge Advocate, the commander preferred charges for aggravated sexual contact and wrongful sexual contact. Following the Article 32 hearing, the convening authority referred the charges to a general court-martial. Subject was convicted of aggravated sexual contact and the wrongful sexual contact charge was dismissed. Subject was sentenced to confinement for 6 months, a bad conduct discharge, and reduction to E-1. |

MEMORANDUM FOR UNDER SECRETARY OF DEFENSE FOR PERSONNEL AND READINESS

SUBJECT: 2013 National Guard Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) Program
Review for Department of Defense (DoD) SAPR Office Annual Report to Congress

As requested, the attached National Guard SAPR program review is provided for inclusion in the DoD Annual Report on Sexual Assault in the Military. The Fiscal Year (FY) 2013 SAPR program review details National Guard efforts to address the five Lines of Effort and the Secretary of Defense Initiatives for Title 32 Service members.

The National Guard remains committed to pursuing a multidisciplinary approach to reducing incidents of sexual assault, with the ultimate goal of eliminating all sexual assault. Prevention and response achievements—enhanced legal assistance, improved victim advocacy and support, sustained senior leader engagement, targeted training to raise awareness, enhanced program evaluation through targeted measures—have significantly strengthened our SAPR program's range and increased stakeholder confidence.

The National Guard Bureau Office of Complex Administrative Investigations (NGB-JA/OCI) is a vital resource for investigating reports of sexual assault involving Title 32 Service members when Military Criminal Investigative Organization or civilian law enforcement declines to investigate. The NGB-JA/OCI investigators receive training at the Military Police Investigator School, which equips them with specialized skills to conduct SA investigations. NGB-JA/OCI investigators use of military best practices makes possible their ability to provide state leaders with valuable information essential to determine appropriate case outcome.

SAPR personnel in the States, Territories, and the District of Columbia have expanded their partnerships with civilian organizations, resulting in innovative and inspirational initiatives. The Wisconsin National Guard (WING) collaborated with the Custom Canines Service Dog Academy to secure the first National Guard SAPR service dog, "Falcon," to assist victims of sexual assault. Falcon accompanies his handler, a WING Victim Advocate Coordinator, during unit visits and is used in almost every facet of outreach and advocacy. His presence has increased Service members' comfort levels by reducing anxiety and stress during their interactions with SAPR personnel. Similarly, the Illinois National Guard built partnerships in this state, which have led to the coordination and hosting of a series of Military Sexual Trauma (MST) 101 workshops for behavioral health providers. These are but a few examples of the tremendous work being done as a result of military and community efforts. Lastly, the National Guard Bureau is in the final stages of standing up its Special Victims' Counsel Program to provide legal assistance to sexual assault victims.

National Guard senior leaders, throughout FY 2013, received pertinent presentations at Guard Senior Leadership Conferences led by nationally recognized subject matter experts. Our leaders were briefed on offender behavior, victimization, and victim-blaming, and advised on the importance of increasing confidence in reporting systems. These opportunities for spirited discussion increased awareness and encouraged leadership to use all available options for holding offenders appropriately accountable. Our leaders are resolved to protect the dignity and respect of our members.

Unique to the National Guard is our 40-hour Sexual Assault Response Coordinator (SARC) and SAPR Victim Advocate (VA) Initial Training Course, designed for executing program requirements for members in Title 32 status. We have developed interactive methods to deliver core competencies and learning objectives, and recently expanded the training to include a block on male victimization. The National Guard was cited by the DoD SAPR Office as the only Component to address the subject of male victimization in its initial VA training; this was presented to other Services as a “best practice.”

Our National Guard Metrics Dashboard, aligned with the five Lines of Effort, serves as the basis for improving prevention and response metrics in the National Guard. These 32 dashboard measures help State leaders maintain oversight of their execution of program requirements. They are instrumental in reviewing and evaluating guiding programmatic elements.

We will continue to build on the successes we have made and capitalize on those from others. You have my assurance that we will employ every means available to create and sustain a climate where all of our members reject behavior that falls short of the high standards set for the U.S. Armed Forces.

Your point of contact is Brigadier General Ivan E. Denton, Director of Manpower and Personnel, National Guard Joint Staff, at (703) 604-9540.

Fiscal Year (FY) 2013 Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) Program Review: National Guard Bureau (NGB)

Executive Summary

The following Executive Summary Template should be used to capture a summary of your Service or Component FY13 SAPR Program Review. This overview should include information such as:

- Authorizing regulations and/or instructions and dates of publication.
- General organizational structure of your SAPR program and personnel (e.g., Brigade, Installation, Regional, and/or Major Command Sexual Assault Response Coordinator [SARC] and SAPR Victim Advocate [VA] structure, mid-level program management [if any], and program management) as well as a brief description of how this structure changes in deployed and joint environments.
- Other personnel involved and their respective roles in your SAPR program.
- A summary of the progress made and principal challenges confronted by your SAPR program in FY13.

The National Guard (NG) SAPR program is designed to aid in the prevention of and response to sexual assault (SA) incidents for NG members in Title 32 (T32) status under the authority of the governors and mayor of District of Columbia (DC) (hereinafter referred to as “the governors of the several states”); and, The Adjutants General (TAGs) and commanding general of DC (hereinafter referred to as “TAGs”). The NG SAPR Program is premised on Department of Defense (DoD) Directive (DoDD) 6495.01 (23 Jan 12), DOD Instruction (DoDI) 6495.02 (28 Mar 13), and Secretary of Defense (SecDef) Memoranda to the extent applicable to NG members under T32 United States Code (U.S.C.). In accordance with (IAW) DoDI 6495.02, Enclosure 2, paragraph 7, Chief, National Guard Bureau (CNGB), in coordination with DoD SAPR Office (SAPRO) and TAGs, established and implemented these SAPR policies and procedures, which address unique issues for NG members of the 54 states, territories and DC (hereinafter referred to as “the states”) on T32 duty and include:

- CNGB Instruction (CNGBI) 1303.01, “Expedited Transfer of Military Service Members Who File Unrestricted Reports of Sexual Assault” (6 Aug 12)
- CNGBI 0400.01, “Chief, National Guard Bureau Office of Complex Administrative Investigations” (30 Jul 12)
- CNGB Manual (CNGBM) 0400.01, “Chief, National Guard Bureau Office of Complex Administrative Investigations” (8 Nov 12)

The Army National Guard (ARNG) executes its Sexual Harassment/Assault Response and Prevention (SHARP) program IAW U.S. Army Regulation (AR) 600-20, Chapter 8 (20 Sep 12), applicable All Army Activities (ALARACT) messages, and Headquarters Executive Orders (HQ EXORD). The Air National Guard (ANG), implements its SAPR program utilizing U.S. Air Force Instruction (AFI) 36-6001 (14 Oct 10); Air Force Policy Directive (AFPD) 36-60 (28 Mar 08); and, other applicable AF policies.

The NG SAPR program organizational structure includes the NG-J1-SAPR office led by the NG-J1-SAPR Chief, who serves as the principle advisor to CNGB, J1 Director, and other key NG leaders on all SAPR related issues. This office is divided into four functional areas: Strategy and Policy; Prevention and Outreach; Data Collection and System Management; and, Accountability and Assessment.

The ARNG-G1 SHARP and ANG/A1 SAPR offices are located at the ARNG and ANG Directorates, respectively, and are responsible for their Service specific program execution, and response to issues within their Service. The ARNG-G1 SHARP office consists of the Branch Chief, Resilience, Reduction and Suicide Prevention Soldier and Family Support; SAPR/SHARP Program Manager (PM); Incident Coordinator; Program Analyst; SHARP Non-Commissioned Officer in Charge (NCOIC); and, SHARP Data Management Specialist. The ANG/A1 SAPR office consists of the Chief, Services Division; Branch Chief, SAPR program; and, SAPR Program Assistant.

The states possess the bulk of the SAPR program staff. The ANG SAPR program consists of 92 Wing SARCs, and 487 SAPR VAs. Since 2008, the states have met the National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA) FY12 requirement for a full-time (FT) SARC at the Joint Force Headquarters (JFHQ), and are aggressively working to hire a FT JFHQ-State Victim Advocate Coordinator (VAC). The JFHQ-State SARC serves as the SAPR PM for the state, and is responsible for reporting all ARNG/ANG SA reports within the state to TAG. The ARNG meets the requirement for a trained collateral duty SARC and SAPR VA at each brigade level command, and two trained collateral duty SAPR VAs in each battalion level command.

SAPR program implementation and management is assumed by the Active Component (AC) for NG members deployed for over 30 days. Incumbent SAPR personnel within deploying units continue to perform their duties consistent with Title 10 (T10) requirements. If the JFHQ-State SARC deploys, the state may hire a temporary technician, or utilize the JFHQ-State VAC to backfill the position until the SARC returns.

NGB SAPR Joint Planning Team (JPT) serves in an advisory role and is comprised of The Special Assistant (TSA) to CNGB, NG-J1 Director, NGB Chief Counsel, NGB-Judge Advocate (JA)/Office of Complex Administrative Investigation (OI), NGB Legislative Liaison, Joint Surgeon General, NGB Director of Psychological Health & Resiliency Program, Joint Chaplain, Counter Drug (Prevention, Treatment, and Outreach), NGB Inspector General, and NG Public Affairs. The Vice Chief, NGB (VCNGB) serves as the NG representative to address SA issues at the DoD, SecDef, and White House levels.

FY13 Program progresses:

- Increase to NG SAPR Office manning, creation of organizational structure, and defined roles and responsibilities
- Development of NG SAPR program metrics and Guard Knowledge Online (GKO) dashboard, measuring over 30 data points for the states
- NG SAPR participation in DoD Metrics Working Group, DoD SAPRO Prevention

Roundtable, DoD Sexual Assault Advocate Certification Program (D-SAACP) Military Advisory Group, and SAPRO Online Training SME Meeting

- SMEs contracted for TAG leadership trainings and engagements at Guard Senior Leader Conferences (GSLC) and briefings for Updates (GSLU)
- NG's implementation of Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database (DSAID) for all reported incidents of SA
- Approval of NG T32 specific SARC/SAPR VA training by DoD and National Organization for Victim Assistance (NOVA); segment on male victimization cited as a "best practice"
- Increased visibility and participation at SAPR focused DoD TANKs, and White House Health of Force Working/Coordinating Group meetings
- Chaplain core competency requirements briefings
- Augmenting state SAPR staff with a JFHQ-State VAC
- Execution of all SecDef initiatives to the fullest extent possible despite time limitations associated with "traditional" status NG members

FY13 principle challenges:

- Ability to meet all DoD requirements prior to increase in staffing
- Incompatibility between Department of the Army (DA) Incident Case Reporting System (ICRS) and DSAID during SA case transfer
- Short suspense/implementation time to accomplish SecDef mandated Stand Down
- Manning and productivity shortfall due to fiscal uncertainty, furlough, NDAA mandate prohibiting contractors from working as SARCs, and no increase to technician manning
- Ensuring sexual harassment (SH) complaints by ARNG members are appropriately coordinated between State Equal Employment Manager (SEEM) and SHARP/SARC
- Complying with NDAA FY12 due to use of collateral duty personnel (e.g. Wing Executive Support Officer (WESO)) and volunteers as wing SARCs and SAPR VAs

1. Line of Effort (LOE) 1—Prevention—The objective of prevention is to “deliver consistent and effective prevention methods and programs.”

1.1 Summarize your Service or Component’s efforts to achieve the Prevention Endstate: “cultural imperatives of mutual respect and trust, professional values, and team commitment are reinforced to create an environment where sexual assault is not tolerated, condoned, or ignored.”

The NG fulfilled the requirements of the SAPR initiatives directed by the SecDef memoranda “Sexual Assault Prevention and Response,” dated May 6, 2013 and Aug 14, 2013. These initiatives were designed to strengthen the SAPR program with the goal of reducing, and eventually eliminating sexual assault within DoD. IAW the May 6, 2013 SecDef memorandum, to aid in creating a climate of dignity and respect, the ARNG successfully conducted a visual inspection of 241 armories, camps and posts, to ensure all workplaces were free from materials that created a degrading or offensive work environment. All inspections were conducted by a colonel (O6), GS15, or above. Prior to this SecDef directive, the AF included the ANG in the FY13 AF Health and Wellness visual inspection. The AF inspections were conducted by First Sergeants or commanders and included facilities at 89 ANG wings and geographically separated units. The ARNG and ANG ordered all flagged items removed from the workplace and counseled the identified owner of the expectations going forward. All NG leaders have committed to making workplace inspections an on-going requirement, as this activity is essential to good order and discipline.

All NG units/organizations successfully completed the Defense Equal Opportunity Management Institute (DEOMI) Organizational Climate Survey (DEOCS). Survey results were forwarded to the first general officer in the chain of command. The ARNG and ANG also conducted a records review of all recruiters, Active Guard Reserves (AGR), and collateral duty SAPR personnel to ensure each met the suitability requirements. The ARNG conducted initial and broadened screenings for over 2,839 full-time and collateral duty SARC/SAPR VAs. A review of T32 civilian technician personnel was also conducted following completion of all legal and labor relations requirements. All FT JFHQ-State SARCs and collateral duty Wing SARCs received ethics and responsibility Refresher Training, June 11–13 2013. This training culminated with the CNGB addressing the SARCs via teleconference on Jun 13, 2013. While outlining the NGB SAPR strategy for the Stand Down, he emphasized their importance to the overall success of the program. The ANG Readiness Center Commander held a teleconference on 3 Jul 13 for Wing, Vice Wing Commanders, and SARCs to provide them with the necessary tools to deliver ethics training to their SAPR personnel.

On May 23, 2013, the CNGB directed the ARNG and ANG to implement the SAPR Stand Down directives mandated by the SecDef. Emphasis was placed on ensuring all NG members understood the SAPR principles and their responsibility to uphold them. At a GSLC on Jun 20, 2013, the CNGB engaged with TAGs on SAPR issues, the Stand Down directives, and their responsibilities for implementation. TAGs also received training from Dr. Gail Stern, a subject matter expert on sexual assault in the military, on “Moral Development Education: Sexual Assault Prevention in the Military, Leadership and Response.” The key message conveyed to TAGs was the criticality for each of them to extend the SAPR message to their state/territory/DC leadership and the importance of their senior leaders to train subordinate leaders down to the flight or company level.

In addition to completing all required SHARP Stand Down training, to include Commander and SAPR VA Refresher training, the ARNG also conducted Commander/Unit Leader Engagement Training. This engagement training was not the required annual SHARP training, but was used to ensure soldiers were not only educated on SHARP, but that they understood CNGB’s message. “Sexual assault is a crime...a persistent problem that violates everything we stand for. We must do everything we can to protect our men and women from sexual assault, and those who would attack their dignity and their honor.” This engagement training used a holistic approach which encouraged commanders to engage soldiers, and openly discuss issues, and concerns surrounding the prevention of sexual harassment/assault. Also discussed was the Soldiers' individual responsibility for maintaining a climate of dignity and respect. The ARNG will continue to implement the Stand Down model as part of its overall SHARP training strategy. Over the course of FY13, the ARNG trained an additional 1,175 Soldiers in the 80-Hour SHARP course. The ARNG continued to utilize the three-tiered annual SHARP Refresher Unit Training model, which included Leader, Individual, and Interactive Team Bound Training Modules. The NG encourages the JFHQ-State SARC's to conduct their own state SAPR VA training with NG SAPR program office support and oversight. Lastly, the ARNG submitted 2,351 certification packets for NOVA/D-SAACP certification, exceeding the minimum requirement of 1,864. Of these, 1,878 received certification.

The ANG implemented the following additional measures to meet the goal of preventing sexual assault:

- The ANG submitted 184 ANG SARC and 434 ANG SAPR VA NOVA/D-SAACP certifications in FY13
- Continued to assess the sexual assault response process from the moment the SARC received notification of a sexual assault through the initial meeting with the victim. The assessment focused on ensuring the processes were followed correctly, and the victim received priority of care and privacy
  - Initiated a marketing campaign, which included posting SAPR information throughout work and community areas on the installation, and use of social media to increase program awareness
    - Incorporated small group interaction for SAPR discussion, reinforcing cultural and climate changes consistent with a lack of tolerance for sexual harassment/assault
    - Trained all levels of leadership to identify, act and take responsibility for creating an environment where sexual assault is not tolerated, condoned or ignored
    - Conducted Commander's and Officer's calls to set the tone and establish a positive climate

NGB-JA/OCI under the Office of the Chief Counsel of NGB (NGB-JA) conducted Sexual Assault Investigator Refresher Training for its investigators on 20-21 August, 2013, to provide training on essential tasks IAW DoD and Service requirements. The training session provided best practices on sexual assault investigation techniques and experiences to give investigators an understanding of the administrative processes involved in preparing, conducting, and completing investigations. The desired endstate is to increase efficiency of the process, and quality of the final report. During FY13, 89 investigators received this training.

1.2 Identify the ways you are changing organizational prevention-based practices.

The NGB increased its emphasis on senior leader involvement in SAPR efforts. During FY13, the CNGB, VCNGB, Directors of the ARNG and ANG (DARNG and DANG), TSA to the CNGB, and Director, Domestic Operations and Force Development were briefed regularly on the progress of unit level sexual assault prevention and response training, and the completion of relevant initiatives directed by the SecDef. The quarterly GSLC and bi-weekly GSLU provided the forum for the deliverance of three SAPR presentations by nationally recognized subject matter experts, and emphasizing the influence TAGs and senior leaders have on the effectiveness of the state's SAPR program. The compelling messages aided in strengthening TAG and senior leader overall knowledge base. As a tool to help TAGs and JFHQ-State SARC's stay informed on all aspects of their SAPR program, the NG SAPR dashboard was developed and housed on GKO. This information is available to TAGs, Chiefs of Staff, JFHQ-State SARC's, JFHQ-State VAC's and Wing SARC's, to keep them apprised of their state's status as it relates to NG SAPR metrics. The NG's measures are aligned with the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) Five Lines of Efforts - prevention, investigation, accountability, assessment, and advocacy. The dashboard is updated quarterly and serves as a quick indicator of the overall health of each state's SAPR program, a snapshot of areas where improvements were made, and identifies areas in need of improvement.

As the basis for its training program, the ARNG continued to use the three-tiered SHARP Annual Refresher Training, and incorporated bystander intervention as a standard training module. However, a significant change is to encourage a more holistic practice by unit leadership to engage their Service members in conversations, and discuss the issues and concerns most important to them as it relates to sexual assault prevention and response. Additionally, the ARNG exceeded the minimum state requirement for full-time and collateral duty SARC's and SAPR VAs.

The ANG continued to educate and train its members with an emphasis on risk reduction and increased bystander intervention. In addition to the standard training programs, the ANG began regularly submitting articles and advertising resources, and SAPR processes through social media and base newspapers, including articles on the ramifications of committing sexual assault with a focus on prosecution and/or administrative consequences. This helped to ensure leaders were informed on local trends in the military and media related incidents. Another technique ANG used to engage its members was through holding small group discussions in offices with personnel without supervisor presence. To keep the lines of communication open regarding sexual assault prevention, the ANG SAPR program worked with organizations like the Chief's Council, Top-3, and Non-Commissioned Officer (NCO) and Airmen organizations, soliciting valuable feedback and reinforcing Wingman and other safety-driven concepts. Lastly, individual Wing SARC's utilized AF produced video recordings in their program to help raise awareness of sexual assault prevention.

In July 2013, NG-J1 conducted the Annual First Responder training for medical personnel, which included military, civilian, and contractors. A total of 234 personnel attended the training. A breakdown of the personnel included: five Medical Administrators; 37 Case Managers; 29 RN Case Managers; 67 Directors of Psychological Health; 14 Deputy State Surgeons; six Medical Personnel; and, 76 unspecified positions/titles.

1.3 Describe your efforts to comply with DoD SAPR core competencies for all SAPR training to ensure consistency. Include Professional Military Education,

Pre-Command, and Senior Enlisted training.

During FY12, the NG finalized the D-SAACP 40-hour initial SARC, SAPR VA, and JFHQ-State VAC Training Certification Course that incorporated NG specific issues. This course was designed to meet DoD SAPRO and DoD D-SAACP standards for initial training of SARCs, SAPR VAs, and JFHQ-State VACs. In FY13, this curriculum was observed and reviewed by a DoD SAPRO team and certified as meeting all core competency standards. This course is a requirement for all newly identified SARCs, SAPR VAs and JFHQ-State VACs within the NG prior to assuming their new role within the state SAPR program. In addition to the training identified above, all ARNG SARCs, SAPR VAs, and JFHQ-State VACs must complete the 80-hour SHARP course as a part of their certification process. In FY13, this training was conducted by Army contracted mobile training teams; 40-hours of the training focused on SH and 40-hours on SAPR. In turn, JFHQ-State SARCs and SAPR VAs support annual unit and leader refresher training requirements. The 80-hour course also supports SAPR/SHARP training in Army Professional Military Education (PME), Pre-Command, and Senior Enlisted training and courses.

The ANG utilizes the Headquarters Air Force (HAF) standardized annual SAPR training for all Airmen. The new Senior Leader course was piloted in February 2013, and the new SARC course will be piloted in November. Other AF SAPR-related training includes annual refresher, pre-deployment, PME specific, post-deployment, military recruiter, and first responder training.

1.4 Describe your progress in implementing the findings and recommendations from the SAPR Initial Military Training reviews. Include your efforts to enhance accession training by including SAPR policies and implementation of SAPR training within 14 days of entrance to active duty.

IAW NG SAPR program policy guidance, new recruits receive initial SAPR training while in the Recruit Sustainment Programs or Student Flight Programs. Additional SAPR training requirements upon entry onto active duty to complete accession training are accomplished by the respective Service.

1.5 Identify specific SAPR monitoring, measures, and education that impart individual skills associated with bystander intervention and appropriate risk reduction that does not blame victims.

The NG 40-hour initial SARC/SAPR VA training course specifically addresses bystander intervention and emphatically stresses the commander's responsibility to reduce the risk for opportunities by the subject to commit sexual assault through assessment of command climate and safety concerns. The curriculum provides SARC/SAPR VA with tools and skills to empower victims in the recovery process and move away from self-blame. Additionally, as part of annual SHARP training, the ARNG incorporates individual and unit level training that focuses on individual bystander intervention techniques and reducing stigma that may interfere with victims reporting sexual harassment and sexual assault.

In order to raise awareness, the ANG incorporated subject matter expert videos into training that described “victim blaming.” The Wing SARCs also collaborated with local treatment centers to educate on the “rule of three” message of “if you see something/say something/do something” in regards to bystander intervention, and encouraged training attendees to complete class evaluations. The ANG’s Training and Awareness campaigns reinforced a Wingman’s responsibility in high risk situations, provided intervention options, and furnished techniques for assessing inappropriate behavior.

1.6 Describe your efforts to establish policies that create and sustain safe environments free of sexual assault. Include policies and practices that address alcohol consumption and barracks/dormitories visitation.

TAGs are responsible for the policies governing the NG members within their state. These policies include, but are not limited to, the following areas that have relevance in creating and sustaining a safe environment free from sexual assault: Drug and Alcohol Abuse Policy; Alcohol Consumption; Equal Opportunity; Prevention of Sexual Harassment; and, Prevention of Workplace Violence. Many TAGs have incorporated special messages regarding their SH and SA policies on state NG websites to ensure that all NG members and employees understand that sexual harassment and sexual assault are not condoned or tolerated. Commanders are responsible for establishing policies relating to the conduct of their unit members during Unit Training Assemblies (UTAs), and Annual Training (AT).

Since the ARNG or ANG do not have NG members residing in billets or dormitories on a routine basis, policies only exist for those special circumstances during AT or UTAs. At NG training facilities, such as the Professional Education Center (PEC), ANG Training and Education Center (TEC), and, Regional Training Institutes (RTIs), policies exist that address the expected conduct of NG members while at a training facility. Some of these policies include requirements for doors to be kept open when visitors are present, and not permitting guests to spend the night.

During the ARNG SHARP Program Stand Down messaging in FY13, the DARNG reinforced SHARP implementation guidance, focusing on behaviors such as limiting the use of alcohol, confronting inappropriate behavior, and other activities geared toward helping create and sustain a safe environment.

The ANG also utilized SAPR videos, training, and community resources during the ANG SAPR Stand Down trainings to impart techniques on creating and sustaining a safe environment, such as minimizing alcohol consumption.

1.7 Describe progress, assessment, efforts, and/or approved plans for requiring commanders to conduct an organizational climate assessment within 120 days of assuming command and annually thereafter. Include policy for providing results to the next level in the chain of command.

The ARNG will implement and support commander/unit climate assessments IAW the SecDef 6 May 2013 SAPR memo and AR 600-20, “Army Command Policy” (20 Sep 12).

Upon receiving new HAF guidance based on the following proposed guidance pursuant to FY13 NDAA, the ANG will implement as directed:

- Ensure commanders of each military command and commanders of subordinate units of 50 or more persons conduct a climate assessment within 120 days after assumption of command, and annually thereafter while retaining command. Organizations or units of less than 50 Service members shall be surveyed with a larger unit in the command to ensure anonymity and to provide the opportunity for all military personnel to participate in the climate assessment process
- Ensure climate assessments provide an opportunity for Service members to express their opinions regarding the manner and the extent to which their leaders, including commanders, respond to reports of sexual assault and complaints of sexual harassment
- Provide the results and analysis of annual climate surveys to the commander requesting the survey, and to the commander at the next level in the chain of command as soon as possible, but no later than 30 days after receiving the survey results
- The Equal Opportunity (EO) Office will continue to partner with the JFHQ-State SARC to brief the commander on the results of the climate assessment. SAPR survey data will remain with the JFHQ-State SARC, and be briefed by the JFHQ-State SARC, while EO survey results will be briefed by the EO Practitioner

1.8 Describe collaboration efforts concerning prevention with external experts, federal partners (e.g. NATO), advocacy organizations, and educational institutions, to include prevention subject matter experts. Describe results and/or implementations of lessons learned from collaboration efforts.

With its members being part of the civilian workforce, the NG is in a unique position to reach out and collaborate with subject matter experts (SMEs) from a host of organizations, agencies and institutions as a result of its community based structure, These relationships have been of benefit to the NG SAPR program and serves to improve the number and quality of services to our NG communities. Due to a lack of first-hand knowledge of the NG SAPR program, the positive relationships developed through open communication between military and civilian resource providers helped dispel many misconceptions. This improved understanding of the NG SAPR program has elevated the level of interest, and the desire of these organizations, agencies, and institutions to engage in a partnership.

The JFHQ and Wing SAPR programs have established partnerships with many local and regional Rape Crisis Centers, Departments of Veteran Affairs, Police Departments, Domestic Violence Centers, Academic Institutions, Department of Homeland Security Anti-Trafficking programs, Law Enforcement, and Child Advocacy Victim Advocates. A specific example in Kentucky (KY) was the establishment of a 40-hour training course, recognized by NOVA, through a collaborative effort between the JFHQ-State SAPR office and the KY Victim's Assistance Academy Steering Committee and Western Kentucky University. The first course was conducted in May 2013 for victim advocates from across the state at no cost to the attendees. All expenses for each attendee were paid by a scholarship made available through a grant. Successful completion of this course can be used toward certification through the National Advocate Credentialing Program (NACP). One of the strongest partnerships built in KY is with the Kentucky Association of Sexual Assault Programs (KASAP), which consists of 13 different agencies. This partnership opened the door to services available at all 13 Regional Rape Crisis Centers throughout the state. During Sexual Assault Awareness Month (SAAM), the KY JFHQ-State SAPR office provided a guest speaker for a KASAP sponsored awareness effort. This event has led to numerous requests from civilian organizations and agencies for training at various venues and locations. Increasing awareness and understanding of the NG program has provided greater opportunity for NG members to obtain the training, support and services needed for those who assist victims, as well as the sexual assault victims themselves. The state SAPR programs also invited renowned SAPR SMEs, such as representatives of "Men Can Stop Rape (MCSR)", to awareness events and to conduct training. Numerous state SAPR teams participated in webinars and lent support to training events with local sexual assault treatment centers, and state organizations against sexual assault.

These partnerships are not limited to the state level. At the NGB level, there was a consolidated effort to engage participation by National SMEs to make presentations at the FY13 GSLC. Prominent SMEs have made significant contributions to military SAPR programs, including Dr. Gail Stern, Anne Munch, and Russell Strand.

1.9 Describe your efforts to establish and implement policies that prevent individuals convicted of a Federal or State offense of rape, sexual abuse, sexual assault, incest, or other sexual offenses, from being provided a waiver for commissioning or enlistment in the Armed Forces.

Army Directive 2013-21 (Initiating Separation Proceedings and Prohibiting Overseas Assignment for Soldiers Convicted of Sex Offenses) was released in November 2013. The ARNG is developing its own policy to ensure that individuals with a substantiated conviction of sexual assault are not provided a waiver for commissioning or enlistment in the ARNG.

Per ARNG Accession Options Criteria (AOC) – FY13/14, First Edition, 22 Apr 13, if an ARNG applicant has been charged with any type of sex crime, regardless of its final disposition, their application requires a suitability review by the ARNG National Security Manager. IAW AR 601-210 paragraph 4-22v, if that disposition is determined to be of an adverse nature, the individual is not permitted to enlist. Additionally, all misconduct waivers of a sexual nature are covered under the suspension policy, Strength Management Office Memorandum (SMOM) 12-080. This SMOM states: "In July 2009, the Office of the Under Secretary of Defense (OUSD) issued guidance prohibiting the enlistment or commissioning of individuals with felony convictions for sexual assault. In an effort to reinforce and ensure compliance to this policy, enlistment or commissioning of any individual with a conviction or adverse adjudication for a felony or misdemeanor sexual offense is prohibited and no waivers are authorized."

The ARNG has established an Adverse Action Cell within the G1-Human Resources

Personnel (HRP) Division that has the responsibility to screen for derogatory information for full-time and collateral duty SARC/SAPR VAs, and Recruiting & Retention personnel.

ANG Recruiters follow AFI 36-2002 and ANGI 36-2002, which specifically prohibit individuals convicted of a federal or state offense of rape, sexual abuse, sexual assault, incest, or other sexual offenses, from being provided a waiver for commissioning or enlistment in the Air Force or the Air National Guard. ANG recruiters adhere to this policy and will not process the enlistment for potential recruits who are disqualified due to these offenses.

1.10 Describe your plans for FY14 that pertain to delivering consistent and effective prevention methods and programs, including how these efforts will help your Service plan, resource, and make progress in your SAPR program.

The ARNG will continue to support and resource unit level SHARP Annual Refresher Training and to send Soldiers to the 80-Hour SHARP course to become trained SARC/SAPR VAs in FY14. In doing so, the ARNG will increase the number of SAPR VAs within each of the states to support prevention, and provide advocacy services to Soldiers and victims of sexual assault. Through command led refresher training, and growing the number of trained collateral duty SARC/SAPR VAs, the ARNG will maximize unit level prevention.

Designed to ensure consistent, effective prevention methods and programs are delivered to all ANG Service members, the following efforts will be executed in FY14:

- Implement suggestions from evaluations and display specific data through social media
- Incorporate more training from local SAPR resource providers
- Establish sexual violence prevention training and awareness programs to educate Service members, civilian employees, and family members
- Provide sensitive and comprehensive advocacy to restore victims' health and well-being
- Ensure leaders understand their roles and responsibilities regarding response to sexual violence, and take appropriate administrative and disciplinary action as determined by investigative outcome and SJA recommendations

2. LOE 2—Investigation—The objective of investigation is to “achieve high competence in the investigation of sexual assault.”

2.1 Summarize your Service or Component’s efforts to achieve the Investigation Endstate: “investigative resources yield timely and accurate results.”

The NG faced unique challenges to ensure the availability of investigative resources for sexual assault reports involving NG members in T32 status. Military Criminal Investigative Organizations (MCIO) do not have jurisdiction to investigate T32 sexual assault crimes when the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) is not applicable. Civilian law enforcement, under whose jurisdiction the offense falls, may decline to investigate if criminality is not clear or supported by the civilian criminal codes, or if significant time has passed since the sexual assault was committed. IAW JCS and DoD guidance, sexual assault investigations must be conducted by trained investigators. However, for many NG localities, specialized sexual assault investigators are not available or do not exist within the NG. To counter this insufficiency, CNGB directed NGB-JA to stand up the NGB-JA/OCI to assist TAGs in investigating sexual assaults.

The NGB-JA/OCI is a NGB centrally managed cadre of Military Police Investigator School trained investigators, whose specialized training includes investigation of reports of sexual assault. Although located in the National Capital Region (NCR), this resource is available to respond nationally. In the event a sexual assault is reported and MCIO or civilian law enforcement elects not to investigate, at TAG request, the NGB-JA/OCI can provide fully funded investigative capability to perform investigations. This process is discussed with the State Staff Judge Advocate (SJA) to determine whether a sufficient NG nexus exists to initiate the investigation or whether the matter should be addressed through the Inspector General (IG), Military (EO) or EEO channels. If a NG nexus is determined, investigators are assigned to conduct the investigation. Following the investigation, a memorandum, executive summary, and investigative file are prepared and reviewed by the Chief of NGB-JA/OCI. If approved, the file is forwarded to the State SJA, who then provides a recommendation to TAG using the information from the investigation memorandum and file. The first two teams were sent out in August 2012 with an average of 60 – 70 days needed to complete the investigations. Based on lessons learned, NGB-JA/OCI has developed a number of initiatives to ensure investigations are conducted in the highest standard, and as expeditiously as possible. In FY13, 82 NG members were specially trained to conduct investigations of sexual assault reports; the NGB will continue to provide resources to support additional training.

2.2 Describe your Service or Component’s implementation plan for the establishment of a Special Victim Capability (SVC), comprised of specially trained investigators, judge advocates, administrative paralegal support, and victim-witness assistance personnel.

CNGB has directed the Chief Counsel, NGB to establish a joint-service Special Victim Counsel (SVC) Program to provide legal representation to sexual assault victims who at the time of the incident were in a non-federalized duty status. For the initial phase of program implementation, specially-trained SVCs will be strategically positioned in geographical regions. As program implementation continues, the client-demand will drive the addition of trained SVCs.

2.3 Describe your efforts to enhance training and/or plans for enhanced training for investigators of sexual violence. Include your measures of effectiveness or means by which you are measuring enhancements.

In August of 2012, NGB established the NGB-JA/OCI to provide investigative resources to the states for reports of sexual assault occurring in a non-federal status. As of 6 Nov 13, NGB-JA/OCI has 82 NG members trained to conduct investigations. All NGB-JA/OCI investigators completed the Special Victims Unit Course (SVUC) at the U.S. Army Military Police school at Fort Leonard Wood, MO. This is the same course U.S.

Army and Marine Criminal Investigative Division (CID) agents, Navy Criminal Investigative Services (NCIS) agents, and Coast Guard Investigative Services (CGIS) agents attend. In August 2013, NGB-JA/OCI conducted refresher training for its investigators at the ARNG Readiness Center in Arlington, VA and the Pentagon.

- 48 of the states have at least one trained investigator through the OCI initiative
- To date, 24 investigations were conducted; 18 are complete, and 6 are on-going, including 5 pending investigations
- NGB-JA/OCI provided assistance on 46 occasions to TAGs, Judge Advocate Generals (JAGs), and SARCs: included investigative analysis, coordination with civilian prosecutors and law enforcement, and education on NGB-JA/OCI processes

2.4 Describe your Service's efforts to participate in Defense Enterprise Working Group of Military Criminal Investigation Organizations and Defense Criminal Investigative Services to assess and validate joint investigative technology, best practices, and resource efficiencies benchmarked against external law enforcement agencies.

NGB-JA/OCI is not an MCIO, as the investigations it conducts are not criminal investigations. In a non-federal status, DoD has no criminal jurisdiction over members of the various state militias. All criminal jurisdictions reside with the states, typically with civilian law enforcement. At the request of TAG, NGB-JA/OCI conducts administrative investigations and provides information to address reports of sexual assault occurring in a non-federal status when civilian law enforcement declined or did not fully investigate the case. NGB-JA/OCI has a close relationship with the instructors at the U.S. Army SVU course which permits them to remain informed on best practices and new investigative techniques. NGB-JA/OCI sends a representative to each SVU course conducted at Fort Leonard Wood, MO to facilitate role-playing exercises. The Ft. Leonard Wood/Army SVU Co-Course Director provided instruction at the NGB-JA/OCI refresher training in August 2013.

2.5 Describe your Military Criminal Investigative Organization's (MCIO) progress on establishment of a Working Group to review initial baseline, periodic refresher, and advanced sexual assault investigation training in order to establish common criteria, measures of effectiveness, and leverage training resources and expertise. If already in progress or completed, briefly describe recommendations, results, and ongoing efforts.

N/A

2.6 Describe and provide documentation of your Service or Component's implementation of policy for retention of sexual assault documentation (e.g. DD Forms 2910 and 2911). Documentation should be included as an appendix.

The NG fully complies with the DoD retention of sexual assault documentation policy as specified IAW DoD Instruction 6495.02. "Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) Program Procedures," dated March 28, 2013. Full implementing instructions for the retention of sexual assault documentation are defined in the CNGB Instruction, “Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Procedures,” currently under development and scheduled for release in calendar year 2014. In the interim, newly designated SARCs, JFHQ-State VACs, and SAPR VAs receive instruction on the document retention policy and the requirement to maintain records of sexual assault victims (DD Form 2910 and DD Form 2911) for both restricted and unrestricted reporting options during their initial NG SAPR 40-hour course.

2.7 Describe your efforts to review and implement policies and procedures that ensure all Unrestricted Reports of sexual assault (and attempts) against adults will be immediately reported to the MCIO, regardless of the severity of the allegation.

As discussed in paragraph 2.1, sexual assaults that occur while NG members are in a T32 status do not fall under the jurisdiction of MCIO. The responsibility for notifying civilian law enforcement in the event of a sexual assault on a member of the NG in a T32 status resides with the SARC/Commander, depending on who receives the initial report, and the desires of the victim. In the event law enforcement decline to investigate, TAGs have the option to request an investigation through the NGB-JA/OCI. This Office provides a centrally managed cadre of investigators specially trained to investigate sexual assault reports. They are distributed across the states and are available to TAGs for investigations of reports of sexual assault. This information is reinforced in the SAPR initial training and further defined in the CNGBI, “Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Program Procedures,” currently under development.

2.8 Describe efforts, policies, and/or programmatic changes undertaken to improve Service member confidence and/or victim participation in the investigative and military justice process, as well as how you are addressing the number of victims declining to participate. Include rate of conversion from Restricted to Unrestricted reporting.

NGB continues to develop policies and programs in support of the victims of sexual assault to ensure their safety and well-being. With that as the primary program objective, NGB expects increased confidence and victim participation in the investigative and civilian justice process when that authority takes priority. FY12 publication of the CNGBI Instruction (CNGBI) 1303.01, “Expedited Transfer of Military Service Members Who File Unrestricted Reports of Sexual Assault” (6 Aug 12), establishes policy which permits a NG member to request an expedited transfer, and therefore increases options and raises victim confidence in the system. The creation of the NGB-JA/OCI provides the victim with assurance that every effort will be taken to hold subjects accountable within T32 authority. Currently under development is the Special Victim’s Counsel program, which is expected to increase the level of trust and confidence in the NG’s efforts to ensure the victims of sexual assault are treated with dignity and provided proper care and support.

Through various training and outreach programs, both the ANG and ARNG continue to encourage victims of sexual assault to support investigations, which will enhance the ability to hold subjects appropriately accountability. Specific events sponsored included, but are not limited to commander’s calls, SAPR annual training, and additional training on the value and purpose of the SAPR program--stressing confidentiality.

To emphasize the importance of victim participation in the investigative process, the ANG held a panel consisting of flight, squadron, and group commanders in a group discussion to help break down communication challenges and reporting barriers.

On 11 Apr 13, the CNGB sent an "Open Letter to The Adjutants General and the Commanding General of the District of Columbia," (hereinafter referred to as the "Open Letter") stressing the need to engage their governors of the several states on exploring all state legal avenues to hold sexual assault subjects accountable for committing military sexual assault. This letter was circulated and published across the NG with the intent of increasing victim confidence to participate in available investigative and legal processes. The letter included information about the new resource for investigations from the NGB-JA/OCI.

The rate of conversion from Restricted to Unrestricted reporting for FY13 was 7%.

2.9 Describe your plans for FY14 that pertain to the achievement of high competence in the investigation of sexual assault.

To provide its investigative teams with experienced Lead Investigators, NGB-JA/OCI currently has two investigators on long-term and one on short-term Active Duty Operational Support (ADOS) orders, with plans to bring two additional investigators on long-term orders. NGB-JA/OCI has a close relationship with the instructors at the U.S. Army SVUI course which allows them to remain informed on best practices and new investigative techniques. NGB-JA/OCI sends a representative to each SVU course conducted at Fort Leonard Wood, MO to facilitate role-playing exercises. NGB-JA/OCI will utilize best practice updates, and the most current and available SMEs from the field to conduct refresher training for its investigators in the Summer of 2014.

3. LOE 3—Accountability—The objective of accountability is to “achieve high competence in holding offenders appropriately accountable.”

3.1 Summarize your Service or Component’s efforts to achieve the Accountability Endstate: “perpetrators are held appropriately accountable.”

The NG is committed to eliminating sexual assault incidents and to holding subjects appropriately accountable. To achieve this endstate, the NG acknowledges that several lines of effort must work in concert. To ensure all NG members understand and recognize what behaviors constitute sexual assault, and raise awareness of sexual assault misconducts, the NG introduced various training methods, such as video training, small group discussion through social and print media. To assist commanders with the tools to create a climate where the victim feels confident and safe enough to report the sexual assault, the NG developed training tailored for NG leadership. This training included on-going education on victim behavior and the current status of sexual assault cases/disposition in the command unit, and increased coordination among leadership and individuals equipped with the special victims capabilities.

To measure the effectiveness of the training and education process, the NG fully supported all DoD and Service requirements on the use of DEOCS to evaluate a command's climate. The oversight and review of the command climate surveys reinforces the responsibility of the commander to establish and maintain a professional, respectful and trust-promoting environment. Success in this process encourages more sexual assault victims to come forward and elect the unrestricted reporting process, which leads to the investigation of the incident and subsequent accountability of the subject. As a result of education and training, commanders are now aware that unrestricted reports must be referred to civilian law enforcement for investigation. If the civilian law enforcement declined to investigate, TAG may request an investigation be conducted by NGB-JA/OCI. This NGB resource helps ensure sexual assaults are investigated by specially trained personnel who are selected and assigned by the NGB-JA at no cost to the state.

The final element required to achieve this objective is the determination by TAGs, commanders, and supervisors at all levels, to exhaust all available avenues to investigate sexual assaults. To emphasize the importance of this position, on 11 Apr 13, CNGB sent his "Open Letter," encouraging TAGs to utilize available resources provided by civilian law enforcement or the NGB-JA/OCI to investigate their sexual assault cases. The letter reiterated the importance of a properly-conducted investigation by specially-trained investigators, such as those provided by the NGB-JA/OCI, for investigating sexual assault crimes and its subsequent, positive effect on preventing sexual assaults.

3.2 Describe your efforts to enhance training and/or plans for enhanced SAPR training for attorneys and military judges. Include your efforts to monitor training requirements to ensure the optimal number receive enhanced SAPR training and your measures of effectiveness.

To meet SAPR training requirements, NG JAs received training from their respective Services. Additionally, NGB-JA will coordinate efforts with the NG SAPR Office, and the Services to provide specific, NGB-JA SAPR training. Monitoring of training requirements will be completed at the JFHQ JA offices. NGB-JA will measure the effectiveness of the training through feedback from the sexual assault victim via the JFHQ-State SARC and State NG leadership on the adequacy of legal access and support during the disposition of the sexual assault case.

3.3 Describe your Service's efforts to conduct an assessment of DoD Pilot Program for Special Victims Counsel. If an assessment has been completed, explain findings and recommendations.

The NG assessed the AC SVC programs and found that it's training, scope of presentation, and eligibility for receiving services do not sufficiently address the unique needs of NG members. Recognizing victims of sexual assault in the NG should receive the same level of representation provided by the AC, CNGB directed the NGB-JA to establish a SVC Program to provide comparable services to NG members.

3.4 Describe your efforts to expand the availability, sequencing, and scope of commander's legal courses. Include your measures of effectiveness.

| 3.7 List updates or efforts to update policies requiring the processing for administrative separation of any member convicted of a sexual assault. Include documentation in the appendix.  |
| The ARNG and ANG comply with Army and Air Force policies and procedures for processing the administrative separation of any member convicted of a sexual assault.   |
| 3.8 Describe your plans for FY14 that pertain to the achievement of high competence in holding offenders appropriately accountable.  |
| As expressed in paragraph 3.1, CNGB encouraged TAGs to engage with the governors of the several states on the issue of prosecuting sexual assault subjects pursuant to state laws. As a measure to increase the options for investigation of sexual assaults, and to hold subjects appropriately accountable, the use of NGB-JA/OCI is strongly encouraged. TAGs are also asked to have their state SJAs review their state military code for potential gaps in the ability to hold sexual assault subjects appropriately accountable under state statutes. |
| 4. LOE 4—Advocacy/Victim Assistance--The objective of advocacy/victim assistance is to “deliver consistent and effective victim support, response, and reporting options.”   |
| 4.1 Summarize your Service or Component’s efforts to achieve the Advocacy/Victim Assistance Endstate: “DoD provides high quality services and support to instill confidence and trust, strengthen resilience, and inspire victims to report.”  |
| Victims gain confidence and trust in their SAPR VAs and the SAPR program when the NG is able to successfully deliver high quality assistance. Through community partnerships and collaborations, the NG is able to deliver diverse and consistent SAPR support. This support enables victims to heal, become more resilient, and find strength to participate in investigative, administrative, and judicial processes that makes it possible for leadership to hold subjects appropriately accountable.  |
| Strong community ties provide NG SAPR VAs with tremendous resources to meet the goal of providing the best services possible for supporting our citizen Soldiers and  |

Airmen. NG members live in every zip code of the United States and the SAPR program personnel collaborate and network with civilian resources within their own communities to ensure all avenues are available to members whether the member is sexually assaulted while in civilian or military status. Collaboration by the KY JFHQ-State SAPR program with the KASAP is an example of this type of partnership. This program consists of 13 Regional Rape Crisis Centers that provide training and briefings to increase awareness of services available and counseling services to all sexual assault victims in KY at no cost. By partnering with the KY Division of Behavioral Health (DBH), the KY JFHQ-State SAPR program enables NG sexual assault victims' timely access to counselors and service providers at a location most convenient to the victims. Conversely, victims may access DBH educational and awareness materials via the KY JFHQ-State SAPR program. There are a variety of offices and agencies within each state to assist the JFHQ-State SAPR staff in utilizing a multi-disciplinary approach to providing improved services to victims of sexual assault.

Illinois (IL) NG JFHQ-State SARC participated in six sessions of Military Sexual Trauma (MST) 101 workshops for Behavioral Health Providers (BHPs). These workshops were organized by the ILNG DPH. At least one workshop was hosted through a partnership between the Dominican University Graduate School of Social Work and Lake-McHenry Veterans and Family Services. Other presenters at these workshops included the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) Behavioral Health staff, ILNG military chaplain, and community agencies serving Veterans. Following the briefings, the workshops culminated with a showing of "The Invisible War," the Academy Award nominated documentary on MST, and an ensuing discussion. These workshops demonstrated how the relationship between Military SAPR and civilian agencies can be a source of advocacy and support for victims.

Equally important is the oversight of services and support offered to the victims of sexual assault. The SAPR Advisory Council (SAPRAC), Case Management Groups (CMGs), DoD audit of case activities as reported by SARCs, and NGB Staff Assistance Visits (SAVs) are avenues to oversee the services offered to victims of sexual assault, and to provide additional support to the SARCs.

The SAPRAC is a NGB chartered organization under the authority of CNGB and delegated to the J1 for execution. The purpose of the council is to advise and assist NG SAPR, NGB, ARNG, and ANG in the execution of its NG SAPR mission. The SAPRAC provides recommendations to the leadership of the NG for promoting a cultural change leading to an environment free of sexual assault by focusing on a dynamic, victim-centered process for facilitating information flow through the NG. The National SAPRAC is composed of permanent members (NG SAPR Chief, ARNG SAPR/SHARP PM, ANG SAPR PM, and NG J1, ARNG G1 and ANG A1), and JFHQ-State SARCs elected to represent seven regional areas based on the Human Resources Advisory Council (HRAC) regions. These representatives serve as a channel of communication among the SAPR stakeholders to identify problems and issues, gather information, develop solutions and help resolve issues at the lowest level; convey unresolved issues and information affecting the joint functions of the NG; and, review information /issues from SAPR councils, committees, working groups and SMEs to verify functions, resources, and compliances with all regulatory guidance. The National SAPRAC meets on a monthly basis via teleconferencing. Two additional meetings are held in person or by Defense Connect Online (DCO).

Through extensive training, the NG is heavily invested in producing high quality SAPR services, and is set to provide its NG members with well-equipped SAPR personnel. The ARNG requires each JFHQ-State SARC, JFHQ-State VAC, and SAPR VA to complete the Army 80-hour SHARP course, and the NG 40-Hour SAPR course as their initial training, followed by the required annual refresher training. All collateral duty SARC/SAPR VAs must complete the Army 80-hour SHARP course, and a 24-hour annual refresher training. Additionally, each SARC and SAPR VA is required to obtain NOVA/D-SAACP certification, and be fully screened for suitability standards prior to assuming their duty position. During annual refresher training, the importance of confidential reporting of sexual assaults is again emphasized to commanders and unit SAPR personnel to ensure such training practicum becomes second nature for the SAPR personnel in providing services to victims of sexual assault.

The ANG also offers extensive training for Wing SARCs, and SAPR VAs to best assist and support the victim from the time the initial report of sexual assault is made throughout all phases of the healing process. Wing SARCs and SAPR VAs also assist the victim in obtaining referrals from the Medical Group and Director of Psychological Health (DPH) for supportive services.

IAW D-SAACP certification requirements, all SARCs and SAPR VAs must show proof of 32 hours of Continuing Education (CE) training for certification renewal every two years. The ARNG and ANG will adhere to the policies and procedures regarding this training as specified by their Service. In the interim, NG SAPR has encouraged its SARCs and SAPR VAs to adhere to the D-SAACP Continuing Education training guidelines to ensure they maintain their credentials and employability.

In summation, collaboration and partnership with community organizations, investment in training SAPR personnel, and overseeing and sustaining their efforts in providing high quality of services will instill confidence and trust, strengthen resilience, and inspire victims to report.

4.2 List the total number of full-time SARC/SAPR VAs serving at brigade or equivalent level. If not at 100%, describe your efforts to achieve 100% fill.

Each state has one FT JFHQ-State SARC and one SAPR VA. To date, 46 states have hired a FT JFHQ-State VAC.

The ANG currently has 92 primary Wing SARCs and an additional 92 alternates for a total of 184 SARCs. The primary Wing SARCs fill their SARC duty as one of eight assigned responsibilities in their position description as the WESO. Each wing has a minimum of two SAPR VAs. The ANG currently has 434 SAPR VAs.

4.3 List the total number SARCs and SAPR VAs certified in FY13. If not at 100%, describe your efforts to achieve 100% certified.

The ARNG achieved 100% NOVA/D-SAACP certification for the FT SARC/SAPR VAs. Additionally, the ARNG successfully certified 1,878 collateral duty SARCs and SAPR VAs in FY13. The ANG also reached 100% NOVA/D-SAACP certification in FY13 with a total of 184 ANG SARCs and 434 ANG SAPR VAs certified.

NGB FY13 Initial 40-hour and refresher trainings included:

- SARCs = 77 initial and 115 refresher
- JFHQ-State VACs = 9 initial
- SAPR VAs = 37 initial

NGB FY13 Sexual Assault Advocate Certification Program

- SARCs = 316
- SAPR VAs = 2,312

4.4 Describe your efforts to develop victim continuity of care protocol in collaboration with the Department of Veterans Affairs and external Veterans Service Organizations.

The NG does not currently have a specific protocol for executing continuity of care for the sexual assault victim with the VA and/or external Veterans Service Organizations (VSOs).

However, as a best practice, NG SAPR encourages each of the states to utilize the Army and Air Force Wounded Warrior programs and to establish relationships and Memorandums of Agreement (MOA) or Memorandums of Understanding (MOU) with organizations and agencies to ensure the sexual assault victim is given proper care. Many NG SAPR personnel have developed relationships with local community organizations that support victim advocacy and continuity of care to include VA, Veteran Centers, and other organizations that support veterans.

Another strong relationship built by many NG SAPR personnel is with the NG Transition Assistance Advisor (TAA), who serves as a point of contact in each of the states to offer direction and guidance to veterans in accessing their benefits. The TAA builds strong partnerships and coalitions with organizations such as the DoD (TRICARE), Department of Labor (DOL-VETS), VA, state Departments of VA, and VSOs, as well as with organizations within the NG State JFHQ: Family Program Office, chaplains, licensed social workers, and Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve (ESGR).

4.5 Describe your efforts to improve the portability and availability of victim services in deployed environments, ensuring continuity of victim care. Include a description of the steps taken during that year to ensure that trained personnel, appropriate supplies, and transportation resources are accessible to deployed units in order to provide an appropriate and timely response in any case of reported sexual assault in a deployed unit, location, or environment.

Upon deployment in a T10 status, NG members fall under the purview of their Service,

4.6 Describe revised policies and/or procedures developed that allow Reserve Component Service members who are victims of sexual assault while on active duty to remain on active duty status to obtain the treatment and support afforded active duty members. Include documentation in the appendix.

The AC is developing policies and procedures to allow RC Service members who are victims of sexual assault while on active duty to remain on active duty status to obtain the treatment and support afforded active duty members.

At the victims request, the ARNG and ANG coordinate with their respective Service, and follow the policies and procedures as specified to ensure NG members who are victims of sexual assault while on active duty are afforded the opportunity to remain on active duty orders to receive the appropriate treatment and support.

4.7 Describe your efforts to enhance sexual assault training for health care providers. Include requirements that ensure training conforms to "A National Protocol for Sexual Assault Medical Forensic Examinations, Adults/Adolescents"; how to handle a Restricted Report; and how to conduct the SAFE exam.

In July 2013, the NG-J1 conducted the Annual First Responder training for military, civilian, and contractor mental health and medical professionals. A total of 234 personnel attended the training. A breakdown of the personnel who attended include five Medical Administrators; 37 Case Managers; 29 RN Case Managers; 67 DPH; 14 Deputy State Surgeons; six Medical Personnel; and, 76 in unspecified positions. This training provided an overview on the SAPR program and included information on the following topics: reporting options, regulations, process and structure in the NG, working with SARCs and SAPR VAs, and resources available. There was also a discussion on states with a mandatory reporting requirement for sexual assault incidents. The exact requirements of who has a duty to report and the specific statutes that require reporting are determined by each state.

Since the NG does not possess Medical Treatment Facilities (MTFs) that conduct the SAFE, the Annual First Responder training does not include training on how to conduct this examination. Instead, through advance coordination and MOU or MOA, the NG partners with civilian medical facilities meeting the specific training and SAFE capabilities to conduct the SAFE for NG members who were victims of a sexual assault.

4.8 Describe sexual assault related health care initiatives undertaken by your Service in FY13. Include mental health treatment programs and follow-up procedures that are gender-responsive, culturally competent, and recovery-oriented.

In concert with the DPH located in each of the states, the JFHQ-State SARC, JFHQ-State VAC and SAPR VAs aggressively pursue relationships with outside agencies and organizations that can help establish a continuum of care for the NG sexual assault victim from the initial health care response through the recovery period. These organizations and agencies are vetted to ensure each one is professional, gender-responsive, culturally competent, recovery oriented, and considered one of the best resources available to assist the NG sexual assault victim in their recovery. Although each state will have its own unique organizations and agencies available, they will also have many in common, such as the VA, Veteran Centers, state and territory coalitions against sexual assault, and crisis centers.

As stated previously, the NG is in a unique position to reach out to both military and civilian organizations/agencies alike due to its constitutionally based structure. Although each of the states has established relationships to aid the NG sexual assault victim, select states are identified below to illustrate some of the specific partnerships developed. The state of Illinois is a prime example to demonstrate the collaborative partnerships established between the NG and various organizations/agencies geared toward assisting the sexual assault victim in the recovery process. These include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Michael Reese Health Trust
- Health & Disability Advocates (HDA)
- Illinois Coalition Against Sexual Assault and its subsidiaries
- Transitional Living Services (TLS) Veterans
- Lindenwood University (Belleville), Education and Counseling Division
- The Chicago School of Professional Psychology
- Illinois Family Violence Coordinating Council
- St Louis Veterans Affairs Medical Center (VAMC) (Suicide Prevention Coordinator, OIF/OEF Coordinator, MST Coordinator)
- Hines VAMC (Suicide Prevention Coordinator, Operation Iraqi Freedom(OIF)/Operation Enduring Freedom (OEF) Coordinator)
- Marion VAMC (Suicide Prevention Coordinator, OIF/OEF Coordinator, MST Coordinator)
- Captain James A. Lowell FHCC (Suicide Prevention Coordinator, MST Coordinator)
- E. St. Louis, Springfield, Chicago, and Peoria Vet centers
- United States Army, Air Force, and Marine Corps
- NGB Psychological Health Program
- Illinois Connections for Families of the Fallen (ICFF)
- Braveheart Therapeutic Riding Center Lake and McHenry Veterans and Family Services
- McHenry County Mental Health Board
- National Able in Chicago
- Children Home + Aid in Granite City
- Chestnut Health Systems in Granite City

In Wisconsin (WI), in addition to partnering with sexual assault coalitions, the JFHQ-State VAC made a special effort to focus on partnerships that offer sexual assault victims access to special “therapists” of the four legged persuasion. The WI JFHQ-State SAPR office developed a relationship with the Veteran’s Equine Therapy Service, who offers veterans with Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) and MST, a link to equine therapy at no cost to the individual. Custom Canines Service Dog Academy also stepped forward in a big way by placing Falcon, a 2 year-old black lab, trained as a PTSD service dog with the JFHQ-State VAC for its potential use within the outreach and education program upon approval of TAG.

The Montana (MT) JFHQ-State SARC recently began working with the VA MT Healthcare System by attending a monthly meeting of the MST Task Force. One of the initiatives discussed at a recent monthly MST Task Force meeting is to conduct mini-summits in collaboration with the NG's Reintegration Program Outreach. A primary goal for these partnering efforts is to provide veterans who experienced MST with greater access to the VA MST and mental health services available and empowering them to develop techniques and relationships which will aid in their recovery. The MT JFHQ-State SARC also joined the Helena Domestic Violence/Sexual Assault Working Group that meets on a monthly basis.

The Delaware (DE) JFHQ-State SAPR program office collaborates with NG units, local state crisis centers and Dover Air Force Base on initial victim advocate training. They also partner with the Sexual Assault Network of DE council, a group of multi-disciplinary professionals which includes law enforcement, medical professionals, educators, leaders, sexual assault specialists, domestic violence specialists, mental health professionals, and sexual assault survivors from local, state, and private organizations. This council raises awareness of the problem of sexual assault. During Sexual Assault Awareness Month (SAAM), the DE JFHQ-State SAPR office also partners with organizations, schools, and other agencies to promote awareness throughout the state.

Other examples where NG State SAPR staffs have engaged with outside programs to enhance the understanding of the issues encountered by a NG sexual assault victim, and increase the sharing of information and resources available to the NG through partnerships and collaborative efforts include:

- Guam (GU) NG SAPR staff works closely with the GU Coalition Against Sexual Assault and Family Violence, The Healing Hearts Crisis Center, the GU Sexual Assault and Abuse Resource center, Victims Advocate Reaching Out and their AC counterparts at the Naval Base Guam and Andersen Air Force Base.

- Iowa (IA) NG SAPR staff works in collaboration with the Iowa Coalition Against Sexual Assault (ICASA) resulting in working relationships with all six regional centers, and the development of a manual to help ICASA understand military processes to help them best accommodate the needs of the military sexual assault survivor.

- California (CA) NG SAPR staff established an alliance with the CA CASA and Women Escaping a Violent Environment (WEAVE), a private 501(c) 3 nonprofit organization and the primary provider of crisis intervention services for survivors of domestic violence and sexual assault in Sacramento County.

This is a small representation of the agencies and organizations with which state NG SAPR programs have forged collaborative relationships, which facilitated or will facilitate greater access and utilization of available health care services and support programs to sexual assault victims.

4.9 List the number of victims, if any, whose care was hindered due to lack of SAFE kits or timely access to appropriate laboratory testing resources and describe the measures you took to remedy the situation.

The NG did not track the number of NG sexual assault victims whose care was hindered due to a lack of SAFE kits or timely access to appropriate laboratory testing resources. The NG must rely on civilian medical facilities to perform the SAFE and the laboratory tests. JFHQ-State SAPR staff makes every effort to establish a MOU or MOA with civilian medical facilities with the specially trained personnel and SAFE kits to ensure NG sexual assault victim receives appropriate care and support. However, all local civilian medical facilities do not possess the same capabilities and do not offer the same level of specialized services and support.

4.10 List initiatives and programs implemented to reduce the stigma and overcome barriers associated with reporting sexual assault.

The NG SAPR program proposes to reduce stigma and overcome the barriers associated with reporting sexual assaults through by training. This training will be provided to all NG members and will be interactive, personal, and based on real life scenarios.

The NG annual unit level, wing, and SAPR Stand Down activities conducted during FY13 were designed to involve commanders, SARCs, and NG members in discussions on recognizing and reducing victim blaming, and understanding member responsibilities to intervene and possibly prevent a potential sexual assault incident. Additionally, the NG SAPR program implemented various discussion forums and training opportunities, such as small group training, pre-deployment interactive trainings, newcomer briefings, and educational and promotional materials to help reduce the stigma and barriers previously associated with reporting sexual assault. Many states have on-going collaborative programs with the civilian community to promote awareness and resources breaking down barriers associated with reporting sexual assault in the military.

An increase in reporting of sexual assaults after SAPR Stand Down activities may suggest the awareness training served to reduce barriers and created greater confidence in victims coming forward to report prior sexual assaults.

4.11 Describe what measures have been taken by your Service to ensure that Service members are informed in a timely manner of the member's option to request a Military Protective Order (MPO) from the command of assignment. Include documentation that requires law enforcement agents to document MPOs in their investigative case files, to include documentation for Reserve Component personnel in title 10 status.

It is routine for the SAPR VA to inform the victim of their option to request a protective order when discussing services available with each reporting option.

4.12 Describe and provide documentation of your Service or Component's expedited victim transfer request policy, including measures taken to ensure victims are informed in a timely manner of their right to request an expedited transfer. Documentation should be included as an appendix.

To ensure victims are informed of their right to request an expedited transfer in a timely manner, the CNGB has provided policy guidance via the CNGBI 1303.01, "Expedited Transfer of Military Service Members Who File Unrestricted Reports of Sexual Assault" (6 Aug 12). This guidance solidifies a NG member's entitlement to request an expedited transfer from their assigned command, to a different location within their unit of assignment, or IDT location. Expedited transfers are limited to members who file unrestricted reports and limited to sexual offenses defined in DoDD 6459.01(23 Jan 12), Title 10, U.S.C., Chapter 47, UCMJ, and applicable state criminal code. The ARNG and ANG follow the CNGBI 1303.01 expedited transfer guidance when in Title 32 status. When the NG is on active duty orders, they follow their Service specific expedited transfer policies.

At the time the NG T32 member files an Unrestricted Report of sexual assault, the SARC or SAPR VA will inform the victim of the option to request a temporary or permanent transfer from their assigned command, or to a different location within their unit of assignment or IDT location. Certified NG Special Victims' Counsels have also received training on legal issues and client advocacy concerning an expedited transfer request, and when appropriate, inform their clients of the option to request an expedited transfer.

SARCs, SAPR VAs, or the Special Victims' Counsels will assist NG members who elect this option, in initiating, and submitting the transfer request to their commander in writing. Such support may include assisting the victim in stating concerns in a manner that would aid the commander in understanding their needs. This supporting document is critical to the company commander's decision to grant or deny the transfer request. SARCs, SAPR VAs, or the Special Victims' Counsels may also assist by directly advocating for the victim's concerns and needs.

As stated in CNGBI 1303.01, paragraph c., a presumption shall be established in favor of transferring a Service member who initiates a transfer request following a credible report of sexual assault. Upon receipt of a transfer request, the commander will document the date and time the request was received. In considering the request for transfer, every reasonable effort will be made to minimize disruption of the normal career progression of the NG member seeking a transfer based on a credible report that he or she was the victim of sexual assault. The commander will counsel the NG member on the potential impact of the transfer or reassignment on the investigation and case disposition, initiation of other adverse action against the subject, and other possible consequences.

With respect to recouping any paid bonuses or special pay for a period of enlistment under a written agreement, every effort will be made to not require repayment of the unearned portion of that pay or benefit. Such determination will take into consideration personnel policy or management objective, equity or good conscience, or whether recoument is in the best interest of the United States.

If the NG member is T32 Active Guard Reserve (AGR), the commander must approve or disapprove the request within 72-hours of receipt. The decision is then forwarded to the designated activity that processes permanent change of station, permanent change of assignment or unit transfers.

If the commander disapproves a request for transfer, the member has the opportunity to request review by the first general officer in the NG member's chain of command. The decision to approve or disapprove the request must be made within 72-hours of submission.

All expedited transfer requests and their approval or disapproval are required to be documented by the SARC in DSAID as part of that case report's permanent file.

4.12.1 Pertaining to temporary and/or permanent local expedited transfers (a different location within their assigned command or installation), provide:

- The number requested
- The number approved as the victim requested
- The number approved different than the victim requested
- The number denied and a summary of why
- The number moved within 30 days of approval

The number moved after 30 days of approval

ARNG reports:

- The number requested = 10
- The number approved as the victim requested = 9
- The number approved different than the victim requested = 0
- The number denied and a summary of why = 1 denied due to death of subject
- The number moved within 30 days approval = 9
- The number moved after 30 days of approval = 0

ANG did not receive any temporary and/or permanent local expedited transfer requests.

4.12.2 Pertaining to permanent requested expedited transfers (from their assigned command or installation), provide:

- The number requested
- The number approved as the victim requested
- The number approved different than the victim requested
- The number denied and a summary of why
- The number moved within 30 days of approval

The number moved after 30 days of approval

The ARNG and ANG did not receive any requests for permanent expedited transfer.

FY14 plans include continued review and assessment of initial training materials and delivery of the NG SARC and SAPR VA training curriculum. DoD SAPRO attended a entire 40-hour NG SARC/SAPR VA training during FY13 to assess the quality and accuracy of all core competency elements required to meet D-SAACP certification approval. With on-going SecDef and congressional requirements, and initiatives to provide competent and sensitive victim assistance, the NG plans include periodic assessment requests for review by DoD SAPRO.

To ensure quality and delivery of consistent and effective victim support, response, and training about reporting options, the NG SAPR trainer is available to state JFHQ-State SARCs who provide their own 40-hour in state SAPR VA training.

5.1 Summarize your Service or Component’s efforts to achieve the Assessment Endstate: “DoD incorporates responsive, meaningful, and accurate systems of measurement and evaluation into every aspect of the SAPR program.”

In order to maintain visibility of every aspect of the NG SAPR program, the NG SAPR office Data Collection & System Management Section monitors DSAID on a daily basis. The data garnered from this system is utilized to identify trends, conduct statistical analyses, and ensure NG SARCs are properly reporting, updating and maintaining the information IAW with established guidelines. This information is further analyzed to help determine and develop efforts on all applicable aspects of the program from improving SARC data entry to recommending the need for additional training in a specific area.

On a quarterly basis, information is gathered from the ARNG and ANG PMs to populate the assessment metrics developed from the J1- SAPR strategic plan. This information is then used to create a SAPR dashboard for each individual state, and is located on GKO. The dashboard provides TAGs and JFHQ-State SARCs an overall status of their state’s SAPR program progress relative to the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) five lines of effort: prevention, investigation, accountability, advocacy, and assessment. Updated on a quarterly basis, this information is used to create the Quarterly Reports available to each TAG and instrumental in identifying trends within the program. The NG SAPR Monthly Dashboard Requirements include:

LOE- Prevention

- Annual SAPR/SHARP Training, and Annual SAPR Training for wings
- Annual Leadership Training
  - All training data for the ARNG is uploaded into The Digital Training Management System (DTMS), and ANG wings provide training data to ANG PM

LOE – Investigation

- Investigators trained to conduct SA investigations
  - Number of investigators who completed special sexual assault investigator training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo

LOE – Accountability

- Unrestricted Cases Investigated
  - Referral to Investigative Agency entered in DSAID
- Unrestricted Cases Not Investigated
  - No referral to investigative Agency entered in DSAID

LOE – Advocacy

- All SARCs and SAPR VAs Certified
  - All SARCs/SAPR VAs have applied for D-SAACP. PMs responsible for sorting NOVA listing by state

LOE – Assessment

- JFHQ-State SARC, JFHQ-State VAC, and ANG Wing/Alternate Wing SARC Compliant
  - Position hired or assigned
  - Attended initial NG SARC Training
  - Granted DSAID Access following NG-J1-SAPR receiving clearance documentation from security manager and copy of DSAID web training certificate
- Unrestricted Cases entered correctly in DSAID
  - Cases entered within 48 hours of report in the appropriate tabs
    - Victim Demographics included date of birth, gender, race, affiliation, duty status, pay grade, and whether the victim was in the military at time of assault
    - Subject Data included gender, subject type, and affiliation
    - Incident detail complete with the exception of type of offense investigated
- JFHQ-State SARC conducted monthly CMG
  - CMG Agenda and minutes are prepared in the proper format and uploaded into GKO Portal by 15nd of each month

Other important assessment activities include the regular monitoring of the D-SAACP certification requirements, the number of SAPR personnel assigned, and positions that are vacant due to deployments or turnover.

The ARNG will continue to receive, analyze, and provide reports relating to the SHARP program. The DTMS will be used as the primary database to track unit and commander annual training requirements, Director's Personnel Readiness Overview (DPRO) to provide up-to-date assigned and available strength numbers, and DSAID to document and track reported cases of sexual assault. These three databases along with weekly and monthly reports from the states will provide metrics and data analysis on the overall success of the ARNG SHARP Program.

5.2 Describe oversight activities during FY13 that assess the SAPR program effectiveness. Include frequency, methods used, findings and recommendations, corrective action taken (e.g., program management review and Inspector General inspections), and other activities. Include documentation of published reports in appendix.

In FY13, the NG developed the series of metrics and measurements listed above to monitor and assess the NG SAPR program effectiveness. Collaborative work with the service directorates produced a dashboard of SAPR metrics with targeted thresholds and performance minimums. By analyzing the dashboard data NG is able to determine the states that are performing at optimal levels. NGB is able to share the information with the state leadership and support TAG efforts to have an effective program. Criteria are being developed to determine what remedial and corrective action will occur based on the degree of program dysfunction determined. Staff Assistance Visits (SAVs), additional training, or leadership engagement may be possible remedies.

In response to the 6 May 13 Secretary of Defense directive to conduct or Command Climate assessment, and a comprehensive visual inspection of all DoD workplaces, the ARNG and ANG, as directed by their respective Service, and implementation guidance from CNGB, accomplished these requirements. The results of the Command Climate assessment are published in the “DEOCS Rollup Report Results; National Guard Bureau FY 2013”, is attached as Appendix A. The information memorandum verifying NG completion of the visual inspection of the workplace is attached as Appendix B. As noted in this memorandum, the ANG accomplished this inspection as directed by HAF in the FY13 AF Health and Wellness visual inspection.

In response to the 17 May 13 Secretary of Defense directed review of Sexual Assault Prevention and Response personnel qualifications and training, the ARNG and ANG as directed by their respective Service, and implementation guidance from CNGB, accomplished this requirement. The results of this Stand Down are attached as Appendix C.

5.3 Describe any and all implementations of Government Accountability Office (GAO) and Defense Task Force-Sexual Assault in the Military Services (DTF-SAMS) recommendations. Include any assessments of implementation.

Recommendations provided by GAO did not include the NG. The Specific Task Force Review of the Reserve Components did not occur in FY13.

5.4 Describe your efforts to ensure integrity of data collected in the Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database.

The NG-J1-SAPR office provides oversight, and monitors DSAID on a daily basis. Access to DSAID is limited to SARCs who have successfully completed the training, background checks, and certification requirement; a process closely monitored by the NG-J1-SAPR office. Issues regarding DSAID are coordinated primarily with the ARNG and ANG program managers.

Updates to DSAID were provided on a weekly/monthly basis. The ARNG SHARP PM worked with both the state/territory, NG SAPR and DA SHARP PM to resolve discrepancies as a result of the data push of sexual assault reports from the previous T10 Army system of case records found within the database.

The ARNG SHARP program manager works closely with each JFHQ-State SARC to ensure cases are entered into DSAID accurately and in a timely manner. JFHQ-State SARCs are trained to input both T10 and T32 cases into DSAID. Further coordination has been established with NG-J1-SAPR and DA-G1 SHARP Program Office to ensure cases of sexual assault are being reported and recorded accurately.

The ANG PM maintains a close working relationship with the Wing SARC to ensure all cases are entered into DSAID accurately, in a timely manner and reported up to the JFHQ-State SARC. The ANG PM also coordinates with NG-J1-SAPR and HAF-A1 SAPR Program Office to ensure cases of sexual assault are reported and recorded accurately.

5.5 Describe any measures your Service or Component has established to assess and manage your SAPR program. If you have begun assessing your program based on these measures, describe your findings thus far and actions taken.

As stated in paragraph 5.1, NG SAPR office developed dashboard metrics for use by TAGs, SARCs and other key state leaders. Individual state actions by TAGs as the result of the metrics are internal to each state; however, after the release of each quarterly report on state metrics, TAGs or their designee often follow up with NG-J1, ARNG, or ANG program management to request guidance on what is need to show improvement for program measures. When states have consistently performed below the targeted thresholds, TAGs can request a NGB SAV to assist with evaluating program deficits, and make recommendations for program development.

In FY13 the ARNG and ANG program managers, in coordination with NG SAPR, developed metrics to identify the following:

- Number of personnel trained in the 80-hour SHARP Program = 1,175 personnel
- Number of JFHQ-State SARCs/ANG Wing SARCs/ SAPR VAs/ JFHQ-State VACs hired and fully trained = 191 of 257 required
- Number of SARCs/ JFHQ-State VACs/SAPR VAs that received D-SAACP certification
  - Total submitted = 2,969; Total Approved = 2,496
- Number of unrestricted cases entered into DSAID correctly = 84 of 203 total cases in DSAID

- Number of JFHQ-State SARC monthly meetings conducted = 450 meetings of 648 required

5.6 Provide a summary of your research and data collection activities conducted in FY13. Include documentation in the appendix.

The NG did not engage in any SAPR related research during FY13.

NG SAPR office data collection included tracking and reporting demographic data of sexual assaults reported while on T32 status to JFHQ-State and Wing SARCs.

The following are the demographics depicted in the charts that follow: charts depict the demographics of victims of sexual assault reported to NG leadership in FY 13.

- Sexual Assault by Service
- Sexual Assault by Gender
- Victim Age at Time of Incident
- Victim's Rank at Time if Incident
- Restricted and Unrestricted by Service
- Duty Status by Service at Time of incident
- Victim's Race
- Date of Reported Incident

Victim Age at Time of Incident in FY 13
(254 Cases)

Victim's Rank at Time of Incident in FY 13
(254 Cases)

Restricted and Unrestricted by Service in FY 13
(254 Cases)

Duty Status by Service at Time of Incident in FY 13

5.6.1 Describe your efforts to develop and harmonize sexual assault focused survey efforts to align with DoD and other Services.

The DEOMI recently created a DEOCS roll-up report for NGB, covering all reports completed during FY13. The DEOCS poses questions to gauge the incidents of discrimination and sexual harassment in the workplace during the past 12 months, assess equal opportunity and organizational effectiveness climate factors, and characterize the organization's sexual assault prevention and response climate. A total of 49,387 NG personnel completed the survey during this period

The NGB did not administer any specific NG-wide surveys on sexual assault during FY13.

5.7 Describe your plans for FY14 that pertain to effectively standardizing, measuring, analyzing, assessing, and reporting program progress.

The NG SAPR office is in the process of developing the CNGBI, "SAPR Procedures" to ensure standardization of the NG SAPR program specifically applicable to T32 status NG members. The NG SAPR office will continue to assess the SAPR program progress of each state using metrics relative to T32 program implementation. Results and reports regularly briefed to NG senior leadership highlight progress, challenges, and status of number of reports of sexual assault.

ARNG will develop a state inspection program. The program will be designed to identify areas of strengths, and areas that need to be improved with the SHARP program. Lastly, the ARNG is developing a 80-Hour SHARP course that will standardize training for RC Soldiers, and address unique challenges and issues not experienced on AC installations.

The ANG SAPR program office will provide input to HAF on policy applicability and implementation as it applies to ANG operations while in T32 status. ANG SAPR will work closely with ARNG SHARP and NG SAPR to continuously track and monitor SAPR activities and trend analysis.

6. Overarching Tenet: Communication and Policy

6.1 Summarize your Service or Component's efforts to synchronize and standardize the SAPR program across the Joint Force (from Joint/Service basing to forward stationed deployed units worldwide).

The very nature of the NG's unique federal and state missions requires synchronization with all active and reserve Joint Forces in both active and T32 status.

The NG SAPR program requirements are standardized through compliance with DoDI 6495.02 requirements as it applies to NG members on an active duty status, and to the extent applicable to NG members on FT NG duty for training, and IDT. The NG adheres to the DoD requirements to ensure both prevention of and response to sexual assault is always available when a NG member is serving and wearing the uniform. Individual Service program implementation of SAPR policies can add to, or require more of their members, but as part of the Joint Force, and as a Joint Force of ARNG and ANG under the TAG's command, the NG works to synchronize and standardize the SAPR program to ensure SAPR-service interoperability regardless of the title status or location of NG members.

Although the ARNG and ANG adhere to the policies and procedures set forth by their respective Services, the NG SAPR program strategic initiatives, and T32 policy implementation and requirements ensure that all NG members are aware of program standards and expectations, whether serving on federal, state, or state active duty missions in a joint environment.

This synchronization and standardization requirement is met by the NG's participation, and inclusion in all policy development or initiatives from the CNGB's seat on the JCS to NG's general officer membership on the DoD SAPRO Integrated Product Team (IPT), which is composed of senior level program representatives from all of the Services. All working groups for integrated product teams (WIPTs) include NG program staff to ensure projects, initiatives, and actions include T32 equities and input as part of the Joint Force.

The NG also utilizes the DSAID system of record for documenting and tracking reported sexual assaults in an effort to ensure ease of case transfer and synchronization between Services, whether the sexual assault incident happened when the Service member is deployed, or participating in a response to a national disaster in another state.

During FY13, the NGB initiated a JPT as part of a strategic plan initiative to ensure all stakeholders in the sexual assault program synchronization across the NG Joint Force were included in meetings and plans to ensure collaboration and communication in efforts to eliminate sexual assaults within the T32 joint force. By requiring NG involvement at all opportunities from the JCS, DoD, Service, and Joint Force levels, we can work across-Services to standardize response to sexual assault incidents.

6.2 Describe your efforts to post and widely disseminate sexual assault information (e.g., hotline phone numbers and internet websites) to Service members, eligible dependents, and civilian personnel of the DoD.

The NG SAPR program office has consistently worked with the NGB and state Public Affairs Office (PAO) to post and disseminate sexual assault prevention and response information across the NG entities and NGB for both ARNG and ANG. Additionally, extensive efforts occur at the state and Service-specific levels to ensure local and Service awareness and access to information needed for immediate response. The JFHQ-State SARC and ANG Wing SARCs are required to standardize email and voicemail messaging for their contact information. As a best practice, the DoD Safe Helpline is the standard referral on all voice mail messages. The states have also developed their own internal websites and help-lines where NG members may turn to for local response in a time of crisis. Many of the partnerships created within the communities offer tremendous opportunities to post information and to provide briefings on the services provided and resources available within the JFHQ-State SAPR program.

Some additional avenues used to distribute information on individual Service and other available resources at the local level have been:

- SAPR marketing items, handouts, educational pamphlets, Public Service Announcements (PSAs)
- SAPR posters, flyers, newsletters, information boards
- SAPR business cards, wing wallet cards
- Social media, SAPR websites, articles in local newspapers
- SharePoint
- Posting the DoD SafeHelp Line 24/7 and embedding SAPR website pages on their State's NG website

Due to funding constraints, the state SAPR programs pursued all available avenues within their "community" to help increase the awareness of the SAPR program purpose and resources.

At the national level, NG SAPR developed the public and restricted SAPR JSS website for SA personnel, and updated the NG SAPR website on the program, related policies, instructions, and guidances. The site has hyperlinks to prevention education, bystander intervention, victim advocacy, and related SAPR websites. The sites can be found at the following URLs:

- <https://www.jointservicesupport.org/SAPR/Default.aspx>, and <http://www.nationalguard.mil/jointstaff/j1/sapr/>

Efforts are underway to develop responses to “frequently asked questions.”

6.3 Describe your development and implementation of specialized medical and mental health care policy for sexual assault victims. Include a copy of your implementation plan in the appendix.

IAW the NG Psychological Health Program Policies and Procedures Manual, the DPH are required to provide appropriate care referrals and follow-up for sexual assault victims. Specialized mental health care policy for sexual assault victims is currently being explored by the Behavioral Health Subcommittee within the NG Joint Surgeon’s Office.

6.4 Describe your efforts to review, revise, update, and issue policy pertaining to:

- The record of dispositions of unrestricted reports.
- General education for correction of military records when victims experience retaliation.

Provide documentation in the appendix.

The ARNG and ANG follow their Service specific guidance, and directives as they relate to the above listed actions. To ensure T32 unique aspects related to these two issues are appropriately addressed, the NG SAPR office is in the process of reviewing the Services’ guidance, and is including appropriate SAPR procedures in a CNGBI.

6.5 Describe your efforts to establish policy for General or Flag officer review of and concurrence in adverse administrative actions and separation of victims making an Unrestricted Report of sexual assault in FY13.

The NG has not yet established policy for this item.

6.6 Describe your plans for FY14 that pertain to synchronizing and standardizing the SAPR program across the Joint Force (from Joint/Service basing to forward stationed and deployed units worldwide).

NGB-Public Affairs Office (PAO) and NG SAPR program office, with ARNG and ANG program representatives are creating a fluid communication plan to provide an engagement strategy and consistent messages for use across the states and at the NGB level for the NG SAPR program. The communication plan addresses five themes which match the five Lines of Effort key messages, notable CNGB quotes related to sexual assault, and identifies primary and secondary public and assessment tactics and activities.

Additionally, NG SAPR is developing a marketing plan that utilizes social media, the features available through the JSS website, and other means to disperse information. This plan includes using blogs, best practice newsletters, and informational memoranda for SAPR staff as well as NG members in general. With increased information, the goal is to ensure all NG members know where to seek help or information related to sexual assault and that the SAPR staff is knowledgeable of best practices to provide consistent, effective support and response to the victim.

With a continued effort for consistent messaging from the national, state, and Joint Service levels, the NG will provide a coordinated and standardized message on SAPR resources and programs across the Joint Force basing to forward stationed and deployed units worldwide. The NG SAPR program leadership will continue to actively engage at the DoD SAPRO IPT to ensure understanding and coordination with all Services regarding the NG Title 32 challenges and accomplishments to implement the best program possible.

7. Secretary of Defense Initiatives

7.1 Enhancing Commander Accountability—Describe your efforts thus far to develop methods to assess the performance of military commanders in establishing command climates of dignity and respect and incorporating SAPR prevention and victim care principles in their commands, and hold them accountable.

On 11 Apr 13, CNGB sent his “Open Letter” to TAGs relating to the problem of sexual assault within the ranks of the NG. Highlights of the concerns expressed in this letter included:

- Some NG military leaders must learn to create a climate that promotes victim trust instead of a sense of victimization and undue influence in failing to hold subjects appropriately accountable
- The NG must make improvements in its investigative process based on an examination of case disposition data for sexual assaults over a two year period
- Sexual Assaults must be investigated by specially trained investigators
- Special investigators from the NGB Office of Complex Administrative Investigations may be requested in the event that civilian law enforcement decline to investigate a sexual assault case
- Encouraged TAGs to engage their Governors and state leaders in discussion about their States’ capability to hold all NG subjects appropriately accountable for their actions
- As state Senior Commanders, TAGs ultimately have the overall responsibility for creating a climate where all military member and civilian employee feel welcome and safe

To reinforce the importance of these issues, CNGB has utilized the GSLU and the quarterly GSLC to maintain NG leadership focus on the progress and challenges of the NG SAPR program.

The ARNG is providing guidance on the new Army Directive 2013-20, “Assessing Officers and Noncommissioned Officers and Fostering Climates of Dignity and Respect and on Adhering to the SHARP Program.” This directive enhances the Evaluation

Reporting System to assess how officers and NCOs are meeting their commitments, and to hold them appropriately accountable. All officers and NCOs will include goals and objectives on eliminating sexual harassment and assault and to foster climates of dignity and respect in their units on their Officer Evaluation Report (OER) Support Form and Non-Commissioned Officer Evaluation Report (NCOER) Counseling and Support Form, respectively. Raters will assess how well the rated officer or NCO met their goals, and objectives and adherence to the SHARP program.

Based on Army Directive “Army Command Climate Assessments,” the ARNG is developing its own guidance on Command Climate assessments. These assessments will require all ARNG commanders, regardless of echelon, to conduct an initial command climate assessment within 120 days of assuming command, followed by an assessment twelve months after assuming command, and annually thereafter while retaining command.

The ANG will follow Air Force guidance, “Enhancing Commander Assessment and Accountability, Improving Response and Victim Treatment,” which indicates the modification of feedback and evaluation forms for every Airman to ensure organizational climate is discussed during performance feedback sessions. Language was added to AFI 36-2406, “Officer and Enlisted Evaluation Systems”, to define the term “organizational climate”, and holds all Airmen responsible for contributing to a healthy unit climate, and NCO and officer responsibility to not only contribute to, but to create a healthy unit climate. Language was added specifically addressing commanders’ special responsibility and authority to ensure their command has a healthy climate that includes sexual assault prevention and victim care.

Requirements for climate assessments to be administered within the first 120 days of assuming command, and annually thereafter, and commanders to brief their immediate supervisor on climate assessment results were implemented July, 2013. Requirement of commanders to brief unit members on the results of climate assessments will become effective in January, 2014. Lastly, to assess to what degree commanders have established a command climate of dignity and respect, and to what degree sexual assault prevention and victim care principles have been implemented in their command, a Special Interest Item (SII) for the Inspector General’s new Unit Effectiveness Inspection system was established, and will also become effective in January, 2014.

7.2 Improving Response and Victim Treatment—Describe your efforts thus far to implement and monitor methods to improve victim treatment by their peers, co-workers, and chains of command.

As stated in paragraph 7.1, CNGB is utilizing an “Open Letter” to TAGs to encourage increased engagement with the governors of the several states to ensure the appropriate level of emphasis is placed on the sexual assault program and initiatives. CNGB further emphasizes these efforts through his GSLUs and quarterly GSLCs.

The primary method to ensure all victims of sexual assault are treated with dignity, and provided the support needed is through the information gathered from the victim advocate, and shared at the monthly CMG meetings. The purpose of the CMG is to consider and implement immediate, short-term, and long term measures to help facilitate and assure the victim's well-being and recovery from the sexual assault. Input from the participants on not only the status of the case, but also of the well being of the victim will provide insight into how well the command is monitoring the ramifications of the assault on the victim, and the unit.

Commanders and senior leaders will continue to conduct refresher training and emphasize that SH and SA are in contradiction to the NG's core values and Warrior Ethos. As a critical requirement, leaders will continue to provide updates to resources available to NG members like NGB-JA/OCI, and expedited transfer process. ARNG will stress the importance of taking a victim centered approach towards training, resulting in better ways in which we support and treat our victims of SH and SA.

Commanders and leaders alike will continue to enforce standards and emphasize the importance of reducing SH and SA through counseling, holding Soldiers and Airmen who do not support the program accountable.

The ARNG will employ a campaign similar to suicide awareness where SH and SA is de-stigmatized, and victims feel comfortable in reaching out to their battle buddy for help; and that battle buddies provide support.

To enhance victim care and trust in the chain of command, the AF directed the enhancement of sensitivity training for peers, co-workers, and chains of commands at all training venues, to include professional military education, semi-annual sexual assault prevention stand downs, and professional development venues such as First Term Airmen's Course, and Pre-Command Course throughout the Air Force. An evaluation of training effectiveness will be solicited at every training venue.

7.3 Ensuring Safety—Describe your efforts to improve the effectiveness of SAPR programs in recruiting organizations, Military Entrance Processing Stations, and the Reserve Officer Training Corps. These assessments will include: 1) the selection, SAPR training, and oversight of recruiters; 2) the dissemination of SAPR program information to potential and actual recruits; and 3) the prevention and education programs in ROTC environments and curricula.

The NG is committed to ensuring the safety of all prospects, applicants, cadets, Soldiers, and Airmen throughout their careers, and especially during the initial phases of joining our organization. The selection, training, and leadership of recruiters is of paramount importance. The NG recruiting commands elicit stringent screening and selection processes to obtain the most qualified and professional recruiters. Recruiters must meet the same annual SAPR training requirement, as all other Soldiers and Airmen.

Measures taken by the ARNG include the development of SAPR posters and creation of "Recruiting Smart Cards." The card will contain the following highlights:

- The ARNG is a values-based organization committed to the seven Army Core values (Loyalty, Duty, Respect, Selfless Service, Honor, Integrity and Personal Courage)
- The ARNG pledges to ensure a safe and proper environment for all applicants throughout the enlistment process
- Applicants shall never be left alone with staff of the opposite sex; at least one additional person must be present at all times
- ARNG personnel and applicants alike shall report improper treatment in a confidential and timely manner
- Information on who a Soldier could contact if they were pressured/harassed or sexually harassed/assaulted by any Military member or civilian representing the ARNG (Hotline & website contact information will be listed on the cards)

The ANG adopted and amended the Air Force's D3 Initiative – “Deter, Dissuade, and Detect” and released guidance for ANG recruiting staff to take active role to “Deter” by decreasing the likelihood to engage in behavior by increasing risk-to-reward calculus, “Dissuade” by sustaining an environment that eliminates any conduct that is not conducive to professional behavior and relationships, and “Detect” by finding and dealing with violators.

Recruiters are required to brief each applicant on ethical recruiter-applicant relationships using the “ANG Statement of Conduct Form.” At the conclusion of the ethics brief, the recruiter will provide the applicant with the “Recruiter Reporting Card”, and explain if any unethical behavior occurs between them and the recruiter, the applicant should call the toll free national number identified on the card, and report it without fear of reprisal. Both the recruit and recruiter must sign the form. Prior to out-processing for Basic Military Training (BMT) and/or Technical Training School (TTS), recruiters are required to utilize the “Rights and Duties of an ANG Trainee Form”, to brief all non-prior service trainees on trainee expectations.

7.4 Ensuring Appropriate Command Climate—Describe your efforts to ensure DoD facilities promote an environment of dignity and respect and are free from materials that create a degrading or offensive work environment. Include findings and actions taken from regular visual inspections.

The ARNG and ANG will continue to execute mandatory Health and Wellness inspections throughout all work environments and common areas to ensure they are free from materials that create a degrading or offensive work place. Results of these inspections will be provided to NG SAPR Program Manager.

DEOMI CLIMATE SURVEY (DEOCS) ROLLUP REPORT RESULTS
NGB FY 2013

The Defense Equal Opportunity Management Institute (DEOMI) recently created a DEOMI Organizational Climate Survey (DEOCS) rollup report for NGB, covering all reports completed during FY13. The DEOCS poses questions to gauge the incidence of discrimination and sexual harassment in the workplace during the past 12 months, assess equal opportunity and organizational effectiveness climate factors, and characterize the organization's sexual assault prevention and response climate. A total of 49,387 NGB personnel completed the survey during this period. Missing responses account for disparities in totals shown in the tables below.

FINDINGS

| DEMOGRAPHICS  | Number | Percent |
|---------------|--------|---------|
| Minority      | 12,951 | 27.2%   |
| Majority      | 34,723 | 72.8%   |
| A/NA          | 811    | 1.8%    |
| Asian         | 998    | 2.2%    |
| Black         | 4,845  | 10.5%   |

| Did Not Experience Discrimination | 41,908 | 84.9%   |

| SEXUAL HARASSMENT | Number | Percent |
|-------------------|--------|---------|
| Men               | 1,676  | 4.1%    |
| Women             | 809    | 10.4%   |

| ACTION TAKEN           | Number | Percent |
|------------------------|--------|---------|
| Filed Formal Complaint | 445    | 12.9%   |
| Reported to EO/EEO     | 494    | 14.4%   |
| Reported to Supervisor | 1,217  | 35.4%   |
| Confronted Individual  | 1,286  | 37.4%   |
|                        |        |         |
| Took Action            | 3,442  | 51.9%   |
| Did Not Take Action    | 3,186  | 48.1%   |

Satisfaction with Issue Resolution. The following table shows satisfaction rates for individual who filed a formal complaint or reported the incident to an EO/EEO representative or supervisor (data for individuals who confronted the offender are not included in DEOCS analyses).

| SATISFACTION            | Number | Percent |
|-------------------------|--------|---------|
| Very Satisfied          | 349    | 17.8%   |
| Moderately Satisfied    | 554    | 28.2%   |
| Moderately Dissatisfied | 521    | 26.5%   |
| Very Dissatisfied       | 542    | 27.6%   |

| Total Satisfied         | 903    | 45.9%   |
| Total Dissatisfied      | 1,063  | 54.1%   |

| RESTRICTED REPORTOPTION KNOWLEDGE |        |         |
|---------------------------------------|--------|---------|
|                                       | Number | Percent |
| Answered Correctly                    | 20,345 | 82.9%   |
| Answered Incorrectly                  | 4,188  | 17.1%   |

The table below shows the respective prevalence of perceived barriers to reporting a sexual assault for both genders.

| PERCEIVED BARRIERS TO REPORTING SEXUAL ASSAULT |                 |                  |                    |             |
|--|-----------------|------------------|--------------------|-------------|
|  | All Respondents | Male Respondents | Female Respondents | DoD Average |
| One or More Barriers                           | 61.7%           | 58.6%            | 76.3%              | 62.3%       |
| No Barriers                                    | 38.3%           | 41.4%            | 23.7%              | 37.7%       |

The three most commonly-cited barriers to reporting a sexual assault by men and women are shown in the table below.

| PERCEIVED BARRIERS TO REPORTING SEXUAL ASSAULT |  |       |
|--|--|-------|
| Men  | Stigma, shame, fear  | 43.2% |
|  | Not thinking anything would be done                              | 31.2% |
|  | Fear of being reduced in the eyes of the commander or colleagues | 30.5% |
| Women  | Stigma, shame, fear  | 59.3% |
|  | Not thinking anything would be done                              | 47.5% |
|  | Fear of being reduced in the eyes of the commander or colleagues | 44.9% |

Overall Climate Factor Ratings. The table below shows the three highest (i.e., best) and three lowest (i.e., worst) climate factor averages.

| OVERALL AVERAGES   |                                |      |
|--------------------|--------------------------------|------|
| HIGHEST 3 AVERAGES | Differential Command Behaviors | 4.63 |
|                    | Religious Discrimination       | 4.58 |
|                    | Disability Discrimination      | 4.53 |
| LOWEST 3 AVERAGES  | Organizational Commitment      | 3.73 |
|                    | Trust in the Organization      | 3.75 |
|                    | Leadership Cohesion            | 3.81 |

Subgroup Comparisons. The DEOCS also compares complementary subgroups (e.g., Men/Women, Minority/Majority, Military/Civilian, etc.) when at least five members of each group complete the survey. The DEOCS plots the lower average of complementary subgroups against the Disparity Index (DI), a statistically-derived value that illustrates the degree groups differ in their ratings. Large disparities between groups suggest the potential for polarization in the event a controversial issue emerges or untoward event occurs. The subgroup comparison analysis, graphically shown below, obtained a total of 120 subgroup comparisons (i.e., eight sets of subgroups compared across 15 climate factors). Among these, 119 (99.2%) reflected organizational strengths, while the single exception (0.8%) suggests one organizational concern.

CONCLUSIONS/IMPLICATIONS:

While legal policies against discrimination and sexual harassment are clearly written—and prohibitions against retribution are unequivocal—failing to act following such an incident may reflect a reluctance to report it, based on fear of retribution, lack of faith in the command's willingness to effectively represent complainants, or the belief that a complaint will not be effectively resolved. Dissatisfaction by the aggrieved with how an issue is resolved may reflect an unwillingness or inability on the part of those responsible for handling such cases.

More than 15% of the respondents reported experiencing some form of discrimination in the workplace during the past 12 months. Experiences of workplace sexual harassment during the same period were reported by 1,676 (4.1%) of the men and by 809 (10.4%) of the women. The relatively high rates of sexual harassment among women suggest that prohibitions against these behaviors are not being effectively enforced, and zero incidents should remain NGB's goal. Also, more than 48% of respondents who reported experiencing discrimination and/or sexual harassment in the workplace failed to take positive steps to resolve the issue. Moreover, among the 1,968 individuals who filed a formal complaint or reported the incident to an EO/EEO representative or supervisor, 1,063 (54.1%) were dissatisfied with how the issue was resolved.

In the Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) section of the report, 82.9% correctly identified the Restricted Report option for reporting a sexual assault. While this is a somewhat positive finding, it still begs the question as to why one in six respondents failed to correctly answer this question. All members of NGB—military and civilian alike—should clearly understand the distinction between the Restricted and Unrestricted reporting options. More importantly, they need to understand that a sexual assault case can retain Restricted Report status only if those who are informed of the assault are Sexual Assault Response Coordinators, members of the Clergy, medical providers, or Victim Advocates; sharing this information with anyone else automatically establishes Unrestricted Report status.

Women were more likely to perceive barriers to reporting sexual assault; men were 75% more likely to select "None of the above, sexual assaults would be reported." At the same time, it is interesting to note that both groups shared the same three perceived barriers the most often (i.e., "Stigma, shame, fear," "Not thinking anything would be done," and "Fear of being reduced in the eyes of the commander or colleagues.") This suggests that future training needs to emphasize that leadership will staunchly support and protect victims of sexual assault throughout and following incident investigations.

The SAPR climate factor data from this DEOCS rollup suggest that leadership supports a healthy SAPR climate, and that members are likely to intervene in situations perceived as likely to escalate into a sexual assault. Both these positive findings should be reinforced; leaders must be the outspoken advocates of a safe workplace environment. Moreover, leaders should enable and encourage all members to effectively intervene whenever they witness behaviors that they believe may jeopardize a fellow member's safety. In doing so, leaders help ensure that sexual assault bystander intervention empowerment is firmly planted—borrowing an Army term—in every NGB staff member's "lane."

The numerical results from this DEOCS rollup suggest a healthy equal opportunity climate. Moreover, higher averages for most of the organizational effectiveness factors were also seen. These measures of organizational effectiveness serve to indicate whether members harbor sentiments that encourage their "lining up" behind leadership to support the organization's mission.

Securing maximum loyalty and productivity relies on leadership ensuring the entire membership is treated fairly. Moreover, members need to feel their contributions are valued, thereby enhancing their esteem for the job and the organization. This practice helps engender trust in—and loyalty to—the organization and its mission. Thus, leadership should consistently strive to create an environment where: individuals feel safe from discrimination and unwanted attention and behaviors; standards of performance and conduct are uniformly applied; and contributions to mission are readily recognized.

NATIONAL GUARD BUREAU

INFO MEMO

FOR: SECRETARY OF DEFENSE

FROM: General Frank Grass, Chief of the National Guard Bureau

SUBJECT: Visual Workplace Inspection for Offensive or Inappropriate Material

- The National Guard conducted workplace environment inspections to ensure that all facilities are free from materials creating degrading or offensive environments, to ensure a climate of dignity and respect. The Army National Guard (ARNG) conducted an inspection during June and July 2013. The Air Force (AF) included the Air National Guard (ANG) in the Fiscal Year 2013 AF Health and Wellness visual inspection with results included below.
- ARNG completed an inspection of 241 ARNG facilities that included armories, camps, and posts. ARNG followed Army's direction and inspections were conducted by O-6s, GS-15s, and higher ranks. AF conducted inspections of its wings in December 2012 and included the ANG component in that inspection. The AF inspection included facilities at 90 ANG wings and groups as well as all geographically separated units that belong to the wings. The inspection was conducted by First Sergeants and commanders.
- The ARNG inspection results were divided into seven categories ranging from "Nothing Found" to "Sexually Explicit Material Observed." At some facilities, inspectors did not find any inappropriate or offensive items. At other facilities, inspectors found sexually explicit, offensive, or inappropriate items; to include calendars, posters, or magazines with sexually oriented images. Other findings were cartoons, DVDs, computer screen savers, and graffiti deemed either profane or sexually oriented. The ANG inspection divided material into "Pornographic," "Unprofessional," and "Inappropriate" categories.
- All flagged items were ordered removed from the workplace. When the materials created a degrading or offensive work environment, Service members received counseling.
- All National Guard leaders are aware that inspections are an ongoing activity to ensure appropriate command climate. Lessons learned indicate that inspectors could benefit from more specific guidance on what constitutes improper material to result in more uniform inspections across Department of Defense facilities.

COORDINATION: NONE.

NATIONAL GUARD SEXUAL ASSAULT PREVENTION AND RESPONSE COMPREHENSIVE STAND-DOWN REPORT

OBJECTIVE #1

TASK: Sexual Assault Response Coordinators (SARC)/Victim Advocates (VA)/Recruiters Validation.

OBJECTIVE #1: Active review of credentials and qualifications of currently-serving SARCs, VAs, and Recruiters to ensure they meet applicable selection criteria and standards of conduct.

DATE COMPLETED: Per Army National Guard (ARNG) EXORD Phase I (26 Sep 13), Phase II (15 Oct 13); Per Air National Guard (ANG) (CONOPS) Phase I (28 Jun 13), Phase II (date not indicated by Air Force Audit Agency).

STANDARDS:

- In Phase I, States/Territories and ARNG human resource personnel conducted full, broadened screening (included all screening methods used in Phase I and Phase II) for Army Joint Force Headquarters-State (JFHQ) SARCs and VAs and initial suitability screenings for collateral duty SARCs/VAs and Recruiters per Headquarters, Department of the Army EXORD 161-13 Annex A. Phase I initial suitability screening requirements included National Sex Offender Registry, Local Police Records, and Appointment Orders check, and National Organization for Victims Assistance (NOVA) credentialing. Phase II included Official Military Personnel File - Restricted Fiche, Army Substance Abuse Program, Department of the Army Inspector General, and Criminal Investigation Division screening.
- Regular Air Force tasked the Air Force Audit Agency (AFAA) to screen SARCs, VAs, and Recruiters for both Air Force and ANG. Phase I screenings determined if personnel had current security and background investigations, and if personnel completed initial and refresher training, statements of understanding, VA applications, and Department of Defense (DoD) Sexual Assault Advocate Certificate Program credentialing applications. Phase II audits began August 2013 and involve validation of the completeness of SARC and VA lists provided during the preliminary phase and evaluation of internal controls and procedures relating to Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) personnel qualification and training requirements. Four (4) ANG wings were visited (113th Wing, Joint Base Andrews, Md.; 116th Air Control Wing, Robins Air Force Base, Ga.; 140th Wing, Buckley Air Force Base, Colo.; and 154th Wing, Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam, Hawaii).

ANALYSIS: Initial conducted screenings were based on requirements set by Army and Air Force. To date, no DoD or Service guidance has been disseminated to direct courses of action for negative findings as a result of these screenings.

- 39 of the 54 JFHQ SARCs are ARNG personnel; 10 are ANG personnel; and five (5) are Non-Dual Status (NDS) personnel. Nineteen (19) of the 27 JFHQ VAs are ARNG personnel; seven (7) are ANG personnel; and one (1) is NDS personnel. Each service screened their personnel. Limiting factors (LIMFAC) for NDS personnel are outlined below.
- 100% (228 of 228) of the ARNG collateral duty SARCs have been screened in accordance with Service Phase I requirements. Due to the level of screenings required and the use of outside agencies, validation is still underway.
- LIMFAC. The majority of the full-time JFHQ SARCs and VAs are military technicians, either dual status or non-dual status employees, and are represented by unions. Until such time that union impact and implementation requirements for civilian background screenings are resolved, the National Guard will be delayed in executing this requirement. Civilian employees fall into two categories: 1) Dual status technicians whose military records and review are permitted as part of the background screening; and 2) NDS technicians who are civilian employees in the state. Military background checks on dual status technicians are completed. However, at this time, civilian background checks on civilian employees and dual-status technicians are on hold until union and legal requirements are met.
- Corrective actions. Preliminary audit information was provided to each ANG wing commander (WG/CC) to correct identified screening deficiencies. Wings are to provide a status report to ANG Manpower and Personnel/Support (NGB/A1S) no later than (NLT) 30 Sep 13.
- Evaluation of ARNG full-time SARCs screenings are to be completed NLT 30 Sep 13, at which time, preliminary findings will be forwarded to ARNG Human Resource Directorate (G1) for review.

NATIONAL GUARD SEXUAL ASSAULT PREVENTION AND RESPONSE
COMPREHENSIVE STAND-DOWN REPORT

- Both ARNG and ANG are awaiting guidance on recommended courses of action for negative findings as a result of Service-directed screenings.

- There are 2,572 ARNG SHARP/VAs; of that number, 1,737 are considered “qualified” since they have completed the 80-hour SHARP and refresher training. The remaining 835 personnel are in the process of being vetted at the State level to qualify to serve as VAs.
- 100% (1,737) of the ARNG collateral duty VAs have been screened in accordance with Service Phase I requirements. Due to the level of screenings required and the use of outside agencies, validation is still underway.
- Corrective actions. Preliminary audit information was provided to each ANG WG/CC to correct identified screening deficiencies. Wings are to provide a status report to NGB/A1S NLT 30 Sep 13.
- Evaluation of ARNG full-time VAs screenings are to be completed NLT 30 Sep 13, at which time preliminary findings will be forwarded to G1 for review.
- Both ARNG and ANG are awaiting guidance on recommended courses of action for negative findings as a result of Service-directed screenings.

- Corrective actions: Preliminary audit information was provided to each ANG WG/CC to correct identified screening deficiencies. WG/CCs and Directors of Staff (DoS) will evaluate records of recruiters found to have areas of concern. Following an investigation, WG/CC and DoS will provide a Memorandum For Record to ANG Manpower and Personnel/Recruiting citing corrective actions and/or a recommendation to retain or remove the recruiter's Special Duty Identifier.
- Evaluation of ARNG initial screenings are to be completed NLT 30 Sep 2013, at which time preliminary findings will be forwarded to G1 for review.
- Both ARNG and ANG are awaiting guidance on recommended courses of action for negative findings as a result of Service-directed screenings.

BEST PRACTICES TO SHARE:

- ARNG rapidly stood up an Adverse Action Cell to support the broadened screening requirements, and will continue to sustain it as these cells will become enduring requirements.
- ANG has engaged with Headquarters, Department of the Air Force SAPR and National Guard Bureau SAPR to establish guidelines for a standardized process related to requirement for document retention and SAPR internal controls.

FEEDBACK FROM STAND-DOWN:

- Given the time constraints, States/Territories were proud that they met the requirement to conduct initial screening for their full-time JFHQ SARCs/VAs, Recruiters and collateral duty SARCs/VAs.
- SAPR field personnel request a Chief of the National Guard Bureau Instruction (CNGBI) that would establish program expectations for day-to-day program execution throughout the year.

FOLLOW-UP/SUSTAINMENT PLAN:

- ARNG will implement screening requirements for full time and collateral duty SARC/VAs, Recruiters, Recruit Sustainment Program (RSP) Cadre, and Recruit Support Staff that must be completed prior to appointment, and is working to develop a database to track suitability requirements.
- ANG wings are to provide a status report to NGB/A1S NLT 30 September 2013 on their efforts to correct identified deficiencies.

COMMANDER'S COMMENTS:

- Commanders applied necessary resources to expedite corrective actions identified by the AFAA in their preliminary audit.
- ARNG commanders will focus on efforts to ensure they appoint the most qualified individual to the SAPR positions. To avoid automatically eliminating a candidate based on past consequential behaviors, they plan to take a holistic approach when evaluating a Soldier's suitability to serve in this role.

NATIONAL GUARD SEXUAL ASSAULT PREVENTION AND RESPONSE
COMPREHENSIVE STAND-DOWN REPORT

OBJECTIVE #2

TASK: SARCs/VAs/Recruiters Training.

OBJECTIVE #2: Refresher training for SARCs, VAs, and Recruiters on professional ethics, their critical responsibilities and standards, and the impact on mission readiness for violations of standards.

DATE COMPLETED: Per ARNG EXORD (26 Aug 13); Per ANG CONOPS (21 Aug 13).

STANDARDS:

- ARNG conducted interactive commander-led refresher training for all SARCs, VAs, Recruiters, RSP Cadre, and Recruiting Support Staff. At a minimum, the commanders covered the duties and responsibilities for SARCs, VAs, Recruiters, RSP Cadre and Recruiting Support Staff; professional ethics; warrior ethos; Army values and how they relate to the subject of sexual harassment and assault; and how sexual harassment and assault affect the readiness of the Army.
- The Commander, Air National Guard Readiness Center (ANGRC/CC) conducted a teleconference with WG/CCs and/or vice commanders and wing SARCs in which he emphasized the Stand-Down requirements, professional ethics, individual responsibility, and the impact of sexual assaults on mission readiness. Wing SARCs in turn reiterated the ANGR/CC's message and provided the required training to their alternate wing SARCs.

ANALYSIS: Training for both the ARNG and ANG involved commander-led, face-to-face interactive engagement with Soldiers and Airmen. ANG noted the use of PowerPoint slides to supplement portions of the training. Additionally, wings with numerous geographically separated units utilized video conferencing and PowerPoint slides with VA engagement.

POPULATION:

Total # SARCs

|      | Number Trained | % Trained | % Not Trained |
|------|----------------|-----------|---------------|
| ARNG | 267            | 100%      | 0%            |
| ANG  | 167            | 100%      | 0%            |

- 54 of the 267 ARNG SARCS are full-time JFHQ SARCS. The JFHQ SARCS (50 ARNG and four (4) ANG) were separated from the remaining 213 SARCS reported in Objective 1 since a full, broadened screening was conducted on the 50 ARNG JFHQ SARCS. The ANG JFHQ SARCS were included in the ANG audit.

COMPREHENSIVE STAND-DOWN REPORT

- 19 of the 267 ARNG SHARP/VAs are full-time JFHQ VAs and were separated from the remaining 148 VAs reported in Objective 1 since a full, broadened screening was conducted on the 19 ARNG SHARP/VAs.

Total # ARNG SHARP/VAs and ANG VAs

|      | Number Screened | % Trained | % Not Trained |
|------|-----------------|-----------|---------------|
| ARNG | 1,737           | 100%      | 0%            |
| ANG  | 417             | 100%      | 0%            |

- Of the 2,572 ARNG SHARP/VAs, 1,737 have attended the mandated 80-hour training, received refresher training, and are performing the roles and responsibilities of the SHARP/VA.
- It is noted that ANG personnel numbers for Objective 2 are lower than Objective 1. Objective 1 captures VAs as of 3 Jun 2013. Since this time, 21 VAs have been assigned different responsibilities.

Total # Recruiter

|      | Number Screened | % Trained | % Not Trained |
|------|-----------------|-----------|---------------|
| ARNG | 5,560           | 100%      | 0%            |
| ANG  | 588             | 100%      | 0%            |

BEST PRACTICES TO SHARE:

- ARNG provided SHARP reference material and talking points which allowed commanders the flexibility to develop their training. Additionally, the use of talking points was an effective training method to stimulate interaction.

FEEDBACK FROM STAND-DOWN:

- ARNG personnel felt the methods required for this training were an effective way to increase senior leadership awareness of the program because it placed the responsibility for training personnel on the commander.
- Training for ANG generated questions related to full-time Equal Opportunity personnel at the wings, and efforts to screen military applicants in an effort to keep perpetrators out of the military. It was reiterated, how creating a culture/climate where inappropriate behaviors and acts are addressed at the onset will have an impact on prevention.

COMPREHENSIVE STAND-DOWN REPORT

FOLLOW-UP/SUSTAINMENT PLAN:

- ARNG will continue to include leadership engagement as a part of the annual/yearly refresher training for the ARNG personnel.
- The additional requirement for two-hours of ethics training and 30-hours of additional victim care related refresher training every two years per the NOVA credentialing standards will likely take precedence over ANG personnel recommendation to include an additional make-up refresher training in the future.

COMMANDER'S COMMENTS:

- ARNG commanders felt the Stand-Down gave them the opportunity to discuss the critical roles and responsibilities of the collateral duty SARC/VAs, and conduct face-to-face meetings and interviews with the SARC/VAs to evaluate their suitability for continued service in their respective positions.
- ANG commanders reported positive SARC/VA/Recruiter discussions and identified focus areas to improve the Air Force culture moving forward

OBJECTIVE #3

TASK: Leadership Engagement.

OBJECTIVE #3: Purposeful and direct commander and leader engagements with their Service members and civilian employees on SAPR/SHARP principles and the climate of dignity and respect necessary in every work place across the DoD.

DATE COMPLETED: Per ARNG EXORD (26 Aug 13); Per ANG CONOPS (NLT 1 Sept 13).

STANDARDS:

- ARNG and ANG conducted leader engagements across the force with all Soldiers, Airmen, and civilians. Leadership engagements were discussion-based versus large group briefings.
- ARNG engagements covered the SHARP program and the I.A.M. Strong Campaign; individual responsibility for maintaining a climate of dignity and respect; and Army values, and how they relate to sexual harassment, sexual assault, and Army readiness.
- ANG WG/CCs were given the latitude to determine which notional sequence outlined in the Air Force CONOPS best fit their wing. If the CONOPS was executed as an outline, wings were permitted to use the Stand-Down activities to fulfill their annual SAPR training requirements. ANG Sexual Assault Prevention and Response created a website that housed all of the Stand-Down training materials including PowerPoint presentations, templates, and videos.

ANALYSIS: ARNG conducted commander-led training down to the lowest level in small groups of Soldiers. Most ANG WG/CCs began the Stand-Down activities with a Commander's Call; the group was then split into smaller groups for interactive training.

POPULATION:

- ARNG has trained 99% of their population. One state (Alabama) has been granted an extension to complete Stand-Down training requirements NLT 30 Sep 2013.
- ANG has trained 95% of their population. Six wings have been granted an extension to complete Stand-Down training requirements NLT 30 Sep 2013 (103rd Airlift Wing, Bradley Air National Guard Base, Conn.; 113th Wing, Joint Base Andrews, Md.; 122nd Fighter Wing, Fort Wayne Air National Guard Station, Ind.; 133rd Airlift Wing, Minneapolis–Saint Paul Joint Air Reserve Station, Minn.; 148th Fighter Wing, Duluth Air National Guard Base, Minn.; and 153rd Airlift Wing, Cheyenne Air National Guard Base, Wyo.).

- Both ARNG and ANG extensions were granted due to units/wings not having a Unit Training Assembly (UTA) scheduled in July or August; recent demobilization; scheduled exercises; Service-directed evaluations; or domestic support missions. Service Program Managers continue to engage with units/wing contacts to ensure 100% completion of the Stand-Down training NLT than 30 Sep 2013.

BEST PRACTICES TO SHARE:

- The Stand-Down allowed commanders to develop their own training while being provided SHARP reference material. The use of talking points was an effective training method used to facilitate meaningful discussions and was a factor in the overall success of the Stand-Down.
- Some wings required ANG Group and Squadron Commanders and Chief Master Sergeants were mandated to attend a one-hour pre-UTA SAPR brief. Other activities such as a 5K Run, Invisible War screening, exercises, and Q&A small group discussions were incorporated into the mandated Stand-Down activities. Skype was used to give deployed personnel insight into the Stand-Down.

FEEDBACK FROM STAND-DOWN:

- Feedback from States/Territories was very positive. Having ARNG commanders present the topics directly to the Soldiers in small group settings versus using briefing slides set the stage for more interaction. This setting granted Soldiers the ability to ask questions directly of their commanders. Commanders could then address Soldier's concerns related to the climate and culture in their unit.
- During the Stand-Down discussions, ANG personnel asked for trend data on Airmen who committed sexual assaults. There were requests to place more focus on the acquaintance rapist rather than the stranger/predator rapist, tips on how to help a victim, prevention from a potential victim standpoint, and requests for access to training materials. The majority of the feedback revealed a call for action on the part of participants. Many shared how the Stand-Down sparked a desire to discuss their childhood abuse issues with a professional and talk to their kids about sexual assaults. Some felt the Man Box video was "anti-male and very offensive." The use of resource videos, Dr. Katz TED Talk video, and the Justice Denied video, were
- praised. Positive comment abounded: "Education helped me rethink my role," "I liked the use of multiple presentation media," "Glad it was in person and not another CBT(Computer Based Training)." The Stand-Down training was described as, "Best SAPR training so far!"

COMPREHENSIVE STAND-DOWN REPORT

FOLLOW-UP/SUSTAINMENT PLAN:

- ARNG recommends incorporating the Leader Engagement training concept in Fiscal Year 2014 training requirements.
- ANG recommend SAPR team stay engaged with wing members through facility visits, briefings at Newcomer's Orientation, and briefings to senior leaders at various venues.

COMMANDER'S COMMENTS:

- ARNG commanders advocate for addressing more Reserve Component issues in the annual SHARP refresher training. Moreover, many express the need for a rapid revision of current training materials and resources. Additionally, they recommend a review of the number of refresher training hours required by DoD and DA for collateral duty SARCs/VAs.
- ANG commanders reiterated their commitment to holding those under their command accountable for their actions as it relates to sexual harassment and sexual assaults, renewed their commitment to not tolerating intimidation or retribution of ANY kind, and confirmed their charge to lead by example.
